Ibanez Says Soviet Army Is Ruled by Discipline Like That Under Czar

Order Maintained Only by Terror and Firing Squad Is Kept Ready for Those Out of Line With "Voluntary Discipline."

By V. BLASCO IBANEZ.

THE Soviet army is an army like those of other countries. Any differences that may be noted are purely superficial. Underneath there is the same discipline, the same organization that other armies show. Armed and arrayed to kill or to die, humanity is the same everywhere.

I have just been talking with a French General, a man of ability and one accustomed to careful and accurate observation. This gentleman had been working for some time in the south of Russia and while there he had opportunity for a close-up examination of the "army of social destruction."

"And it's like any other army," he declared. "You know, of course, that the Soviet republic is regarded by its founders as 'an offensive weapon of the world proletariat against the middle classes of the world.' Very well, as such, its chief task is to organize the Red army, the mighty avalanche of military power that is to realize international revolution. Doubtless you remember the manifesto which the Communists addressed to all the nations on which society depends. It said: 'Let the ruling classes tremble in the presence of the Communist revolt. All that the workers have to lose are their chains; but they have the world to gain.' "

"But what," I asked, "is the Red army really like?"

What Red Army Is Like.

And the General, in reply, went on to describe the military organization of the Soviets in detail.

According to a decree issued in March, 1919, all the agricultural and industrial workers of Russia are subject to compulsory military training. The mightiest officers of the army are attended by civilian committees whose work it is to watch the actions of the commanders. Then, in every unit of forces, in each company, battalion and regiment, there is a group of individuals something like a Communist club. The purpose of those groups is to keep in touch with one another and to maintain in the words of the Soviet organizers, "internal morals and voluntary discipline."

The Soviet cantonment is a combination of the military academy and the school of political economy. While a man is receiving his military education, the doctrines of communism are taught him by specially trained propagandists.

The lower grades in the military hierarchy must be filled by shop hands and farm laborers. Only the positions in the high command, where technical skill coupled with years of special study are required, may be occupied by professional soldiers. Military experts developed in the West Points of the former Czar, or men who had a great deal of practical experience in the late war, are commissioned to organize the army and direct its operations. Meanwhile the supreme political control of the forces and the supervision over the high command are in the hands of the working classes.

Discipline "Voluntary."

Although the discipline in the Soviet army is "voluntary," "self-conscious" to use the revolutionary expression, it is as severe as the involuntary discipline of the armies of other nations. The calaboose or the firing squad is ready for anyone who fails to fall in line with this "self-conscious" discipline.

As my distinguished military friend described this situation, I could not refrain from thinking of a pathetic truth in history, that when human beings start out to reform the world they often take painfully long and circuitous journeys to arrive at the point from which they started. It is a nice idea, when you are a revolutionary, to be as revolutionary as possible, and then to do "selfconsciously" and "voluntarily" what you have to do anyway. The fact was that the moment the Soviets had an army, they had to have discipline, and to keep the discipline they had to have punishments that would inspire terror. It took the Soviets two years to learn something that the Czar already knew!

"I saw the Russian army when it was in the first stages of formation. No one who knew it in those days would ever have guessed it would become the fighting machine it is now."

Troops Sensation in France.

My readers will remember that during the war a number of Russian regiments were sent to France to fight on the western front. The landing of these troops in Marseilles produced a great sensation. To be sure, they did not mean much from a military point of view, but as a symbol of Franco-Russian unity of purpose they stood for a great deal, and the morale of the whole French nation picked up considerably.

Well, during one of my visits to the front, I spent a day or two with those Russians, and a delightful time it was in many respects. Some of the Russian officers proved to have read my books in translation into Russian. Few of them were professional soldiers. They were students, newspaper men, lawyers, teachers, whom the war had called to arms and who had been made officers simply because they were men of intelligence and education.

I remember that most of them were what we call "republicans" in Europe, men opposed to monarchies and in favor of the republican form of government. For the most part they were Socialist-Republicans, Socialists with no particular leanings to what we now speak of as the Left. At the time they were all for Kerensky. Bear in mind that they had come to France in the very last days of the empire, and Russia was already a republic at the time of my visit to them.

Soldiers Wear Green.

The great change that had come over that faraway country made itself felt in this Russian division, driven like a nail into the French front. The soldiers had gathered up pieces of green cloth wherever they could find any, and were going around somewhat grotesquely decorated with green sashes. Green was the emblem of triumphant revolution, as red is the emblem of the revolution militant.

The men were very loath now to obey their officers. Soldiers and commanders had been fraternizing ever since the good news came. They had spent the first hours of revolution in childish exultation. But, afterwards, when the officer gave a command, the private, ordinarily a man unable to read or write, would hesitate: "I am a free man now. You see, I don't know whether a free man ought to obey a command or not." And giving himself the benefit of the doubt, he would usually choose not to obey.

Regarded Army as Lost.

The older officers, inured to the Czar's discipline, met this mutiny with hard faces and rancorous silence. In their eyes the army was lost. The younger leaders were of smiling optimism. "These men are good boys. Just imagine; they go to bed slaves of the empire and wake up free men of the republic. That would turn anybody's head; give them time to get over it. Everything will come out all right."

Some months later I went back to the Russian sector on the west front. By this time Kerensky had called off the eight to ten hour speeches he used to make to the army of the Russian republic, devoting a special address to each regiment. Other leaders of less voluminous lungs but of more wily judgment had taken his place and driven him from the country. Russia had become a communistic state and was in charge of Lenine, supported by the Soviet.

Red Replaced Green.

The green belts had vanished from the Russian corps. Everything was red! Most of the old professional officers had disappeared. They could not stand living in the midst of insubordinate troops, and had resigned their commissions. Besides, the French general staff had lost confidence in these disobedient divisions and had sent them back behind the third line, where they were boxed in a camp like so much useless junk, or virtually quarantined as though they were infected with some loathsome disease.

This was a disgraceful predicament to be in, and many of the young officers whom I had met previously had asked to be enrolled in the Foreign Legion, where they could continue to die like heroes. They were the same youngsters of joyous, republican enthusiasm, and the few old officers remaining were soldiers of unquestionable sense of honor. I kept track of these men later during the war. Almost every one of them fell valiantly fighting at the head of the international volunteers of the Foreign Legion.

Cooks Only Workers.

Meanwhile the Russian privates were in their camp. Most of them stretched out all day long on their backs on the ground, or violently arguing over the ethics of self-conscious men. The cooks were the only people who did any work. They prepared the food the French Commissary Department sent in. The Regimental Soviets had decreed that it was the duty of a self-conscious cook to get three good meals for his self-conscious comrades. On this point there was absolute certainty in the division. But everything else was in searching question. Debates were going on here and there and everywhere, and the soldiers kept voting and voting to decide the nicest and most absurd questions.

It was frightfully cold at the time. Winter was there in all its severity. The camp had a river to one side, while on another was a thick wood. On account of the cold and snow, during those days fighting had ceased on the neighboring front, and the French troops who were resting had cut lavish supplies of wood in the forest near the camp and had built huge fires to keep warm. This was not the case among the Russians. Wrapped as securely as possible in their cloaks, they were either shivering it out honestly or else were crowding about the small fires that were built for cooking the meals.

"But there is plenty of wood out there in the forest," someone at last observed. "Why don't we cut some and build big fires like the French?"

Wood Cutting Beneath Dignity.

The matter was brought before the Soviets of the division, which took up the question as to which company should be detailed to get the wood. Each company seemed to find it beneath its dignity as a self-conscious free unit under communism to turn wood chopper. That was an honor it reserved for any other company.

The French troops, warm and comfortable around their fires, were immensely amused at the situation. But nothing happened. Days afterward I again passed by the Russian camp. The soldiers were still shivering and the cantonment was, if anything, bleaker than ever. The officers had now all gone. The Soviets were the only constituted authority. But the camp was still doing without fire. The Soviets had not been able to find a company willing to cut and bring in the wood.

It would seem that when the Russians passed so suddenly into a regime of liberty, the first thing they wanted to do was talk and talk and talk; discuss the whole universe from first principles down, and enjoy one great, glorious plunge into the sense of their own importance.

The first big job that faced Lenine and his associates was to make Russia stop arguing; and this they did by establishing a military discipline as rigorous as that of the old Czar. Had they not taken these stern measures Russia would still be a debating society. Communism would have succumbed to its foes and the Red dream of world domination would soon come to a sorry end.

"The attitude of the Allies," my French General went on, "has done much to bring Russia to submit to this iron discipline of the Soviets. The Soviets, attacked from all sides, have come to stand, in a certain way, for the national glory, and people feel that in upholding them they are upholding the prestige and independence of Russia.

Parallel of French Revolution.

"Look, for instance, at the Generals of the old regime who are members of the higher council, among them Brussiloff, Goutor, Klembowsky and Kameneff. This latter has the title of Commander in Chief. Beyond a doubt, not one of these men is a Communist. They are fighting simply as patriots, and believe they are defending their country from the irritating impositions of the allies and from the ambitions of the Poles, whom these old militarists regard as insolent upstarts."

As I listened to my military friend, I could not help thinking of the strange parallel, in this respect also, between the Russian Revolution and the French Revolution of the eighteenth century.

The Sans-culottes also found Generals in the old regime to lead them, though these old warriors were covered with the decorations and sported the sonorous titles bestowed by the dethroned Kings.

These Russian Generals of the present knew Nicholas II and wear the crosses that he gave them, yet they are working hand in glove with the Czar's murderers, with Trotzky and the other Bolshevik leaders. So there were Generals of the old French court who had known Louis XVI and even, as was the case with the Duke of Lauzun, been lovers of ladies in the royal household; and yet they were willing to collaborate with Danton and Robespierre.

The French Generals who did this thought they were fulfilling their duty to their country. As military men they considered it their first obligation to defend the soil of France from foreign invasion; and though the object of the invading armies was to restore the King whom they had served, they chose to enlist under the banners of the revolution.

Guillotine Reward of Loyalty.

Will the analogy hold to the end I wonder? Every man keeps the general mold of character his earliest education puts upon him. Do what he may in later life, he cannot overcome the mental habits of years. It is noteworthy that the aristocratic Generals of the French Revolution, in spite of their loyal service to the cause, finished in almost every case on the guillotine. The Revolutionists, way down deep, distrusted and feared them.

"Do you think it will be that way in Russia?" I asked of the French officer.

"It will," he replied with great assurance. "Lenine and his friends are using the old Russian Generals for the moment, for they cannot get anywhere without them. But they are always watching them nervously. They are afraid that some of them, like Napoleon, will step forward and take the reins of government. One by one they will shoot them, on the quiet, to be sure, and without attracting any great attention. But, as I was saying, in the matter of the present organization of the Red army"——

But what he said I must tell in another article, for it was of too much interest to summarize in the space I have left here.

Herbert Parsons' Letter Declaring for Cox as Only Sure Way of Getting Into League

"The Cause, the Greatest in our Day, Calls for the Aggressive, Positive Leadership of Cox; No Straddlers Can Lead a Cause," Former Republican Leader Says.

"Harding Will Not Accomplish Anything Constructive; He Is Not for What He Voted for in Senate," Declares Letter of Resignation From G. O. P. Committee.

HERBERT PARSONS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.

HERBERT S. PARSONS, who resigned from the Republican County Committee and declared for Gov. Cox because of Senator Harding's rejection of the League of Nations, has had a national reputation as a hard and fast Republican. He served 14 months in the army during the war. He was a Lieutenant-Colonel on the staff of Gen. Pershing at Chaumont for 13 weeks, and spent seven months on the staff of the Fifth Division and two months as American military attache at Berne Switzerland. He was one of 28 conspicuous Republicans who petitioned New York Senators that "the treaty containing the peace covenant be promptly ratified by the Senate without attempting to embarrass it by amendment."

The full text of Parsons' letter of resignation follows:

"October 8, 1920. Hon. Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, No. 105 West Fortieth Street, New York City.

"My Dear Chairman: I hereby resign from the Republican County Committee, no longer being a Republican under the law.

"It is my intention to vote for Cox for President. I am for the League of Nations. Cox is for 'going in.' Harding is not for 'going in.' though in the Senate he voted for 'going in.' So I am for Cox.

"The League of Nations offers the one practical opportunity for this generation to unite the nations in an effort to prevent war and effect disarmament. Democracies only make striking changes under the stress of great emotions. It was while fresh with the recollection of the millions of lives lost, the terrible sufferings endured and the billions of property destroyed that the people of the world would, if at all, rouse themselves to an arrangement designed to prevent repetition of such a horror. The fainter the recollection became, the less the likelihood of action. We are told that the American people are tired of the league. They will be more tired of it after March 4. Less will be possible then than now.

Calls Harding's Talk "Mush."

"Harding's expressions scattered through his speeches about an association of nations, an amended league and preserving what is good in the treaty, expressions plainly designed, expressions equally designed to give comfort to those who wish the league scrapped, have induced many distinguished Republicans who desire to see the United States enter the league, to support Harding. They are being deceived. Harding will not accomplish anything constructive.

"All this talk is mush. He says he has no international program and that it is folly to be specific. He is a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and has thus had before him the treaty and the league for over a year, and now says that he does not know what should be done. He never will know. He is negative and sentimental. On one point he is definite: He is not for what, after a year's consideration, he voted for in the Senate, the league with the Lodge reservations, although this is the solution which would come nearest satisfying American aspirations and is substantially what will work out by the election of Cox.

"Harding's real policy will be to do not what honor or the peace of the world requires, but what he will be squeezed into doing by the opposing pressure of conflicting forces supporting him. It may be nothing at all, so long as it serves as a compromise to preserve harmony in the Republican party and makes possible continued Republican control of the Senate.

"In politics, the man who is ignorant or a straddler or a sentimentalist, by which I mean a man who is unctuous in talk but a cipher in action, compromises only one way, and that is the way of those who know what they want, and are determined to have it.

"Harding's delay and fatuity will result in 'the scrapping of the league,' if America's abstaining from it can scrap it. For he will be willing to sacrifice the league, even the world court as part of it, to the comfort of harmony.

"The cause, the greatest in our day, calls for the aggressive, positive leadership of Cox—not the self-confessed ignorance of Harding. No straddlers can lead a cause.

"The many years of hard work that I have given to the Republican party, the honors which it has bestowed upon me, the confidence that many of its members have shown in me, the valued friendships that I have made among its active members and the splendid struggles for better government and improved conditions in which I have engaged with you and others have made me reluctant to take this step.

Quotes War Experience.

"But before the war I was for a League of Nations. My experience during the war, which, as you know, was at fairly close range, strengthened this conviction and created in me an intense desire to do what I could to prevent future war, and, therefore, since the war, I have been for the League of Nations.

"An international court is not sufficient. It would not have stopped the great war. One nation cannot prevent war. The nations must unite. Most of them have. To insist that the 38 who have now joined the league forsake it and go into an associations of nations which is to be designed along American lines, when Harding discovers what those are, is no way to promote friendly relations between them and us, even if they could be persuaded to put up with such top-loftiness on our part. The way to promote friendly relations is to act, to join the league, with such reservations as we think ought to be made in fairness to ourselves.

"The issue is not between the league as Wilson brought it and the league with reservations. The situation in the Senate is such that the treaty cannot be ratified in the form in which Wilson brought it. There will be reservations such as will relieve America of obligations, even moral, under Article X, and will render Congress wholly free to declare war or not in any given case. The issue to the American voters is between going into the league with reservations and not going into it at all. Harding is and will be for not going into it at all. The only likelihood that the United States will, under Harding, enter the league, is that he will find it impossible to erect an association of nations or a new league and so will have to crawl into this one.

"To me, it is monstrously immoral not to go into the league at all and to let slip this one opportunity to join in a great effort to prevent future war. I shall vote, therefore, for Cox as the certain way to have the United States join the league and do her full share to preserve the peace of the world by reservations, making it clear that it is only the Congress that has the right, untrammeled, to commit us to war. Yours truly,

"HERBERT PARSONS."

Many Eastern Republicans Said to Be in Sympathy With Parsons, Dismayed at Harding's Stand

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

(Copyright, 1920.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.

REPUBLICANS and Democrats who have been predicting that Senator Harding would win the election "unless something happened in October" are wondering if the revolt started by Herbert Parsons, influential Republican leader here, against Harding, can possibly be that "Something."

The Democrats in 1912 won by a division in the ranks of the Republican party. They succeeded in 1916 again because they retained the support of the Progressive elements that had broken away in 1912. The big question today is whether the Republican party will divide definitely into pro-League of Nations and anti-League factions.

The announcement by Herbert Parsons that he must resign as a member of the Republican County Committee and support Gov. Cox has produced almost as much of a sensation as if former President Taft or Elihu Root or former Attorney-General Wickersham had withdrawn their support from Harding. The Republicanism of Herbert Parsons was unquestioned. But he took part in the war as a Lieutenant-Colonel, and he is so affected by the death and destruction he saw in Europe that he cannot recognize domestic or local issues as transcending the preservation of peace by the League of Nations.

"The issue," says Mr. Parsons in his letter of resignation from the Republican County Committee "is not between the league as Wilson brought it and the league with reservations. The situation in the Senate is such that the treaty cannot be ratified in the form in which Wilson brought it. There will be reservations such as will relieve America of obligations, even moral, under Article 10, and will render Congress wholly free to declare war or not in any given case. The issue to the American voter is between going into the league with reservations and not going in at all. Harding is and will be for not going in at all."

Many Uphold Parsons.

The effect of Mr. Parson's bolt has been to stimulate the Democrats to further effort, and to dismay the Republicans, many of whom in their hearts are absolutely in sympathy with Herbert Parsons, and disappointed at the Des Moines speech of Senator Harding in which he definitely abandoned the present League of Nations with or without reservations or interpretations, or any obligations whatsoever, and declared for a new association.

Here in New York where the importance of the existing league with its membership of 38 nations is recognized by many Republican business men as having a vital relationship to the stabilization of world economic conditions and the prosperity of this country, the action of Herbert Parsons will make votes for Cox. There is disappointment among Republicans that Senator Harding surrendered to Senators Borah and Johnson, and threw overboard Senator Lodge and former Senator Root. Had Mr. Harding come out for the present league with the Lodge reservations, as he voted a year ago, he would have preserved party harmony. His alliance with the Borah-Johnson wing of the party has disconcerted Republicans. The Democrats are cocksure the psychological turning point in the campaign has come, and that the apathy of the country will be converted into a big moral crusade such as swept the nation in 1916, and caught the women's vote.

The Republican nominee's speech against the present league, even with reservations, is not the only thing that is causing trouble. The Republicans who have recognized Harding as hardly a strong figure himself, have fully expected him to surround himself with the wisest men in the party and take their counsel. His departure from Root and Lodge at the outset is disquieting to the conservative branch of the party. For instance, in the same speech at Des Moines, Mr. Harding said the law exempting American ships from paying Panama Canal tolls was repealed at the instance of Great Britain and by Mr. Wilson and "his party" when as a matter of fact Messrs. Lodge and Root led the fight for the President and the newspapers here today feature a quotation from Elihu Root's speech on the floor of the Senate when the bill was repealed in which he said:

Canal Tolls Matter.

"But we are told, sir, that we must not repeal this statute at the behest of Great Britain. What has Great Britain said to us? She has said that she considered this statute to be a violation of a contract. Do the American people wish their representatives to treat all other nations that are in conventional relations with us upon the theory that any question of right to them by us is a surrender? Do they want us to conduct our foreign affairs on the principle of the thoughtless youth who flings up his cap and shouts for the flag?"

The British Government considered that the Panama Canal tolls act was a violation of the Hay-Pauncefoote treaty. So did Mr. Root and other distinguished American jurists. That's why Congress repealed the law. Now Senator Harding has declared for a restoration of the law which inevitably means complications with Great Britain, and further international bad feeling. It has been confidently said that if America submitted the case to arbitration, she would surely lose. What Republicans who have thought all that controversy over with are wondering is to what extreme Senator Harding might carry his policy of "America first."

Revolters in the Party.

There's a revolt on in the Republican party. Senator Borah threatened Senator Harding, and won out. The Idaho Senator has earned the respect of Democrats for the sincerity of his position, and the fact that he has been ready to stand by his convictions at any cost.

Something of the same admiration is felt but not expressed by Republicans for Herbert Parsons—a former Republican National Committeeman from New York State, as straight a Republican on domestic issues as anybody in the party.

The League of Nations may yet become the vital and controlling issue of the present campaign.

MISSOURI AND KANSAS BANKERS CHARTER 2 SPECIAL TRAINS

Delegations for Washington Convention Will Depart Next Saturday Afternoon.

The Missouri and Kansas Bankers' Associations have arranged jointly for two special trains to carry the delegates to the American Bankers' Association convention, which will be held in Washington, D. C., Oct. 18 to 21. The trains will depart at 2:15 p. m. next Saturday.

The out-of-town delegates will be met at Union Station by a committee headed by Edward Buder, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., and A. C. White. The visitors will be the guests here of the St. Louis Clearing House. They will be given breakfast at Union Station and then taken around the city in automobiles until time for departure.

Buder said yesterday that the reservations for the Missouri and Kansas bankers would probably total 250. This is one of the largest delegations which ever attended a financiers' national convention from Missouri or Kansas. Richard S. Hawes of St. Louis is president of the American Bankers' Association.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Wants More Light on League.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your editorial "The League's Historic Service" is a ray of hope flashed into the mental funk of those of us who are despairing. You tell us of the influence exerted by the league in preventing war "on two historic occasions." This is encouraging.

I believe you are sincere. Why, then, did you lambast the opponents of the league? The writer would remind you here that he pays you the honor of believing in all faith that you are above partisanship. Do you not believe from your own soul's depths, that they should be treated gently? Is there a passage in the whole outfit that might be regarded as a contribution to progressive political thought? Do you believe that as a piece of political literature the league covenant is comparable to the Constitution of the United States? Do you believe the representatives of nations and empires included in the League of Nations care less for their political beliefs and opinions than we do, or should, for ours? Do you believe that force, common, ugly, ordinary, everyday force, is respected less now than at any time in the world's history? Do you believe that America contributed one iota to world democracy? Don't you think that Poland's good fortune was the grouping of the nations in the war?

If America is impotent without the league, is not her independence already impaired?

If the league is a good thing I want to be for it, but if it isn't I want to be forninst it. You have a grand opportunity to make a convert if you will be so good as to enlighten me.

The last paragraph of your editorial deserves repetition; truer words were never written. "America, standing aloof, refusing to take her part in the pacification and reconstruction of a betrayed world, is America apostate to all her traditions. It is the shame of America, inflicted on her by the sophistry and chauvinism of politicians."

Closing of the Port of Queenstown.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Permit me to comment on a report on the closing of the port of Queenstown issued from Washington, appearing in yesterday evening's issue of the Post-Dispatch.

It appears that several American passengers on the Panhandle State had prepared a protest to the State Department because that vessel was not permitted to enter Queenstown harbor. The State Department will go no further than receiving the document, as the officials are aware that the Mercantile Marine act in the statute book of Great Britain stipulates that vessels may be diverted from their course or passengers may be landed at any other port than destined if the British authorities consider it paramount in any emergency. The extracts from this act affecting passenger traffic are printed on all sailing contracts issued by British shipping companies. Ireland is now occupied by British troops, rightly or wrongly, this signifying a state of war, and the diverting of the Panhandle State is an act justified, within the three-mile limit, by international law.

St. Louis, Mo. J. L. B.

Federal Reserve System.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Ever since the high cost of living commenced, the people have been praying for a return to pre-war prices. Now that this return is at hand, Senator Harding comes forth in his speech at Wheeling on Tuesday and says the decline in prices is sapping the life-blood from the channels of business. If any life-blood is being drained in the present deflation, it is from the veins of those interests which reaped great profits in the recent profiteering orgy and which are directly responsible for the high cost of living. Clearly Senator Harding is more of a politician than economist. He knows better what will take from the stump than the counting house.

Every business man with ordinary intelligence knows well that since the beginning of this year the basic financial condition of this country touched a more precarious point than ever during the panic of 1907, and the proportion of loans in total resources of banks in the panic year was less than in the early months of 1920. Still, in this latest crisis under Democratic regime, there were neither John Smith checks nor panic. Business has moved along with astonishingly little disturbance, circumstances considered, and the most stupendous price readjustment ever known is taking place with a minimum of commercial failures and bank mortality. Under the monetary system which satisfied successive Republican administrations such happy results would have been impossible; there could not have been currency or credit elasticity adequate to handle the vastly augmented volume of business. The Federal reserve system, conceived and accomplished by the present Democratic administration, has bridged the country safely over the greatest feat of war financing and most drastic period of concommitant readjustment in the history of the human race.

What greater test could an infant financial system have than this? Withal Senator Harding says that the Democratic administration has failed to function as a business organization. Of a certainty the Marion front porch is not a rostrum of economic wisdom. P. A. D.

COUNTRY VERSUS PARTY.

In a tribute to Senator Reed in Kansas City, because he has followed his convictions, not his party, on the issue of the League of Nations, Senator Harding said:

> I like a man who is an American before he is a partisan.

Taking this remark in its true sense as applicable to a man who in all political issues of vital importance puts the welfare of his country above party ties and party interests, it is a fine tribute. But in applying it to Senator Reed, a Democrat who happens to agree with Senator Harding in opposition to the League of Nations, the Senator must accept its logical conclusion. He must not only apply it to Republicans who differ with him on the League and desert their party under his leadership on that account. He must go beyond this and accept the rejection of party interests for the interests of country as the highest rule of conduct for American citizenship. It is, in effect, an appeal to Americans to rise above party on this great issue involving the moral and material welfare of America.

By the same reasoning which led Senator Harding to praise Senator Reed for sacrificing his party on account of his convictions with regard to his country's welfare, Senator Harding is compelled to condemn a man who sacrifices country for party, who submits his conscience and convictions to party ties and party interests, and sacrifices his country's welfare to party advantage.

Senator Harding recognized this rule of conduct, in effect, when he said in Des Moines that he didn't want anyone to support him under a misunderstanding; he was against going into the League and those who wanted us to go in should vote for Gov. Cox.

We submit this sound rule of political conduct to Mr. Taft, Mr. Wickersham, Mr. Hoover, Mr. Hughes, Mr. Root and all those Republicans who believe with them that the League of Nations is a great, beneficent organization, designed to keep the peace of the world, to promote justice and liberty and to put civilization on a higher plane; who believe that we cannot abandon it without dishonor and without suffering, not alone the brand of moral delinquency, but heavy material loss through that delinquency and our inevitable position of selfish and unfriendly isolation.

Take Mr. Taft, for example. As head of the League to Enforce Peace he hailed the peace covenant as the realization of the beneficent purposes of that organization to guarantee world peace through the co-operation of nations in enforcing arbitration and the substitution of justice for selfish aggrandizement and reason for the sword. He co-operated with President Wilson in perfecting the League. He accepted the covenant with or without reservations. He was an ardent advocate of the League and of our ratification of it in such form that its machinery to enforce just peace and its potent influence to prevent war might be unimpaired. He advocated it as necessary to our moral leadership of democracy and civilization; as necessary to our own welfare and the welfare of mankind; as necessary to rehabilitate the war-worn world, to preserve the fruits of the war and save civilization.

Mr. Root has co-operated with the representatives of other nations selected by the League of Nations to devise an international court whose functions would be to define, codify and establish international law, to substitute the arbitrament of a judicial court of law for the arbitrament of armed force, to decide international disputes and enforce its decisions through the League of Nations.

Mr. Taft warned us that the ratification of the League involved our honor and good faith and our standing and friendship with other civilized nations.

Senator Harding has declared for the scrapping of the League and all these things—all that the League represents in progress and human welfare.

He scraps honor and good faith.

He scraps American ideals and aims.

He scraps our moral obligations to secure the fruits of the victory over autocracy.

He scraps our moral leadership of the forces of democracy and civilization.

He scraps our achievements in the war, gained by the sacrifice of precious blood and vast wealth.

He scraps all the provisions agreed to by the nations for mediation, arbitration, disarmament and international law.

He scraps the international court of law.

He scraps the world's cherished hope of a federation of nations to establish justice, peace and law.

He scraps everything that Mr. Taft and his Republican pro-League associates have stood for and advocated. What rule of conduct will they follow? Will they put country before party or party before country? Will they sacrifice conviction to party gain or stand by conviction?

The issue is a great moral question, which goes to the heart of true Americanism. It involves a decision not only with regard to national conduct, but the personal conduct of every citizen. Not only the leaders who have publicly stated their convictions, but every citizen must take counsel of his conscience and decide where he will stand—for a great America, faithful to all her obligations to herself and the world, or a little America, abandoning obligations and generous opportunity and standing for ignoble ease and selfishness.

WILSONISM'S WORK IN KANSAS.

That the present national administration has failed stupendously in its foreign relations is a fact reluctantly conceded by such amiably impartial observers as Henry Cabot Lodge, Hiram Johnson, Warren Gamaliel Harding and Will Hays. In this judgment Selden Spencer and Arthur Hyde concur. Moreover, if further proof be needed it can be found in the restrained, but fearless, literature of the Republican National Committee.

But it is in our domestic affairs that the boll weevil of Wilsonian inefficiency has done its deadliest work, and the scene of its fiercest devastation is Kansas. To be precise, Olathe, Kan.

Not so long ago Olathe was a simple, God-fearing community. The only unseemly deportment its citizens ever indulged in was when they foregathered to sing the joys of prohibition. Some of these meetings were rather hilarious. But, generally speaking, Olathe, in its half-soled shoes, patched pants and modest frocks, maintained a high level of decorum. The town would have been at home in the purest page that Howells' pen ever wrote.

On March 4, 1913, Olathe had never brushed elbows with the world, the flesh or the devil. After 52 years of Republican rule, saving those Cleveland interruptions, the demi-tasse had never topped off an Olathe banquet, and the motor's siren horn had never been heard. But look at Olathe after eight years of Wilsonism. Automobiles are as common as silk socks. The pedestrian has disappeared. If an Olathean wants to kill a jay-walker he has to make a trip to Missouri or swing down into Oklahoma, which, at the present price of gasoline, is expensive slaughtering. High school students journey to and from the halls of learning in the cushioned splendor of limousines, as Senator Sherman of Illinois would say.

The only way a farmer can get into Olathe these days is by airplane or subway, and the incompetent Wilson administration has abjectly failed to build a subway in Kansas. The Mayor of Olathe is at his wits' end.

The one prospect of relief from the orgy of splendor and glitter and pomp and purple with which the Wilson administration has saturated Olathe is to vote for Harding and back to normalcy. And that is why Kansas, which is never happy except when unhappy, is going to return to power the party that kept it out of automobiles.

EMPIRE STATE OF WEST AND SOUTH.

While long in being fulfilled, those predictions of half a century ago about Texas' imperial destiny in the republic were entirely accurate.

So much was heard between 1900 and 1910 about the tides of immigration turned its way that the actual figures of the last census were something of a disappointment. Nevertheless, they showed a growth of 847,832 in that decade, or about 27 per cent. In consequence, Texas, whose representation in Congress had for some time been the same as Missouri's, gained an excess of two Congressmen over our quota.

This year, with all European immigration cut off during six years of the decennial census period, it has an increase of 764,485 in population, or 19.6 per cent, one of the remarkable showings of the 1920 enumeration. Even with an increase in the ratio of representation at Washington it will be entitled to three Congressmen, in addition to its present 18. With that ratio remaining as at present it will have a population basis for 21 Congressmen and a moiety ratio entitling it to a twenty-second.

Texas had 2,235,523 people in 1890. With its 4,661,027 this year, it has, accordingly, more than doubled in 30 years. It can go on doubling at 30-year intervals for a century or more without suffering from population congestion in its enormous areas and without imposing excessive burdens on its great resources in minerals and agricultural wealth. It exerts already a commanding weight on all national decisions and its political influence will have an immediate increase.

Texas was the fifth State in relative rank 10 years ago. As it has not overtaken the fourth State, Ohio, which then had five and a third millions of people, and has not been overtaken by the sixth State, Massachusetts, it will retain that rank. At any rate, it has been in no danger of being overtaken by the seventh State, Missouri.

Suddenly he laughed aloud.
Curiosity swamped me.
I felt I must know what he read.

What interest?
What amuse?
I pictured—

Chicago's Culture.

I told Mr. Matthew Arnold a Chicago story, or rather a story about Chicago. A society lady of Boston, visiting a schoolmate friend in Chicago who was about to be married, was overwhelmed with attention. Asked by a noted citizen what had charmed her most in Chicago, she graciously replied:

"What surprises me most isn't the bustle of business, or your remarkable development materially, or your grand residences; it is the degree of culture and refinement I find here." The response promptly came:

"Oh, we are just dizzy on cult out here, you bet."—From Andrew Carnegie's Biography.

Our experience with Mr. Hoover ought to convince us of the futility of trying to win Republicans over to the Democratic ticket. Mr. Hooves was as out-and-out a League of Nations man as there was in the Republican party. Yet he did not resent the omission of any mention of the league from the Chicago platform, and when Senator Harding renounces this or any other kind of a league Mr. Hoover announces that this still leaves the Senator for the league in principle. We are afraid we are not going to enjoy Mr. Hoover's support.

The Globe-Democrat has become one of the most outspoken of American dailies. It seems to have no opinion of Senator Harding's utter renunciation of the League of Nations, just as it has no opinion of the outcome of the United Railways burglary case. Maybe an opinion is not necessary. We are sure that Senator Harding was running better before we knew where he stood, and like as not newspapers circulate better without having too many opinions. It is a tip for us all.

NINE AGES OF THE BALLPLAYER.

All the world's a ball diamond,
And Speaker, Babe Ruth and Sisler merely players.
They have their hits, assists and errors,
And each man in his time plays many games,
His ages being nine innings. At first, the infant
Mewling in his nurse's arms because it's ladies' day,
And Mother is out at the ball game. Then the schoolboy,
With his bat and dirty face, slamming home runs
Into the alley and busting the neighbor's windows.
Then the busher sighing like furnace and praying
To be given a chance in the majors. Then the substitute,
Warming the bench and occasionally playing,
Seeking the bubble reputation in the public's eyes.
And then the regular at last in the Big League
With chest up high and swelled head.
He poses for the grand stand—then strikes out.
And so he plays his part. The sixth inning shifts
To the minors, where he is booted post-haste
After a season of errors and misplays. Then the seventh,
His lucky number and second chance in big company,
Eventually the hero with name and picture plastered
On every sport sheet, the idol of the multitude,
He stretches and rests on his laurels.
The eighth inning is played in the back yard,
As in lean and slipper'd pantaloon,
With specs on beak and fond memories, he teaches
His grandkids the tricks of the game.
Then the third out, which ends the ninth inning,
Sans glove—sans bat, sans ball, sans everything.

(With apologies to Joyce Kilmer.)

I THINK that I should like to be
A sister of sweet charity.

A nun who looks to God all day
And lifts her splendid arms to pray;

A soul whose tender heart is stressed
By all this sad world's sordidness.

A life that may each hour bear
The burden of another's care;

Upon whose bosom babes have lain
Who intimately lives with pain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God makes such as she.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

HUMAN PROGRESS.

JAMES HARVEY ROBINSON in Harper's Magazine.

MOST human progress has been, as Wells expresses it, a mere "muddling through." It has been man's wont to rationalize and sanctify his ways with little regard to their fundamental and permanent expediency. An arresting example of what this muddling may mean we have seen during the past six years in the slaying or maiming of 15,000,000 of our young men, with incalculable loss, continued disorder and bewilderment. Yet men seem blindly driven to defend and perpetuate the conditions which produced the last disaster. Unless we wish to see a recurrence of this or some similar calamity, we must, as I have already suggested, create a new and unprecedented attitude of mind to meet the new and unprecedented conditions which confront us. We should proceed to the thorough reconstruction of our mind with a view to understanding actual human conduct and organization. We must examine the facts critically and dispassionately, and then permit our philosophy to formulate itself as a result of this examination, instead of viewing the real thing in the light of archaic philosophy, political economy, and ethics. As it is, we get our philosophy first and in its light we rationalize the facts. We must reverse this process, as did those who began the great work in experimental science.

SUBSTITUTE FOR COAL.

From the Worcester Gazette.

THE United States consular report contains a brief reference to a new method of making powdered lignite and of burning it. The item is tucked away between a report on "The Availability of Manganese Ore in Argentina" and the condition of the German book printing trade. Yet this new discovery, if it does all that is claimed for it, will do much to solve the problem of scarce and high-priced coal. According to the report, an Australian syndicate has erected a large plant in Victoria, designed and built by Roy N. Buell of San Francisco. In order to understand the value of Mr. Buell's process it must be mentioned that hitherto lignite could not be used to advantage because of its disintegrating qualities and because of the immense amount of soot and dirt it produced. The Buell method reduces the moisture in the lignite from 25 to 40 per cent. Another improvement consists in an apparatus which draws the soot and dirt out by suction. But the most important improvement lies in the use of the lignite itself. Under an exhaustive test the boiler efficiency of the fuel was 80 per cent and the furnace efficincy 78 per cent. As there are enormous deposits of lignite, hitherto untouched because of the superior qualities of bituminous coal, in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon and California, the discovery of the Buell process, if it operates as successfully as is claimed, may mean much to the manufacturers of the United States.

INDEPENDENT LETTLAND.

From the Living age.

LETTLAND, or Latvia, as it is sometimes called from its native name, after suffering from German and Bolshevist invasions and local uprisings just before and following the armistice, finally elected a constitutional assembly last April and organized a settled civil government. As in most of the peasant countries of Eastern Europe, the agrarians are strongly represented in the new Parliament. They are radical but have nothing in common with the Bolsheviki, as they are ardent defenders of private property in land. As in Poland, Rumania, Bulgaria, Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, and even Italy, legislation is projected for the compulsory purchase and subdivision of large estates. At the last election the agrarian and bourgeois parties gained a large majority. However, the strongest single party in Parliament is the Socialists, who have 57 of the 150 members. The Lett Socialists are not allied with the Communists, who are a negligible element politically in Lettland.

Events in the Social World

Society's Interest Centers Around Charity Events Planned for Next Few Weeks—Women's Exposition at Coliseum Heads List—Other Affairs Include Card Parties, Subscription Concerts and Children's Hospital Ball.

DESPITE the opening of the social season by the Veiled Prophet's ball, society's interests seem to be devoted entirely to the various charity affairs planned for the next few weeks, perhaps with the idea of having these worthy events concluded before the season is in full swing.

The largest affair on the calendar is the Woman's Exposition, to be given by the Board of Religious Organizations at the Coliseum Nov. 15 to 20. Preparations for this event have been going on since last February and membership in the organization numbers about 25,000 persons. Mrs. David McWilliams is chairman of the exposition and the vice chairmen are Mrs. Harry M. Pflager and Mrs. George H. Capen. Some of the committee chairmen are Mmes. Clay E. Jordan, W. A. Stickney, N. A. McMillian, M. A. Goldstein, Alexander Goodwin, Peyton Carr, F. M. Dodge, George Warren Brown, John B. Shapleigh, Charles W. Scudder and Nelson Cunliff.

On Oct. 19 a card party will be given at the Marquette Hotel to raise funds for the Guardian Angel Settlement, patronesses for which include Mmes. Leo Moser, Festus J. Wade, Marquard Foster, John Ring Jr., Harold Donovan, George Packer, George McNulty, R. S. Colnon, H. C. Judge, Herbert Feldman, W. J. Pohrer, John Cramer and Paul Robyn.

For the benefit of the St. Louis Maternity Hospital of which Mrs. Arthur W. Lambert is president, a charity bridge will be given Oct. 22 at the St. Louis Woman's Club. The personnel of this organization includes some of the most prominent society women of the city.

Members of the General Committee of this affair are Mmes. Wallace D. Simmons, Scott Porter and Kennett Burnes.

Ticket Committee—Mrs. B. G. Chapman Jr., chairman; Mmes. Benoist Carton, Clarence Stratton, Alvin Goldman, Dewey Hickey, E. D. Nims, Edwin Stanard, D. C. Biggs, John T. Milliken and August Busch.

Publicity Committee—Mrs. Tom May, chairman; Mmes. William J. Lemp, Dwight F. Davis, J. Harrison Steedman, Eugene Cuendet and Mrs. Scott Porter.

Prize Committee—Mrs. Kenneth Green, chairman; Mmes. Roy T. Langenberg, Leslie Dana, G. M. Brown, J. L. Epstein, William C. McBride, Tom May, J. D. Wooster Lambert.

Table and Card Committee—Mrs. D. S. Hussey, chairman; Mmes. Robert Burns, J. G. Lonsdale, W. L. Hemingway, John C. Roberts, A. Singer, Charles A. Moore, William S. Thompson and Miss Evelyn Stewart.

Automobile Committee — Mrs. Charles H. Dunker Jr., chairman Mmes. Tom May, C. C. Curby, Louis Diesterweg, F. H. Hamilton, Emmett Meyers, Richard Eiseman, Harry Lesser, Lon O. Hocker, F. S. Charlot.

Advisory Board—Mrs. N. A. McMillan.

The annual charity ball given by the Auxiliary Board of the St. Louis Children's Hospital which will take place Oct. 27 at Moolah Temple, will be preceded by a concert by Rosa Ponselle, a well-known prima donna. Mrs. Russell Gardner Jr. is chairman of the general committee of which other members are Mmes. Robert Bagnell, Hayward Niedringhaus, Harry Lionberger, William Cocke and Miss Mary Crunden.

The first of four subscription concerts under the auspices of Kindom House will be given Nov. 22 at Hotel Statler. Aurelio Giorni, pianist, will be the artist on this date, to be followed later by Paul Althouse, tenor; Maggie Teyte, soprano, and Thomas Wilfred, the lute player. The members of the Board of Kingdom House are Mrs. H. M. French, Mrs. Dillon, Mrs. Felix Anderson, Mrs. Shapleigh Boyd, Mrs. M. E. Christy, Mrs. B. C. Jinkins, Mrs. J. L. Rodgers, Mrs. Harry Wallace, Mrs. Tom Anderson, Mrs. J. H. Brookmire, Mrs. R. H. Bostick. The recitals will be followed by tea.

Several wedding of social importance will take place this week, the first of which will be that of Miss Vesta Brown and Eugene C. Tittmann on Tuesday. Miss Brown resides at 6 Beverly place. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Brown, and a niece of Mr. and Mrs. George Warren Brown of 40 Portland place. Mr. Tittmann is the son of Mrs. Eugene C. Tittmann of 4256 Maryland avenue.

The marriage of Miss Coleen Wrape and Edward Rowan will take place on Tuesday, also. The ceremony will be performed at St. Rose's Church in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends. Miss Wrape is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Wrape of 5605 Enright avenue.

On Wednesday the weddings of Miss Charlotte Reyburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amedee V. Reyburn, to Wilkins Jones, and Miss Jean Armstrong to William Robert Gibson of Montreal, Canada, will be solemnized. The Jones-Reyburn ceremony, which will take place at the home of the bride's parents, 4634 Lindell boulevard, will be a large affair, and will be followed by a reception. Miss Armstrong and Mr. Gibson will be married at 8 o'clock in the evening at the King's Highway Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Dr. Hulbert. A reception at the home of the bride's mother will follow. Miss Armstrong is the daughter of Mrs. O. N. Armstrong of 16 Gast place. The couple will reside in Montreal.

Miss Katherine Curlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Curlee, of Kirkwood, and William Smith Bryan Jr., will be married Thursday at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about 200 guests. The Rev. Dr. Wilkins of the Kirkwood Episcopal Church will perform the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception. After a bridal trip the couple will reside at 203 Woodlawn avenue, Kirkwood, the home being a gift from the bride's father.

The marriage of Miss Nancy Maffitt Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bates, and William Geoffrey Kimball will be solemnized Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 4325 Westminster place. Only members of the families and a few intimate friends will be present at the ceremony. Miss Bates was educated at the Sacred Heart Convent and in Europe. With her sister, Mrs. Arthur Hiemenz, and aunt, Miss Emilie Maffitt, she spent last summer traveling in Europe. She is a member of the Junior League and the Imperial. Mr. Kimball is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kimball of 18 Lenox place. He is a graduate of Yale and a member of the St. Louis Country and University clubs.

One of the notable events of the autumn was the wedding yesterday of Miss Jane Bemis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Bemis of Brentmoor, and Oliver Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Anderson of the Aberdeen Apartments. The ceremony was performed in the garden of the Bemis home by the Rev. Father J. J. O'Connor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church. The bride's gown was of white satin and rose point lace, with a court train of satin. Her tulle veil was worn with a band of the lace and she carried a shower bouquet of orchids and valley lillies. Miss Elizabeth Bemis was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Louise Bemis, Lucy Ludington, Georgia Anderson, Grace Taylor, Mary Randolph Gordon, Isabel Mauran, Betty and Eunice Hodgman and Elizabeth Hord of Murfreesboro, Tenn. The bride's attendants were gowned alike in apricot chiffon with sashes of apricot tulle forming the train. They wore large hats of brown lace and carried bouquets of dahlias. Mr. Anderson had as best man Andrew McCreery. The groomsmen and ushers were Thomas Reyburn, Pelham Turner, Hayward Niedringhaus, Frederick Gardner, James Bergs, Edward Hotchkiss, Brooks Knight, Auguste Chouteau, Wessell Shapleigh, I. A. Stevens, E. Ridgeley Simpson of Baltimore; F. Nelson Bolton and Harry A. Orrick of Baltimore; Theodore J. Knapp of New York and John Broadhead of Springfield, Ill.

The couple will spend their honeymoon abroad. They will sail Oct. 13 on the Canadian Pacific steamer from Quebec, landing in England, and will tour England and Scotland and then go to France and the Riviera. They will return about Dec. 15 and will make their home at the Bemis residence while Mr. and Mrs. Bemis and their two younger daughters are in India.

The bride is a member of the Junior League and Imperial, and is one of the most beautiful girls in society. She was educated at Mary Institute and Miss Porter's School in Connecticut, and made her debut three years ago.

Mr. Anderson is a member of the St. Louis, Country and Racquet clubs and the Imperial.

The marriages Wednesday of Miss Anne Block to Hugh Scott and Miss Harriet Edwards to Walker McMillan are among the notable events of the autumn.

Edwards of Kirkwood, and Mr. McMillan were married at the Grace Episcopal Church in Kirkwood. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. J. Wilkins and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents for the relatives and intimate friends of the families.

Mrs. Walter Skinner, sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor, and Miss Constance Edwards, sister of the bride, maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Katherine Curlee. Mrs. Carrington Cabell, who was to have been a member of the bridal party, has been ill and was unable to take part in the wedding. Douglas McMillan was best man and the groomsmen were Murray Edwards, Kehlor Carr, Mason Scudder and Bates Compton.

Mr. McMillan is the son of Mrs. E. W. McMillan of Kirkwood. He will take his bride to Indianapolis to reside.

The marriage of Miss Block and Mr. Scott was solemnized by the Very Rev. Carroll M. Davis, dean of Christ Church Cathedral, and the Rev. Henry Mizner, at the Cathedral. Dean Davis read the first of the service and the ceremony was performed by Dr. Mizner. Miss Margaret Block, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Misses Alice Scott, sister of the bridegroom; Ruth Lionberger, Dorothy Walker of New York, formerly of St. Louis; Helen Gratz and Lavina Gadson of Charleston, S. C. Mr. Scott's brother, George D. Scott, was best man and the ushers John Shepley, Ethan Shepley, Silas McKinley, Wayman Allen, Harold R. Wilson, and Andrew McCreery.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Block of 4555 Pershing avenue. She made her debut last year and was one of the special maids to the Queen of the Veiled Prophet's ball. Mr. Scott is the son of Mrs. Henry Clarkson Scott of 31 Wstmoreland place. He was educated at Yale and served with the Eighty-ninth Division in France. He is a member of the St. Louis Country, Racquet and University Clubs.

Of interest in St. Louis is the wedding of Miss Edna Dixon of Chicago and Paul Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Walker of 4411 McPherson avenue, which took place Wednesday at the home of the bride's uncle, George W. Dixon, 1250 Lake Shore drive, Chicago. The service was read by Bishop Thomas Nicholson, assisted by the Rev. Victor Thrace in the presence of 300 guests. The ceremony was followed by a reception. The couple will reside at 70 East Scott street, Chicago, and will be at home after Nov. 1. The bride is the daughter of the late Mrs. Arthur Dixon of Chicago. She was educated in the East and in Europe, and served with the Red Cross in France during the war. Mr. Walker has been making his home in Chicago for several years. He was a Lieutenant in the air service during the war. His parents and brother, L. R. Walker of St. Louis, attended the wedding.

Miss Sara Chambers of Long Beach, Cal., who is the guest of Mrs. Henry Ames of the Washington Hotel, will depart the last of the week for her home. Miss Chambers' mother was Miss Lolla Marmaduke of Missouri.

The marriage of Miss Louise Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Edwards of 5418 Cabanne avenue, and S. E. Kercheval Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ray of Pershing avenue, was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents. The Rev. Dr. Ralph Davis of the First Presbyterian Church officiated in the presence of a few friends and members of the two families. The bride's brother, Ernest Edwards, was the only attendant. The couple will reside in Texarkana, Tex.

The Lock and Chain Society of Washington University will entertain with a dance Friday evening. It will also be the occasion for installing new Lock men. Harry Roemer and Ed Barce are the new wearers of the Lock, succeeding two members who have left the university. The Lock and Chain dance will open the season of social functions at the university.

Mrs. Frank J. Forster and son, Marquard Forster, of 4927 Laclede avenue, are in Los Angeles, where they will remain all winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wright of the Kingsbury Apartments have returned from Lenox, Mass., where they spent a part of the summer. While in the East they toured through New England.

Miss Mabel Knox, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Regensburg of 5775 Kingsbury boulevard, has returned from Oklahoma City, where she visited for several months. Miss Knox was graduated last June from Miss White's School.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Day Rae of 5323 Bartmer avenue and Mrs. E. F. Hills have returned from a motor trip through New England. They were the guests for a few weeks of Mr. and Mrs. Rae's daughter, Mrs. Charles Burnham Squier, at her summer home at Bennington, Vt.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Blumenstock and F. Raymond Marks of Chicago, took place Tuesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Blumenstock, 5507 Waterman avenue. Only the immediate members of both families were present. Rabbi Witt of Temple Shaare Emeth, officiated.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Carl Brennecke of 3712 Hartford street for a large reception in honor of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ottilia Elise Brennecke, and James Brierton Townsend, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Townsend of Festus, Mo., which took place July 28 at Golden, Colo. The only attendants at the ceremony were the bride's sisters, Misses Mary and Annita Brennecke, Mrs. Marie Lord of St. Louis and Prof. Monighan of the Colorado School of Mines. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend spent their honeymoon in Colorado after which Mrs. Townsend returned to St. Louis and will reside with her parents until she completes her studies at the Morse School of Expression. Later she will join Mr. Townsend at Chadron, Neb., where they will make their home. Mr. Townsend is an alumnus of St. Louis University and served in France with Barnes Hospital Unit 21.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher of 4938 Wise avenue celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Oct. 3 at the Swedish National Hall. About 200 guests were present.

Mrs. M. J. Mulvihill and her daughter, Mrs. Walter C. Schwarz, of 5057 Washington avenue, have returned from Asbury Park and New York City, where they spent the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. William F. A. Schultz of 7117 Lindell boulevard entertained with a dinner dance Oct. 2 in honor of Miss Marie Signaigo. The guests included members of the Missouri School of Mines football team. Dr. and Mrs. Schultz will entertain these guests with a theater party Oct. 22.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Rose Dorothy Wieselthier, daughter of Adolph Wieselthier, to Charles L. Nott on Oct. 6. After Nov. 1 the young couple will be at home at 1426 Semple avenue.

The Confederate Dames Chapter, U. D. C., met Monday afternoon at the Glen Echo Country Club, with Mrs. Frank L. Scott and Mrs. Walter A. Johnson, hostesses. The following delegates were elected to the General Convention, which will be held in Asheville, N. C., beginning Nov. 10: Mmes. Walter Edwards, J. H. Duncan, Robert McCulloch and M. F. Watts; alternates: Mmes. S. B. Jeffries, W. A. Johnson, Phil Chew, and Robert Brooks. A card party for the educational fund of the chapter will be given Nov. 5, at the Woman's Club.

A lotto, euchre and domino party will be given at 2 o'clock, Oct. 13, by the women of the Holy Ghost parish in the basement hall, Taylor and Garfield avenues.

An engagement of interest in St. Louis is that of Miss Ethel Johansen of Maplewood, and Carlyle Ulysses Walling of Greenwood, Miss., which was announced recently at Jackson, Miss., where Miss Johansen has been the guest for three months

All Efforts Are Concentrated on a Sale of Women's and Misses' Apparel
Coats, Suits and Dresses

ONLY garments which instantly declare themselves desirable in points of style, materials and workmanship, have been chosen to present at this most appealing price—

$59.75

When effort is bent in each of the three sections of both Women's and Misses' Apparel to meet one popular price, that alone is definite indication of real values. When the effort has been redoubled to make each of the garments so priced, a tangible declaration of the high standards of our third floor sections, it is small wonder that we make the sale announcement with high enthusiasm and a supreme degree of confidence in hearty response which it will arouse from those who read.

The Coats

For Women—Both Coats and Wraps are included at this price. Both regulation lines and those of more whimsical inspiration are included.

Velour de laine, plush, heather mixture, camel's hair, vel de cygne and suedine, chamois lined, are the materials used in these distinctly attractive Coats.

For Misses—An offering such as these Coats deserves special consideration from the critical shopper. They are developed of the new fabrics, and many are finished with large fur collars. All are silk lined throughout. Sizes 14 to 20.

The Dresses

For Women—Variety and distinction are the chief interest when one may secure at this price

—Lovely lace dinner and dance Frocks in brown, navy and black.
—Clinging Meteors with knee hems and deep cuffs embroidered in contrasting shades.
—Practical Crepe de Chines.
—Tailored Satin Meteors.
—Metallic band embroidered Crepe Meteors.
—Self embroidered charmeuse Dresses, with the elongated waistline.
—Plaited Georgettes over satin.

In addition are a number of single models from the French Room.

For Misses—Tailored Frocks, of serge, tricotine and Poiret twill present a very trim appearance for street wear. There are also lovely Dresses of meteors, satins and Georgette, for afternoon wear. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

The Suits

For Women—A surprisingly well-turned-out lot of Suits of dashing line and dependable qualities. The new longer line for tailored coats is often demonstrated, and many clever methods are used to acquire distinction.

They come in navy, green, taupe, blue, brown and black, in chamoisine, velour, tricotine and velour de laine.

For Misses—Over 150 Suits, showing tailored, semi-tailored and more elaborate styles, are developed of tricotine, yalama, velour de laine, duvet and twill. There is a score of models from which to choose. Sizes 14 to 20 years. (Third Floor.)

CAMPAIGN FOR BUREAU THRIVES

The membership and financial campaign of the St. Louis Conventions, Publicity and Tourist Bureau, which was launched Thursday with 50 teams composed of members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in the field, is meeting with success. Approximately $1000 for renewal of memberships dating back to the early part of 1919 has been received.

The teams in the field will not report until Tuesday noon, when a get-together meeting will be held in the bird's nest of the American Annex. Sales talks will be delivered by officers of the Conventions Bureau and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

PULITZER AIR CONTEST OPEN TO ALL COMERS

Eighteen Army Planes Already Entered—French 'Speed King' Likely to Be Seen.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—With 18 army planes entered for the speed race from Mitchel Field, Thanksgiving day, for the Pulitzer trophy, the lists were thrown open yesterday to flyers from all over the world, with a good prospect of important European contestants. Inquiries received from Great Britain, France, Italy and Canada led to announcement by Col. Benjamin F. Castle, chairman of the Contest Committee of the Aero Club of America, of the plan to make it an open event for all comers.

There is a strong likelihood that Le Cointe, the French speed king, who won the recent Gordon Bennett cup race at Etampes, France, will be seen in flights at Hempstead. Recent cables announced his purpose of visiting America and the Aero Club has notified him of the terms of the Pulitzer trophy race.

The Americans in the Gordon Bennett race, who, because of difficulties with their machines, made an unsatisfactory showing, are expected to be back and fly for the Pulitzer trophy. They include Capt. Rudolph Schroeder, the army flyer; his rival for altitude honors, Roland Rohlfs, test pilot of the Curtis company; Sergt. Coombs, winner of the first closed circuit speed race held in this coutnry and Howard Reinhardt. If these men enter, they will bring into the race the fastest trio of airplanes ever built in America and a contest in which they were pitted against Le Cointe would present a really exciting spectacle.

Several machines have been entered by American manufacturers. the Contest Committee said yesterday. Machines piloted by navy flyers also are expected to start.

In addition to the Pulitzer trophy there are to be a first prize of $3000 cash and other trophies and cash prizes for the various classes of machines participating.

COURT AWARDS $5000 DAMAGES TO SWITCHMAN INJURED HERE

Louisiana Man's Wrist Fractured in Accident While in Employ of Terminal Association.

A jury verdict for $5000 in favor of Charles H. Cabaniss of Baton Rouge, La., was returned Friday in Circuit Judge Grimm's court against the Terminal Association on account of an injury received by the plaintiff in a railroad accident in East St. Louis on May 24, 1919. His right wrist was fractured while he was switching cars. It was erroneously printed yesterday that he had lost a leg. Cabaniss formerly lived in St. Louis.

Pastor at Visitation Church Named.

The Rev. J. A. Collins, pastor of St. Luke's Catholic Church, Richmond Heights, has been appointed pastor of the Church of the Visitation, to succeed Monsignor P. W. Tallon, who died several months ago. Father Collins was a student under Father Tallon at theological school.

ENROLLMENTS SHO A LARGE INCREASE AT WASHINGTON U.

Rosters for Different Departments Contain 40 Per Cent More Students Than Last Year.

An increase of 40 per cent in the enrollment of Washington University over that of a year ago is shown by an official tabulation made Friday. The University now has an enrollment of 3291 students in the various departments, not including the School of Fine Arts, whereas it had 2338 on Oct. 8 last year.

The present enrollment of the School of Fine Arts, not included in the foregoing total, is 266, and this, if included, would bring the total to 3557. The enrollment in the Art School a year ago is not shown in the tabulation for the different departments, which is:

Graduate	39	30
College, exclusive of extension	1095	916
Engineering	281	327
Architecture	72	57
Commerce and finance	221	57
Law	152	131
Medical	196	167
Dental	103	79
Extension courses	1170	674
Total	3329	2338
Deduct duplications	38
	3291

38 Take Special Work.

The duplications are 38 first-year students in the school of Dentistry, who are taking preparatory work in the college department.

The departments shown in the table are degree-conferring departments, with the exception of the extension courses. Mary Institute and the Training School for Nurses, which are parts of the university system, are not included in the figures.

The only decrease is in the engineering department, where the enrollment is 46 smaller than last year. The increase in the number of extension course students is expected to continue. Of the 1170 now enrolled, 1090 are taking evening courses.

The university is able to take care of the large increase, Chancellor Hall said yesterday, as it was anticipated, and preparations were made to meet it. Nearly 50 instructors have been added, the Chancellor said, and thus it has been possible to avoid making classes too large. The university has not followed the policy, pursued in some institutions, of enlisting student assistants for classroom instruction.

The only exception to the rule of small class organization is in political science, where the main class, in charge of Prof. W. W. Hollingsworth, has more than 400 members. Several aids serve as readers in this class.

Dormitory Space Taken.

All dormitory space was allotted to students long in advance of the university opening. In McMillan Hall, the dormitory for women, girls, fudge pantries, small sorority rooms, the Y. W. C. A. and Tower rooms have been taken over for sleeping apartments. The same rule of economy in space has prevailed in the dormitories for men.

ST. LOUIS EXPRESS FACILITIES TO BE IMPROVED, SAYS SUMMY

Express facilities in St. Louis are to be improved, according to a statement by C. D. Summy, vice president of the American Express Co., at a recent meeting between a committee of express shippers and officials of the American Express Co. and the Chamber of Commerce.

The committee was assured by Summy that a substantial portion of the budget now being worked out by the express company for improvement of its facilities would be expended here.

Members of the committee said that during certain seasons when express business becomes heavy, facilities for express shipments from St. Louis are inadequate. Members urged that the handling of express be made more prompt, following the recent raise in rates granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Diamonds are property that does not depreciate

Quality Diamonds are an investment.

For over 37 years we have urged the purchase of diamonds as an investment, having the advantage of a quick sale at a minimum of sacrifice.

We are showing today many wondrously fashioned bar pins and dinner rings. One has only to view our showing of diamond encrusted platinum jewelry to be impressed with its wonderful fascinating beauty.

Our diamond jewelry originations are sure to please you. If you have a design in mind we can make it in our own factory to your absolute satisfaction.

You are urged to see our display of fine diamond jewelry which not only possesses beauty but individuality. The prices are just.

FLORENCE KAUCHER WINNER IN GARDEN PRODUCT DISPLAY

A complete tabulation of prizes won by exhibits at the display of garden products of the school children of St. Louis, which was held a week ago Saturday at Central High School, shows that first individual honors were won by Miss Florence Kaucher of 2013 Newhouse avenue, a pupil of the Eliot School, who received 10 ribbons for different specimens of garden products. The exhibit represented the work of 25,000 children, pupils in 65 elementary schools, and included more than 250 varieties of fruits, vegetables and flowers.

Owing to an error in the count of prizes last week it was announced that first honors were won by Miss Goldie Schroeder, 13 years old, of the Samuel Cupples School, who had [illegible] ribbons.

ST. ANDREW MEETING WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Session at Odeon Today and Christ Church at Night—Officers Elected.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Episcopal men's organization, at the final business meeting of its national convention at Hotel Statler yesterday, chose Norfolk, Va., as its meeting place for next year. The officers were re-elected, Edward H. Bonsall of Philadelphia as president, Courtenay Barber of Chicago and Walter Kidde of Montclair, N. J., as vice presidents, and Warren H. Turner of Philadelphia as treasurer.

The convention will close tonight with a meeting in Christ Church Cathedral, at which B. F. Finney, associate general secretary of the brotherhood, will speak. The meeting will be preceded by a song service at 7:30, directed by William D. Armstrong.

A mass meeting will be held at the Odeon this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which Bishop T. F. Gailor, president of the Council of the Episcopal Church of America, and Frederic Cook Morehouse of Milwaukee, editor of the Living Church, will speak on "Christian Americanization." The musical program will be under the direction of Charles Galloway. There will be a song service at 2:30 by the Junior Brotherhood, as a preliminary to the meeting.

The ordination of Gordon M. Reese, field secretary of the brotherhood, to the ministry, will take place at 11 o'clock this morning at Christ Church Cathedral, with Bishop Tuttle officiating, assisted by Bishops Johnson, Partridge of Western Missouri, Quin of Texas and Jett of Virginia, and Dean Davis. The ordination sermon will be preached by the Rev. James Jefferson Davis Hall of Philadelphia.

SCHOOL TEACHERS TO WORK FOR CONSTITUTION AMENDMENT

Elementary Principals Indorse It and Decide to Organize Instructors for Campaign.

The members of the Elementary School Principals' Association will begin at once the organization of the public school teachers of the city to work, as individuals, for the success on Election day of Amendment No. 15, the new Constitution amendment which has been placed on the ballot through initiative petitions.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the association held in Central High School yesterday morning, at which former United States Senator Wilfley was the principal speaker, and at which a resolution indorsing Amendment No. 15 was adopted on the suggestion of Prof. W. P. Evans, president of the association.

The Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund will close for the 1920 season Oct. 15, and persons who have not made returns from benefits given for the babies or who still wish to "do their bit," are urged to get their returns to the cashier of the Post-Dispatch as soon as possible.

Acknowledgment will be made this week of the returns from the entertainment and dance given recently by the Elks' Club, and from the Grace La Rue concert given Friday at the American Theater, both of which have been held up until checks for tickets were received. The proceeds from these affairs will bring the fund very close to the $7000 goal, for which friends of the babies have been striving, and which is needed to pay the milk and ice bills for the season.

Since the last acknowledgment, $82.49 has been added to the fund, making a total of $5622.36 to date.

Recent Benefits.

A show at 4604 Newberry terrace netted $18.36. It was given by Patricia Ahern, Fannie Walerstein, Nora Langford, Max Orenstein, Edward Walerstein, Billy Thessing, Charles Orenstein, Helen Powers, Walter and Edna Whitley and Mary Orenstein.

Seven friends of the babies who did not state their addresses or the place of entertainment, reported a boarding school play entitled "The Dumb Waiter," which earned $11.83. Their names are Dorothy Bailey, Dorothy and Virginia Murnane, Miriam, Evelyn and Elaine Woodbury, Ruth Knott and Laurence Hoover.

Children on and near Forest avenue gave a show for the babies at 6924 Berthold avenue, and realized $10.55. Those taking part were Margaret and Georgia Phillips, Elva and Eleanor Longacre, Josephine Duffy, Vernie, Gertrude and Thelma Tonn, Angeline Stowell, Mary Jane Forbes and Harry Ford. This is the fourth show this group of children has given the past summer and have set a splendid record of endeavor in behalf of the babies. They were drilled by Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Duffy.

A two-night indoor entertainment at 4129 West Carter avenue by girls between 5 and 13 years old netted $10 for the milk and ice fund. A miscellaneous program of solos and recitations was given, and the children's costumes caused much favorable comment. The children are Seraphine Kerwin, Harriet Walker, Edna Braden, Gladys Bergdorf, Marion Stewart, Mary Moore and May Braden. Mr. Schornhorst of 4121 West Carter avenue gave several dialect recitations. The performance was managed by Mrs. Ethel Heil, who trained the children and designed and made their costumes.

Work by Little Children.

Six children gave a show at 2713 Dickson street which brought $8.50 for the babies. They are Louis and Jake Chuver, Tillie Bushman, Ida Tegman, Herman Schuckart and Bernice Devoti.

Tom Chamberlain, James Potter and Robert Bachle conducted a lemonade stand at Hamilton and Julian avenues and earned $3.50 for the milk and ice fund.

A show at 4648 Ashland avenue, under the management of Dorothy and Helen Smith, Grace, Gladies and Goldie Creely and Leona Kruse, brought $3.50.

Lillian and Leona Schnider, Rose Lander and Sarah Marbain conducted a lemonade stand in the 2900 block on Gamble street and cleared $1 for the milk and ice fund.

A show at 4037 North Newstead avenue netted $1.25. It was given by Hazel de Lacretaz, Glenola Myers, Carmaleta and Catherine Munier and Helen Hellsey.

These cash contributions were received: $10 from the Relatives' Auxiliary of the St. Louis National Guard, A. E. F.; $3 in the name of Taleen Headen, and $1 from Mrs. G.

DRY ORGANIZATION LISTS ASPIRANTS RUNNING IN STATE

Anti-Saloon League Issues 300,000 Posters Showing How Candidates Stand on Prohibition Question.

SPENCER AND LONG BOTH "ACCEPTABLE"

Hyde and Atkinson for Governor and Meredith, Democrat, for Attorney-General, Also Among "Drys."

The Anti-Saloon League yesterday issued 300,000 posters, in red and black, listing candidates for State offices as wet, dry or noncommittal and calling upon voters to support Proposition No. 13 on the general election ballot, which is a referendum on the Missouri prohibition enforcement law. Another installment of 200,000 posters probably will be issued to supply all members of the W. C. T. U. in the State.

Senator Spencer, Republican, and Breckinridge Long, Democrat, nominees for United States Senator, are both listed as "acceptable to the League," which goes a step further with regard to Arthur M. Hyde, Republican, and John M. Atkinson, Democrat, nominees for Governor, who are declared to be "both dry and acceptable to the League."

Congressional Candidate.

Candidates for Congress are listed as follows:

First District, Frank C. Millspaugh, Republican, dry; M. A. Romjue, Democrat, dry. Second District, B. F. Beazell, Republican, and W. W. Rucker, Democrat, both dry. Third District, H. F. Lawrence, Republican, and J. L. Milligan, Democrat, both dry. Fourth District, Charles L. Faust, Republican, and L. C. Gabbert, Democrat, both dry. Fifth District, E. C. Ellis, Republican, and W. T. Bland, Democrat, both dry. Sixth District, W. O. Atkeson, Republican, and C. C. Dickinson, Democrat, both dry. Seventh District, R. C. Patterson, Republican, and Sam C. Major, Democrat, both dry. Eighth District, Sid C. Roach, Republican, and W. L. Nelson, Democrat, both dry. Ninth District, T. W. Hukriede, Republican, no report, and Champ Clark, Democrat, dry. Tenth District, C. A. Newton, Republican, and A. Evan Hughes, Democrat, both wet. Eleventh District, Bernard P. Bogy, Republican, and Harry B. Hawes, both wet. Twelfth District, L. C. Dyer, Republican, and Samuel Rosenfeld, Democrat, both wet. Thirteenth District, Marion E. Rhodes, Republican, dry, and Arthur T. Brewster, Democrat, wet. Fourteenth District, Edw. D. Hays, Republican, and R. L. Ward, Democrat, both dry. Fifteenth District, F. V. McPherson, Republican, and E. M. Roseberry, Democrat, both dry. Sixteenth District, S. A. Shelton, Republican, and Thomas L. Ruby, Democrat, both dry.

Poll of Senate Candidates.

Candidates for State Senate are shown as follows:

First District, M. E. Ford, Democrat, and J. F. LaFavor, Republican, both dry; Third District, B. T. Gordon, Democrat, dry, and Hine, Republican, position not known; Fifth District, M. E. Casey, Democrat, wet, and Eugene E. Bowers, Republican, not known; Seventh District, W. W. Green, Democrat, wet, and David M. Proctor, Republican, dry; Ninth District, Elmer O. Jones, Democrat, and W. T. Robinson, Republican, both dry; Eleventh District, J. D. Hostetter, Democrat, dry; no Republican nominee; Thirteenth District, J. H. Whitecotton, Democrat, and H. H. Gilfillan, Republican, both dry; Fifteenth District, M. T. Henderson, Democrat, and W. A. Collins, Republican, both dry; Seventeenth District, J. B. Hereford, Democrat, and Dr. B. B. Tout, Republican, both dry; Nineteenth District, Charles E. Rèid, Democrat, and P. A. Bennett, Republican, both dry; Twenty-first District, J. F. Fulbright, Democrat, and E. E. Penzel, Republican, both dry; Twenty-third District, Tillman W. Anderson, Democrat, dry; no Republican nominee; Twenty-fifth District, Richard F. Ralph, Republican, wet; no Democratic nominee; Twenty-seventh District, Louis S. Rephlo, Democrat, and W. C. Irwin, Republican, both wet; Twenty-ninth District, Robert C. Uthoff, Democrat, and Frank B. Warner, Republican, both wet; Thirty-first District, Michael Kinney, Democrat, wet; no Republican nominee; Twenty-third District, J. H. Brogan, Democrat, and J. M. Ebeling, Republican, both wet.

On the poster appears a paragraph appealing to voters in the Tenth (St. Louis) District to scratch Hughes and Newton, and vote for Samuel T. Larkin, dry candidate for Congress, running as an Independent.

DIAZ OFFERED $10,000 FOR "PROPOSED VOYAGE" REFUSES IT

Vera Cruz Announces He Is to Be Placed Aboard a French Steamer Monday.

By the Associated Press.

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 9.—Felix Diaz, nephew of former President Porfirio Diaz, who has been under virtual arrest here since Wednesday, will be placed on the French steamer Flandre, plying between Mexican and European ports, next Monday, it is announced. He has declined to sign passports or other papers and continues to maintain a passive resistance against deportation from Mexico.

Government officials have offered him approximately $10,000 to defray expenses of his voyage, but he has refused to accept it. He asserts he is innocent of crimes charged against him in connection with the assassination of former President Francisco Madero and says he desires only to reclaim what he lost through confiscation of property, and an indemnity for injuries he has suffered by reason of measures taken against him by the Federal Government.

Diaz spoke freely of the accusations made against him in the Chamber of Deputies in the course of an interview today. He said he had been wrongly accused of having personally directed the execution of Gustavo A. Madero, brother of the former President, and Adolfo Passo, who at the time of his death was superintendent of the National Palace in Mexico.

GULBRANSEN
Player-Piano

Play the Gulbransen as You Feel, Merrily, Tenderly, Passionately

MOST of the best music appeals to the emotions. Playing it with expression is chiefly following the suggestion of the music. Your own feelings are your best guide.

For instance, a lullaby or "Mother Machree" you would naturally play tenderly, gently. A love song may have both tenderness and passion in it, requiring variations from soft playing to tremendous crashes. Humorous songs and dance music should be neither very loud nor very soft—just bright and merry.

When you are playing a Gulbransen, with its direct pedal control of expression, the natural response of your muscles to the mood of the music almost suffices to produce the appropriate expression. If you are thinking of the tenderness expressed in the music of a lullaby, you will unconsciously pedal gently and play softly. If the music is a military march, your firm, rhythmic pedaling will give it just the right swing and spirit.

Such sympathetic contact between you and the Gulbransen is possible because of the exquisite "pedal touch" peculiar to the Gulbransen. The pedals are not stiff, requiring you to push hard. And they are not mushy, trembly—dying away under your feet—forcing you to pedal hurriedly.

They are gently firm, yielding without effort, and the slightest extra push is instantly transformed into tone.

Thus you can pedal leisurely, irregularly and completely relaxed—confidently in control of the wonderful tone possibilities of this great instrument.

You would enjoy the Gulbransen. You could play it well. Come in and try one so you may know what pleasure it is playing your favorite selections on the Gulbransen. Or, send coupon below for our free book, "Good Times With the Gulbransen."

SYMPHONY FUND CAMPAIGN WILL BEGIN TOMORROW

Dinner at City Club Is to Start Solicitation for $125,000 a Year for Three Years.

MEN AND WOMEN TO MAKE CANVASS

Competition for Capable Musicians Intense—Aim Is to Extend Popular Concert Season and Make Tour Possible.

A campaign for a subscription fund of $125,000 a year for the next three years, or $375,000 in all, will be initiated by the St. Louis Symphony Society with a dinner tomorrow night at the City Club. The purpose is to institute a constructive three-year policy of improvement, instead of the hand-to-mouth, year-to-year system of the past; and in addition to extend the popular concert season and to make possible an annual tour of the orchestra in the trade territory of St. Louis.

The subscription fund of $125,000 for the ensuing season is to be divided as follows: Deficit for the season, $80,000; cost of extending the "pop" concerts, $20,000; and the tour, $25,000.

A campaign of personal canvassing will be employed. J. Lionberger Davis is chairman of the men's teams, which will work mostly in the downtown district; and Mrs. John T. Davis Jr. is chairman of the women workers, who will canvass the outlying sections.

Captains of the Teams.

The heads of the men's teams are Dr. Alexander Wolf, representing the City Club and the Civic Music Association; Thurman W. Payne, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Frank Gecks, Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association; Edward H. Barstow, Kiwanis Club; Bert Barnett, Advertising Club; and H. C. Martin, Rotary Club. Team captains are to be appointed by the Auto Dealers' Association, the Sales Managers' Bureau, the Eighth District Federated Clubs, the Optimists' Club and the Salesmanship Club.

The captains of the women's teams are Mmes. Charles Rice, Morton May, Max Goldstein, Lizzie Drey, Eugene Nims, Scott Porter, Emma Myers, Charles W. Scudder, Otto Mersman, Ames Cushman, Stella Scullin, Thomas H. West, George Warren Brown, Horace S. Rumsey, David Calhoun, N. A. McMillan, Aaron Waldheim, E. George Payne, David Kriegshaber, Anna D. Boone, William Cocke and Miss Emily Sproule.

Ninety per cent of the money expended for the maintenance of the orchestra remains in St. Louis, according to Arthur J. Gaines, its manager. An important item in the increased cost is an advance of 35 per cent in salaries to musicians, he said. Hugo A. Koehler, treasurer of the Symphony Society, estimates that the income from ticket sales defrays only 64 per cent of the expense, while guarantee contributions must cover 46 per cent of the cost. Just where the symphony dollar goes is shown in the following percentages, estimated by the treasurer:

Salaries for musicians and conductor, 70 per cent; soloists' fees, 6 per cent; hall rent, 9 per cent; and music score purchases, 1 per cent. These total 90 per cent; the remaining 10 cents goes for administration and management.

"The accomplishments of a city are its character, its capital stock," said Koehler. "It is by them that a city is judged. Those cultural things which we do well stand as a municipal advertisement. They inspire those without to have confidence in us. If we have the best of orchestras, it naturally follows that we must do all things well, that our projects are worthy of investment, that our industry is worthy of patronage, and that we are standing shoulders high with the best."

Competition for Musicians.

Gaines points out that the competition for capable musicians has become intense. The moving picture houses are attracting musicians by offering a season of 52 weeks a year, instead of the 20-week contract possible to the symphony orchestra. In addition, the symphony orchestras compete among themselves, employing scouts to hire men from one organization to another. In such a contest, the richer orchestra wins.

"We must have an adequate fund to meet all competitive conditions," Gaines declares.

"Annual tours of the orchestra in St. Louis trade territory form another important feature of the three-year program," Oliver F. Richards, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Symphony Society, said. "There have been expressions as to the desirability of such tours from many communities in the Southwest. Aside from the high-class entertainment and culture afforded by such tours, there redounds to St. Louis a quality of advertisement which tends to inspire confidence in the city.

"The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra has reached its maximum of accomplishment on the present financial basis. Many other orchestras have much larger annual deficits, and are maintained by generous contributions from private citizens. St. Louis should not permit its orchestra to fall into retrogression. This would be neglecting an important civic asset, from both an educational and a commercial standpoint. In the latter respect, it cannot be denied that the organization is a valuable medium for advertising the community."

Richards, addressing the women workers Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. N. A. McMillan, stressed a point that no orchestra in the United States operates without a deficit, that in every city ticket sales defray only part of the expense. The Executive Committee of the Women's Advertising Club voted on Thursday to assist in the campaign. The club will work out its own plans, so as not to conflict with those of the Symphony Society.

WOUNDED BEAR CONVALESCENT

Bessie, Shot During Chase, May Be Back in Cage in Week.

The grizzly bear, Bessie, which was shot in the shoulder during a chase by policemen and citizens through the West End August 26, after escaping from a cage in the Forest Park Zoo, is convalescing in the Zoo hospital.

Park Department officials yesterday said Bessie was expected to be well enough to be put back in her cage in about a week.

THE WAY BACK by WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF...

BETTY RAINE cherished an idea, not uncommon among wives, that the Raine household owed most of its stability to her. She didn't really look down on Bill, on the other hand, she didn't look up to him. She felt that she had to hold a tight rein; that Bill couldn't be trusted very far alone. She was not greatly disturbed; she thought most men were like that. Her talks with other wives confirmed her feeling; they all agreed that in these days eternal vigilance was the price of matrimony.

Since Betty did not advertise her feeling, Bill didn't know about it. He was much too occupied to look for subtle qualities in their relation. He was professor of English in a state university in the Middle West, and one of the busiest men on the faculty that had no room for drones. There is precious little of the reputed leisure of academic groves about a state university that has to fight Legislatures seeking records for economy for its every appropriation.

Outwardly the Raines got along beautifully. Neither was of the quarreling sort, so there was little actual friction. But there was an undercurrent that produced ripples on the tranquil surface of their married life from time to time. Betty had moods of acute discontent, and in them she looked at Bill sometimes as if the sight of him hurt her.

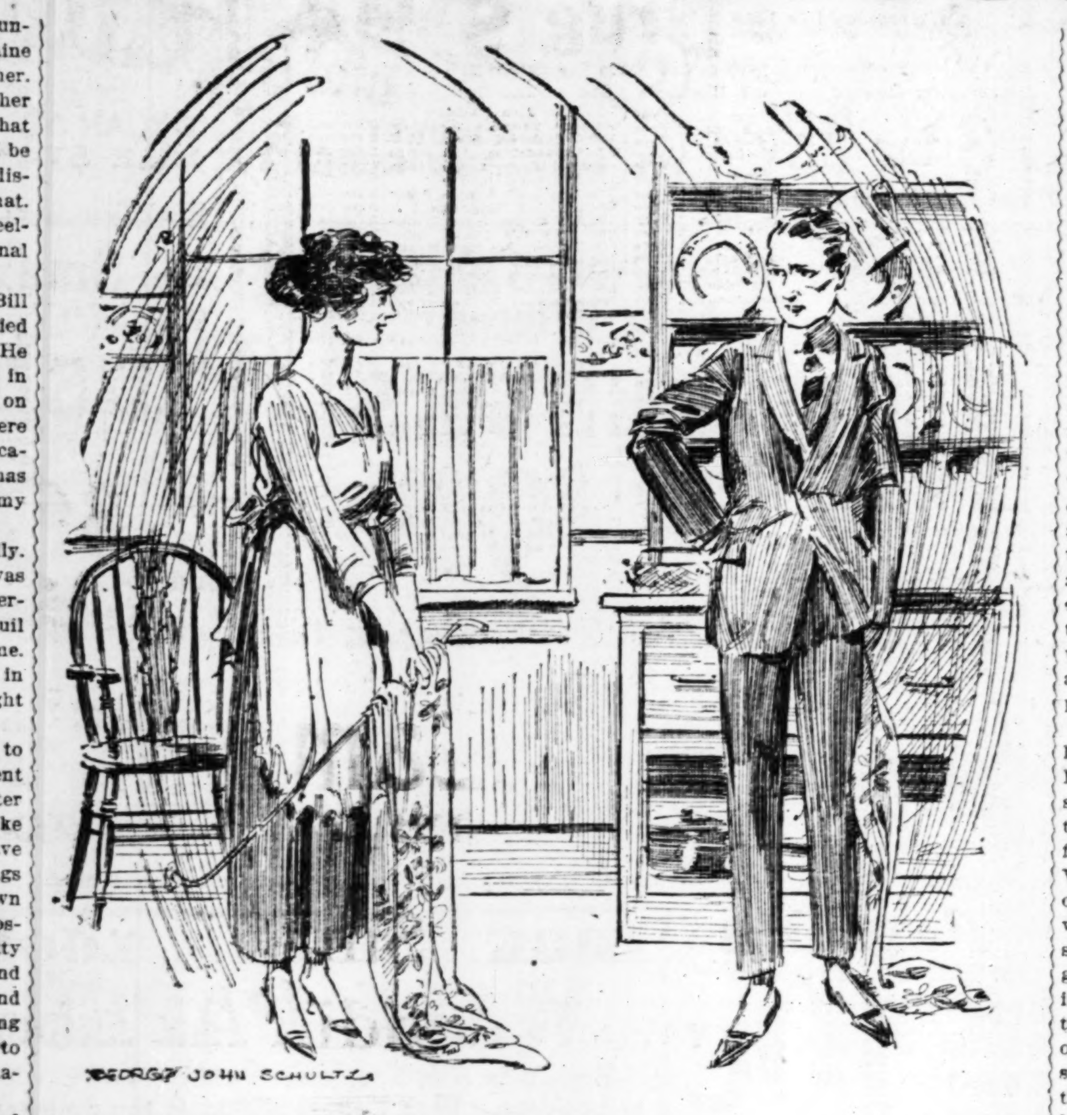
Bill wasn't picturesque, if you subjected him to a critical examination. He was wholly dependent upon his salary, and most of what was left after the bills were paid went to Betty. Being like most American husbands, he wanted her to have nice clothes and money enough for the things she liked for the house. So he made his own clothes last a long time and paid as little as possible for them in the beginning. He was pretty shabby, as a rule, and his clothes were baggy and shapeless, since they weren't cared for and pressed as they should have been. Considering everything, it probably wasn't fair for Betty to look at him as she sometimes did, but it was natural enough.

When she was in one of her discontented moods, and had sulked, and pouted, and scolded long enough, Bill used to grow stern.

"Let's have it out," he would say. "Just what's the matter, Bet."

She never really knew. That made that question unfair. She could think of things enough, but they were too trivial to be used as issues. So all that happened, as a rule, when Bill squared off for a reckoning was that Betty cried a little and was frightened into being good for a time.

Bill knew better than Betty that something was wrong. He didn't look romantic, but he was. There had been romance in his meeting with Betty, his infatuation, his swift and irresisitible wooing. She had been practically engaged to another man. And he had married her while the fire of his blazing passion was still showering her with sparks. They had gone off recklessly on an absurdly long and expensive wedding trip that had been an unalloyed delight. And now—well, now, five years afterward, there didn't seem to be very much in being married for either of them. Their marriage was like a good many others, neither better nor worse. And that hadn't been Bill's idea of marriage at all.



"O, if I had another yard of this stuff! I wish sometimes you were in business, Bill."

He didn't analyze the causes of a condition he perceived rather vaguely as carefully as he might have done. He resented the fact without fully understanding it.

It might have occurred to him that a good many minor, unavoidable things were threatening his happiness and Betty's. Little grievances each had against the other didn't come up for settlement when a settlement would have been easy. They were left to rankle, and so to become magnified to an absurd degree. He and Betty were always leaving things unsaid, because the sheer time in which to say them wasn't to be had.

Bill had a lot of lectures; there was a good deal of routine work, too, in which he had to take his share. He had to do some research, and publish a learned article now and then in some quarterly no one ever read; that was expected of him. He saw very little of Betty, really; he was likely, when he was home, to be hidden away in his den, working.

A lot of men do about what Bill has done. It isn't their fault exactly; it wasn't his. And yet a man who really wanted to make his marriage successful, who gave as much thought to that as to manipulating the sales of a new baking powder, for example, wouldn't act as Bill had, even if circumstances seemed to make it necessary.

Consider an analogy that is perhaps unflattering to Betty, but measurably exact. Bill had treated his marriage, after he and Betty had returned from their long wedding trip, very much as a man might treat an automobile he had bought before he could really afford to run a car. A man might buy a car, you know, in a moment of enthusiasm. And then, finding that it was more than he could manage, but being unwilling or unable to sell it, he would put it in dead storage, planning to take it out on the road again when he could afford to pay for gas, and tires, and repairs, and supper at a roadhouse now and then. Now, that procedure is safer with a car than with a marriage. Sometimes if you do that you may find that the marriage won't run when you're ready to take it out on the road again. And then there's the dickens to pay, and perhaps a lawyer as well.

Still, it wasn't all Bill's fault. Betty contributed her mistakes to the total. She never did measure Bill's shyness, his sensitiveness. He hadn't been shy when she first knew him; he hadn't been particularly sensitive, either. And she didn't allow for these qualities of his as she should have done. Very notably, she failed in perception grievously, one night about a year after their marriage. He was following her about the house, trying to say something, apparently, and finding it hard to get it said. She was busy with some curtains; in trying to be economical she hadn't bought material enough, and was almost frantic. Bill got on her nerves; he was like a big dog that wants something very much indeed, and can't do anything to let you know what it is except to wag his tail and look wistful.

"I say, Bet," he managed at last. "You know—we don't want to stick around here all our lives"——

"I should hope not!" she said, crossly. "Oh, if I had another yard of this stuff. I wish sometimes you were in business, Bill."

He knew she was thinking about the extremely prosperous broker to whom she had been nearly engaged when he appeared. But he let that pass; after all, she hadn't married Carter.

"Oh, I'd be no good in business," he said. "But there are chances, even as it is"——

"Yes!" she said. "Of course! They'll make you a full professor in 20 years, I suppose!"

That silenced him for a time. He continued to follow her about.

"I wish you'd sit still!" she cried, at last. "You've knocked down those curtains I tacked up over the big window three times now!"

"I'm sorry!" he said, and tried, clumsily, to repair the mischief, making it worse than ever. But the effort mollified her; she kissed him, lightly, as she took the stuff away from him, and that helped a good deal. He went on:

"You know," he said, "I've got an idea I might write a play—a comedy."

She laughed! She dropped her curtains, let some pins fall from her mouth, threw her arms about him and kissed him. And all the time she laughed!

"Bill—you baby!" she said. "Why—everyone writes a play! That's a stock joke! And a comedy—you—my dear!"

Oh, Betty knew her part! If she hadn't discouraged him he would have wasted a lot of time and tired himself out, writing a play. As it was, he never spoke to her of the idea again. For a long time Betty preened herself when she thought of that absurd notion of his. It was an example of the way you had to look after a man like Bill.

Bill would have died, of course, rather than let Betty know that she had hurt him. He regarded sensitiveness as a sign of weakness in a man, as a flaw in his character. If, in spite of such a feeling, he was afflicted by being almost abnormally sensitive, the intelligent thing to do was not to give people a chance to hurt him. In this instance, of course, Betty was probably quite right. Everyone did write a play. He remembered a joke—someone had said that if you wanted to break conversational ice with a perfect stranger, all you had to do was to ask him how his second act was getting along.

But, though he felt so, he didn't give up his idea. He took every hour he could spare from his regular work and devoted it to his play. The idea was astonishingly hardly. It survived six months of abandonment after that talk with Betty. It didn't perish when his work piled up so that for a week at a time he couldn't get at his slowly growing manuscript. And more and more it seemed to him that he had a play.

Bill knew an appalling amount about the theater and about dramatic literature. A course in the drama was a part of his work, and three or four of his students had had plays produced. Indeed, one of them, young Ramsdell, was beginning to be talked of in New York; he used to write enthusiastic letters to Bill about his success. Technically, Bill's equipment was ample, as might have been expected.

The unexpected thing he did was to write a play that was alive; that breathed humor and romance, faintly touched with satire; a play of values humane as well as literary. It took him a long time to finish it; when it was done he sent it to an agent, instead of enlisting Ramsdell's aid, as he might well have done. The agent liked it; refused to promise anything, however. He said, frankly, that most managers wouldn't appreciate the quality of the comedy.

Of course, that play reflected the life Bill lived in his own mind—not the matter-of-fact, uninteresting round of every day as he actually plodded along. You couldn't blame Betty and other people for taking Bill at his face value. He hid his real self pretty deep; it appeared in that play, for the first time in a good many years.

To Be Continued Tomorrow and Concluded Tuesday.

"PEDIGREE AND REGISTER" PHYSICALLY PERFECT, PLAN

Doctors Would Put Humans on Same Plane as "Thoroughbreds of Lower Animals."

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 9.—The International Alliance of Physicians and Surgeons, the National Association of Progressive Medicine and two other affiliated bodies in annual convention here today advocated a plan to have perfect human beings registered and pedigreed, the same as high class "thoroughbreds of the lower animals."

Dr. Charles F. Conrad, chairman of the convention, stated that a woman or a man, if they have their own and the world's interest at heart, would prefer to select a like mate who, they have some degree of assurance "is at least as near perfect as a pet dog," which they would not buy, he added, 'unless the dog had a pedigree of some kind."

Coffield
ELECTRIC WASHER

Here you see the world renowned and reliable Coffield Electric Washing Machine. Perfectly simple and simply perfect. Runs as noiselessly as a Waltham watch and just as perfect as an Edison talking machine.

"Does Everything but Hang the Clothes"

A Complete Laundry

This is the wonderful Voss Electric Platform Washer with self-draining tubs and sliding wringer. Wringer runs from washtub to rinse tub and from rinse tub to bluing tub, then from bluing tub to clothes basket, and when through washing just open faucet, pull up plugs and all tubs drain themselves while you are hanging clothes on the line. And you are done at 9:00.

AUTO CLUB TO HAVE 5 ROAD SERVICE STATIONS

Members May Have Tire or Mechanical Troubles Remedied Free After Friday.

Five automobile road service stations, conveniently located in St. Louis and St. Louis County, will be available for members of the Automobile Club of St. Louis on and after next Friday. There will be no charge if the trouble, either tire or mechanical, can be adjusted on the road. The stations will be operated under the supervision of the Automobile Club. The club also has purchased an automobile, equipped with the necessary paraphernalia, to render quick service to motorists in the county.

The service stations in St. Louis will be at 2447 Juaniata street, 5156 Delmar boulevard and 2809 North Grand avenue. The county locations will be announced this week. The opening of the service stations will mark the close of a five-day membership campaign.

1600 Members to Take Part.

Sixteen hundred members of the club will participate in the campaign which will be formally opened at a luncheon meeting of business men at the Jefferson Hotel at noon tomorrow. The objective is to add 10,000 new members to the club's roster. The present membership 4000. William King will serve as "Colonel" in command of the campaign. He will have ten "Majors" who in turn will each have five "Captains." Each member will be expected to call upon five automobile owners daily during the period of the campaign.

The main highways radiating from St. Louis are patroled on Sundays and holidays by a force of motor cycle men, who render either tire or mechanical service free to members. More than 150 cases have been handled by this "Mortorists' Red Cross" since July 25.

"Tow-ins" Provided Free.

If a "tow-in" is necessary, the car meeting with an accident will be taken to the nearest garage, or to one of the club's official service stations, without charge. If members notify the club, when they leave their car for repairs at any authorized service station, an expert mechanic in the club's employ will supervise the work and certify that it was done honestly, and that the charges are just and reasonable.

Officials of the club point out that the first road-oiling in the county was done by the organization, which still contributes a share of the expense, in addition to having presented the county with a road-oiler.

The officers are John A. Bruner, president; Clarence J. Curby, vice president; Frederick H. Semple, treasurer, and Ernest Reeves, secretary.

Women's Fine Footwear radically underpriced

ARRANGEMENTS FOR RED CROSS ROLL CALL DRIVE BEGUN

MEMBERS TO BE SOUGHT FOR 1921

Drive Last Year Resulted in Enrollment of 10,000,000 Adults and 14,000,000 Children With Goal Set at 20,000,000.

Preliminary arrangements for the drive for American Red Cross Fourth Roll Call, which opens Nov. 11, Armistice day, and ends on Thanksgiving day, were started Friday and yesterday by the Southwestern Division in a two-day session held at the Planters Hotel, which was attended by 189 delegates from Missouri Chapters.

Frank V. Hammar, 7 Hortense place, whose wife is chairman of the St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross, will direct the campaign in the St. Louis district, which includes St. Louis County and East St. Louis. The States included in the Southwestern Division, in addition to Missouri, are Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Members for 1921 Sought.

The primary object will be to enroll members for 1921. Last year's Roll Call, the goal of which throughout the entire country was set at 20,000,000, resulted in the enrollment of 10,000,000 adults and 14,000,000 junior members. No definite quotas have been announced for this year's drive.

The St. Louis campaign will be carefully arranged so that there will be no interference with business. No plant or factory will be asked to cease work in order that long meetings may be held.

Col. Ernest P. Bichnell, Red Cross Deputy Commissioner to Europe, who represented the organization during the war period as Commissioner in Belgium, yesterday told the delegates of the relief work being carried on in Europe by 100 active Red Cross workers.

50,000 Cases Cut to 500.

He referred to the recent outbreak of typhus in the Balkan States, stating that a total of 50,000 cases had been reduced to a total of 500 in four weeks through the efforts of Red Cross workers. He also told of the caring for 500,000 refugees in Poland and the establishment of better hospital service in Czecho-Slovakia. He described the population of Austria as being in a state of semi-starvation. The average 2-year-old child there, he said, weighs only 14 pounds as compared with 23 pounds, the normal weight of a child of that age. Austrian children of 6 years, he said, weigh only 33 pounds. Vienna, he said, is a great consuming center, but produces nothing.

Among others who spoke at the two-day session were Dr. Livingston Farrand, chairman of the American Red Cross; James L. Feiser, assistant general manager of the national organization; Dr. E. A. Peterson, director of the Health Service Bureau, and Arthur Dunn, associate director of the Department of Junior Red Cross.

Influenza Kept Home Nurses Busy.

At a round table conference yesterday afternoon, Miss Charlotte Taussig, secretary of the St. Louis Chapter, told of the work being done at the training school for nurses at 1223 South Broadway. She also referred to the fact that during last winter's outbreak of influenza municipal health authorities willingly accepted the services of home nurses trained by the Red Cross.

There was a great demand on the part of the delegates from rural districts for moving picture film depicting the various activities of the Red Cross. During the past year the organization supervised the showing of 20,000 such films throughout the country.

THIEVES TAKE LIQUOR FROM HOME AS WOMEN CALL POLICE

Three Men With Auto at Riesmeyer Residence on Hawthorne Boulevard Drive Away With Loot.

Thieves in an automobile stole a large quantity of liquors at the home of Mrs. Anna Riesmeyer, a distiller's widow, of 3112 Hawthorne boulevard, about 2:30 a. m. yesterday. Mrs. Riesmeyer and her daughter, Adele, were in the house, but afraid to interfere with the robbers, who were looting the wine cellar.

Miss Riesmeyer was awakened by footsteps on the gravel driveway, and looking from a window she saw two men walking toward the rear of the house. From another window she saw a man in an automobile in front of the house. Later she saw this machine drive toward the alley. Mrs. Riesmeyer telephoned the police. When motor cycle policemen arrived the robbers were gone.

Mrs. Riesmeyer said the thieves took one 50-gallon barrel of whisky, 12 quarts of vermouth, six quarts of gin, 12 quarts of port wine, six cases of champagne and six cases of rhine wine.

Olive and Locust From Ninth to Tenth

October Exhibition and Sale of Everything for the Home

THIS will be a great week at Vandervoort's for those who are planning new homes or refurnishing homes already established. Every home furnishing department is filled with fine merchandise, all of which is interestingly priced. Of special interest this week will be the Home Furnishing Demonstration by Mr. Ross Crane. Plan to attend these demonstrations and talks and see the wonderful merchandise displayed throughout the Home Furnishing Departments.

Items of Interest

—for the Home

Fourth Floor

Cozy Liveableness

THE motif of every nook of your home is "cozy liveableness," that something which cannot come vaguely or at random, but rather is the reward of careful planning—the merging of taste and utility. Every little thing adds or detracts and so, in furnishing the home, the little touches come in for a great share of the attention.

Art shops the world over have contributed their designs to "cozy liveableness" and as a tribute have come these New Door Stops, reproductions of fine Old English "Punch," "Judy," "The Stork and the Pitcher" and several other quaint designs (from $9.50 to $17.50 each.)

Book Ends of Solid Brass

THE living-room table is the center of attraction—the result of careful selection. Your first glance rests upon it, and so these solid brass Book Ends will add to the pleasure of that first glance. They are quaintly modeled in lion and unicorn designs and are priced at $10.50 a pair.

Parchment Flowers

IN the reception hall there will be a mahogany consol table upon which you will want to place a vase of flowers. Nothing would lend such grace and charm or enliven the room as would these wonderful parchment flowers—creations of exquisite color. They are fashioned in single stem flowers or in quaint old round bouquets and will blend most perfectly with the hangings and furnishings (from $1.00 up.)

Old Iron Pieces From the Wallace Nutting Studios

FROM the Wallace Nutting Studios have come many quaint pieces, fashioned of iron, all characteristic New England designs. There are andirons, candle stands, mantel and table candlesticks and many fireplace pieces. In the den they lend a charm and odd attractiveness and will prove useful as well.

ART INSTITUTE OF CHICAGO EXTENSION DEPARTMENT

Announcing a Week of Home Furnishing Demonstrations and Talks by Mr. Ross Crane

In the Vandervoort Music Hall

MANY of you will remember Mr. Crane's visit to the Music Hall last Spring, and the interesting demonstrations and talks which he gave on home furnishing and home beautification. The demonstrations this week will be of even greater interest because they will differ to some extent from the ones given last Spring and several new features will be introduced.

He will again use the stage in the Music Hall which will be fitted up as a home interior, and with this for a setting, many interesting and instructive ideas will be presented.

The several rooms on either side of the Music Hall will be used for the exhibition of paintings and will also be fitted up with the proper surroundings for various rooms of the home.

Following is the program as Mr. Crane will present it—

Tuesday, 11:00 A. M.—"How to Build a House."

Tuesday, 2:30 P. M.—"Demonstration in Interior Decoration."

Wednesday, 11:00 A. M.—"Chalk Talk, From the Eyebrows Up."

Wednesday, 2:30 P. M.—"Home Furnishing Demonstration."

Thursday, 11:00 A. M.—"Landscaping the Home Grounds."

Thursday, 2:30 P. M.—Demonstration in Interior Decoration."

Friday, 11:00 A. M.—Gallery Talk on "Paintings in the Exhibition."

Friday, 2:30 P. M.—"Home Furnishing Demonstration."

CANVASS OF LISTS OF REGISTRANTS TO CONTINUE THIS WEEK

Check Being Made to Ascertain Whether Lodging House Keepers Are Violating License Tax Law.

A canvass of precincts in the downtown wards was continued yesterday by deputies of the Building Commissioner's office for the announced purpose of checking up the registration lists for the coming election to find whether rooming house proprietors are evading the law which requires them to pay license fees in proportion to the number of beds for lodgers. The canvass will be resumed tomorrow. Reports submitted yesterday were as follows:

11 North Sixth street, The Ivy House, 121 registered, Emory Chase the proprietor. Democratic candidate for the Legislature, said he had 30 steady tenants. He pays license taxe on a basis of 85 lodgers.

403 Franklin, 16 registered. Saloon on the first floor. Second and third floors vacant. No information as to registrants.

1211 St. Charles street, eight registered. O'Donnell's coffee house on first floor. O'Donnell said men were playing cards on second floor. Second floor door padlocked and no answer to knocks.

1415A Market street, 9 registered. Dr. Couplin, living on second floor, said there were two families in the building, with a total of five persons.

1313 Market street, 13 registered. Mrs. L. Denny said only she and her husband lived there, but she sometimes had transient lodgers.

Admission Is Refused.

626 South Broadway, 15 registered. Mrs. J. D. Robbins' home. Deputies reported they heard a woman tell a boy to tell them she wasn't home. No information obtainable.

2036A Franklin avenue, 826 North Twenty-first street and 826A North Twenty-first street (different addresses for the same house), 15 registered. Saloon on lower floor. Doors to upper floors locked.

603 Walnut street, Hippodrome Hotel, 14 registered. Woman clerk said the hotel has four steady roomers.

7 South Sixth street, London Hotel, 29 registered. Woman housekeeper took a list from a bureau and said those whose names were on it were roomers there. It contained 28 names of men who are on the registration list as living there.

715 North Fifteenth street, nine registered. Family of two lives there. No explanation as to registration.

707 North Fifteenth street; 11 registered. Mrs. Clarence Winn said she and her husband and no one else lived there.

1533-35 and 37 Franklin avenue, 37 registered. New rooming house. John Hart, proprietor, said he had 27 steady roomers. Nineteen beds in the house.

1609 Olive street, 17 registered. Charles Trundle's rooming house with 13 beds. No explanation as to registration or present number of lodgers.

Inspectors Have Moroney Arrested.

Two of the Building Department Inspectors Friday afternoon caused the arrest of John J. Moroney, Democratic City Committeeman for the Sixth Ward, at his home, 517 Walnut street. Eighteen men registered from that address. The arrest was made after Moroney refused to admit the inspectors. Under a city ordinance the penalty for excluding building inspectors is a fine of $25 to $500.

At Moroney's request yesterday the case against him was continued in Police Court until next Friday.

WOMEN PLAY BIG PART IN CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER ROADS

Committees This Week Will Be at Filling Stations, Selling Good Roads Emblems to Auto Drivers.

URGE SUPPORT FOR $60,000,000 BONDS

American Legion and Other Organizations Are Giving Aid to Movement in Various Parts of State.

For three days this week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—St. Louis women will be stationed at each of the 50 gasoline filling stations in the city to sell good roads emblems to automobile drivers. One hundred and fifty women have volunteered for the work.

The emblems are enameled medallions that are fastened on the radiator fronts of machines, and have printed on them an exhortation to lift Missouri out of the mud by voting next month for Amendment No. 6—the $60,000,000 bond issue proposal. Some weeks ago the St. Louis division of the Missouri Good Roads Federation undertook to dispose of 50,000 of the emblems at $2 each in order to get together a fund of $75,000 for highway educational and promotion work throughout the State. Through the efforts of 28 committees, representative of the various larger industries, most of the medallions have already been disposed of. Now the women have undertaken to finish the job by selling the remainder to individual motorists at the filling stations.

Hawes Calls Meeting.

At a meeting last week called by Harry B. Hawes, president of the Road Federation, the plan was outlined to 60 presidents of organizations affiliated with the Women's St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, by Raymond A. Walsh, executive manager of the bond issue campaign. Three women are to serve at each of the 50 filling stations throughout the day. The next day their places will be taken by three other women and the third day by still others. The theory is that every automobile gets to a filling station at least once in three days.

Fannie Bonner Price, president of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, has appointed Mrs. J. L. Goodwin, vice president of the organization, to take charge of the emblem sales, and many women have offered their services. Thousands of autos in St. Louis are already decorated with the emblems, and these will not be solicited.

Other phases of the road campaign are also being pushed intensively with election day only three weeks away. The American Legion is especially active, waging a strong campaign in every county of the State. The committee in charge of the prize contest for a four-minute speech under its auspices report a flood of entries. Fifty dollars is to be awarded the best talk of approximately 400 words to be delivered by four-minute speakers in hundreds of moving picture theaters in every part of Missouri in the last two weeks of the campaign. Manuscripts by the hundred are being received at 400 Carleton Building, the headquarters of the Legion Committee, of which John A. Laird is chairman. E. Lansing Ray is chairman of the committee of awards.

Army Caravans Tour State.

Reports from the two army caravans touring the State in the interest of the bond issue are encouraging to the good road boosters. Enthusiastic meetings are being addressed at each stopping point and what few opponents to the amendment are met, are readily converted when it is explained that Missouri is to have 6000 miles of hard roads without one cent's increase in taxes.

Mrs. Frank De Garmo, who is in charge of the plans for a an automobile parade of St. Louis school children on Oct. 30 and a women's mass meeting in the evening at the Coliseum for the highway improvement, said yesterday that she hoped to have 6000 automobiles and approxiamtely 20,000 school children in the line of march. Prizes are to be awarded for the best floats prepared by the youngsters.

Thursday, Major Hawes tendered a luncheon at his home to 60 presidents of clubs affiliated with the Federation of Women's Clubs at which the hearty support of all the organizations was pledged. Talks were made by Mrs. A. E. Reton, president of the Eighth District of the Federation and Mrs. R. A. Todd of Lebanon, in charge of the women's activities for the Missouri Good Roads Federation.

Five Rattlers in One Load.

PIERRE, S. D.—Max Boeden of Harrold, while hauling hay, put in several minutes trying to locate the buzzing of a rattlesnake, only to find that it was working its way out of the hay between his feet. He did not stay long, but made a quick dive for safety. He then armed himself with an armor of heavy boots and padded trousers, and climbed back on the load to fork over the hay, resulting in his finding that he had been carrying five extra passengers of the same kind which had been dumped onto the load of hay by the hay loader. He brought in the five rattlers as an exhibit of what he had done in the way of reducing the supply of rattlers in his vicinity.

A Great Achievement!

Says Richard Spamer, Famous Dramatic Critic in the Globe-Democrat, October 5

Nothing Short of Marvelous

Says the St. Louis Times, Oct. 5

The NEW EDISON and Signor Friscoe on the Xylophone

As Friscoe Appeared at the Orpheum Theater During the Week of October 4. Will Appear at Rialto Theater Week of Nov. 1.

(Globe-Democrat, Oct. 5th)
Friscoe Still Thrills

Signor Friscoe, premier xylophonist and popular phonograph artist, continues to be the unapproachable hammer expert. When he ceases to manipulate his tonal tools of trade and the music continues the audience gets a mystic thrill, the cause of which is not revealed until the vallance near the performer parts and the reproducing instrument comes into view. In pitch, tone quality and rhythm, Sig. Friscoe's xylophone and the phonograph were in perfect alignment, a great achievement in what is now called re-creation.

(St. Louis Times)

The inimitable Signor Friscoe, whose xylophone artistry is incomparable, has retained his favoritism with Orpheum audiences, as was aptly demonstrated when he was compelled to respond to three encores last night. The re-creation of his music by the Edison phonograph is nothing short of marvelous, and the best that could be said of the Signor's act is that it is not of sufficient length to satify his audience.

The Globe-Democrat says "in pitch, tone quality and rhythm Signor Friscoe's Xylophone and the phonograph were in perfect alignment. A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT IN WHAT IS NOW CALLED RE-CREATION."

The St. Louis Times says: "The Re-creation of his music by the Edison Phonograph is nothing short of marvelous."

AUTO NEWS and GOSSIP

MANY PROMISE REFUND IN CASE OF PRICE CUT

Price Reductions Announced by Five Factories—Two Trucks and Three Passenger Cars.

Interest among motor car circles the past week has been concentrated on the price question. Many of the more prominent factories have advised their distributors that unless there is an unexpected reduction in labor and material costs, it will be impossible for them to reduce the price on their products in the near future.

Many of the factories which are not contemplating a reduction in price at the present time have adopted a policy of protecting buyers against a drop in the next few months. Several of the General Motors group—namely, the Buick, Oakland, Chevrolet and Scripps-Booth—have announced that should they be able to reduce the price before spring that purchasers would be refunded the amount of such reductions.

This same policy has been followed by many other fartories, among them the Packard, Cole, National, Nash, Haynes, Dort, Reo and Briscoe. The Velie company, which last week announced a reduction, are making a guarantee against a further reduction.

Five Follow Ford.

During the past week five additional factories have announced a reduction in their list prices. The largest cut was made by the Diamond T Motor Truck Co. The reductions range from a cut of $350 in the one-and-a-half-ton model to a cut of $1100 on the five-ton model. The St. Louis Motor Car Co., distributors for the Selden truck received advices from the factory of reductions ranging from $100 to $170.

Three passenger cars followed the lead of Henry Ford. The Grant Six made a reduction of $200 on open cars and $100 on closed cars. The Columbia Six touring car was reduced $200 and the sport and closed models $100. The Liberty announced a cut of $190 on the touring car and smaller reductions on the other models of the line.

PACKARD SINGLE-SIX ANNOUNCED LAST WEEK

Companion of Twin-Six Is a Lighter, Smaller Car, and Sells for a Medium Price.

A new Packard model, the Single-Six which is lighter than the Twin-Six, but of the same quality, and which sells for a medium price, was put on the market last week. The first demonstration cars have been received by the Packard Motor Car Co. of Missouri, and are on exhibition there.

The factory state that they will be able to deliver a limited number of cars in the near future. Production of the new car has been established without interfering with the production of the Twin-Six. Preparations for it have been under way for months, and the company expects to turn out at least 15,000 of the new cars during 1921.

In the Single-Six the Packard designers have built a lighter car than the Twin, with a shorter wheel base and with an engine having six cylinders instead of 12. Bodies are made in four standard models: Five-passenger touring cars and sedans, and three-passenger roadsters and coupes. In designing this car the Packard has made no attempt to include any startling feature, except the Packard fuelizer—and no extremes of any kind. In appearance the new model follows closely the established Packard body lines, having the characteristic Packard radiator and lamps.

The motor is of the L-head type with a 3 3-8-inch bore and 4½-inch stroke, developing 54-horsepower on a brake test. The wheel base is 116 inches, with a turning diameter of 34 feet, making it possible to turn the car in an ordinary street.

TO REQUIRE LIGHTS IN THEATER PARKING

The Police Department started to again enforce the law requiring lights on motor cars parked in front of motion picture shows. For several months they have not required that lights be lit on cars that were parked diagonally in the neighborhood of the theaters.

The new ruling was brought about by the custom of many theaters to turn off the lights on the front of the building shortly after the start of the second show. The police had made an exception of the theater district because of the bright illumination, but with this light turned off the police feel that an unlighted motor car is as much a menace to traffic there as on any other street.

ADVANCE MOTORS CO. OCCUPIES NEW HOME

The Advance Motors Co., distributors for the Columbia Six, last week moved into their new home at 2929 Locust street. The building has a 50-foot frontage and a depth of 140 feet. The showroom, 30 feet deep, occupies the front of the building, and the balance is given over to service facilities. The showroom will be elaborately finished in ornamental plaster, featuring a color scheme of cream and old ivory.

The formal opening will be held at the time of the automobile dealers' open week, and arrangements have been made to display several specially finished models.

BATTERY SERVICE CO. TO BUILD ON LOCUST

Construction work has been started on a new service station at Twenty-second and Locust streets by the Battery Service Co., who are distributers for the Willard Storage battery. The building, which will cost approximately $100,000, will be completed about Jan. 1, and will be one of the largest of its kind in the West.

The ground floor will have 8000 square feet without posts or other obstructions, and will be able to accommodate 40 cars at one time. Complete new mechanical equipment of the most modern type will be installed.

GUSIKOFF TO PLAY IN NEW YORK

Michel Gusikoff, concertmaster of the symphony orchestra, will make his New York debut in a recital at Carnegie Hall, on the afternoon of Oct. 25. His program will consist largely of music by Tschaikowsky.

Gusikoff was a pupil of Franz Kneisel, head of the famous quartet bearing his name, and has been coaching with Kneisel during the summer. He will return to St. Louis to begin rehearsals with the orchestra on Nov. 1.

ANOTHER OIL FIELD IN MEXICO

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 9.—Petroleum has been discovered in the State of Oaxaca, according to advices received here. Prospectors have been busy recently in all parts of the republic, and there have been many rumors relative to the finding of new oil fields, but this is the first authentic report that has been received of a producing well.

The oil was found upon a concession held by the Oaxaca Petroleum Estates, Ltd., a British concern, which holds about 200,000 acres in the State of Oaxaca. This territory has a 35-mile frontage on the Pacific Ocean and enjoys the advantage of two natural ports—Puerto Angel and Santa Cruz.

AUTUMN CREDIT DEMAND CLIMAX NOT YET REACHED

Commodities That Have Resisted Downward Movement Expected to Decline Further.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The week's events have directed the financial mind with much perplexity to the questions, what is to be the immediate future of prices for commodities and what, after all, is to be the course of prices on the Stock Exchange. This has been an extraordinary week. Prices for the great staple products have reached a state of demoralization, which may fairly be compared with the collapse of Stock Exchange values last March and November. Since the beginning of October wheat, corn, flour, oats, sugar, copper, tin, zinc, cotton and cotton cloths have gone to much the lowest prices of the year on the wholesale markets. Some of them, such as cotton, coffee, tin and packed provisions, have fallen below the low level of 1919; wheat has reached the lowest since the United States declared war in 1917.

"According to one of the standard compilations published this week, average prices for commodities had already declined 6 per cent during September and 19 per cent from the high point of the year, and although the percentage varies somewhat with the different methods of compilations all agree that the decline, up to the opening of October, had been more than twice as great as in the three months immediately following the armistice and larger than any decline in American staple prices during a corresponding period since the panic of 1907. To these estimates of the fall in values prior to Oct. 1 must now be added the further violent decline of the present week.

Must Qualify Predictions.

"There have been occasions in the past when such rapid shrinkage of staple values, occurring in markets honeycombed with speculative commitments for the rise, would actually have brought the 'panic' which Wall Street was nervously discussing a few months ago. That nothing of the sort has happened on this occasion is without dispute a consequence of the farseeing and courageous policy adopted last spring in regard to the grant of credit for speculative purposes by the Federal Reserve and the private banks which were able or willing to follow its example. But although there will be no panic, the question is still unanswered how far the (as yet) unchecked decline in commodity values will go.

"Prediction must be qualified by the somewhat divergent particular influence just now bearing on deficient products, but the general probability is that so violent a fall in prices as has occurred in the past few weeks must come pretty near to completing the season's necessary readjustment. In some commodities—especially those which have thus far resisted the downward movement—there will doubtless be further declines. But in many of these staple markets, prices have now been carried to a basis which not only indicates liquidation of merchandise held on credit by imprudent speculators, but foreshadows return of middlemen and manufacturing consumers. These potential buyers have latterly been holding off because of doubt as to whether prices might not fall much further. When the force of the decline is shown to have spent itself, these purchasers will come in. As Wall Street puts it, the 'short account' would be 'covering.'

Will Move as Stocks.

"When that happens, some commodity markets will doubtless recover sharply; for in some of them the pace of recent decline has been rather abnormally rapid, even when judged by real conditions of their trade. But the movement will be much the kind of recovery which on the Stock Exchange followed the culmination of the violent break of May. Probably we shall find producers ready and anxious to do business at the level of prices reached in a partial recovery from the lowest. When that occurs, the retail buyer will wait for the retail trade to accept its own share in the readjustment."

"On the Stock Exchange also the week has brought some revision of ideas. The significance of the rise in railway shares was everywhere recognized; but Wall Street has had to learn for the thousandth time that even a very great change for the better in underlying conditions cannot be 'discounted' by an unlimited rise in prices; that at some point in the recovery the real buyers will pause and await further actual developments, and that speculation in railway shares can no more safely ignore a precarious money market than speculation in the industrials. These principles hold good even in the bond market, whose recovery during the past few weeks has been fairly spectacular.

Credit Climax Not Reached.

"What will happen in that branch of the investment market (or indeed in railway shares) when the money strain relaxes in January or when bankers accumulate sound securities at the end of December with a view to the next month's 'reinvestment demand' is a question which rests on other considerations. But the climax of legitimate autumn trade demands on credit and capital has not yet been reached, a fact to which Wall Street suddenly woke up this week. Meantime the case of the industrial shares will have to be considered by itself. The so-called 'professional pools' on the Stick Exchange who have little imagination (except in the field of imaginary values) seemed to be assuming, a few days ago, that a grat recovery in the railway shares to their high point of the year must mean an equivalent or greater recovery in shares of manufacturing companies. These stocks also may in due course retrace some of their lost ground; but we have moved a long distance away from the situation and apparent prospects of a year ago and the industrial enterprises have for the time very obviously changed places with the railways."

STOCKS ON CURB IRREGULAR AFTER A STEADY START

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—There was a steady tone at the start on the curb market today, but before the end of the first hour an irregular trend developed. Business was again small, with commission houses doing a little on the selling side. The professional operators were less active, although some covering of shorts was noticed, apparently for the purpose of evening the books over Sunday. Insiders, except in one or two stocks, were apparently out of the market.

Oil stocks were comparatively quiet, with price changes confined within fractional limits. Simms was moderately active around yesterday's low mark. International Petroleum (new stock) was slightly higher, and a steady tone was shown in Skelly and White. Quite a number of the remainder in this department recorded small recessions. The Standard Oil group was dull, bid and asked quotations being about unchanged.

Aetnt Explosives was the leader of the miscellaneous issues being purchased by insiders, with covering of shorts, and scoring a good fractional advance on fair transactions. Tennessee Railway Light and Power was higher.

United States Steamship, Sweets Co. and several others held about steady.

Several of the low-priced mining shares were quite active, but price changes were small. Bonds were less active than previously during the past week, but the tone continued steady.

London Money.

BRITISH COAL OUTPUT HIGHEST SINCE JUNE

Wholesale Commodity Prices Expected to Show Appreciable Decline This Month.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The Brussels conference promises to produce a practical but unexpected result in the settlement of the reparations question, by direct negotiation between France and Germany. The settlement of the question is vital to French finances and Germany urges that it is impossible to formulate a financial program until the reparations are defined.

The authorities here concerned with the connection of pre-war private debts report that Germany exhibits every desire to settle the latter expeditiously.

The coal miners' ballot on the question of a strike is awaited with some uncertainty. It is believed that the men generally are averse to a strike and are confident that increased wages can be secured without a strike, but the extremists are using all endeavors to prevent the acceptance of any plan involving in the least degree the determination of wages by output.

Coal Output Increases.

Last week's production increased 104,000 tons and was the highest since June. A strike is regarded as improbable owing to differences of opinion prevailing in the various coal fields and the consequent disruption of the solidarity of the miners federation.

Wholesale commodity prices this month will probably show an appreciable decline. The rise in the price of bread on Oct. 17 threatens to cause discontent in view of the fall in world prices and the slowing down of employment. The rise in bread is due to previous Government purchase of wheat and the declared policy of eliminating subsidies. Cuts in retail prices thus far have occurred in tea. Booth motor cars and high quality clothing. The decline in rupee exchange accentuates the trade depression in India, but the full effect of the reduction in Indian imports through financial restrictions here is not yet apparent. Eastern bankers here express hope the exchange will improve by the new year when Indian exports reach their seasonable maximum.

Stock Markets Dull.

Our stock markets are dull, and the industrials are depressed because of the trade outlook. Textile and motor shares especially are heavy. There are signs that more investment funds are available for Government stocks though the securities are dull pending the new Government issue of 5-per-cent local loans at 50. The Vauxhall Motor Co. is issuing five-year notes on an 11-per-cent basis.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The best Wall Street opinion at the close of the week is more firmly convinced than ever that the stock market is in the last stages of the movement which started nearly a year ago and the purpose of which was to discount the reaction in outside business conditions from the inflated volume and inflated prices of the war period. Everybody knew when the armistice was signed that this readjustment would have to come. It was put off for a year because it required this length of time for industry to make good the deficiency in current and reserve supplies of goods that existed after four years of conflict. But in November, 1919, when the Federal Reserve Bank began to apply the credit brakes it was realized that preparations must be made for a business recession of considerable magnitude. The only question was how severe the decline would be and whether the trade and financial structure of the country could absorb the heavy losses due to price reductions cracking under the strain.

This was a subject upon which many of the ablest minds were frankly pessimistic all through last winter and spring. Particularly was the season of the crop moving looked forward to with grave apprehension. Now this dreaded season is well advanced. The financing of the wheat and other small grain crops has been completed without disturbance in the money market. There is no longer reason to doubt that the corn crop, the cotton crop, and later on, the sugar harvest will be handled with similar success. All fear of a financial crisis resulting from the extra pressure of the crop demands upon credit position, already sufficiently taxed, has passed. The readjustment moves along much more smoothly than most people would have dared to hope six months ago. The limit of the price-cutting campaign will be reached when commodities approach the level of cost of production. It goes without saying that the producer will stop producing when there is no longer any profit to be made, and it is a fact that the decline in many directions has either reached or approximated this stage at the present time. Among the essential articles which are down pretty well, if not entirely to the rockbottom of production cost, are wheat, corn, sugar, hides and leather and copper. In the textile industry the reaction is certainly two-thirds over and may be more. The steel situation is still debatable. The heads of the principal companies have come out publicly this week with the statement that the steel trade is in sound shape. This statement could not be made if the leaders were anticipating any slashing of prices. The truth seems to be that the steel corporation, having been very moderate in advancing its schedules during the boom times, will be correspondingly moderate in making any downward revision now. How much of a concession the independent steel concerns will have to make is a matter of much difference of opinion. One thing is certain, however, and that is that the cutting of steel prices in some branches of the trade will be partly offset by increased prices in others. The steel corporation, it has become known, will announce its steel rail price list in December.

The Credit Situation.

To sum up, then we are over half way through the period when the money market is under the strain of the crop demands and there is no sign of trouble. We have along with this got through undoubtedly with the worst of the price-cutting and there has been no big mercantile casualties or any other of the phenomena of hard times. Everything goes to support the contention that the readjustment of industry—the deflation, as it is commonly called—will be accomplished comparatively quickly and with no more serious consequences than a temporary slump in earnings with an occassional cutting or passing of a dividend. The untieing of the railway traffic tangle is a very gratifying achievement of a reduction in bank loans, as many critics claimed it was a few months ago. The release of frozen credit through the provision of better transportation facilities has aided materially in solving the problem of getting money for moving the crops. But it still has to be admitted that there has not yet been any important regulation in bank loans. This reduction, it is now recognized, will not come until the retail trade of the country has got used to the lower scale of prices and is convinced that it is low enough. When this stage is reached the distributive trade which is now halting will start up again, the merchants who are now buying so gingerly will wish to stock up their shelves and the mills will have large enough orders to allow them to work off their surpluses and liquidate their loans at the banks.

The stock market for a while to come is likely to be narrow professional affair with many confused and rapid surface changes, but without much net variation, taking the average of prices as a whole. Railway shares seemed toward the end of the week to have been a bit overbought, while in parts of the industrial list the evidences of a sold-out condition were very clear.

Investment Market.

The investment bond market, while it has not lost ground, has paused after its continuous and really sharp advance of the last four months and will probably have to go through an interval of digesting the new securities that have been offered in such quantity before undertaking any fresh advance. Sentiment is still very confident, however, that interest rates have passed their peak and that early in 1921, if not before, the Federal Reserve discount rates will be reduced and this will be the signal for a general lowering of money rates and commercial discounts. It is this that the rise in the investment markets has been looking forward to, but the best judgment is that the discounting movement is by no means complete and that after the present pause the rise in bonds and in investment stocks will be resumed.

CANADIAN WHEAT IS FEARED, PRICES FALL

Extent to Which Producers Might Hold Grain Undetermined and a Factor.

Contemplation of the entrance of surplus Canadian wheat into this country, duty free, nearly demoralized the grain trade during the past week. It was reported that 200,000,000 bushels of this grain was pressing for an outlet before winter. There was a slight rally Saturday in wheat on the reduced estimate on shipping wheat.

Only the reluctance of Canadian railroads to permit their cars to come across the border into the United States has appeared to stand in the way of floods of wheat from the North unless an embargo was ordered from Washington. A call from the Governor of Kansas that such an order be made led to one vigorous rally in prices, but later the downward swing was resumed, for European buying in the United States seemed largely to have come to a halt, and some flour mills were reported slowing down owing to lack of orders. Opinions difered widely meanwhile as to the extent to which domestic producers were finding it practicable to maintain a holding policy and to await a chance of greater returns.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat.

Better transatlantic call helped to steady lard and ribs, but pork shared in the collapse of grain.

Foreign Exchange and Domestic Money

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The foreign exchange market during the past week was irregular, with a heavy tone shown in the market for continnental exchange generally, but sterling exchange acted independently of the rest of the market and was in steady inquiry, demand moving up over 3 cents and making the highest rate of the week in yesterday's trading. There was no special reason of which the public was informed for the buying of sterling, but some of the active dealers were of the opinion that the market for sterling had become over sold in the previous week, and that a large part of the buying on the advance, especially in the past few days, was covering of short contracts. This, however, would not explain the scarcity of offerings which made the market sensitive and quick to respond to the appearance of even a moderate inquiry. Italian exchange was under pressure for the greater part of the week, lire checks selling as low as 3.84, but the supply was withdrawn when that low level was made, and moderate buying was sufficient to cause an entire recovery of the loss in the past few days. Exchange on Norway, which had been strong a week ago, following the placing of the Norway notes, was again heavy, losing all the gain made on the Government financing. A feature of the week's trading was the pressure against Austrian exchange, crown checks falling to .86 of a cent. Exchange on Hongkong and Shanghai moved lower in sympathy with the market for silver.

High and low prices of exchange on all the principal foreign markets during week were as follows:

REDUCED SPRING WHEAT ESTIMATE LIFTS PRICES

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—All grains were firmer today on the Chicago Board of Trade, in wheat the Government figures reducing the spring wheat production created a sentiment favorable to the bulls and enough of a revival of export buying to be noticeable. Light country offerings helped the steadying influences in all grains. Wheat scored a net advance of 5 cents with December closing at $1.98¾@1.99 and March at $1.95 to $1.95½. In corn December wound up at a net gain of ½c and oats gained ⅜c to ⅝c.

First attempts of the bulls to stiffen the wheat market received an early setback when shorts started to cover. After that flurry, however, there was a steady uptrend to the market. Some Eastern selling was noted on the bulges, but early general buying by commission houses helped sustain prices. There was some buying here and in the Northwest to correct an error made yesterday on an order to sell. Trade was not large, but there was less pressure all around than had been noticeable recently. Foreign demand continued to be centered in the Canadian market.

Corn fluctuated rapidly and scored new lows for both December and October. A better cash demand and the effects of short covering soon changed this condition, however, and following the lead of wheat the close was well above the minimums. Trade in oats was rather liberal at times and that grain showed considerable strength after it recovered from the early weakness in corn.

Provisions were generally firm throughout, with closing figures at the high point of the day. A strong market for live hogs and commission house buying were factors.

GENERAL RUN OF NEWS IS BEARISH; COTTON LIST OFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The cotton market was lower during today's early trading as a result of southern hedge selling, continued favorable weather in the south and depressing reports from the goods trade. December, the month on which most spot transactions are based was relatively weak, selling off to 21.12 or 52 points net lower. The general list opened easy at an advance of 5 points on October, but generally 6 to 37 points net lower, with the early decline extending to 22.75 for October or 15 points net lower while January sold at 20.70 or 38 points below the closing price of Friday.

Manchester cables reported increasing short time in some of the weaving mills and New England advices predicted still heavier curtailment of mill production in that section next week.

There was nothing of a more encouraging nature in the week-end reviews of the goods trade. Western wholesalers state that both distribution of goods and fresh sales are running below last year's and it was not improbable that business in the Central West has been influenced by recent declines in the grain market. Manchester cables stated that the industry in East Lancashire is showing even greater depression and that more weaving mills are closing and it is evident that in both domestic and foreign trade centers a satisfactory price basis has yet to be determined. In the case of cotton yards in the domestic markets some of them are said to be already selling at prices discounting 20-cent cotton. World's spinners' takings of American cotton are still running behind last year.

Stop orders were uncovered on the decline which extended to 22.40 for October, 20.90 for December and 20.45 for January in the late trading, or 50 to 74 points net lower. Closing prices showed rallies of only a few points on covering with the tone easy at a net decline of 40 to 70 points.

Cotton futures closed easy. Oct. 22.40; Dec. 20.95; Jan. 20.45; March 20.20; May 20.00.

HOG PRICES RECOVER AT WEEK-END SESSION

COMPARATIVE LIVESTOCK RECEIPTS

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle and calves	32,772	28,105	38,145
Hogs	44,844	52,754	50,677
Sheep	9,765	8,311	13,272
Horses and mules	9,839	1,848	4,901
Totals	97,220	91,018	106,995

Favorable weather conditions stimulated a little more life to the Eastern dressed beef trade the past week as demand improved slightly for the better cuts of beef. This resulted in an upward trend in the steer market at the National Stockyards Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Prior to Wednesday, movement had been very sluggish and in fact Monday's market had been materially lower.

The upward reaction in live steer cattle the last two days eliminated the loss of the opening day and puts market on fat steers strong to 25c higher and in extreme cases more than close the preceding week. Four loads of lightweight Angus steers topped for the week at $17.25, an equal of the highest price paid this year. These were the only real good corn-fed cattle received; in fact, bulk of all steer sales, westerns and natives, ranged from $7.75@12.

Butcher stock closed for the week about steady on all classes. Except for one or two loads, there were no good yearlings received, most consisting of plainer sorts that sold from $6@7.75. Butcher cows were slow of movement a large part of the week, and quality was not especially good. It took a pretty good beef type to bring $8@9 and bulk sold from $6.25@7.50. Cutter cows extended from $4@5.50 and canners $3.50@4. Bulls of fair weight found good action throughout the week and brought strong to slightly higher prices. Lighter kinds were dull and barely steady.

Demand was limited for stocker cattle and steers, both of stocker and feeder weight, declined 25c and are $1 lower than three weeks ago. Stock cows, heifers and bulls sold barely steady with the mean close the previous week.

Veal calves sold right at $1 lower than a week ago and market closed $1.50 off. Top for the week on choice lights was $17, while high mark Friday had fallen to $16.50. Southern yearlings showed little material change.

Hog Prices Slightly Higher.

Hog trading developed a high spot of $16.40 in the week's final session here, this price being an altitude record for the week, and 80 cents higher than the practical top a week ago. This also reflects a recovery of 60 to 75 cents since the mid-week session, on which day the top price was $15.75. Closing values were about 25 cents higher than for the preceding week. Receipts were heavy the first part of the week, but slacked up later, and the total is but 44,844 or 8000 few than got in last week. Half-fat, light stuff predominated, and salesmen claim they never saw good finished hogs so scarce as at the present time or the price range between finished and half-fat hogs so wide. Light hogs were denied the support of shippers and sold sharply below the top during the most of the period but recovered before the close. Lots of light and half-fat stuff sold from $15 down to $14.50. Pigs were $1.50 lower at one time, but closed practically steady. Rough hogs closed firm.

Sheep Receipts Increase.

Receipts in the sheep and lamb division the past week reached the fair total of 9,750, this being an increase of approximately 1400 over last week's number. Trading lacked any particular feature and failed to bring forth any important development in a price way, quotations remaining about the same as they were at the close of the preceding week. Quality was improved and a right good proportion of the lambs were on the good to choice order, these selling from $11.50@12, the latter price being the top for the week. Medium lambs sold all the way from $10@11, with $11.50 the week's top on southwest offerings. Culls brought $6.50@7 largely. Fat sheep also remain unchanged, bringing $5.50 where on the choice handyweight order and $5 where too heavy to be strictly desirable. Canner sheep range from $1.50@2 and choppers and bucks from $4@4.50.

Old established Akron firm, making solid and pneumatic tires, desires distributor for St. Louis and vicinity. Complete line and very attractive proposition. Fine opportunity for right parties willing to make investment. Apply or write C. C. White, care Statler Hotel, until October 13.

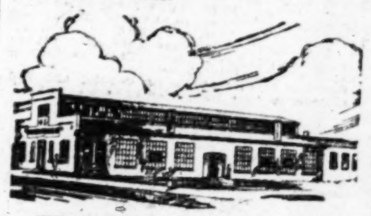
U. S. SMELTING CO. FIRST TO INSTALL WINDO-WALLS

"They Are Considerably Cheaper, and Better Than Wood Sash," Says Arthur Jones of That Company.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Oct. 10.—"Sure, we like Fenestra; who doesn't?" asked Mr. Arthur Jones of the U. S. Smelting Co., Belleville, recently. "We don't have occasion to do much building, but we determined long ago that what building we did would be up-to-date.



"We were one of the first people in this city to use Fenestra Windo-Walls, and we have been delighted with them ever since. They are considerably cheaper than wood sash, and better in every way. Now that you have a stock of standard types and sizes in St. Louis, we shall always know where to go when we want a few windows in a hurry."

WINDO-WALL CONSTRUCTION ADVOCATED BY LUER BROS.

Brokaw-Eden Washing Machine Co. Has Plenty of Daylight and Ventilation.

ALTON, Ill., Oct. 10.—Luer Brothers, owners of the factory occupied by the Brokaw-Eden Washing Machine Company, of this city, are thorough advocates of the modern Fenestra Windo-Wall construction.

No better example of the efficiency of these WindoWalls can be had than the present Eden factory, where the detailed and careful work necessary in the manufacture of washing machines is carried on amid conditions that make for the highest efficiency and the greatest production. Plenty of natural daylight and abundance of fresh air keep the employees of the Eden plant at their best because they are provided with an agreeable place to work.

"We understand the advantages of Fenestra WindoWalls thoroughly," said Mr. Herman Luer, recently, "and we would not think of building a modern factory or warehouse without specifying steel windows as part of the construction. We have used them also in our warehouse with excellent results, and believe them to be the best fireproof, up-to-date wall material on the market."

BEALL BROTHERS RECOGNIZED FENESTRA VALUE YEARS AGO

ALTON, Ill., Oct. 10.—Beall Brothers, of this city, recognized the value of Fenestra WindoWalls many years ago when they installed steel sash of this type in their shovel factory, one of the largest institutions of this kind in the state.

This building was the first Fenestra installation in Alton, and though erected years ago, is still giving as efficient service as it did when the windows were first installed. It is a fine example of the sturdy construction and staying qualities which have always characterized the Fenestra product.

MONDAY LAST DAY FOR VOTERS TO REGISTER

Delinquents Can Get Court Order to Have Their Names Placed on Books.

Monday will be the last day on which persons who were not permitted by election officials to register for the election Nov. 2, on one of the regular registration days, to obtain a Circuit Court order enabling them to get their names on the registration books. Irregularities in the status of a number of persons caused them to be denied the privilege of registering, most of them being in connection with persons of foreign birth.

Persons who registered on one of the regular days, Sept. 13, 14, 15 or 16, but who have moved since then, must present themselves at the office of the Election Board in the Municipal Courts Building by Oct. 27 and have their names transferred on the registration books, or they will not be permitted to vote.

Others who were prevented from registering by illness or absence from the city may register at the Election Board's office Oct. 27. They must appear in person, and if they were absent at the time of registration they must bring two persons to testify to the circumstances involved, or if prevented from registering by illness, a physician's certificate to that effect, must be produced.

Observer Says Italians Are Sick of Their War Bargain and Distrust Rest of World

People Exhibit Hatred Toward France and Some Even Wish They Had Stood by Germany, Correspondent Finds.

BY CHARLES A. SELDEN,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—One outstanding result of comparing the various points of resemblance and difference in the present labor situations in France and Italy is that conditions in the two chief Mediterranean countries are far less "red" at this moment than at any other time since last May. By the conduct and votes of workers of both countries Bolshevism as a social and economic program has received as severe a check in Latin Europe as it sustained as a military force at the time the Polish armies counter advanced last August.

But the comparison is justified by recent events only as between the workers of the two countries and not between Italy as a whole and France as a whole. Italy has been within the last month very near revolution because in that country the only effective checks to the extremists who wanted it were through more moderate associates in the ranks of both labor and the Socialist party who refused it at least for the present and who prevailed. The Italian Government and the bourgeoisie were both admittedly helpless in the matter.

France by contrast has not had even a remote danger of revolution. If all French industrial labor had been for it, instead of a comparatively small minority, there were and are against it both bourgeoisie and peasantry and a determined Government not afraid to act.

France Hopeful, Italy Unhappy.

The present difference between the two countries is in great part psychological. France is happy, hopeful and, above all, has no undisturbing doubts about the wisdom and justice of her course during the last six years. On the other hand, Italy is most unhappy. She is full of grievances against the rest of the world. Also she is full of doubts about the wisdom of her own course in the world war. Ships come across the northwest corner of the Mediterranean from Barcelona to trade at Genoa and other Italian ports. They bring their Spanish pesetas, which are worth now 5 lire apiece, instead of the same value and the disgruntled and harassed Italian business men ask themselves why they were not as wise as Spain in remaining neutral. The American goes into Italy with his dollars, for each of which he gets 22 lire instead of 5, and the transaction in the Italian mind becomes an added injustice which Italians associate with Woodrow Wilson's determination that Italy shall not have Fiume.

The French franc, despite its own depreciation, is still real money compared to the lira, and the very sight of it angers the Italian. There is nothing in the frankly bitter conversation about France to be heard in the stores, offices and workshops of Italy that backs up the pleasant things that Giolitti and Millerand said to each other at Aix-les-Bains, and talk of the shops is probably a much truer reflection of real opinion than are the formalities of Prime Ministers. Italy at the present moment hates England. Italy hates Greece, because, in the Italian opinion, Greece got too much out of the war and Italy far too little. And so on.

Italians Sick of War Bargain.

If the uniform tenor of many conversations at Milan, Turin and Genoa is a fair indication, Italian opinion today is not so much divided between thinking that Italy did right in joining the allies and thinking she should have remained neutral and thinking she should have stuck to the Triple Alliance and fought with the Central Powers. It is very difficult to find an Italian who, like the Frenchman, glories in the part his country took in the war.

At Genoa I had luncheon with two Italian brothers, one an exporter and importer, the other a manufacturer. The older man, the exporter, wanted to stick to Germany in 1915. His brother was for the allies then, but is not now. The question long since ceased to be a cause of family argument, for now the younger man says his brother was right.

"I teach my children to hate France," said the elder brother. "We made a fatal mistake in not remaining true to our alliance with Germany and Austria. If we had fought with them instead of against them the war would have been won by us and finished long before Bolshevism was invented. And today my brother would not be sitting here unable to enter his own factory because his workmen have seized it and put their Red on his chimneys and my Italian money would not be rubbish to the English and Americans and even to the Spanish."

Poland Regarded as French Device.

The exporter's remarks, to which his younger brother mournfully nodded assent, were characteristic of the state of mind widely prevailing in that country. It is a state of mind in which there is ample room for speculation on the part of the Italians themselves as to how soon Italy and Germany again will combine, taking Russia as a third partner. It includes hatred, or at least mockery, of the Polish state as a mere French device to weaken Germany.

Also it is the Italians themselves who directly connect this feeling of grievance and unhappiness with their recent industrial disturbances. Federico Yarach, president of the National Federation of Employers in the metal industry, said to me at Milan during the recent factory occupation: "Our present labor difficulty is attributal directly to the treaty of Versailles. Our bourgeoisie have been literally shocked into apathy and absolute helplessness by realization of the injustice done to us after the war by the allies. We have not had the courage or interest to hold our own, or strength to support any government in protecting us, so when the workers decided to seize our factories there was nothing to prevent it."

Not the slightest trace of any such apathy or bourgeois discontent or hatred of other countries is to be found in France; hence, as already indicated, the comparison of the industrial phase which ended in Italy a week ago and which closed in France yesterday with the adjournment of the Orleans labor conference, can be made only between the organized bodies of workmen of the two countries.

Moderate Wing of Labon Won.

In Italy the moderate wing of labor, under the leadership of Daragona, finally won against the extremists, who wanted immediate revolution, by about three to two, as indicated by a test vote. In France the moderates under Jouhaux, have won by two to one against Prossard Cahin, who insisted on hitching French labor to the Third Internationale of Lenine, and, if need be, immediate revolution.

The winning factor of French labor does demand impartial control in the management of industries and adheres to nationalization as the ultimate goal. Italian labor already has been granted participation in control by the Giolitti Government, with the employers helplessly consenting. Both Italian and French labor practically have reached the same conclusion—that they cannot win without including in their own ranks technical experts and intellectual workers.

French organized labor, by a big majority vote, again insists that it must forever keep itself independent of Socialist or any other political party while in Italy there is a strong present tendency for moderate labor and moderate Socialists under Turati leaders to become practically one great force committed to evolution as against revolution.

This moderate element in Italy is as much opposed to the Third Internationale as the French workers are. But Italy also repudiates the Second Internationale because it condoned war and demands the foundation of the Fourth Internationale. France would restore the second, the creation of which was largely due to the French labor leaders, who have just won their decisive victory over what little Bolshevistic tendency there is in France.

Would Stop Exports.

One of the things which Italian labor contemplates in its participation in control of industry is to prevent sending products to other countries for war use, and the Italian Government shows no sign that it would try to prevent such action by labor. French workers can go a long way toward getting what the French Government thinks is reasonable, so long as only interior politics and domestic affairs are involved, but France will fight any effort of labor to interfere in her relations with other countries. The question in France which nobody seems able to answer satisfactorily is concerning the real nature of the differences between the moderate majority of labor and the radical minority. Are the moderates aiming at the same goal, and are they in the same road as the radicals, but merely unwilling to travel that road as fast as the radicals want to go, or are they altogether divergent? If there is actual divergence, it is

Canaries Should Have a Balanced Food

THAT'S why they are fed not simply one kind of seed, but a mixture.

However, any old sort of mixture is no better than a single kind of seed—maybe even worse. For instance, canaries should never be fed hemp seed—and most seed mixtures contain it.

We've prepared a mixture with just the seeds that canaries should have and in just the proportions that they should have them.

St. Andreasberg seed mixture—that's the name of it—is sold nowhere except at our store. It is a scientifically prepared, balanced seed food for canaries.

Ten Years Younger Than His Years

Doesn't it make you feel good—cause you to straighten up and feel "chesty"—when someone guesses your age at ten years or so younger than you really are? You look into your mirror, smile with satisfaction and say to yourself: "Well, he didn't make such a bad guess, at that."

The point is: You're no older than your vitality.

If a man is strong, vigorous, mentally alert, fine and fit at 50 he has a better chance of living up to 80 than a man of 30 who is weak and run-down has of living up to 60. While none of us can stay the years nor stop time, we should all make an heroic effort to successfully resist the effects of time by ever keeping our vitality at par.

When you sense a feeling of slowing down of your physical forces—when your stomach, liver, kidneys and other organs show signs of weakness—when you notice a lack of your old time "pep" and "punch"—in other words, when you feel your vitality is on the wane, you should commence at once to restore your energy, strength and endurance by taking

LYKO

The Great General Tonic

This master body-builder will help you keep young in spirit and mental and physical action, because it will assist Nature in maintaining your vitality at par. It enriches the blood, restores worn-out tissues, soothes jangling and over-wrought nerves, induces sound refreshing sleep, sharpens the appetite, tones up the digestion—in short, will put new life, new vigor and new vim in every fibre of your body.

You will be surprised how much better you'll feel after taking a treatment of LYKO, if you are tired and worn out, nervously and physically exhausted. It's mildly laxative—keeps the bowels in fine condition. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

Col. Roosevelt's Friend, John Burroughs, Tells Why He Supports Cox

Famous Naturalist Says League Is the Great Issue—Finds Qualities in Cox Similar to Those of Roosevelt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—At Woodchuck Lodge in the heart of the Catskills peace reigns in the pleasant solitude of the everlasting hills. It is the serene and pleasant life that the master of Woodchuck Lodge, John Burroughs, naturalist and scientist known throughout the world wherever books are read, has lived and loved throughout his more than 83 years of life.

It is not strange, therefore, that a man who has loved nature and his kind and whose life has flowed on placidly in all the environments of a peaceful countryside should desire with all the force of a strong nature that the blessings of peace should be assured to humanity for all time to come. For John Burroughs is ardently for the League of Nations as the greatest and surest instrument for the preservation of the peace of the world.

The naturalist's interests have always been primarily those of the student of nature, the scholar and scientist, but they are not exclusively so. For many years of his life he has had contact with many men in many different walks of life, scientists, writers, artists, soldiers, statesmen, and his Americanism is so staunch and deep-rooted that questions of the public welfare have always enlisted his thought. Although an independent in politics, he has always taken a stand when it came time to cast his vote. In this campaign he has taken his stand. It is for Cox and the League of Nations.

Three Reasons for Stand.

Sitting in his workroom in Woodchuck Lodge, the naturalist the other day gave his reasons for his support of the Democratic candidate for the presidency, "which," he said, "might be summarized under these three heads:

"1—Because I am for the League of Nations as the only way human thought has devised to put an end to wars.

"2. As a sequence to the first, because Cox is for the League of Nations.

"3. Because Cox is the stronger man of the two candidates, the more progressive and more representative of the idealism of the nation."

"Perhaps," said Burroughs, "the three reasons might better be expressed as one, for I believe that there is but one issue in this campaign—the League of Nations. And that surely is a big enough issue of itself for any one campaign. Necessarily, to be for that issue is to be for the man who has pledged himself to do all in his power to bring about its complete establishment. Senator Harding is not a friend of the league."

He and Roosevelt Intimates.

Burroughs' summing up of his reasons for favoring Gov. Cox's candidacy came as the conclusion of a conversation in which he discussed at length the issues of the campaign, the achievements of President Wilson through two administrations, with particular reference to the conduct of the war; the contrasting records of the Democratic and Republican candidates, and some points of similarity of traits possessed in common by Gov. Cox and Col. Roosevelt. John Burroughs and Roosevelt were intimates, their friendship being bound by ties of passion for the great outdoors and the things of nature which they shared in common. Whenever he mention's Roosevelt's name the face of the naturalist lights up and there is a tender note in his voice.

Burroughs had just returned from a morning in the woods. It was a sodden morning, and to the heavy rain which had drenched the hills and valleys overnight were added a drizzle which persisted all the forenoon, and clouds of mist which drifted along the sides and over the upper reaches of the mountains. The naturalist had risen early to look after his traps, regardless of the weather, and he had been rewarded. Down the road his tall, spare, erect figure came swinging, dragging with his right hand a robust woodchuck, the spoil of the morning, his left hand clutching his stick and the trap. His long white beard dripped with moisture, his heavy shoes were caked with mud and his clothes were heavy and soggy, but he was quietly radiant as he cast the woodchuck on the lawn and announced: "Here's the lamb for dinner."

"I have never been what is called a party man," said the naturalist, after he had changed to dry clothes, "but have always tried to vote with the party and for the man I considered are best fitted to have in charge the government of the country. Many people know me, but as a naturalist and a writer, and I doubt that my opinions on public matters would have any great weight with them. But I am intensely for the League of Nations and if a statement of my reasons can be of service in convincing others I am willing to give them.

"It is unforunate that the covenant of the league should not have been written in fewer words. It is too long for the average person to read through patiently. In its essence it could have been stated in a few hundred words. As it is, the enemies of the league take advantage of the fact that it is not generally read through to misrepresent it to the people. There has been much dishonesty by those who must know better, in the way of misrepresenting the intent and purpose of the league. Its intent, as I see it, is clear and simple. It is a means to stop the ever-recurring wars, the foolish, destructive conflicts that are continually exhausting the world. The world can't go on with these wars, if civilization is to survive, and the only way to stop them is through the league.

"Then there is this insincere outcry against the dominance of England in the league. Those men who have studied the covenant must know that there is no danger in this direction, but they trade on the survival of that old suspicion and dislike of England which is a heritake of the Revolution. This feeling against England is not confined to her hereditary enemies; there are many of the native stock who still hold it.

"I believe that the main objection to the league on the part of Republican leaders is that it is the handiwork and the dear aspiration of President Wilson. What they call the President's mental austerity and cold intellectualism have made him disliked by politicians and they seek to hurt him through the destruction of the league. They forget, or ignore, his splendid public service, particularly in the way he waged the war, and he is made the object of abuse as varied and bitter as was Lincoln. I can well remember how Lincoln was abused for I was the only man for him in a family of copperheads."

The naturarlists's recollections amused him, as he paused in an aside to recount some of the epithets, such as "Old Abe," "Black Republican," and the like that were

No. 3. A 5-pint coffee percolator. Does not destroy the delicious flavor of good coffee by boiling. This percolator has been not inaptly named the "husband retainer."

No. 4. A 4-quart preserving kettle.

The White House Cooker consists of three utensils and one cover, but by means of Figures A, B, C, D, E, F, G, and H we show the different combinations that can be made with this famous three-piece cooker. Figure A shows it complete, consisting of a large 5-quart preserving kettle, a 2-quart pudding pan, a 2-quart perforated steaming pan or colander, and a cover for the set. Figure B shows how it can be used as a roaster; Figure C as a large covered preserving kettle; Figure D as a double boiler with lid; Figure E as a steamer with steaming pan inserted; Figure F as a casserole with cover; Figure G as a 2-quart pudding pan; Figure H as a colander (NOTE: There is only one lid to the White House Cooker, and the different combinations show the same lid being used.)

Made up entirely of utensils such as every home needs. No little, trivial pieces put in to "fill up." Note the large tea-kettle, the famous White House three-piece cooker, the 4-quart preserving kettle, and the coffee percolator. Try to get similar pieces in a store, even in common, unguaranteed ware, for less than $20.00.

White House Aluminum Ware is guaranteed 99 per cent pure, and with proper care will last a life-time. We want you to see it and satisfy yourself you have saved at least five dollars by getting it direct from the factory. Then, ten days after its arrival, if you are pleased and delighted (as we know you will be), remit $2.51, and then $3 a month for four months if you order the full assortment, precisely as described above. If you so desire we will omit the percolator, and in this case the first payment will be $1, and then $3 a month for four months. We positively cannot make any other change in this assortment: we will ship it either with or without the percolator at a difference of $1.51 in the price. Curling Hair Like This Promotes Its Health

For those whose hair is straight and lank, nothing better could be recommended than the silmerine method. This insures a beautiful curliness which is perfectly natural in appearance, and the health of the hair is not affected as where the heated iron is used. A few ounces of liquid silmerine—which can of course be had at any drug store—lasts a long time, so it is quite economical to use. It is pleasant to use, too, being applied with a clean tooth brush. The hair should be moistened the full length before doing it up. The pretty wavy effect in evidence in three hours is surprising to those who try this simple method the first time. The liquid also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss.

JOHN BURROUGHS TELLS WHY HE SUPPORTS COX

contemptuously heaped on the great President.

"And yet Wilson led the nation into the war superbly and it was finished superbly," he said. "He roused the country and fired the idealism of the nation in a way that not Roosevelt himself could have surpassed," said the master of Woodchuck Lodge in a glow of admiration unusual in his calm and placid way of talking.

"The Republican party once was the party of progressiveness, of broad vision and great leadership," he continued, "but it is no longer so. We must look into the Democratic party for those qualities in these days, for the positions of the two parties have been reversed. But I believe that the great issue of this campaign has set many party men to thinking earnestly and that millions of Republicans will vote for Cox."

Burroughs reverted to the administration of President Wilson, for whom he said he had voted twice. He said it was one of the tragedies of a statesman's experience that the splendor and popularity of the earlier years of his administration should have been clouded by the distrust and the diminishing of popular favor that came as a result of attacks on the League of Nations, of which he had been the foremost advocate.

"But I believe," he said, "that history will accord him his due. The things that alienated public affection from him will have been understood and glossed over in a decade and he will be estimated as he deserves to be."

"Why," he added, as he swept a lean and sinewy hand toward the panorama of mountains from which the morning mists were just clearing the tops and making of each a smoking crater, "it is in his case just like these mountains. You do not get the proper conception of their grandeur and their true proportions by viewing them at close range or through the mists that obscure them. You need distance and perspective."

Of Gov. Cox's personality, Burroughs said that some six or seven years ago, when he had first met him, he was impressed by his vigor and forcefulness and had predicted for him a future of larger field than as the chief executive of a state.

"I first met Cox about six or seven years ago at Fort Meyer, Fla., where I was spending the winter with Edison and Henry Ford. I don't remember the occasion of his visit there. It is all a little hazy in my mind, except that he impressed me instantly at the time as a man of ability and force. Gov. Cox didn't know me, and I knew only in a general way of his record. I remarked to Edison that I believed he was a man who would be heard from in public life. Later my estimate of him was strengthened and as the time for the Democratic convention approached and talk of available candidates became livelier I believed that the Democrats had in him a candidate ready to hand."

In Gov. Cox Burroughs sees certain points of resemblance to Roosevelt, particularly in the vigor and fearlessness of his public utterances, his dynamic qualities and his straight-out and unequivocal statement of convictions.

"He has more of the traits of Roosevelt than Senator Harding," he said. "Of course, he has not been tried as was Roosevelt, and his public life and experience have not been as long and as varied as Roosevelt's, who was himself a walking day of judgment and who touched life at more points than any public man in our generation. But Cox has force and vigor and a dynamic quality that we like in our Presidents."

Senator Harding is not the stripe of man that Col. Roosevelt would have chosen for the presidency, in Burroughs' opinion. In practically every essential of character they are dissimilar, he says, and Senator Harding is the political antithesis of the Progressive leader.

"Senator Harding is a very ordinary man," Burrougs said, speaking without rancor and in the serene, placid manner that marks his speech habitually. "His public life as shown by his record reveals no great outstanding service, nor does he seem to be a man of any special attainments for the office of President. His personal character doubtless is such as to endear him to those who know him, but his speeches and public career reveal him as a man of no great force and as one committed to policies of reactionism and standpatism."

Protect your gums to save your teeth

Why do three out of every four men and women over thirty years have pyorrhea in some form? Why, despite the daily tooth-brushing, do they suffer from bleeding, tender, spongy or receding gums—symptoms which, if unchecked, lead to the loosening and the loss of teeth?

The answer is "gum neglect." They use dentifrices which may keep the teeth white and free from films, but do nothing more.

Unless the gums are kept firm and healthy, infection starts in the gum tissue and spreads to the bony root socket which holds the tooth in place. The tooth itself may be sound, but the support is weakened and destroyed.

Pyorrhocide Powder was compounded for the specific purpose of maintaining gum health as well as tooth cleanliness. Unlike other dentifrices, it is more than a mere formula of the chemist's laboratory. It was perfected through exhaustive tests and practice in clinics devoted exclusively to pyorrhea study and research.

Leading dentists prescribe Pyorrhocide Powder because it contains both gum-strengthening and tooth-cleaning properties of high effectiveness. It is medicated with Dentinol, a germicidal and healing agent widely used by the dental profession in the treatment of pyorrhea at the chair.

Pyorrhocide Powder keeps healthy gums healthy. It stimulates the blood circulation, maintains firmness and hardness, thus increasng the power of the gums to resist pyorrhea infection which constantly threatens.

If pyorrhea has already developed, Pyorrhocide Powder aids in repairing soft, bleeding, spongy or receding gums. It soothes the gums that are sore and inflamed.

The economical dollar package contains six months' supply. At all druggists and dental supply houses.

Free trial package to prove what real gum health means

Send coupon for free sample of Pyorrhocide Powder. Note how it leaves a refreshed, cleanly feeling of the teeth and gums long after brushing. To you who have used other dentifrices, it will prove a revelation. We will also send our educational booklet on the Prevention and Treatment of Pyorrhea.

THE O'CONOR DON URGES PEACE FOR IRELAND

Says He Is Willing to Do Anything to Bring "Wild Bloods to Reason."

DUBLIN, Oct. 9.—The O'Conor Don, who has appealed to his countrymen for a monster mass meeting in County Roscommon as a means of restoring peace and order in Ireland, speaks with the authority of an Irish chief whose sept or clan has had large estates in that country for more than 700 years and who can trace his ancestry back definitely to the year 366 A. D. In recent generations, notably since home rule agitation became urgent, the family has always sided with the English Conservatives in dealing with Irish matters. That is the attitude of the present chief, who of course has no followers among the Sinn Feiners, although they are certain to read his picturesque exhortation which was printed in the Roscommon Messenger.

"I propose a meeting in Roscommon," he wrote, "for all those who wish the country to remain Christian and fit to live in. Are all the shopkeepers to have their homes destroyed? Are all the country people to live in terror of their lives and the rich to flee the country, and no step taken to end such a state of affairs?

"I, for one, do not propose to sit on the fence longer and see my country ruined. I will do anything possible to bring to reason the wild bloods who are disgracing the land and bringing us all to ruin and damnation, but I can't do it alone."

The O'Conor's given name is Owen Phelim. His father was Charles Owen O'Conor, contemporary of Gladstone and Parnell in Parliament and opposed to both of them in Irish matters. The eldest son, Denis Charles Joseph, succeeded to the title of The O'Conor Don and held it until his death in 1917, when it passed to the incumbent.

One of the most distinguished of the line was Roderick O'Conor, who is said to have exercised supreme authority in Ireland until 1172, when he passed his scepter to King Henry II of England. The word "The" prefixed to the name signifies that the bearer is the principal representative of the historic house that once enjoyed sovereign sway. The family estates are among the best properties in County Roscommon.

U. S. MARINE BAND TO GIVE CONCERT IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Organization Touring Country Will Play at High School Auditorium Friday Evening.

The United States Marine Band, making its first tour in several years on account of war conditions, will give a concert at the High School Auditorium, East St. Louis, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The leader is Capt. William H. Santelmann.

The program will include the overture to "Tannhauser," Liszt's "Love Dream," Weber's "Invitation to the Dance," Hosmer's "Southern Rhapsody," and Kummer's concerto for two violoncellos, to be played by Musicians Fritz Mueller and Gerold Schon, the latter a former member of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Paint Association Convention.

The annual convention of the National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association will be held here Oct. 18 to 21, with 1500 delegates and visitors expected to attend. Richard Moore of St. Louis is president.

Girls! Do You Know Why Your Hair Is Ugly?

A Simple, Inexpensive Way to Quickly Make It Seem Much Heavier—Lustrous, Soft and Fluffy.

Parisian Sage Surprises and Delights—It Positively Does Not Change the Natural Color of the Hair.

Nowadays all up-to-date women want radiant hair, so soft, fluffy and abundant that it fascinates and compels admiration.

It's really a simple matter to merit this praise since beautiful hair is only a matter of care.

If your hair is faded, dry, streaked and scraggly, falls out badly and new hair does not grow, the roots must be vitalized and properly nourished.

To do this quickly, safely and most effectively get from your druggist some Parisian Sage and follow the simple directions for home use.

It's guaranteed to banish all dandruff stop scalp itch and falling hair, and stimulate a new growth or money refunded. It's in great demand by women who always "look their best," because it makes the hair soft, lustrous, easy to arrange attractively and appear much heavier than it really is.

Parisian Sage is easy to use, not sticky or greasy, and daintily perfumed an antiseptic clean liquid that's guaranteed not to color the hair or scalp If you want good-looking hair and plenty of it, use Parisian Sage. Don't delay—begin tonight—a little attention now insures beautiful hair for years to come.

Truss Causes Man's Death

A man was admitted to Bellevue Hospital in a very serious condition, caused by wearing a truss which had penetrated the tissues, anteriorly, making a deep, clean-cut wound—the patient died the day after admission. Do you realize that rupture kills seven thousand persons annually? Are you courting death? Are you neglecting yourself by wearing a truss, appliance or whatever name you choose to call it? At best the truss is only a makeshift—a false prop against a collapsing wall—and cannot be expected to act as more than a mere mechanical support. The binding pressure retards blood circulation, thus robbing the weakened muscles of that which they need most—nourishment.

Science has found a way, and all truss sufferers are invited to make a FREE test in the privacy of their own homes. The PLAPAO method is unquestionably the most scientific, logical and successful self-treatment for rupture the world has ever known.

The PLAPAO-PAD, when adhering closely to the body, cannot slip or shift out of place, therefore cannot chafe or pinch. Soft as velvet, easy to apply, inexpensive. It works while you work and while you sleep. No straps, buckles or springs attached. Learn how to close the hernial opening as nature intended so the rupture CAN'T come down.

SAYS LOW RIVER RATES WILL INSURE PLENTY OF FREIGHT

Dr. David Kinley, Head of Illinois U., Declares Shipper Is Out to Make Money, Not to Aid "Movement."

"SUCCESS DEPENDS ON SERVICE TO VALLEY"

Barges Must Carry Products of Inland Districts as Well as Port to Port Traffic, He Asserts.

Dr. David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois, when in St. Louis recently to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Valley Association, talked to a Post-Dispatch reporter concerning certain economic fundamentals to be considered in the association's movement to develop the Mississippi Valley and to utilize its rivers in that development.

"There always is a deal of grandiloquent talk in any movement, such as that of the Mississippi Valley Association and the revival of waterways, which sometimes obscures a few simple factors that, after all, determine progress or failure," he said. "Men—business men—are interested above all in their own business and showing in it a profit—they are interested in these movements only as they are related to their business and that profit. Sometimes I hear discussions as to whether there will be sufficient tonnage offered to justify transportation on the river. Show the shipper where he can make money by shipping by river and he will ship by river. The thing to do now is to forget worries about freight and see to it that the present freight-carrying experiment on the river is a financial success. Tonnage will follow as a matter of course.

Looks for Cheapest Financing.

"The same is true of the discussion in the valley to declare a financial independence of New York and to finance in the valley foreign trade projects that now are financed in New York. The business man will not sacrifice his business to any 'movement.' Show him where he can get his financing cheaper in the valley than he can in New York and he will desert New York.

"However, I am convinced that the development of waterways in the valley is economically sound. A committee of which I was head and of which Bion J. Arnold, a distinguished engineer, and others were members, established quite clearly. I believe, by survey last year, that a certain portion of the movement of Mississippi Valley raw materials and products through New York was economically unsound. A distortion of railroad rates had diverted eastward freight from certain portions of the valley that should move southward through southern ports. Some progress has been made, I believe, in correcting that inequality by readjustment of rates. The use of the rivers will completely correct it, I believe.

Port-to-Port Traffic Unprofitable.

"In that connection I believe certain other fundamentals must be kept in mind, if this revival of shipping by river is to be of consequential magnitude. It is an axiom that port-to-port traffic is not the function of any inland water. No river traffic will flourish if it is merely the exchange of goods between New Orleans and St. Louis or St. Louis and Texas points. The river will benefit St. Louis greatly only in an operation of this sort: The garnering of valley products in a wide radius and their forwarding by river, or, vice versa, the collection of goods from wide-flung foreign markets, their importation up the river and their distribution to a large hinterland.

"There are two prime factors in such an operation. One is that there shall be plenty of feeder lines to the river—railways, highways and electric ways. These are not inimical to each other's interests, nor do I know of any present-day railroad man of stature who does not now believe that rail and water transportation should advance together, whatever railroad men may have thought or done in the past.

"The other prime requisite is terminals for the cheap exchange of freight between those feeder lines and the river.

"Universities of the Mississippi Valley are going into Valley problems on a wider scale each year. The College of Commerce of the University of Illinois, established only 10 years ago, now has an enrollment second only to the college of literature and arts, and beyond that the engineering college and the college of agriculture. Youth of the valley are being trained in business of the valley. They do not go out equipped to solve all its problems, but they do go out equipped to grow within a few years to contribute materially to their solution."

Dom Miguel Renounces Claims.

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 9.—Small as was the chance the former Miss Anita Stewart of New York had of ever sitting on the throne of Portugal when 11 years ago she married the elder son and heir of the claimant, Dom Miguel, Duke of Braganza, the last hope, apparently, was destroyed when recently Dom Miguel renounced his aspirations in favor of his younger son, Prince Duarte, who is favored by both Integralists and Legitimists.

CONTINUING FOR THE SECOND WEEK THE

STUPENDOUS OPENING SOUVENIR BARGAINS

That Have Aroused All St. Louis!

A startling change has taken place in the retail furniture situation of St. Louis. This mammoth new store opened last Monday and practically over night it has become the talk of the city. In one short week's time we have taken the lead as the first store to bring prices back to where they were years ago. There are big reasons why furniture can be bought here at stupendous savings. First of all, our low rent location MEANS a big saving to you; this, combined with the elimination of extravagant methods and unnecessary expenses, tremendous interlocking buying power, the marking of our goods at the smallest margin of profit known to the furniture business, and our policy of not employing smooth, glib-tongued salesmen to induce you to buy, higher priced furniture than you can afford, has resulted in our ability to sell furniture at from 25 to 40% less than prices of a few months ago. All this week we continue the stupendous opening souvenir bargains that have put this store on the map. We urge you to share in these rare values at once. Don't wait, come Monday.

Robs Garbage Cans.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Charged with violation of the new city ordinance, which forbids the "looting" of garbage cans, Pat McCormick, 83 years old, is in jail for the first time in his life. McCormick is a native of Ireland. He came to this country as a boy. He lives alone in a room in an old building on Market between Eleventh and Twelfth streets. For the last 10 years he has been existing on what he made by selling scraps of leather and metal picked from garbage cans. McCormick, according to certain employes, had permission to get what he could from the Vogel Bros. Shoe Manufacturing Co.'s garbage cans.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 26.—The whipping post was instituted in Hungary by a bill just passed by the Assembly. As originally introduced it was meant as a punishment for profiteers, usurers and offenders against the food laws. As enacted, however, this feature is eliminated and it applies only to moral offenders against the army, the state and plots against property.

CAMINETTI FAVORS WATERWAY FROM GREAT LAKES TO OCEAN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—A vision of immigrants landing at Great Lakes ports from steamers which left Europe was pictured by Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, who is here today on a tour of inspection.

Caminetti expressed himself in favor of a Great Lakes to the ocean waterway through the St. Lawrence River, and said the landing of immigrants at Great Lakes ports would greatly relieve the congestion that exists in the East. He said another point in favor of the plan was that it would bring the immigrants nearer to the farmlands.

"Since the war," Caminetti said, "immigration has been limited only by the capacity of the ships." He said the United States should have several landing points instead of allowing 85 per cent of the immigrants to enter through Ellis Island.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

RAT GROWS TO WEIGH POUND AND A HALF

Specimen in Kansas Experimental Laboratory Specially Fed to Attain That Size.

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 9.—Manhattan has long been known as a town of large rats; they are raised by serious-minded professors at the Kansas State Agricultural College for experimental purposes.

What is declared to be the largest domestic, or to be more scientific, the largest white albino rat in the United States, is in the possession of the animal husbandry department of the college. The monster rodent is being used in an experiment in heredity of size, carried out by H. L. Isben, professor of genetics, to determine how size is inherited by animals, and what factors and laws govern the extent to which this inheritance in size is reproduced in the offspring.

When the rat was obtained from J. C. Hughes, of the chemistry department, it weigher 515 grams, at the age of 14 months. This giant of the rat tribe had enjoyed this unusual growth on a ration consisting chiefly of whites of eggs. It attained its maximum weight, 633 grams or approximately one and one-half pounds, while in the genetics laboratory, at the age of 21 months and was duly christened "White Elephant" by Dr. Hughes and his students. White Elephant was mated to one female, and is now the proud father of 69 living offsprings; several of his sturdy sons, now about eight months old, averaging close to 500 grams, which is considerably larger than the average rate maturity. He also boasts of more than 100 grandchildren. All of his sons and daughters are noted for their heavyweight propensities.

The largest white albino rat of which the genetics department previously had any record is one "Goliath," the largest of 30,000 rats raised by Dr. Helen Dean King of Philadelphia, an authority on rats, and known throughout the scientific world for her successful experiments in breeding, carried on with these animals. Goliath, in his palmiest days, tipped the beam at 511 grams. White Elephant, who is more than 100 grams heavier, would therefore look upon his contemporary as a very stunted specimen of the albino race.

The White Elephant's present menu calls for tankage, corn meal, casen, bone ash, alfalfa and butterfat.

Saltiest Lake.

CALGARY, Canada.—A salt lake, believed to be the saltiest in the world, has been discovered by geologists at Senlac, Sask., 180 miles northeast of Calgary. The lake, with an area of 185 acres, and only 18 inches deep, is fed by living salt springs, and its level is sustained no matter how much is taken out, leading to the belief that the source of supply is inexhaustible. Four wells have already been sunk, one of which shows 53 per cent sale saturation.

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—A high-power wireless station, capable of direct communication with America, will be constructed about 270 miles from Moscow.

BIG EATERS GET KIDENY TROUBLE

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or your back hurts; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

A Home-Made Gray Hair Remedy

You can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look many years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

How other women are solving the milk problem

THOUSANDS of women have discovered in the last few days an unfailing, abundant supply of pure, sweet milk. They have been using Libby's Evaporated Milk, getting it at the neighborhood grocer's—and have been amazed to see how successfully this rich milk takes the place of ordinary milk and cream!

Many a St. Louis family has found that the creamed potatoes tasted unusually rich made with this new milk! Or that the coffee was better than usual, or the custard pie noticeably richer and smoother!

Libby's Evaporated Milk is so rich and creamy itself that it makes everything in which it is used more appetizing.

Fine, rich milk is selected by the Libby experts, from the famous dairying sections of the United States. Then, from this pure, rich milk more than half the moisture is evaporated—but nothing is added. That is why, to reduce Libby's Evaporated Milk back to the consistency of ordinary milk, you add a little more than an equal quantity of water.

For cooking, or wherever you want milk, dilute Libby's Evaporated Milk with an equal quantity of water. For coffee, or wherever you want cream, use Libby's Evaporated Milk undiluted.

For children, dilute Libby's Evaporated Milk with a little more than an equal part of water.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY

Lower Prices on Gardner Cars and the Reason Why

There is no business reason why, but there is a very big sentimental reason—the great American public demands it. Right or wrong they say that the high cost of living must come down. They are impatient. They won't wait for a proper adjustment from the bottom up, but insist that prices on finished articles as well as food and other farm products should be reduced in price—and that at once.

The time for action is here. The Gardner Motor Company has joined with a large number of motor car builders and made a big reduction in the selling price of their product with a view of assisting in the good work at a heavy financial loss to themselves.

In fact—we are willing to co-operate and to run our entire plant if necessary for months at a big sacrifice in an effort to try and bring order out of chaos, keep our organization intact, carry out our contracts dollar for dollar.

We have over Ten Million Dollars worth of merchandise on the way and in over thirty-three years of manufacturing experience we have never repudiated a contract or cancelled one—and we don't want to begin now if we can help it.

Losses must be borne good naturedly and at once, and let us hope that soon "business as usual" will be the slogan everywhere.

There have been no inflated prices in automobiles and it is very unjust to say that certain other companies have unfairly priced their product. I doubt that a single builder has varied very much from the other in computing costs and profits.

As for the GARDNER LIGHT FOUR now listed at our new price of $1,195.00 it will be sold by us at actual cost of production, and I believe that the same can be said of any other makers who have lately reduced their price.

So, Mr. Reader, if you have in mind buying an automobile any time soon it behooves you to get busy at once. You can feel absolutely sure that "bed rock" has been reached on the GARDNER LIGHT FOUR and no further reductions can be or will be made.

The GARDNER LIGHT FOUR is not a war product and the old price included only a very modest profit. We confidently assert that the new price is now so low, that we furnish the best 100% of motor car value on the market today.

Never a corn
on millions of feet nowadays

Do you know that millions of people who use Blue-jay keep entirely free from corns?

If a corn appears it is ended by a touch. A Blue-jay plaster or a drop of liquid Blue-jay is applied.

The corn pain stops. Soon the whole corn loosens and comes out.

The method is scientific. It is gentle, easy, sure. Old-time harsh treatments are supplanted by it with everyone who knows it.

It is made by a world-famed laboratory, which every physician respects.

It is now applied to some 20 million corns a year. You can see that corn troubles are fast disappearing.

Then why pare corns and keep them? Why use methods which are out-of-date?

Try this new-day method. See what it does to one corn. You will never forget its quick and gentle action. Your druggist sells Blue-jay.

Superfluous Hair Now Removed Roots and All!

(New and Instantaneous Home Method)

A boon to women troubled with superfluous hair is the new phelactine process. It is totally unlike the depilatory, electrical and other methods heretofore employed for the removal of hairy growths. It is the only thing that enables one to remove the hair completely—roots and all—in one's own home, without the assistance of an expert. The result cannot be doubted, for the user sees the hair-roots with her own eyes.

A stick of phelactine, with easy directions, can be had at any drug store. It is entirely harmless (a child could safely eat it), odorless and non-irritating. It is an instantaneous method, and so thorough that the skin is left perfectly smooth and hairless, bearing not the least evidence of its former disfigurement.

THE BEST COUGH SYRUP IS HOME-MADE

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? Thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will soon earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain graunlated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Slpendid for throat ticke, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MOST VOLUMINOUS BILL EVER FRAMED TO COME UP DEC. 5

Measure Codifies Laws of U. S. and Assembles in Groups Scattered Statutes for Every Reference.

DOCUMENT CONTAINS 2,000,000 WORDS

Codification Is First Attempted in 46 Years—Work Done by E. C. Little of Kansas and Assistants.

By CHARLES S. ALBERT,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The most voluminous measure ever presented to a legislative or parliamentary body will be ready for consideration when Congress assembles Dec. 5. A proposition of surpassing importance also is involved. The bill codifies the laws of the United States. It brings under appropriate headings and captions scattered statutes which are bunched for easy reference and study.

Strictly speaking, this is a codification and not a revision of the laws. It is more a matter of proper grouping than the clarification of phraseology or the removal of superfluous words. Nothing has been done in the direction of codification or revision for 46 years. Prominent lawyers and bar associations have urged that this work be taken up, but obstacles of one kind or another always prevented the achievement of such an object.

To Edward Campbell Little of Kansas belongs the chief and almost only honor for the accomplishment of the codification which now is in sight. When made chairman of the House Committee on Revision of the Laws at the opening of the Sixty-sixth Congress he immediately took up the task of codification. He found a small annual appropriation, something like $4000, for salary allowances. The House agreed to give Little $9000 additional and authorized him to work during the long recess of Congress.

Ten Lawyers to Help Him.

As a consequence Little hung his coat on a peg and settled down to spend the warm summer days here in Washington. He segregated from various sections of the country 10 able lawyers, who assisted him in his labors. Here is just how they buckled down to this stupendous undertaking: Chairman Little gets the copy together, coming from 36 statutes at large published since 1874, takes part of it himself and assigns the rest among the other 10 revisers. Each compares the sections he has with the original in the 36 statutes and makes sure it is correct and nothing is omitted. Each calls attention to the sections that are really repealed or executed, and then it goes to another reviser who does the same work again, and it then comes back to Chairman Little, who goes over it again and passes upon the findings and suggestions of the revisers. Repealed and executed law is eliminated. Amendatory sections are combined sometimes with original sections to make one, but the law is retained just as it now stands without change. Appropriation bills and private legislation have no place in this code, which is confined to general and permanent law.

Bills Classified Under Titles.

The chairman himself then undertakes the final task of codification. He takes, for example, the riders on appropriation and other bills and places them under the titles to which they respectively belong. He assembles all the bills enacted by Congress—for example, everything about the army, and makes it one code of military laws, where the reader can locate everything pertaining to that subject, and does the same for each other title.

In 1874 this House Committee, Benjamin F. Butler of Massachusetts being chairman, prepared a somewhat similar bill, called the Revised Statutes, in which considerable revision and change was made. This bill will not have as much of change and revision as the Revised Statutes, but Col. Little has dwelt more strongly on codification, endeavored to assemble and assimilate under each title everything on that topic, and to make a military code and a naval code and a criminal code, and so on. Thus, it is hoped, the whole will constitute a great Code of Laws and not mere Revised Statutes. The bills in that respect will be quite different, but the general purpose is the same now as it was in 1874, when Luke Poland was chairman of the House Committee and Roscoe Conkling of New York was chairman of the Senate Committee on Revision of the Laws, which put though the Revised Statutes in 1874. Only twice in the history of the country have the laws been thus assembled.

Bill Will Contain 2,000,000 Words.

And here is what Chairman Little and his 10 assistants have to show as the result of their summer's work: The most voluminous measure in history will contain more than 2,000,000 words. It comprises 11,000 sections, divided into 61 titles. This means that the bill runs a trifle more than 1100 pages. All these are of the size and style of the Congressional Record, except that the page is divided into two columns, the spacing is wider and the type smaller.

Nine thousand sections have been sent to the printer, 8983 of which are in print. Of the remaining 2000 sections three-fourths are practically ready for the printer, so that the chairman of the committee is certain the bill will be ready for the December session of Congress, and the months of October and November will be devoted to a careful review of all the work.

In order that this important event—giving the United States its first code—might be preserved for history and future generations, moving picture artists came up to the Capitol and embalmed the scene of bustle and activity. They visualized for the screen Col. Little and his corps of 10 assistants.

Hope of Revision Had Been Abandoned.

It developed that the Senate long ago abandoned all hope of having the laws either revised or codified and dropped its Committee on Revision to save a few dollars. Chairman Little realized this would cause trouble in December after the House passed his bill. There would be no place for its reference in the Senate. So he hustled over and told his troubles to Chairman Nelson of the Senate Judiciary Committee. It was decided to at once rig up a Committee on Revision of the Laws. This was done and the committee comprises Senators Watson, Curtis and Wolcott. These will pass upon the 2,000,000-word bill when it comes over to their end of the big building.

Two large volumes of approximately 550 pages each will contain the codified laws of the United States. This will be such a sizable affair as to make the codes of Justinian and Napoleon seem rather insignificant.

Col. Little originated the idea of having the bill printed the same size and style as the Congressional Record to save heavy bills for reproduction in final form after enactment by Congress. When passed now, nothing remains but to stereotype the various pages and turn out the completed book. This will save a large sum of money for double composition and handling.

Protest by Senator Smoot.

A great cry was raised by Senator Smoot, head of the Joint Committee on Printing, when the bill was introduced and printed in a new and novel fashion. He upbraided Mr. Little and informed him nobody had authority to vary the style of bills. The upshot was that Congress adopted a simple resolution empowering Chairman Little to have his measure printed as originally intended.

This mammoth bill was introduced Sept. 20, 1919. Its main purpose was to simmer down the 36 volumes of statutes at large into a handier and more convenient form. To economize space Chairman Little lopped off the title headings, which enumerate all the subjects contained therein. He abolished the notations at the side, leaving them indicated in large type at the initiation of each item. To make reading easier he divided the page into two columns. It is estimated that at least 20 per cent of space was saved by the omission of chapter headings and notations. No new machinery will be required in issuing the perfected book, because it is the same size as the Record page.

Registered as Calendar No. 181, the precise title of this bill is "To consolidate, codify, revise and re-enact the general and permanent laws of the United States in force March 4, 1919."

Revision in 1874 Cost $100,000.

The cost of preparing the revision of 1874 was $100,000. A commission attempted it from 1897 to 1906, at an expense of nearly $200,000, but the committee, which has reported favorably on this bill so far, declined to present that report of the commission to the House. The chairman states that preparation of the present bill will cost not to exceed $15,000. The original estimates for printing the bill were $85,000.

Some $60,000 of this sum were saved by printing the bill ready for issuance as a book if passed by Congress.

Reluctantly speaking of the work which has engrossed his entire attention for more than a year Col. Little said:

"This code will be the most extended in existence and, as it is the laws of the greatest country, it will be the most important code ever presented to the bench and bar anywhere in the world. During the progress of the work I discovered fallacies in the interpretation of former legislation which have now been corrected and which have saved $298,500 for the public treasury, besides reducing what would have been the expense of publication by $70,000. The work of preparing this bill has therefore saved the country 10 times as much as the bill will cost, a feature of which we are particularly proud in these days.

"Most of the time for 15 months the work has pushed at my heels so that I have hardly had a moment's rest. It is the hardest job I ever had and I don't ever want to have to attempt another as difficult."

As for himself, Representative Little has been practicing law since 1886. He is 60 years old and is serving his second term in the House as a Republican from the Second Kansas district. As a side line Col. Little has found time to take a turn in diplomacy and do some soldiering. He was diplomatic agent to Egypt in the Harrison administration and, going with Funston to the Philippines as Lieutenant-Colonel of the 20th Kansas Volunteers, attained renown as a fighting man.

In between times Col. Little has contributed sketches to the magazines. One was illustrated by Remington. Richard Harding Davis dedicated to him his "Rulers of the Mediterranean."

"EVERYMAN" PRODUCED BY REINHARDT IN OPEN AIR

Performance Gives Rise to Rumors of an Oberammergau for Germany.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Berlin's theatrical season has started, but the most interesting news, writes the Observer correspondent, comes from Reinhardt's home in Salzburg, where he has organized an open-air performance of the old miracle play, "Everyman," in Hugo von Hoffmanstal's setting. Von Hoffmanstal may be best known as the writer of the words for Richard Strauss' operas.

"Everyman" was performed in the square in front of the old catheural, and reality and illusion were transfused as never before under the Reinhardt regime.

Save when Christian Faith in the cobalt blue robes of a Raphael Madonna emerged from the cathedral portals to the sudden swell of the organ, the players arose in turn from among the audience who watched Everyman's mother, a weazened old woman, hobble across the big square they themselves had crossed before they gained their seats. And cathedral bells tolled for the mock death of an actor. Fanfares sounded flourishes from the steeple, and the organ and orchestra in the dome accompanied the action.

This performance has given rise to the wildest rumors of a proposed Oberammergau for Germany, or at least a Bayreuth for the dramatic stage, where Reinhardt's genius can have full play.

Just think of getting a Brand New Player-Piano for $495

You are often asked to pay that much for a Used Player! We are almost "giving them away"—but we must get the floor space they are occupying. The men engaged in remodeling our building are much delayed in their work by reason of the lack of room for them to work in—so we must clear off the balance of this carload of New Player-Pianos at once, hence this almost-give-away price of $495.

We also have a number of Used Pianos and Players on our floors that we must dispose of at once. Some are merely shopworn, some have been used as demonstrators, and still others have been turned in for allowance on the purchase price of a new instrument. Every one of these has been put in good condition by our experts, and is a big value at its sale price.

A Complexion Worth Having

A Velvety Skin and Crystal Clear Complexion—Pimples and Such Blemishes Gone—This Is the Story of Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

If you will look closely at a wonderfully beautiful skin, and observe its soft, delicate texture, you will see the pink capillary blood tinting the cheeks. And there you see what is produced when your skin has been cleansed with Stuart's Calcium Wafers.

You will be delighted to see the wonderful change that so often takes place after using these wafers.

Pimples, blotches, liver spots, blackheads, muddy complexion and such kinds of impurities gather in the skin because it is one of the natural outlets of the body. But if you supply it with the proper materials it will convert the poisons into a harmless substance and pass off in the natural perspiration instead of ugly accumulations.

Get a 60-cent box today of Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store and then you may count on a complexion worth having.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can't get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

U. R. CAR DISPLAYS POSTERS WARNING AGAINST ACCIDENTS

Exhibit Prepared by Pupils Points Out Heavy Cost of Carelessness — New and Old Cars Shown.

VARIETY OF TRAFFIC MISHAPS DISCUSSED

Dangers Common in Homes Also Represented — Cars With Exhibit to Be Parked Throughout City.

The United Railways Co. has equipped one of its outing cars with an exhibit of artistic posters and other data, prepared for the most part by pupils in St. Louis schools, on accidents and their cause and result, as a pointed warning to pedestrians and vehicle drivers of the uselessness and great economic waste of carelessness. The car was parked last week with the old and new models of transit cars of the company in Twelfth street, between Olive and Locust streets, and will be placed for exhibition in other parts of the city as part of the safety first campaign of the Central Mississippi Valley Division of the National Safety Council.

While standing in Twelfth street the exhibit was viewed by hundreds of persons daily, most of whom appeared deeply impressed by the warnings against the danger of accident ever at hand in a large city.

996 Accidents in August.

The seats have been removed from the car and the posters and placards arranged along both sides of a rack extending the length of the car and along its sides. At the front entrance is an interesting map in which are pushpins and thumb tacks showing the number of accidents and fatalities in August. There were 996 accidents in that month, in which 400 persons were injured and property damage amounting to approximately $60,697. Eight of the injuries were fatal. A card near the map shows 5011 accidents and 116 deaths, the latter being compiled as follows:

Automobiles	60
Industiral	24
Railroad	18
Street cars	11
Motor cycles	3
Total	116

Almost every kind of accident that could happen in traffic is touched upon either in the posters or on placards, in all of which gross carelessness is shown as the underlying cause. Employes of the company distribute copies of the traffic ordinances, rules and regulations and pamphlet warnings to guide the reader safely through the maze of ever increasing vehicle traffic.

Attractive Posters Displayed.

One of the ingeniously designed posters represents the wheel of fortune, familiar to frequenters of amusement parks. On the poster, Mephistopheles, in civilian attire, is represented before his kewpie dolls, which are labeled death, disability, sorrow, etc., and bearing numbers corresponding with numbers on the wheel in spaces labeled carelessness, recklessness, etc., with alluring attitude and smile urging the guileless to play his game. But the caption of the poster warns: "Do not take a chance on this wheel of mis-fortune."

Other posters show boys and girls in hazardous situations from roller-skating, sleighing and playing games in the streets while traffic is passing; boys stealing rides on wagons and street cars; women in the home slipping on small rugs on waxed floors, and using rocking chairs to hang articles on the walls where stepladders should be used; turning on electric lights with wet hands, and a variety of other causes of accidents in the home.

"One good leg is worth a woodpile of crutches."

"High heels and pride go before a fall."

"Walk safe, drive safe, play safe."

500,000 SAVED BY NEAR EAST RELIEF FUND, SECRETARY SAYS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—At least half a million persons are living today in the Near East who would have perished had it not been for relief sent from America, Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, told the Executive Committee of that organization here Thursday. He recently returned from an extensive inspection trip through Armenia and other countries of the Caucasus, where the Near East relief operates.

Summarizing the financial operations of the organization, Vickrey reported $41,000,000 had been collected and administered, and the contributions of flour by the United States Grain Corporation, he said, brought the total to "considerably in excess of $50,000,000."

"This entire operation," he declared, answering recent charges of dishonesty among employes, "has been handled without the loss of so much as $1 through dishonesty on the part of any of our 528 officially accredited American representatives."

The Doctor's Advice

By Dr. Lewis Baker

"Ray" writes: "Can a sufferer from bronchial trouble be relieved? Doctors do not seem to help me. What would you suggest?"

Answer: To cure chronic cold, sore throat and bronchitis I would advise the use of concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene. Purchase this at any drug store in 2½-oz. packages and mix according to directions given on bottle and you will very shortly be relieved. This will not only relieve, but will correct, and is very pleasant to take.

"M. R. B." writes: "Will you please tell a poor thin little girl how to become plump and healthy?"

Answer: Hypo-Nuclane tablets are designed to enrich the blood, improve nutrition and increase weight.

"O. K. Now" writes: "About a year ago I followed your advice to cure dandruff and stop my hair from falling out. You advised plain Yellow Minyol, and after I had tried many expensive treatments in vain, this Minyol quickly and permanently did the work." I wish every one could know how good it is. I owe you a debt of gratitude, etc."

"Artistic" writes: "I must write you to tell how grateful I am. As per your letter I began the use of Arbolone tablets to reduce and was successful beyond my hopes. I feel so relieved and thankful."

"Mrs. M. B." writes: "Have been doctoring for kidney trouble and now want your advice. Backache affects me dreadfully. Can hardly move when I awake in the morning. Weakness, too, is a symptom."

Answer: I think if you will take Balmwort Tablets regularly for a few weeks your kidneys and bladder will become normal and such symptoms vanish. This is unequaled for such complaints, in my estimation.

Postcard From Dead Sister.

BROCKTON, Mass.—Like a message from the dead was the card received recently through the mail by Mrs. Martin F. Lunn. It was from her sister who died more than three years ago in Milford. Just when the card was written, Mrs. Lunn is unable to ascertain. The postmark "Milford, Feb." can be made out, but the part indicating the date has been obliterated by a Boston cancellation stamp of the present month. That the card was written during the war is indicated, as it bore a 2-cent stamp.

No Fear Now of Indigestion

A Host of People Seem to Thrive on What Used to Provoke Indigestion Before They Learned of Stuart's Dysepsia Tablets.

When the stomach becomes sour, with gassiness and heartburn due to indigestion or dyspepsia relief may be had by one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Simply chew them, no hot water nor any other fillers for a stomach perhaps already too much overcrowded.

These tablets supply to the stomach the alkaline effect which is what relieves the sour acid condition. They also contain pancreatin to help digest the starchy foods such as potatoes, rice, oatmeal, white flour, etc.

Get a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, have them on hand at all times and thus have no fear of indigestion or dyspepsia.

The fact that these tablets are on sale everywhere in the U. S. and Canada shows how generally recognized they are as an efficient aid when the dyspeptic stomach needs a little help.

CAMPAIGN TO LINE UP WOMEN VOTES LIVELY IN SOUTH

Party Leaders in North Carolina Estimate 90 Per Cent Will Register — Other States Follow Closely.

ACTIVITY SPURRED BY FEAR OF NEGRO VOTE

Each Side Charges Other With Sending Anonymous Letter to Negroes Urging Them to Exercise Rights.

By Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 9.—North Carolina Republicans and Democrats are trying to register all women entitled to vote under the Federal amendment for the November election, and it is estimated that 90 per cent will enroll. The time for registration is short, but a great deal will be accomplished within the next two weeks. There is no disposition anywhere to confine the voting in this State to men.

In South Carolina and Florida similar conditions prevail. Those states have not progressed as rapidly as Virginia and North Carolina, but leaders there predict that a very large percentage of the women will be on the books before they close.

Several reasons are given for the great activity of the Southern politicians in enrolling women. A desire to swell the vote of approval of the Wilson administration; the fear of negro women, where they are demanding the ballot; to make as good showing as possible in the total vote cast in order to thwart any plans Republicans may have for reducing Southern representation in Congress.

Appeal to Negro Women.

Within the last 10 days thousands of copies of an anonymous letter claiming to speak for "The Colored Women's Rights Association," were mailed from Greensboro. Most of these communications were addressed to negroes. Democrats charged the Republican State Central Committee sent the letter from its headquarters at Greensboro.

Some Republican leaders asserted that this letter was a Democratic trick to revive the race issue and arouse their apathetic supporters.

A report to the effect that Mrs. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, a Boston negress who conducts a school for negro girls at Sedalia, 10 miles south of Greensboro, was behind "The Colored Women's Rights Association," and was responsible for the letter, was denied by her.

Widespread publicity given this letter served to exercise Democratic leaders and make them double their efforts to get the women who are likely to affiliate with them registered.

Mrs. T. W. Bickett, wife of the Governor of North Carolina, has issued an appeal to the women of the State.

On the other side, Mrs. Mary Settle Sharpe, Republican nominee for Superintendent of Public Instruction, urges the women to go to the polls and vote for the party—her party—that gave them the vote.

Whites Outnumber Negroes.

There is no real apprehension of any negro domination in North Carolina because of the negro woman voter. The percentage of white women registering far exceeds that of the blacks. Negro school teachers are taking advantage of woman suffrage to register, but there is no danger of overcoming the white majorities in any counties.

North Carolina is safely Democratic. The present outlook is for 10 Democratic Congressmen, a large majority for Cox, and the re-election of Senator Overman. Democratic leaders there say that the talk of a Republican majority from the State by Will H. Hays and other leading Republicans is all bosh. They see no sign of a break in the Democratic ranks.

North Carolina has approximately 128,000 white male Republicans. The Democratic majority ordinarily is 30,000 to 40,000. Republican leaders assert that their women voters will exceed the men. Democrats believe they will have 50,000 more women on the registration books than the Republicans.

Cotton and tobacco producers who are receiving lower prices for their crops this year, are wrought up over what they describe as the "disinclition" of Secretary Houston or Gov. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board to send money to the South to "help the farmer get more for his products," but there is no sign it will change any votes.

Southern Politicians Find Woman Suffrage Bitter Pill.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 9.—Southern politicians are embarrassed and confused by woman suffrage. They consider it a bitter pill that must be taken without delay. For several weeks after Tennessee ratified they resisted, hoping to find some way out of a bad situation, but they now realize that they must register their women or stand a chance of being defeated at the polls.

Democratic party workers are especially upset over the sudden effectiveness of the nineteenth amendment, for they see in it a serious danger to a domination that has existed most of the years since the Civil War. Their supremacy at the polls is threatened if they permit the Republicans to vote the new element in politics while they hold back.

In many instances in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Louisiana Democratic Registrars of the old anti-suffrage school have resigned their jobs rather than register women. In Virginia communities, where woman suffrage was unpopular, party leaders have found it difficult to convince their Registrars that it might prove fatal to their interests to neglect or ignore the women.

The argument of Southern partisans against woman suffrage to the effect that it would revive the negro issue at the ballot box is proving to be well founded here. In the city of Richmond prominent negroes are trying to register 8500 of their women. It is insisted that these negresses, many of whom are well educated and property owners, are entitled to the ballot and should not be deprived of it.

A majority of the purely Southern states would bar women from the polls if they dared, although the suffrage amendment has been ratified, but, finding that impossible, the politicians are now busy registering their wives, sisters and daughters to prevent any mishaps at the ballot box that might give opponents the advantage in the coming election.

Republicans are more hospitable to the new voter than the Democrats, for any change from the old order of things might improve their position.

Nation=wide Demonstration Sale of Pathe Phonographs and Pathe Records

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

TOMORROW morning a sale of phonographs and phonograph records will be opened in this store, the character and magnitude of which is more far-reaching than has ever before been attempted in the history of music.

This is a sale which will be ultimately carried out in approximately one hundred of the principal cities of the United States.

It is a move on the part of the Pathe Freres Phonograph Company of New York City, manufacturers, and the retail dealers in Pathe Phonographs and Records, to bring the excellence of these instruments and records directly, forcefully and immediately to the close and intimate attention of music-loving persons, under a plan which offers exceptional advantages to the purchaser.

The main reason for this Sale

This most unusual sale is a campaign to more directly demonstrate and thoroughly introduce Pathe Phonographs and Pathe Records to the people. It is the purpose of the manufacturers, through this attractive sale and plan, to get twenty thousand more American homes right at this time to know and use and praise and boost Pathe Phonographs and Pathe Records. And to accomplish this monumental piece of business enterprise, it is the purpose of the manufacturers to ultimately carry out this great nation-wide demonstration in one hundred of this country's principal cities.

Every one of the vast number of instruments required, running well into millions of dollars; every statement made, and every condition of sale accorded the purchaser, will be identical. The persons who are so fortunate as to obtain the phonographs we have been allotted, will be given the same price to a penny, and the same conditions and guarantees as the persons in New York City, San Francisco and every other city where this campaign may be carried on.

Origin of the Pathe—and what is back of it

It is an American Company, with its principal factory located at New York City, and is a part of the world-famous European firm of Pathe Freres, which is this year celebrating its twenty-fifth year in the phonograph industry.

Pathe Freres (Pathe Brothers) are French scientists and inventors, and are, today, probably the most distinguished authorities on matters pertaining to tone reproduction. They are the inventors of innumerable devices in the fields of radio wireless telegraphy, the motion picture industry and the phonograph.

The Pathe Rooster shown herewith, which is the Pathe trade-mark, is one of the most widely-known trade-marks known to man. In the United States alone, it is estimated that ten million persons see it weekly on screens of international events shown in the Pathe News at motion picture houses.

And it is this same Rooster, this same great symbol of business honor and enterprise, that we wish, through the medium of this unusual demonstration sale, to more thoroughly introduce to the people.

Conditions of the Sale

FIRST—

The phonograph offered in this sale is the 1921 genuine Pathe Phonograph Model No. 10, 43 inches high, 20½ inches wide and 20½ inches deep, as shown in cut, in mahogany, walnut or oak, 5-ply, absolutely the most substantial cabinet construction on the market today, equipped with:

One indestructible genuine Pathe Sapphire Ball (full-tone) and one indestructible genuine Pathe Sapphire Ball (half-tone) for playing Pathe Records.

One Universal tone arm and sound box for playing all makes of records.

One hundred steel needles.

Ten Pathe Record Selections (five $1.00 double-faced records) to be selected by the purchaser.

SECOND—

The total price for this entire outfit is $155.

THIRD—

You may pay as little as $5 in making your first or initial payment. THE BALANCE MAY BE PAID IN WEEKLY OR MONTHLY PAYMENTS EXTENDING OVER ONE YEAR.

FOURTH—

This equipment, including the five records (ten selections), will be delivered to your home immediately upon receipt of your initial payment. Freight or express charges will be prepaid in accord with the rules of the Associated Retailers.

FIFTH—

The Pathe Phonograph included in this sale is guaranteed for one year, both the manufacturers and ourselves agreeing to replace any defective parts without charge during this period. Written guarantee to this effect furnished with each Phonograph.

SIXTH—

Privilege will be given to all purchasers to exchange this instrument for any higher-priced Pathe Phonograph at any time within six months, we agreeing to allow the purchaser full credit for every dollar paid up to the time the exchange is made.

ONLY U. S. AID CAN SAVE EUROPE, OBSERVER SAYS

Edward A. Filens Finds International Co-Operation Will Remedy Most of Troubles.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Edward A. Filene, former chairman of the War Shipping Commission, reported to the Chamber of Commerce today his observations during a four months' tour of the war-ridden countries of Europe, except Russia. In all, with the exception of England, he found conditions which could be remedied, he said, only by international co-operation in which the United States should take a part.

France, he found, "torn by conflicting emotions—a desire to secure the indemnity which she needs and a fear lest in permitting Germany to gain the economic power necessary to pay the indemnity she would create a rival who would later crush her."

In Germany, Filene said, there was "generally an agreement that until the indemnity was fixed no real progress toward German industrial reconstruction could be made." He quoted Herr Boyer, the Prussian Secretary of State, and an unnamed "important official connected with the German foreign office" as expressing the belief "France was deliberately trying to make it impossible for Germany to recuperate."

Unemployment Increasing.

Reporting on a study of industrial and labor conditions which he made in Germany, Filene said he found the number of unemployed had grown extraordinarily since May, and was increasing. Dr. Breitzchied, an Independent Socialist member of the Reichstag, discussing political conditions in Germany with Filene, was quoted as saying that Russian Bolshevist leaders are trying by all means possible to get control of the German radicals.

The speaker reviewed recent industrial disturbances in Italy, some of which occurred while he was on the ground, and said the present situation in Italy is "dominated by the organized workers, and the Government, if it wishes to survive, can do little more than follow where the Radicals are leading." Coal is Italy's greatest present need, he said.

Austria "Doomed to Die."

Filene referred to Austria as "a country apparently doomed to die," because it is not self supporting and is "ringed about by small treaty-made republics who are trying to establish themselves and from which Austria can hope for little help. He related instances of suffering in Vienna because of lack of food and fuel and said that city appeared doomed.

The Czecho-Slovak republic, he described as having "nearly all that the present Austria has not." Although required by the terms of the peace treaty to furnish Austria with large quantities of coal, Herr Stampf, the coal expert of the Ministry of Public Works, told Filene "labor troubles had limited their output and their own sugar refineries were getting preferential treatment." The principal industrial problem of the new republic is one of credit, according to the speaker.

England is more prosperous than any of the European nations, Filene said. He got the impression there, Englishmen are "willing to do all they can to get every nation at work again at soon as possible."

which has been bad at best, but they, too, find it difficult to get used to the Suffragist, and her way of playing politics.

In Virginia, hard-boiled party leaders, who are ambitious to retain office or prestige, are warming up to the woman voter. The last Democratic State convention voted against ratification. The Suffragists charge they were refused a hearing, and otherwise insulted. But, now that the ratification proclamation has been made, Democratic candidate are calling for help. Republican H. D. Flood, of the Tenth District, hard-pressed by his opponent, is asking for Suffragist speakers.

Richmond Storm Center.

Richmond is the storm center of the suffrage movement in the Old Dominion. More than 6000 women have registered and thousands of others are clamoring to register. On Sept. 25 negresses registering outnumbered whites. On that day 103 registered.

J. R. Pollard, a leading negro lawyer of Richmond, is very much interested in registering the women.

"Our women," said he, "are eager to do something to help the schools provided for negro children. They are not interested in politics except to improve their condition as citizens.

"One school for colored children in Richmond was opened in an old abandoned tobacco warehouse in a red light district. That is the sort of thing we should change.

"For months we have been coaching the educated negro women of Richmond to have them ready for this very proposition. We have 8500 to register and vote in this city. I do not know what success we will have in getting them on the books. Under the centralization registration plan they may be barred by the time limit while white women register."

HUSBAND WANTED "SIX MONTHS' VACATION FROM MARRIED LIFE"

Wife Testifies He Woke Her at 2 A. M. to Tell Her That She "Held Him Back."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Alice Key Stevens, wife of Washington Lewis Stevens, whose family founded the Stevens Institute in Hoboken, and who is the son of Col. Edwin A. Stevens of that city, testified in the Supreme Court, where her suit for separation is on trial, that her husband awakened her at 2 a. m. in their apartment in the Hotel Martinique to tell her that he wanted a six months' vacation from married life.

Mrs. Stevens testified that she was married to her husband in New York June 3, 1918, while he was on a furlough from Camp Jackson, where he was a reserve Lieutenant. She told of living with him about a month at Camp Jackson, and then of meeting him at Kansas City in October of that year, and later of being with him at Camp Kearney in California.

They met again in New York on Jan. 1, 1919, she said, and engaged rooms at the Martinique. Fifteen days later, she said, he woke her up to tell her that she "held him back" and that he needed some freedom. She declared that as far as her husband's home life was concerned he did not need a rest from her, "as it was his custom to return home at 2 a. m., drink cocktails and attend dinner and theater parties."

Hospital Concert and Ball Oct. 25.

The auxiliary board of the St. Louis Children's Hospital will meet at the hospital at 11 a. m. tomorrow to perfect plans for the concert and ball which will be given at Moolah Temple, Tuesday, Oct. 26. In addition to the ball, the auxiliary board this year will give a concert. Rosa Ponselle, the prima donna, will be the artist. A ballet will be a feature.

Bergdoll's Auto Reported Found.

PEMBINA, N. D., Oct. 9.—An automobile abandoned in St. Vincent, Minn., last spring, is the car used by Grover Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft evader, in escaping into Canada, according to Federal officials working on the case here. Four pistols and two bottles of whisky were found in the car which has been shipped to Philadelphia.

Home Face Peeling Becomes Popular

No complexion treatment yet discovered seems to have become so generally and so immediately popular as the mercolized wax process. Evidently the reason is that this method actually gets rid of a bad complexion, which can hardly be said of any other. To temporarily hide or bleach the defective skin with cosmetics cannot compare with the effect of literally removing the skin itself. Mercolized wax takes off the offending surface skin in flour-like particles, a little at a time, until there's none of it left. The new complexion thus produced exhibits a healthy glow and girlish beauty obtainable in no other way. This wax, which you can get at your druggist's, is applied at night in the same way you use cold cream, and washed off next morning.

Here is one thing that actually does remove wrinkles, and remove them quickly: Powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Use as a face wash.

Beautiful Women of Society, during the past seventy years have relied upon it for their distinguished appearance. The soft, refined, pearly white complexion it renders instantly, is always the source of flattering comment.

478 PER CENT GAIN IN STATE VEHICLE TRADE IN 5 YEARS

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 9.—Missouri manufacturing, assembling, reconstruction and repair work of automobiles, power trucks, carriages, wagons, buggies and all other vehicles in the year 1919, had a total factory worth of $84,114,761, as against $17,591,023 for the output of 1914. This is the information imparted in a Bureau of Labor Statistics bulletin, constituting advance information from the 1920 Missouri Industrial "Red Book," promulgated today by Commissioner W. H. Lewis, excerpts from which follows:

"Included in these figures are the total values of all the vehicle bodies, tops, accessories and supplies manufactured in the State during the years considered. The gain in worth of this Missouri industry in five years was 478 per cent.

"When the allied industries included in the general classification which forms the subject of this treatise are analyzed it reveals that manufacturing of carriages, wagons, buggies and other horse-drawn vehicles has taken an extremely back seat, according to activities of 1919 as compared with those of 1914. But this loss is more than made up by the huge gains in number and worth of automobiles, trucks and similar power transportation conveyances manufactured, assembled and reconstructed last year in Missouri.

Increase in Manufacture.

"Missouri has not as many automobile manufacturing establishments as have some other states but the number increases year after year. Several large Eastern manufacturers now have assembling plants in St. Louis and Kansas City which employ many hundred workers, and to which they ship automobiles to be assembled and put together here to supply their trade west of the Mississippi River.

Missouri's huge power and horse-drawn vehicle industry, all manufacturing, assembling, reconstructing and the larger repairing establishments, in 1919 employed 10,554 salaried and wage-earning men and women. The total amount paid for their services reached $9,981,274 as compared to $5,031,955 to 6635 employes in 1914.

"The capital invested jumped from $10,229,797, the year 1914, to $19,612,527 for 1919.

The automobiles and power trucks manufactured, assembled and reconstructed in Missouri in 1919 alone had a total worth of $62,203,177. This branch of the State's vehicle industry gave employment to 2910 workers that year, 2803 being men and youths and 107 women and girls. They drew $2,932,911 for their 1919 services. The capital invested in 1919 in this division of the vehicle industry was $7,480,120.

St. Louis is and has always been the chief seat of Missouri's vehicle industry, even before the advent of automobiles and trucks, but Kansas City, Springfield, St. Joseph, Hannibal, Moberly, Jefferson City and Sedalia materially contributed to swell to huge proportions the 1919 total worth of this line of manufacturing, assembling, reconstructing and repairing.

"The worth of power trucks and automobiles manufactured, assembled and reconstructed in St. Louis in 1919 was $37,987,874. The establishments considered in this treatise, prepared by Supervisor of Statistics Edmonston, employed 2239 workers, divided between 2136 men and youths and 103 women and girls. The wages and salaries paid that year totaled $1,821,370. The capital invested in the St. Louis plants, this division of the industry, totaled $5,134,675.

"The worth of manufacturing, assembling and reconstructing automobiles and power trucks in Kansas City in 1919 reached $24,215,303. The establishments considered employed 671 workers, four being women, and this host that year drew $1,111,541 in wages and salaries

"Missouri manufacturing in 19 including bodies, tops, acces and supplies for automobiles, truc carriages, wagons and buggies, a total worth of $6,613,747 and g employment to 1894 workers,

OUR BIG OFFER

Catarrh ENDED OR GET YOUR MONEY BACK

What if a specialist in catarrhal afflictions, a real physician of character and integrity, should offer to relieve you of catarrh, or nothing to pay?

You would jump at the chance. Of course you would. You would be foolish if you didn't.

And now that the makers of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me), say to you that Hyomei will end catarrh, or that you can have your money back, what are you going to do? Are you going to be prejudiced and narrow minded just because the offer is not made by a physician?

Are you going to continue to suffer with snuffles, crusts in the nose, watery eyes, mucous in the throat, and all the annoying and distressing conditions that accompany catarrh, when Hyomei will satisfy you or money back?

Do you know what Hyomei is? Let us tell you; it is composed chiefly of eucalyptus obtained from the eucalyptus trees of inland Australia where catarrh, asthma, croup and hay fever are practically unknown.

Pour a few drops of Hyomei into the hard rubber inhaler (same as illustration) and you can then breathe into the lungs the germ-killing antiseptics you would breathe in the Australian forests of pine and eucalyptus.

And Hyomei is so pleasant to use; you'll like to use it; when you breathe it in it has such a soothing, healing effect on the inflamed and germ ridden membrane. In five minutes you get such wonderful relief that you know that at last you have help.

And besides catarrh remember that Hyomei is guaranteed to relieve asthma, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds, sore throat and hay fever, or money back. Hyomei is sold by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and leading druggists everywhere.

THE GENIUS OF WALTHAM

THE war is over. But there are some of us who will never forget. They, also, who go down to the sea in ships, have long memories. Let us keep them company and take a "sight" through the periscope of Time.

Darkness! The kind of darkness that you feel. In the midst of the Stygian gloom, a little ship, one of Uncle Sam's destroyers. On guard! Somewhere off the coast of France. "Somewhere" is a good word for a night like this.

Add to the black murk a cutting wind with an icy edge to it, a blare of angry waters, and you get a mixture you wouldn't like to prescribe for any man's comfort. But war is only another name for duty. That's why this little destroyer is smashing into the thick of it. And doing a good job, too.

And somewhere aboard that throbbing, panting, leaping ship is a clock. "The ship's chronometer," the navigating officer calls it. But to gob and officer alike it is a symbol of home. For right there across its shining face is a familiar name — Waltham — a name that is as much a token of Uncle Sam being on the job night and day as the good ship under them. But that's the other part of our story —

Time, in navigation, is as important as the sun and the stars. A reliable chronometer can always be seen in the Chart Room, but the sun does not always shine in the heavens. Small wonder, then, that the chief officer of a ship is so finicky over this timepiece. He guards it, he watches it, he prizes it, above all his possessions. It reckons for him the sea-miles when he has no other reckoning. It is the one friend he can depend upon when the elements league their cyclonic powers of wind and fog and storm against him.

NOW the history of the chronometer is more or less a fanciful record of European supremacy. This tradition of the sea had it that the only reliable chronometer was one made either in England or on the continent. But many a tradition has been scrapped by necessity, and this is one of them. And any sailor-man will tell you that tradition in the Navy is as hard to overcome as a United States battleship stripped for action. But wait —

When war was declared there were not enough foreign chronometers to go around. Here was the American craftsman's chance, for which he had been waiting a long, long time. The Navy Department, in the vernacular, was up against it. "Chronometers! Oh, for some chronometers!" was the cry. So the Waltham Watch Company was called upon. "Can you supply the Navy with chronometers?" "Certainly! How many?" The order was given and with Yankee dispatch promptly filled. Indeed, Waltham eventually supplied more chronometers during the war than all other makes combined.

Then it was that the Waltham Chronometer went to sea and shattered forever the cherished tradition of foreign chronometer supremacy by standing up under conditions of war that often put the alien chronometer out of business. And they stood up so consistently that prejudiced old salts in verbal and written praise saluted the performances of this American Keeper of Time upon the Sea.

FOR instance — imagine an instrument keeping the closest time in a subchaser, head on in a stormy sea. Every unit of the little ship shaking like a leaf. Straining, twisting, being buffeted, beaten. Now, hurled to the crest of a giant wave; anon, plunging like a stricken bird into a yawning pit of swirling water; sometimes lifted bodily, then crashed down like a toy thrown from the hand of a giant — and every moment that delicately adjusted but sturdy Waltham Chronometer ticking the fleeting seconds, unconcerned except with the business of keeping time — correct time, for the gallant lads who put their trust in this Watch Over Time while they keep their watch above or below deck.

This was the acid test. But when we stop to think of it, Waltham had been preparing for over seventy years for our country's emergency — because of Waltham invention in watch making, because of advancement unto advancement in the art of developing timekeeping mechanisms, and those miracle-working machines that cannot be found or duplicated elsewhere in all the world, giving America precedence in this important industry. This, we believe, was true preparedness; this was Waltham's pride and honor, in vindicating the sinew and ability of American Industry in war's fiery challenge, as no less the Waltham Watch has sustained American supremacy at the great Expositions in times of peace.

WE should be remiss if we forgot the mighty dead — those sons of genius who labored long years in Waltham laboratories for the glory of America, — Charles Van de Woerd, Duane H. Church, Charles Whitney, John Logan and others. "They rest from their labors, but their works do follow them." And no less those master American mechanics, Marsh and Ohlson (the inventor of the Waltham Time Fuse), who are still adding lustre to the fame of the American Waltham Watch all over the world

As Americans we should have long memories. It is inspiring to review the past. We have much to elate us, to help us "carry on," to produce more and still more, to supply the world with the work of our brains and hands. For in labor, well and cheerfully done, is our health, wealth and happiness.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others, who took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. Wolff-Wilson Co. has been appointed agent for Allenrhu in this vicinity, with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money on the first two bottles to all who state they received no benefit.

478 PER CENT GAIN IN STATE VEHICLE TRADE IN 5 YEARS

vided between 1828 male and 66 female. They drew $1,954,217 in wages and salaries that year.

"St. Louis also is Missouri's chief center for the manufacturing of vehicle bodies, tops, accessories and supplies. The 1919 output of this city had a total factory value of $6,234,337. The St. Louis branch of the vehicle industry in 1919 gave employment to 1799 workers, 59 being women. They were paid $1,803,585 for the time they put in and the work they did.

Horse-Drawn Vehicles.

"Missouri manufacturing in 1919 of carriages, wagons, buggies and other horse-drawn vehicles had a total worth of $6,186,631. The sum paid in salaries and wages to 1485 workers reached $1,664,034.

"St. Louis, alone, in the year 1919, manufactured horse-drawn vehicles to the value of $4,273,137 and paid to workers still following this industry $910,213.

"Missouri's 1919 repair work, the larger establishments, automobiles, power trucks and all horse-drawn vehicles, had a total worth of $9,111,206. The workers following this line aggregated 4265, consisting of 4094 men and youths and 171 women. Salaries and wages paid to these toilers that year reached $3,430,112.

"It is probably well to say at this point that the coming of automobiles and power trucks has driven out of existence the historic and formerly useful village blacksmiths.

War Interfered in 1918.

"That the Missouri vehicle industry did not hold its own during 1918 is due solely to the United States Government commandeering the larger St. Louis and Kansas City automobile and power truck plants to manufacture war munitions. But even then, that year the worth of the output of all divisions and classifications of Missouri's vehicle industry was $43,414,606. The workers numbered 9903, divided between 9580 men and 323 women and girls. They were paid $7,329,169 in salaries and wages.

"For the year 1917 Missouri's factory worth, the output of all varieties of vehicles, reached $55,331,764. The employed totaled 9951, consisting of 9519 men and youths and 433 women and girls. There was paid in wages and salaries $7,670,810.

"With repairing in the year 1919 added, the total worth of manufacturing, assembling, reconstructing and repairing of power and horse-drawn vehicles in St. Louis was $51,615,114, as compared to $24,633,860 in 1918, and $32,799,513 in 1917. The 222 establishments considered for 1919 gave employment to 6038 workers, consisting of 5771 men and 267 women. The wages and salaries of that year totaled $5,831,139.

"For Kansas City in 1918, 185 establishments considered, the vehicle industry, manufacturing, assembling, reconstruction and repairing included, had a total worth of $27,117,409. The industry gave employment to 2008 workers, consists of 1926 men and youths and 82 women and girls.

Pulverized Shales for Manure.

CHICAGO.—The natural rocks, such as lime, gypsum, phosphate and potash shales, can be made to afford a permanent soil fertility system, according to Dr. William Crocker, professor of plant physiology of the University of Chicago, who addressed delegates meeting to form the associated natural soil fertility resources.

"By employing these natural rocks in a pulverized form, the farmer can readily increase his crop yields," said Dr. Crocker. "Fortunately for American farming, these rocks are "located in abundance where there is greatest need for building up soil fertility."

All Mothers Will Find Use for This Gentle Laxative

IN a growing family the subject of thought with the parents is how to keep the children healthy and happy, and what to do when they become ill. Most illnesses of childhood are the symptoms of constipation, such as headaches, coated tongues, flatulence, dizziness, loss of appetite and sleep, biliousness, etc.

You can surely feel safe in doing what tens of thousands of others do with good results, so give, according to the age of the child, a small quantity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought last year at drug stores. It is America's favorite family remedy for constipation, indigestion and similar ills, and is especially suitable for children, women and old folks as it is so mild and gentle in action.

There is no secret about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. Druggists have sold it for thirty years, and a sixty cent bottle will last for months. Experienced mothers are never without it in the house.

TRY IT FREE

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 513 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois. Everybody now and then needs a laxative, and it is well to know the best. Write me today.

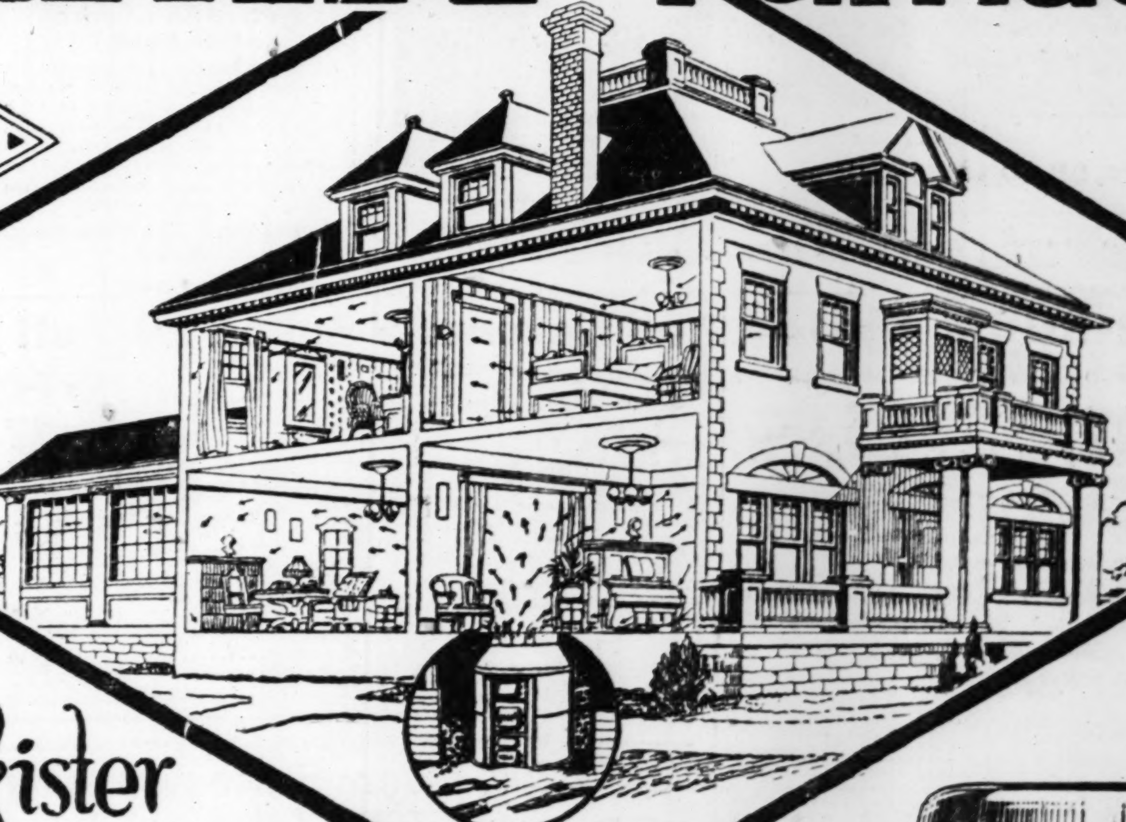
Take off the FAT that spoils your beauty

PROMINENT repulsive fat that comes and stays where it is not needed is a burden; a hindrance to activity, a curb upon pleasure, a thief of all that is pretty and graceful and sweet in womankind. Why don't you take off the fat where it shows? You can do so easily, safely and without the slightest fear of harm or bad after effects, by just taking after each meal and at bedtime a pleasant little Marmola Prescription Tablet. These little tablets are as effective and harmless as the famous prescription from which they take their name, and will reduce fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week. Buy and try them today. Your druggist sells a good sized box for only one dollar, or if you prefer you may send price direct to the Marmola Co., 98 Garfield Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and they will be mailed you at once by parcel post. You can thus say goodbye to dieting, exercise and fat and get back the graceful figure and poise you desire.

Cahill Pipeless Furnaces

CAHILL



One register keeps the whole house warm

FOR old or new houses, churches, schools, factories or stores, the modern method of heating is the pipeless furnace, with its one register heating the whole house. With a minimum of fuel and attention, the Cahill Pipeless Furnace floods every room in the house with a welcome warmth that is uniform in temperature, yet constantly changing and purifying itself. No cold corners. Best of all, this furnace can be installed in a day by one good workman and a helper, without tearing up the walls or causing confusion.

It will pay you to examine the Cahill before deciding upon your heating arrangements. It excels other pipeless furnaces because Cahill castings are better, and castings are the vital parts of a furnace—the parts that come in contact with the fiercest heat. Cahill castings are unusually heavy, thick and carefully finished and fitted, which means that they will wear better than most castings, and require less replacing. Also they will retain heat longer than ordinary castings, thereby saving fuel, requiring less attention, and giving off more uniform comfortable heat. Don't buy a furnace until you have examined the "insides" of a Cahill.

The Cahill Furnace is the result of 40 years manufacturing experience, and embodies the same manufacturing ideals which have given to Cahill Grates and Fireplace Fixtures an enviable reputation for service and dependability.

NOW "CRYING JANE" IS "SMILIN' THROUGH"

Tearful Miss Cowl in Play of That Name—Cohan's "Royal Vagabond" Tonight.

Miss Jane Cowl, whose skill at weeping has enabled her to rejoice in the nickname of "Crying Jane," comes to the Shubert-Jefferson Theater tomorrow night in a play said to be compact of laughter as well as tears. So the title, "Smilin' Through," would seem to indicate. Its competitor for the week is "The Royal Vagabond," a George M. Cohan production, which was one of the most successful musical shows on Broadway last year. It opens tonight at the American.

"Smilin' Through," which ran for 175 performances in New York last year and which comes here from a record-breaking tour on the Pacific Coast, is described as a fantasy of romance and spiritualism, in a prologue and three acts. It is the work of Allan Langdon Martin, a Canadian playwright, and its principal setting, an English garden, has been pronounced one of the most beautiful of Joseph Urban's designs.

The story provides the radiant Miss Cowl with three different roles. First, she is Moonyeen Clare, a maiden of the '60s. Next, she is the phantom of the lovely Moonyeen, who was murdered at the altar by a jealous suitor, and whose spirit returns to haunt the garden where she was happy with her lover. Finally, she is Moonyeen's niece, Kathleen Dungannon, the heroine of a romance of the war. In this triple characterization, Miss Cowl is said to play with a sensitiveness, a flexibility and an eloquence surpassing her performances in "Within the Law," "Lilac Time" and other plays of her past repertory.

Leading Man Has Two Roles.

Orme Caldara, the leading man, has two roles, those of a drunken old father and of a manly young lover. Others of the original cast to be seen here are Ethelbert D. Hales and Elaine Inescort. New recruits, since the play's opening at the Broadhurst Theater, include David Torrence, Augusta Haviland, Charles Hampden and Lalive Brownwell.

"The Royal Vagabond" was written by Stephen Ivor Szinnyey and William Cary Duncan, rewritten by George M. Cohan, and set to music by Dr. Anselm Goetzl. The work met with remarkable eulogies on its appearance in New York. "Fooling brought to the level of a fine art," "mirth and melody in volleys," "lines bristle with Cohanisms," and "one of the best musical shows New York has ever seen," were some of the phrases. An elaborate production, brilliant ensemble features, a company of 75 and 25 musical numbers are promised. Frank Shea heads the cast, which includes Ainsley Lambert, Jessie Robertson, Eddie Girard, Effie Shelley, Vera Boyle and Edmund Fitzpatrick.

Theda Bara (herself), whose name is synonymous with the "vamp" of the movies, arrives at the Shubert-Jefferson next Sunday night in a spoken drama, "The Blue Flame." The Neil O'Brien Minstrels will open the same night at the American, and will be followed, during the week of Oct. 24, by the operetta, "Apple Blossoms," for which Fritz Kreisler wrote part of the score. An announcement of interest is that the famous extravaganza, "Aphrodite," with Dorothy Dalton, will arrive at the Shubert-Jefferson on Nov. 14.

Henrietta Crossman at Orpheum.

No less a personage than Henrietta Crossman, the distinguished American comedienne, will have headline honors this week at the Orpheum, appearing with a company in "Every Half Hour," by Albert Cowles and Roy Briant. Top position is also given to the popular comedian, Harry Watson Jr., whose telephone booth scene has shaken the sides of multitudes. Other announcements for the week's bill are: The De Wolf Girls, in "A Love Tour;" Fenton and Fields, blackface comedians; George M. Roesner, in "The Anthology of an Old Wagon;" a tenor and former ice wagon driver, said to have been discovered by Billie Burke; Herbert and Dare, athletes, and Ward and Dooley, acrobatic singers.

Headliners at other theaters are: Rialto, Johnny Burke in "Drafted;" Grand, Frankie Kelcey in "The Brazilian Heiress," a comedy revue with music; Columbia, Fred Lewis, eccentric comedian, and Empress, a musical act called "Broadway Echoes." The Standard announces "The Lid Lifters," and the Gayety, Ed Lee Wrothe in his "Best Show."

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong—According to Dr. Lewis

Guarantee to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Used at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription, and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes, which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long-distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two or four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent Physician, to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time, in many instances, or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by the leading druggists, including the Enderle, Johnson Bros., Pauley, Judge & Dolph and Wolff-Wilson stores.

BALLET PROGRAM WILL INTRODUCE ARTISTS

What promises to be one of the most artistic exhibitions of the art of dancing seen in this city since the last visit of the Diaghileff Ballet will occur at the Odeon on Thursday night, Oct. 21, when the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet, headed by Andreas Pavley and Serge Oukrainsky, will give its first St. Louis performance.

These artists, graduates of the famous Imperial Ballet School at Petrograd, have for the last season been at the head of the ballet of the Chicago Opera Co. Prior to their second season with that organization, they are making a tour of the principal American cities.

They will bring eight principal solo dancers, a corps de ballet and the Chicago Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Charles Elander.

The program will consist of original ballets and divertisements, designed and costumed by Pavley and Oukrainsky. The feature of the entertainment will be a colorful dramatic ballet, "Samson and Delilah," which was originated by Oukrainsky and which was presented in New York in the same bill with "Le Jongleur," in which Mary Garden appeared in the title role.

JOINT REFORMATION FESTIVAL

Lutheran congregations of the city will conduct joint reformation festival services on Reformation day, Oct. 31. The following committee is making the arrangements: A. G. Brauer, John H. Hohengarten, John Heidelberger and the Revs. Rich. Kretzschmar and H. Maack Jr.

Two services have been arranged in the two largest Lutheran churches of the city, Bethlehem on the North Side and Holy Cross on the South Side. Simultaneous festival services will be held at 3 p. m. Sermons will be delivered at Bethlehem Church by Dr. E. M. Kretzmann in English and Dr. F. Pieper in German, at Holy Cross Church by the Rev. M. S. Sommer in English and Rev. H. Maack Jr. in German. The choirs of the two congregations will render special programs under the direction of Prof. Walter Wisman at Holy Cross Church.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC UNLIKELY IN MISSOURI THIS WINTER

Secretary of State Health Board Says Disease Will Not Recur in Any Noticeable Degree.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 9.—Influenza will not recur in Missouri in any noticeable degree this winter, according to Dr. George A. Jones, Secretary of the State Board of Health.

"There probably will be no such epidemic as the second one which broke out last year, and which was lighter than the first," Dr. Jones said. "There is a certain amount of immunity, after the first attack of the disease, but just what this immunity amounts to we do not know."

The opening of schools this fall is expected to be followed by "the usual number of diphtheria cases," he said, "and parents should take precautions to protect their children against the disease."

RUSSIAN BOLSHEVIKI OPPOSED TO ANARCHY

Welcome There to Reds Deported From America Short-Lived.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—The spectacular welcome accorded at the Russian-Finnish frontier to the anarchists deported to Russia from the United States early this year was short-lived, according to information obtained from Americans in Moscow by the Associated Press correspondent who recently crossed Russia. It was learned that the revolutionary programs advocated by the deportees from America, the majority of whom are anarchists, not communists, differ fundamentally from Bolshevik methods.

To the Bolshevik, the revolutionist who adheres to the anarchist creed is at almost as wide variance from the Lenine-Trotzky idea of government as is the reactionary who advocates the re-establishment of an imperial form of government or the creation of a constitutional regime.

Got Only Minor Jobs.

Few of the anarchist deportees from America, it was learned, have succeeded in obtaining positions of responsibility under the Bolsheviki, the majority having been assigned to clerical work in the various departments of the red headquarters at Moscow.

Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, most prominent of the deportees from the United States, are considered to have received the prize appointment, an assignment to the control of a train which left Moscow early in the summer for a trip through the Russian provinces for the purpose of gathering and recording statistical and historical data regarding the Russian revolution.

Although this work carries with it no opportunity for assisting in actively directing the Bolshevik movement, it enables the former agitators in America to travel into the country districts, and therefore to obtain more food than in Moscow.

Propaganda printed in English supplied to The Associated Press correspondent in Moscow attacked the anarchist idea of communal life, and the exponents of the system were held up to ridicule, the favorite method of attack in Bolshevik propaganda.

Americans Denied Passports.

To Americans in Moscow, who have appealed to the Bolshevik foreign office for permits to leave Russia, Soviet officials have stated that Americans in Russia will not be permitted to leave the country until the United States Government negotiates with the Bolsheviki and offers to release from custody nl America a number of communists supposed to be detained there.

Replying to the statements on the part of the Americans that several hundred revolutionists already have been deported to Russia, the Bolshevik officials, according to statements by the detained Americans to The Associated Press correspondent, replied that the deportees from America to Russia are anarchists, and are not wanted there any more than they are wanted in America.

GUNDLACH CHOSEN AS HEAD OF PAGEANT CHORAL SOCIETY

Soloists Are Engaged for Three Concerts—"The Bells" to Be Given Nov. 30.

John H. Gundlach, one of the founders of the Pageant Choral Society and its president for the first two years, has been re-elected to that office for the season of 1920-21. The position for the last three years has been occupied by Walter Hennig, who now becomes one of the vice presidents. Other officials chosen are: Vice president, Mrs. Clay E. Jordan; secretary, James R. Dunn; treasurer, Frank M. Mayfield. Mrs. E. R. Kroeger and Mrs. Philip N. Moore are honorary vice presidents.

The chorus will, as usual, give three concerts this winter. On Nov. 30, Rachmaninoff's choral symphony, "The Bells," based on the poem of Edgar Allan Poe, will have its first St. Louis hearing, and Rossini's "Stabat Mater" will be given on the same program.

Soloists engaged for the season are Idelle Patterson, soprano; Harriet McConnell, contralto; Robert Quait, tenor; Frederick Patton, basso; Mme. Rider-Kelsey, soprano; Nevada Van Der Veer, contralto, and Arthur Middleton, baritone.

CADILLAC STANDARD OF THE WORLD

"The workmanship and finish on the Cadillac are equal to anything extant, whether it be a product of Europe or America."

From The Motor—the National Motor Car Journal of Great Britain—of August 4, 1920

THE full force of this striking statement from an eminent English authority will be instantly apparent to anyone at all familiar with the fine motor cars of Europe.

It's chief interest and importance consists in the fact that it places the Cadillac on a parity of excellence with the best European cars of very much higher price, whose reputation has rested upon the very points now conceded to the Cadillac.

Several of these cars have, indeed, sold hitherto for as much as three times the price of the Cadillac; but the same writer, in another part of his editorial, admits that the Cadillac has broken down the wall of prejudice existing in England against American cars.

"By reason of its up-to-date design," he says, "excellence of material and workmanship, and fine performance on the road, it has for some considerable time been generally accepted as one of the finest, if not the finest, of American models imported into this country."

Again, this same frank admirer corroborates the opinion of American army officers and observers generally, in pronouncing the Type 59 an even greater car than the great war Cadillac.

He lays stress on Cadillac progress and development during the past two years, emphasizing the experience gained in arduous war services, and pointing out that in many respects—including coachwork and greater driving comfort and luxury—the Cadillac shows marked advance over its own previous high standards.

He refers again and again to the beauty of the Cadillac and its enhanced charm of appearance, speaking of it in one instance as "giving the impression of a tasteful traveling boudoir on wheels."

The highly desirable changes of the past two years in the Cadillac, he quite properly describes as "the natural and considered outcome of extended experience."

"Regardless of price or size," he concludes, "the Model 59 Cadillac approaches the ideal (of perfection) as closely as any other car on the market today."

With distinguished foreign observers pronouncing the Cadillac the equal of their own costliest productions, which far exceed it in price, what need is there for us to impress upon appreciative Americans that the Type 59 Cadillac represents the greatest monetary motor car value in the world today?

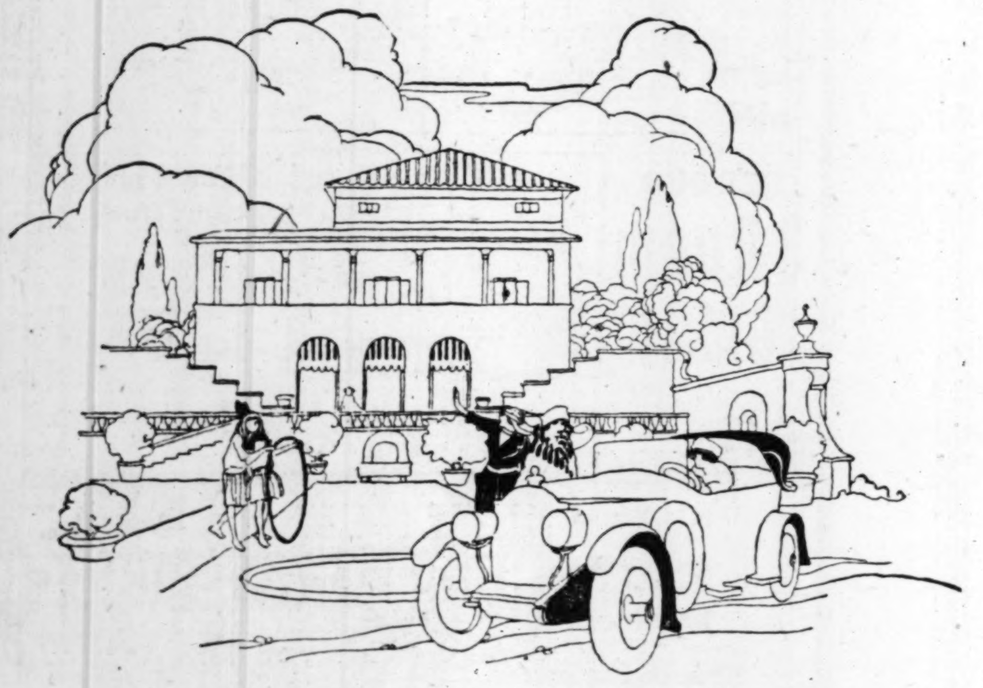
Palm and Olive oils were discovered in ancient Egypt 3000 years ago

The easy way to beauty

in a simple cake of soap



But modern progress, revolutionizing the world, still prizes these rare oils as indispensable cosmetic cleansers

HOW do you keep your face clean? Do you give it a hasty daily washing with any old soap? Or do you perhaps depend on cold cream to remove dirt and dust?

Either method is dangerous and invites bad results.

Careless washing makes the skin rough and coarse. Yet complexions get soft and flabby without the tonic of water.

The secret is—make washing your face a real beauty treatment. How—by using Palmolive Soap as we tell you here.

Washing for beauty

The Palmolive lather is so mild that it cleanses without irritation, no matter how sensitive is your skin.

Profuse and creamy, it penetrates every tiny pore, removing the dirt, dust and oil secretions, which, when neglected, clog and irritate.

Rinse thoroughly and these accumulations are washed away.

Then apply Palmolive cold cream and apply it liberally. If your skin is dry, use it both before and after washing.

Just before bed-time is the time to do this thorough cleansing. You will wake with your complexion soothed, rested and refreshed.

Egyptian cosmetics

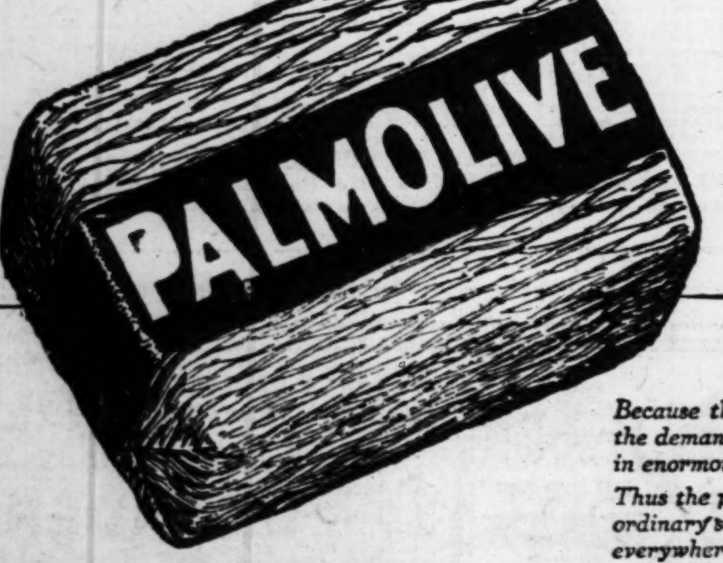
Palmolive is the scientific modern combination of the Palm and Olive oils Cleopatra used. She, as did all the ancients, employed these rare oils both as cleanser and cosmetic. They were cleansers which also soothed.

Thus Palmolive always agrees with even the most sensitive complexions. It works without irritation.

It is the favorite facial soap of millions who have learned that while you pay more you can't buy better.

THE PALMOLIVE COMPANY, MILWAUKEE, U. S. A.

Copyright, 1920, The Palmolive Company (1[illegible])



PALMOLIVE

Why don't it cost more?

Because the Palmolive factories work day and night to supply the demand. Because the rare Palmolive ingredients are bought in enormous quantities.

Thus the price of Palmolive is kept moderate—no more than for ordinary soap. It can be enjoyed by every woman and procured everywhere.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY TO HOLD RALLY TODAY

Six Thousand Men From 43 Parishes to Take Part in Parade on Lindell Boulevard.

The annual rally of the St. Louis Archdiocesan Union of the Holy Name Society will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Sacred Heart Convent grounds, Taylor and Maryland avenues.

The parade will form at Spring avenue and Lindell boulevard at 2:15 o'clock, with approximately 6000 men from 43 parishes in line, together with representatives of all the Junior Holy Name branches and Boy Scout troops. Archbishop Glennon and Raymond McNally will be speakers at the ceremonial.

Benediction of the most blessed sacrament will be given from the steps of the convent overlooking the spacious lawn, weather permitting, otherwise this service will be held in the New Cathedral.

Officers of the union who will participate in the ceremonies are: Rev. S. J. Brady, S. H. J. Greene, William O'Connor, John L. Gilsinn, Edward P. Doyle, D. J. Daily, R. A. Josias, J. F. Meagher and A. J. O'Leary.

VACANCIES IN DRAMATIC CLUB

Thyrsus Dramatic Society of Washington University is threatened with a shortage in male members, because of the essential requirement of a talent for histrionic art. There are 15 vacancies in the male membership, and the first tryout failed to qualify any one for enrollment.

It was strikingly different with the girls, 15 of whom passed the test, as follows: Misses Dorothy Badgar, Eleanor Becker, Katherine Cushing, Katherine Foster, Suzanne Gardner, Rosalind Isaacs, Elizabeth Hubbell, Caroline Matthews, Ruth Muckerman, Meredith Palmer, Bernice O'Brien, Margaret Steele, Myra Woodson, Edith Lange and Ethel Richmond.

Y. M. C. A. Outing Oct. 22.

Business men belonging to the physical department of the Central Y. M. C. A., Grand and Franklin avenues, will hold an outdoor social and outing at Forest Park on Oct. 22. The men will hike from the association building to the park, where they will be athletic games and contests. After the program the men will cook their own lunch at the park ovens.

Danderine is "Beauty-Tonic"

Immediately after a "Danderine" massage, your hair takes on new life, lustre and wondrous beauty, appearing twice as heavy and plentiful, because each hair seems to fluff and thicken. Don't let your hair stay lifeless, colorless, plain or scraggly. You, too, want lots of long, strong hair, glistening with beauty.

A 35-cent bottle of delightful "Danderine" freshens your scalp, checks dandruff and falling hair. This stimulating "beauty-tonic" gives to thin, dull, fading hair that youthful brightness and abundant thickness—All Drug Counters!

GOOD WILL TRIUMPHANT UNDER TEST

As this message is being written, Dodge Brothers' daily, weekly and monthly production, is at the highest point in its history.

The most casual sort of inquiry will satisfy you that this production is being absorbed as it is delivered.

Within sight and sound as we write, a great addition to Dodge Brothers' immense works, is being rushed to completion.

The interesting thing about this situation is, that it is not likely that a half a hundred people have ever bought Dodge Brothers Motor Car just because they wanted a motor car.

Of the more than half a million who have bought it—the overwhelming majority did so because of the name it bore.

It has always been treated, by the American people in particular, as an exception—always set apart, and singled out, and never judged by ordinary standards.

It has always been thought of, and is still thought of, first, and foremost, and all the time, only in terms of its goodness, and the results it gives.

All of this is wonderful, in one way, and quite natural and logical in another.

It all dates back to the day when John and Horace Dodge conceived and designed and finally built the car—after warning each other, and their associates, not even to think of it in any other terms than the best obtainable value.

They began with a few almost absurdly simple principles, bluntly expressed and rigidly executed, about decency and honor and integrity—such as most of us wrote in our copy books at school.

They reduced these old copy book maxims to a splendid and scientific system, pouring more, and more, and still more value into the car, and then marshalling all the resources of modern massed manufacture to get their product into the hands of the people at an honorable and an honest cost.

These policies and principles have never been changed, and never will be changed, by so much as a hair's breadth; and they have come to be recognized and accepted as Dodge Brothers principles wherever motor cars are driven.

It has all happened as John and Horace Dodge planned it—quite simply, naturally, and automatically, all over America, and all over the world.

People do discriminate, as Dodge Brothers contended they would; people will find out when a motor car is well built and gives good service and great good value.

Dodge Brothers market today is where they planned to locate and establish it—in the mind and the heart of every man and woman who admires good work, well done

It will last, and it will keep on growing, as it has kept on growing for five years (faster than Dodge Brothers works could keep pace with it), as long as the number of those who believe that a manufacturer should build to serve and not merely to sell, continues to increase.

All is well with Dodge Brothers today, because John and Horace Dodge builded well in the beginning, and because their business will continue to build well until the end.

DR. HENRICH

THE PILE SPECIALIST SAYS: MY METHOD IS LESS PAINFUL

Due to Mild Character of My Non-Surgical Treatment and Soothing Pain-Relieving Agents.

One of the characteristic features of my famous Non-Surgical method is the mild character of this treatment for the cure of Piles and other Rectal Diseases, and the soothing effect of the pain-relieving agents in severe and aggravated cases.

The general knowledge and understanding which my hundreds of cured patients gained through their experience with my method, has been spread broadcast by them until now people are coming to me for treatment of the most advanced cases of Piles, Fissure, Fistula, Ulcers, Papilla, Polypoid, Ulcers, Prolapsus and other similar diseases, from all parts of the United States.

This is particularly true of delicate women and children, aged people and people that are emaciated and wasted from disease of long standing who could not possibly take chloroform and undergo a severe surgical operation.

Then what is more valuable than the mildness of the treatment, is the fact that the causes are removed and liability of any other Rectal trouble again developing is reduced to a minimum.

I do not lay claim to superior mental faculties. My claims to superiority of method and success are due to the fact that for more than 25 years I HAVE STUDIED AND PRACTICED ALONG ONE LINE. I have had the experience and know from actual demonstration, not in one case but in hundreds of cases, just what to look for and expect when I examine a case. I know just what steps to take in each individual condition. Therefore, when I treat that particular condition accurately and understandingly, I know that Nature will do her part and the patient will get well.

SALVATION ARMY CHIEF TO SPEAK HERE

Commissioner Peart, Head of Work in 15 States, to Be Here Saturday and Sunday.

Commissioner William Peart, who a week ago was put in charge of all Salvation Army institutions and activities in the central section of the United States, will visit St. Louis Saturday and Sunday. Peart has been a Salvation Army officer for 35 years.

Commissioner Peart will be welcomed to St. Louis by a score of Salvation Army officers and by members of the St. Louis Salvation Army Advisory Board, of which R. King Kauffman, vice president of the Mercantile Trust Co., is president. Plans are being made for him to deliver an address at a church Sunday afternoon.

In addition to the proposed church address, the commissioner will make addresses morning and evening at Salvation Army Hall, 106 South Seventeenth street on the aims of the army.

Commissioner Peart, who is a native of Australia, for 15 years was chief secretary to Commander Eva Booth of the Salvation Army. As such he was one of the chief advisers in the work of the organization in the United States. The placing of the central states of the country under his command is a promotion.

There are 15 States in the central territory, of which Commissioner Peart is head. These States are mostly in the Mississippi Valley and extend from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico.

There are about 1000 Salvation Army officers in the 15 States and thousands of adherents. More than 100 institutions are conducted by the Salvation Army in the territory. These include rescue homes, maternity hospitals, boarding homes for working girls, industrial homes and relief stations.

Commissioner Peart has announced that he will spare no effort to broaden out two activities known as "The League of Mercy" and "The Woman's League." The first deals with work in all hospitals and the second with families living in the congested districts.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—"Miss Viola Tree wore one of the most be- backed dresses ever seen in public," a newspaper noted in describing the first performance of "Her Dancing Man," a new farce from the French.

After making inquiries among fa[illegible] dressmakers, the same paper reported: "There is no doubt that the styles foreshadowed in this play are genuine prophecies of what will be worn by the ultra smart next spring. Miss Tree's frock is completely backless and semi-waistless. A string or two of diamonds satisfy the curious who want to know how it is kept up."

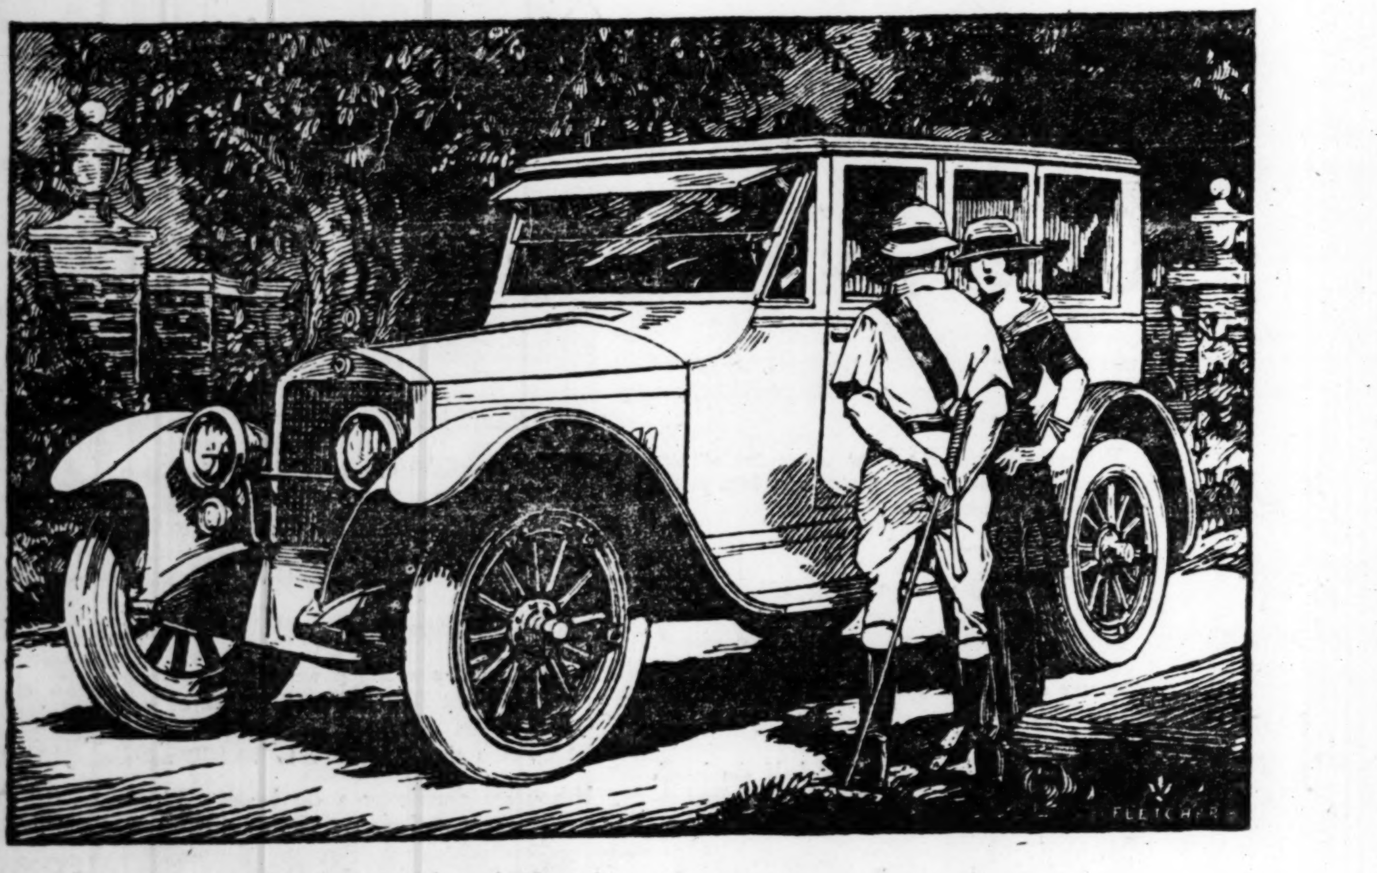
STANDARD EIGHT



A POWERFUL CAR

The joy of motoring, like most of the joys of life, comes from the use of power.

To be conscious that there is no hill you need to avoid, no motor-way where your car cannot, without effort, hold your place on the road, is to realize the top joy of automobiling.

Some say that this happiness which lies in the sense of power is just plain vanity. Call it whatever you will, every car owner likes the sensation which comes from the control of power.

Tremendous power, under perfect control, is what every Standard Eight owner always has in his car. Its motor actually levels hills.

THE NASH SIX

The Actual Value of The Nash Six Has Never Been so Clearly Recognized As it is Right Now

That is because motor car buyers are scrutinizing and comparing automobile values now as they have not done for years.

A market such as this always brings into sharp relief values that are really sound.

It shows which cars are overpriced and which cars are worth every dollar asked for them.

This process of comparison is emphasizing anew the superiority of Nash Six value.

It is making plain just how low priced the Nash Six is in comparison with those cars which even approximate it in cost.

It is gratifying to Nash Six owners and those contemplating its purchase to find that while the increased price of other cars since 1917 has averaged 76%, the Nash Six has increased but 31%; really 24% considering the addition of cord tires and other equipment as standard.

The soundness of Nash policies has been demonstrated.

You may purchase a Nash Six now or at any time with the positive assurance that the price represents actual, intrinsic value plus the smallest possible manufacturer's profit.

Anemic People Need Blood-Iron Phosphate

Anemic people are usually thin, pale, weak, discouraged, nervous wrecks, showing that lack of iron in the blood is all too frequently accompanied by a run-down, nervous system due to lack of phosphorous. Strength, health, vim, vigor and energy depend almost entirely on making up this deficiency in iron and phosphorous.

Unquestionably one of the best things for this purpose is the great French discovery known among our druggists as Blood-Iron Phosphate. Folks who have tried it say that one five-grain tablet with each meal quickly restores depleted nervous energy, enriches the blood, increases strength, vitality and endurance, and those who are thin usually put on pounds of solid, stay-there flesh in a short time.

Inasmuch as Judge & Dolph, Wolff-Wilson, Johnson Bros. and all other druggists are authorized to sell Blood-Iron Phosphate under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back, every thin, weak, nervous or anemic man or woman should give it a trial without delay.

HOOVER TO SPEAK AT CHILD HYGIENE CONVENTION HERE

Former Food Administrator Will Deliver Address Before Association at Odeon Tomorrow Night.

HEALTH TEACHING TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Other Addresses Planned Include Discussions of Social Statistics and Infant Mortality.

Herbert C. Hoover, former National Food Administrator, and earlier chairman of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, will make the principal address before the convention of the American Child Hygiene Association, at the Odeon tomorrow night.

Tickets for the Hoover address are to be obtained at the registration table of the convention in Schuyler Memorial House, 1210 Locust street.

The convention will be in session tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. General headquarters will be at Hotel Jefferson. The meetings will be held at Schuyler House and at the Central Public Library. This is the eleventh annual meeting of the organization, which was formerly the American Association for Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality.

Subjects for Discussion.

Dr. Philip Van Ingen of New York, president of the association, will speak at the opening meeting in Schuyler House tomorrow morning. In the afternoon, the subject considered will be "Prenatal and Maternal Care," and Dr. Lottie G. Bigler of Armour, S. D., is to speak on "The Problem of the Expectant Mother in Rural Communities." Miss Rose Ehrenfeld of the North Carolina Bureau of Public Health Nursing will lead the discussion. Dr. F. S. Kellogg of Boston will speak on "The Unmarried Mother." Dr. A. N. Creadick will speak on "The Nursery Ward in Maternity Hospitals."

A meeting of the vital and social statistics committee will also be held tomorrow afternoon, with discussions of infant mortality. The discussion at this conference will be furnished by Frederick S. Crum, an insurance statistician of Newark, N. J., Robert M. Woodbury of the Children's Bureau, Washington ,and Raymond Pearl of the department of vital statistics, Johns Hopkins University.

At tomorrow night's meeting in the Odeon, Mayor Kiel and Dr. Van Ingen, president of the Association, will speak before Hoover. After Hoover's address, the "health fairy," a new method of teaching health to children, will be demonstrated by Miss Anne Raymond of the Child Health Organization of America. Health films will complete the program.

Division Meetings Tuesday Night.

Tuesday morning, in Schuyler House, the topic for discussion will be "Pre-School Age." In the afternoon the subject will be "School Age and Adolescence," and a round table conference will be held at the library on "Rural Health Problems." Division meetings will be held Tuesday night.

Wednesday the discussions will be on "Nursing and Social Work" and on the subject of tuberculosis in infancy.

Dr. Henry L. K. Shaw of Albany, N. Y., is president-elect for 1921. St. Louis members of the board of directors are Mrs. Philip B. Fouke and Dr. Borden S. Veeder. Mrs. John T. Davis of 47 Portland place is chairman of the Entertainment Committee, and Dr. Adrian Bleyer is chairman of the Committee on Exhibits. The exhibits are to be shown in the library.

That the average gain of children attending the Resident Open Air School of the Tuberculosis Society is nearly three times as much as that of normal children, is brought out in an exhibit on open-air schools to be shown at the annual convention of the American Child Hygiene Association at the Public Library this week. A chart showing pictures of the three St. Louis open air schools and giving facts developed in these schools is part of the Tuberculosis Society's exhibit for the convention.

The average gain per child per month of the normal child of grammar school age is, according to statistics, 11.2 ounces. The average gain shown by the children of the corresponding ages who have been enrolled at the resident open air school in the two years since that school was established is 32.8 ounces per month per child. Children attending the resident school are those who did not gain satisfactorily in the open air day schools where the benefits obtained during the week days were to some extent overcome by the ill effects of bad sleeping conditions and the Sunday life in their own homes. Children at the resident school spend the entire seven days and nights of every week under the system of regular living, wholesome food and regular exercise which is the rule at all open air schools.

The Tuberculosis Society, acting jointly with the St. Louis County Tuberculosis Committee, also is making an exhibit of the progress of the Modern Health Crusade movement in the St. Louis County schools, be-

For the Cool Days— an Essex Sedan

THE season when the Essex Sedan will be most enjoyed and appreciated is at hand.

Its protection and comfort are genuine necessities for the growing class of automobile owners who rely altogether on motor transit to and from their business affairs.

Commodious and luxurious, it combines the riding comfort of the large costly car, with the advantages of economy and easy handling, exclusive to light cars.

Plenty of surplus power makes the Essex Sedan accelerate quickly, and gives it easy dominance in the hills.

That performance ability is especially prized by owners. For in the case of the Essex it removes the objections long held against enclosed bodies on light cars, that they have insufficient power for the additional weight, which results in sluggish performance.

The new price of the GRANT SIX is $1550

It has style—

Wherever it goes the New Grant Six attracts attention. Few cars have won such high praise for distinguished lines.

It has power—

The six cylinder Grant motor with overhead valves has 35-40 horsepower. You will find few hills that will make you go into second, and on the level stretches you can do almost a mile a minute if you care to drive that fast.

It has riding comfort—

It has flexibility—

One of the delights of a good Six like the Grant is that you can almost forget gear-shifting, in traffic or on grades. And it gets away with a smoothness and a quickness that makes driving something more than merely getting there.

It has economy—

In spite of its size and power, the New Grant Six gives about 20 miles to the gallon of gas. Grant owners average this—or better. The 32 x 4 inch tires do 8,000 to 10,000 miles.

If you are considering a car between $1500 and $2000, by all means take a ride in a Grant.

Remember the Grant is a SIX, and has a remarkably smooth, powerful motor

Sound Kidneys Save Suffering

The hustle and bustle of modern life cause weak kidneys. Overwork and worry invariably create poison faster than the weakened kidneys can filter it from the blood. Pain in the back, nervousness, and lack of ambition are the first warnings that the kidneys are deranged and for these conditions Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy should be used for beneficial action. For 40 years this dependable medicine has proved itself nature's provision for mankind against kidney disease and its oftimes terrible effects. Here's an instance of its remarkable efficacy:

"Having been afflicted with kidney and liver complaint for a long time, I was induced to try Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy, and after using it for a time am now well and strong. I can unqualifiedly state that this medicine without any doubt saved my life and I can conscientiously recommend it to others similarly afflicted."—Clarence H. White, Battle Creek, Mich., U. S. A.

Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy contains no harmful ingredients and should be used when the kidneys need attention. Sold by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., and all leading druggists. Sample sent on receipt of ten cents. Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 245, Rochester, N. Y.

CITY ENGINEERS TO OPEN MEETING HERE TUESDAY

Society Was Organized in Buffalo 26 Years Ago and Last Convention in St. Louis Was in 1904.

The American Society for Municipal Improvements will hold its twenty-sixth annual convention at the Planters Hotel for four days, beginning Tuesday. More than 300 cities are represented in the organization and advance reservations indicate that more than 500 delegates will be present. The Executive Board and the 10 committees of the society will hold a preliminary meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The society was organized 26 years ago in Buffalo and met in St. Louis the last time during the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904. The three vital subjects which will be discussed at the convention will be city planning, sanitation and improvement in paving. Special sessions will be devoted to the reading of papers and the discussion of these subjects.

The organization is composed of municipal engineers, heads of park departments, street departments, waterworks and other municipal departments which have to do with city development. The Local Committee has arranged for individual trips for delegates who may wish to inspect certain phases of St. Louis' civic development.

Speakers on Program.

The development of city planning will be presented by George W. Tillson, E. R. Dutton, Harland Bartholomew, George H. Norton, R. K. Compton, E. S. Rankin and W. W. Horner.

The sanitation problem will be presented by F. A. Dallyn, provisional sanitary engineer of Toronto, Canada. Other speakers on this subject presenting the various phases will be Langdon Pearse, sanitary engineer of Chicago; Guy Brown, engineer of sewer designs of St. Louis, who will talk on the unusual structures of the St. Louis sewer system; George B. Gascoigne, sanitary engineer of Cleveland, O.; Edward Bartow director of state water survey, Urbana, Ill.; Robert Spurr Weston, consulting sanitary engineer, Boston; E. S. Dorr, engineer in charge of special work of the sewer department, Boston, and Walter B. Bee, superintendent of municipal reduction works, Columbus, O.

"Perhaps the most important subject confronting the municipal engineers today is that of paving and traffic," said W. W. Horner of St. Louis, chief engineer of sewers and paving, and also third vice president of the society. "The question of paving is one which every municipal engineer and director of street and sewers in every municipality of the United States is studying.

Phases of Paving Problem.

"The two important phases of this subject is finding the best pavement with the greatest resisting qualities and to establish just how far we shall restrict the loading of trucks.

"The burden of the up-keep of the streets must be charged against the people using the streets and not assessed against the property holders. This phase of the subject will receive careful consideration in the open sessions and at the round table meetings."

A program of entertainment, including a river trip, reception, "smoker" luncheon, theater party and automobile tours of the city, has been arranged by a committee.

fore the delegates to the Child Hygiene convention. The Coldwater School of the Florissant District will put on a Modern Health Crusade play on Tuesday of convention week as part of the convention program. "Mr. I. N. Different" is the title of this play, and 10 children of the grammar grades will come from Florissant to present the performance. Costumes, staging, scenery and all accessories for this production are the work of the children themselves. Miss Emily H. McDonald, teacher of the Coldwater School, is directing it. The play will be given at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of Schuyler Memorial Hall.

The Modern Health Crusade is a game invented to teach children of grammar school ages good health habits. Children enlisted as crusaders have a specified number of "chores" to perform each week, and the reward for accomplishment is a series of advancement in the order. Page, squire, knight and knight-banneret are the successive ranks attained. Some of the "chores" are standing and sitting erectly, drinking water at regular intervals, washing the hands before eating, brushing the teeth regularly, taking regular baths, attending to all toilet matters properly, sleeping with the window open and similar simple health habits.

Buick Prices

Buick prices are standardized and stabilized by Buick methods.

They are based on the cost of production, plus a fair margin of profit.

They are not now, nor have they ever been, fictitious or inflated.

Buick cars are built of selected materials purchased from reliable sources. These materials are purchased on contracts far in advance of their use. The cost is constant through the life of the contract.

Buick workmen are skilled mechanics, commanding wages proportionate to their ability. To arbitrarily reduce the wages of these men in the endeavor to lower Buick prices would be at once unfair and unbusinesslike. It would invite disaster.

Such advances as Buick has made in the past have been justifiable. They have not only covered increases in production costs, but improvements that have been incorporated in the car.

The Buick standard of value rather than price, stands firm and unmoved, and prices can only decline when lowered costs of labor and materials allow a lessened production expense.

Buick Value Will Be Maintained!

¶ Should there occur unexpected reductions in labor or materials that affect costs and justify lower list prices on Buick cars, prior to May 1st, 1921, the amount of such reduction will be refunded to the purchaser.

MANY MEMBERS OF PRESENT CONGRESS WON'T BE IN NEXT

More Than 60 Have Been Eliminated by Defeat in the Primaries or by Retirement.

FIVE WOMEN AFTER SEATS IN THE HOUSE

Plumb-Plan League Is Seeking to Defeat Many Candidates in Both Big Parties.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—More than 60 members of the present Congress have already been eliminated by defeat in the primaries or by voluntary retirement, and a considerable number of others are certain to become "lame ducks" in the coming elections. Reports reaching here from the various states indicate that lively contests are being waged in nearly one-half of the congressional districts.

Campaigns for seats in the House are being made by five women. In Oklahoma, Miss Alice Robertson is the Republican candidate against Representative W. W. Hastings, a Democrat. She was postmistress in her home city of Muskogee under President Roosevelt.

In the Third Nebraska District, now represented by Robert E. Evans, a Republican, the Nonpartisan League has nominated Mrs. Marie Weeks, the editor of a newspaper at Norfolk, Neb.

Miss Frieda Miller, secretary of the Philadelphia Women's Trade Union League, is a candidate of the Farmer-Labor party for representative-at-large from Pennsylvania. She was once in the faculty of Bryn Mawr College for women. In the same state Mrs. Leah Cobb Marion of Emporium, is running on the ticket of the American party for Representative-at-Large. Her platform contains planks opposing the League of Nations, opposing interference in the Irish situation and declaring for strict enforcement of the Volstead act.

Woman Opposes "Wet."

In Oregon Representative C. N. McArthur, Republican, is being opposed by Dr. Esther Lovejoy, a practicing physician. McArthur is being fought as a wet. Dr. Lovejoy stands for a strict enforcement code and for the League of Nations. As the first woman health officer of Portland, Dr. Lovejoy is credited with having given the city a clean milk supply. She served overseas with the American women's hospitals.

In New York, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, New Jersey, West Virginia, Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois and California, strong efforts are being made to elect candidates favorable to a more liberal interpretation of the prohibition enforcement code. The drys assert they will win most of these contests. In the prohibition fight, chief interest centers around the candidacy of Andrew J. Volstead, chief sponsor of the act bearing his name for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. After he had apparently been defeated in the primary election, Volstead was declared by the Minnesota Republican State Committee the nominee of his party. James Mitchell is his Democratic opponent.

The Plumb Plan League is seeking to defeat candidates of both parties who voted for the Esch-Cummins Transportation Act. Partly because of its efforts, Chairman John J. Esch of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee failed to become the Republican nominee in his district in Wisconsin.

The Ohio Situation.

The political complexion of the Ohio districts will be largely determined by the way the national election goes in that State. Virtually all the present members are running for re-election. Prospects appear to be good for the return of former Senator Burton as a member of the House from Ohio.

The Republicans are hopeful of gaining two seats in Tennessee, where they already have two. In the Eighth District, where Representative T. W. Sims was defeated for nomination by Capt. Gordon Browning, the Republicans have nominated Lon A. Scott, also an officer in the world war. Joseph Brown, son of a former member of the House, has been nominated by the Republicans in the Third District, to run against Representative John A. Moon, for 24 years a member of the House, and former chairman of the Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads.

With a campaign cry of "wine, beer and full-strength whisky," Riley Wilson, Democrat, is trying to defeat Representative L. S. Echols, Republican, in the Sixth West Virginia District. A wet Republican is out against Representative M. M. Neely, a dry Democrat, in the First District of the same State, and a wet Democrat is running for the seat of Representative G. M. Bowers in the Second District.

Hot Fight in Pennsylvania.

The most interesting contest in Pennsylvania is that over the seat now held by Representative Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee. Porter has been in the House for 10 years. He is being fought by the Anti-Saloon

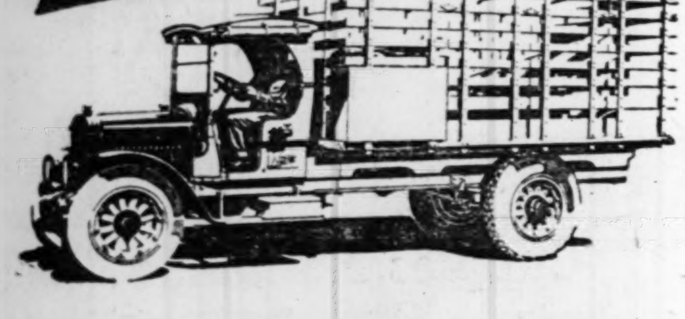
ACME



"24,700 miles of service -and no serious repairs"

HERE is a typical instance of Acme performance: The owner of a 2-ton Acme states that his truck has gone over 24,700 miles with no serious repairs. He claims that this truck replaces 4 teams of horses. He continues as follows:

> "There are two other owners of Acme trucks in this district that claim hey have the best truck in the city, but I think they are wrong, for I believe I have the best. After all, what's the difference? They are all Acmes."

There you have Acme satisfaction. Every Acme owner believes he has a super truck which is better even than other Acmes. Does this not speak volumes for Acme Proved Construction and Acme performance?

We have the facts that demonstrate conclusively the extremely high average of Acme service. Come in and let us discuss them.

Prices Reduced to Bed Rock Figures

—and GUARANTEED to the Public against FURTHER DECLINE up to July 1st, 1921

Should prices decline, purchaser will be rebated the amount of such decrease.

VELIE PRICES have always been indicative of a real intrinsic value in automobile construction. Never has the Velie been overpriced, despite an exceptional demand. Never has Velie exacted more than a deserved and living profit.

No thinking person will for a moment contend that an honestly made, fairly priced automobile has become less valuable today than it was a few days ago—BUT to aid in the prewar price movement, Velie has thrown all profits to the wind and will take a sharp loss in every car sold at the following prices:

Velie Six—Model 34, new price, $1385

In addition to a cut of $200.00 the car is equipped with cord tires, giving the greatest value in the Light Six field today.

Velie Six—Model 48, new price, $1885

Here at its new price you are offered the very latest in body design and the most desirable of all motor car units. Comparison tells the story.

IT GOES WITHOUT SAYING that these prices cannot hold unless Velie is enabled to replace the present costly inventory with new material at lower prices.

Here is an opportunity to obtain a high quality Velie Six at a price more attractive than those prevailing elsewhere in the automobile field. These low prices may be of short duration. Let us demonstrate to you today.

All casings and inner tubes listed above are first quality, guaranteed of finest material and most expert workmanship.

Direct from $2,000,000 Factory

No dealers, no salesmen to pay out of profits means that no sacrifice in quality need be made to reduce prices. We simply get rid of a big overload of expense by selling direct from factory to user by mail—and you get the extra 4,000 miles over the usual 6,000-mile guarantee also—this 10,000-mile guarantee backed by a corporation of the highest standing, now serving over 1,000,000 customers by direct sales by mail.

Brand New — First Quality

We challenge the world to show a tire superior to the Oliver. No tire ever made has had better material or better workmanship And only first grade tires are shipped. No "mill run" or "seconds."

Without this quality we could not offer a 10,000-mile guarantee—but we do offer it and put back of it the resources of an organization with ample capital to carry out every obligation—because we know what service the Oliver gives.

Our Guarantee

If for any reason, any Oliver tire gives out before it has run 10,000 miles, the Leonard-Morton Co. (capital $2,000,000) agrees to refund in cash or to rebate on the purchase of a new tire an amount proportionate to the difference between 10,000 miles and the distance actually run.

You should actually get 12,000 or 15,000 miles or more out of the Oliver and this extra margin is also yours free.

Don't Send a Penny

Pay nothing until the tires arrive. Then if after you examine them you do not consider them absolutely of the highest quality, you can ship them back at our expense and we will refund your money. Just fill out the coupon. State size tires you want and we will make quick shipment. Save on your first cost. Save frequent replacement.

Cleveland Six Now Only $1435

The Cleveland again establishes a new standard of quality and value in the light car field. It offers so much more at such a fair price that other light cars—sixes and fours—can scarcely be thought of as competitive. Cleveland character is distinctive, its daily service is unsurpassed.

No Other Light Car Offers Such Worth

The exclusive Cleveland motor, the most highly developed of the powerful over-head type, gives an abundance of speed, a rare flexibility of power, and a dependability and endurance that surpasses other light cars.

The sturdiness of its chassis construction, the ease of its control, the soft cushion-like action of its underslung spring construction — all these qualities add immeasurably to the certainty and comfort of the Cleveland's performance on any road, on the steepest hills, and in crowded traffic.

A Selection of Body Styles That Meet Every Wish

Bodies of dignity and beauty are mounted on the Cleveland chassis, and no other car offers cleaner lines, more truly sturdy gracefulness or deeper lustre of finish than does the Cleveland Six.

League. Bible classes are reported to have been enlisted in the fight for his opponent, A. G. Shaffer, a dry Democrat.

The railroad and the prohibition issues have been brought to the front in the Nineteenth (Johnstown) District of Pennsylvania. Representative John M. Rose, Republican, voted for the transportation act, and is dry. Former Representative Warren W. Bailey, a Democrat, is running on a wet platform.

In the Twentieth Pennsylvania District, Representative Edward S. Brooks, Republican, wet, is being opposed by a dry Democrat supported by the Anti-Saloon League. The league is also trying to bring back Representative M. W. Shreve of the Twenty-fifth Pennsylvania District as a reward for his dry record. He is running on an Independent and Prohibition ticket against a wet Republican and a wet Democrat.

A unique situation has developed in the Venango district of Pennsylvania, where the candidates are contesting both at the polls and in the courts. Representative W. J. Hulings, Republican, was opposed at the primary by J. W. Bixler for the Republican nomination. Bixler was declared the nominee. Hulings went into court and won. Bixler appealed to the Supreme Court. Now Hulings has been nominated by the Citizens' Party and Bixler by the Labor Party.

In Oklahoma the Republicans hope to retain the district they now have and gain one other. Burt Chandler is the Republican candidate in the First District against E. B. Howard, Democrat, the incumbent. In the Eighth District, Manuel Herrick, Republican, is trying to hold the seat against Z. T. Harris, Democrat.

New York Socialist Contest.

Meyer London, Socialist, is running in New York City to win back his former seat from the Twelfth District now held by Henry M. Goldfogle, a Democrat. The Republicans have indorsed Goldfogle. In turn, the Democrats have indorsed Republicans in two districts.

In Texas a new party, styled the American party, is trying to capture the seats now held by Representative Carlos Bee, brother-in-law of Postmaster-General Burleson, and Joseph J. Mansfield.

The First District of Michigan (city of Detroit) is the scene of a spirited contest between a former soldier, Frank Murphy, Democrat, and George P. Codd, Republican, for the seat which Representative F. E. Doremus, a Democrat, has held for the last 10 years. The district was a Roosevelt stronghold. Murphy is running on a progressive platform, and is aided by the dissatisfaction of Detroit Republicans with the nomination of Harding.

In the Thirteenth Michigan District there is a close fight between two young men, Vincent Brennan, Republican, and James H. Lee, Democrat, for the seat held until his death last spring by Representative C. A. Nichols, Republican. This district also is catalogued as progressive.

Men Who Have Been Eliminated.

Following is a list of present Congressmen known to have been defeated in primary elections or retired voluntarily, together with their length of service:

Baer (Rep., North Dakota), four years; defeated.

Booher (Dem., Missouri), 16 years; retiring.

DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through

These Are Facts

Price is one thing.

Value is quite another.

What is asked for an article—that is price.

What an article is actually worth—that is value.

The prudent purchaser of an automobile today will look behind present prices in his search for value.

And he will decide on that car which has been consistently fair-priced over a long period of time.

In two years the Dort has been increased but seventeen per cent, while some other cars have been boosted in price as much as forty-four per cent—and not one so slightly as the Dort.

That seventeen per cent Dort raise has not added to Dort profit—every dollar of it has gone back into the car itself.

The Dort remains today where it has stood always—the topmost value on the market.

Its price cannot be reduced.

We not only will show you why it cannot, but will positively guarantee you against such a contingency.

The Key to the Price Question

Where lies the key to the present automobile price situation?

People are beginning to ask that pertinent question.

More and more of them are curiously turning back to look for the facts regarding price increases during the last two years.

And those who do so say that they have found the key.

They insist that cars recently reduced are merely marked down to a proper figure.

And they appreciate more fully than ever that the Dort has been kept down to a consistently low price right straight along.

They like that policy and are proving it every day by word of mouth and by purchase.

The Dort remains today an honest and superior value.

And our prices are guaranteed.

SULPHUR SOOTHES UGLY, ITCHING SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ-destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

Peterson's Ointment Best for Eczema

First Application Stops Itching of Eczema, Salt Rheum and Piles.

Ends Chafing Distress in Five Minutes.

"Live and let live is my motto," says Peterson of Buffalo. "Druggists all over America sell PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 60 cents a large box, and I say to these druggists, if anyone buys my ointment for any of the diseases or ailments for which I recommend it, and are not benefited, give them their money back.

"I've got a safe full of thankful letters testifying to the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for old and running sores, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breast, itching scalp, chafing and blind, itching and bleeding piles."

John Scott, 283 Virginia Street, Buffalo, writes: "Peterson's Ointment is simply wonderful. It cured me of eczema and also piles, and it did it so quickly that I was astonished." Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

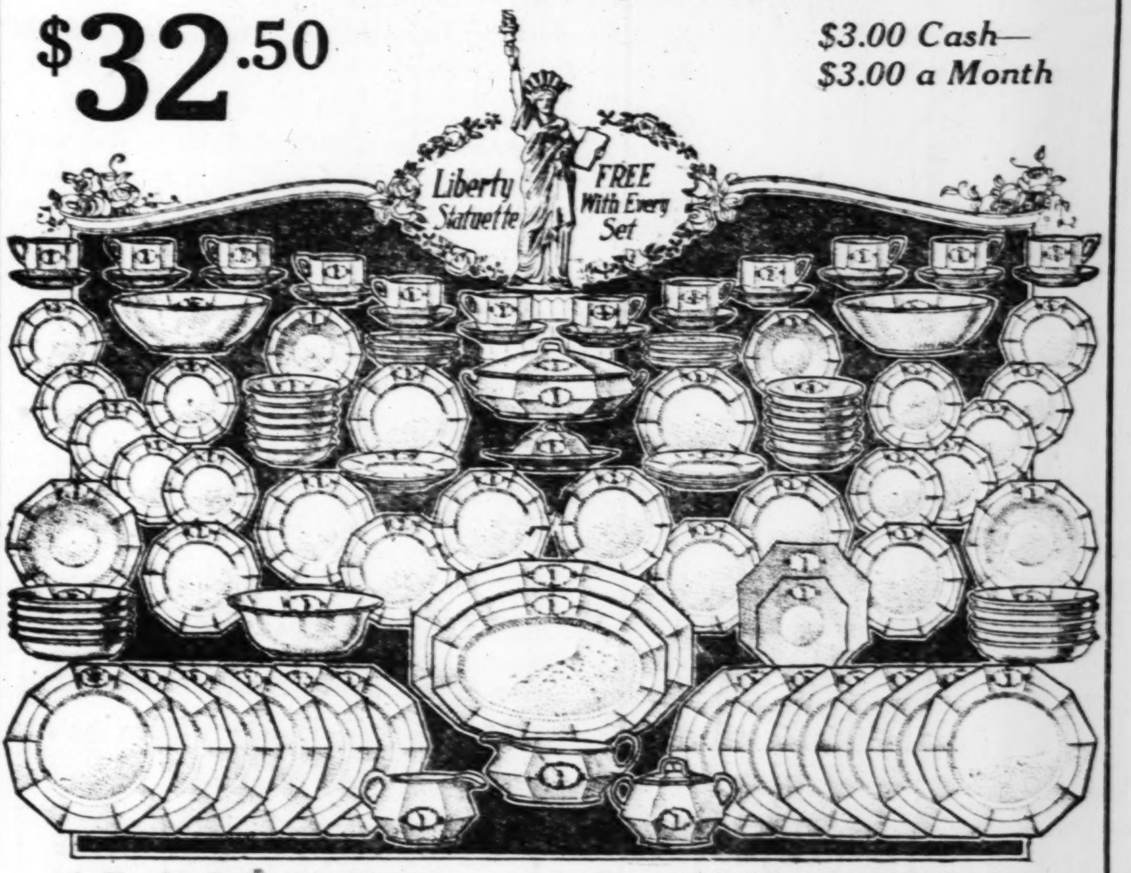
100-Piece "Liberty" Dinner Sets

A New and Beautiful Design—as Illustrated

$32.50

$3.00 Cash—$3.00 a Month



A Truly Beautiful Design

IT is called the "Liberty" Dinner Set because the decoration on each piece is a beautiful reproduction of the Statue of Liberty. Encircling this decoration is a dainty floral wreath. The shape of the various pieces is the celebrated "Martha Washington" design copied from a Colonial set, the original of which may still be seen at Washington's home at Mt. Vernon. Adding greatly to the effectiveness of the design is a border of English cobalt blue with an inner line of delicate tracery.

Fine Quality White Ware

This Set is the product of one of America's foremost potteries. The pieces are light in weight and are triple-fired to the temperature of 2200 degrees, insuring a beautiful and lasting glaze. Each piece is full size and of first quality.

"Liberty" Statuette With Each Set

With each of these Dinner Sets is included a very pretty statuette of the Goddess of Liberty.

Set Consists of 100 Full-Size Pieces

12 Cups,
12 Saucers,
12 7-inch Plates,
12 5-inch Plates,
12 Fruit Plates,
12 Soup Plates,

NINE SUSPENDED POLICEMEN ARE REPRIMANDED AND THEN REINSTATED

Charges Against Capt. Tierney and Eight Others Resulting From Gambling at "Lawler" Daley's 17th Ward Democratic Club Dismissed by Board.

THEY TELL OF TRYING TO STOP GAMING

Probationary Testifies to "Sitting In" Dice Game and Losing Money—Police of District Had Key to Place at 2934A Olive St.

Charges of neglect of duty and disobedience of orders against Capt. William Tierney, Lieuts. James P. Gunn and T. George Dineen, Sergts. Patrick Murphy, John J. Kavanagh and Joseph Stangler and Patrolmen William Breen, John B. Newport and Thomas McGrath, all of the Laclede Avenue Police District, who were suspended last Wednesday following their failure to prevent gambling at "Lawler" Daley's Seventeenth Ward Democratic Club, 2934A Olive street, were dismissed by the Board of Police Commissioners last night. However, the defendants were subjected to a lengthy reprimand by President Mansur.

All of the commissioners, with the exception of Philip B. Fouke, who is out of the city, were present at the trial, which lasted from 2 to 6 p. m. Mayor Kiel, who is ex-officio member of the Police Board, attended for the first time in months.

The name of Daley, who formerly was chairman of the Democratic City Committee and now is chairman of the Executive Committee of that body, was mentioned only once in the course of the trial and nothing was said to indicate that the charges had been based on a suspicion that political influence was responsible for the continuation of gambling at the club.

Key Given Police by Daley.

When Capt. Tierney, in presenting his defense, stated that "Lawler" Daley had given him a key to the front door of the club, President Mansur remarked: "Daley must have had something to do with the place or he would have had no authority to give you the key."

There were only three witnesses for the Police Board, the most important being Probationary Patrolman Burns of the police school of instruction, who was detailed at the direction of Chief O'Brien to join the club and get evidence, and whose evidence resulted in four of the gamblers being fined in police court.

After detailing how he had gained admission to the club by telling the "lookout" that he formerly lived in the neighborhood but had been in the navy for several years, Burns gave the following description of what occurred in the gambling room last Saturday night:

"I had been there about an hour," he said, "shooting dice with 10 or 12 other men, when an electric light above the gaming table blinked twice. That was the signal to stop the game. Instantly a man grabbed the boards around the dice table, another caught up the field cloth, another pushed the table aside, another opened a safe and everything was thrown into it. It was like clockwork.

Game Twice Interrupted.

"'Get in the library,' someone ordered. I joined the other players in a rush for an adjoining room containing tables, books and papers. Some snatched up papers and began reading, others shuffled playing cards and pretended that they were playing. I kept my eye on the door leading to the gaming room. A moment later Sergt. Kavanagh and a patrolman entered. The men in the library saluted them in a friendly manner. The Sergeant looked about and departed. He had scarcely reached the foot of the stairs when the game was in full blast again.

"About an hour later there was another interruption and I again followed the crowd into the library. I did not see who entered that time but later was informed that a special officer in civilian clothes had visited the place. When I left at 11 p. m., after having lost $5, the game was still going on.

"The following night, which was Monday, after reporting to Lieut. Thomas Conley, under whose instructions I was acting, I returned to the game and lost $7. At 9:45 p. m., the signal lights flashed and everyone made a bee line for the library. Lieut. Conley and several

CLEVELAND TEAM WINS FOURTH GAME AND EVENS SERIES

Pitcher Coveleskie Holds Brooklyn to 4 Hits and Scores His Second Victory.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 9.—Cleveland defeated Brooklyn here this afternoon in the fourth game of the world's series, 5 to 1, thereby evening the score between the American and National League pennant winners in their struggle for the baseball championship. Each team now has won two games. More than 25,000 persons witnessed today's contest.

Stanley Coveleskie, star pitcher of the American League, scored his second victory of the series, holding the Brooklyn batters to five hits. Cadore, Mamaux, Marquard and Pfeffer pitched for Brooklyn, and were batted for 12 hits by the Cleveland team.

The fifth game of the series will be played here tomorrow. The sixth and seventh games also are scheduled to be played here, with the scene then shifting to Brooklyn if further play is necessary. Five victories for one team will decide the series.

PITCHER MARQUARD ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF TICKET SCALPING

Brooklyn Player Accused of Asking $350 for Seats That Cost $52.80.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 9.—Richard "Rube" Marquard, one of the star left-hand pitchers of the Brooklyn National League pennant winners, was arrested here today on a charge of ticket "scalping."

Marquard was arrested in the lobby of a downtown hotel on a warrant issued by Assistant Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton. He was charged with offering for sale eight world series box seats, the original cost of which was $52.80, for $350. He was released on his own recognizance to appear before Municipal Judge Silbert Monday to answer to the charge of ticket "scalping."

FEW CHANGES BY EQUALIZATION BOARD IN TAX VALUATIONS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 9.—With the exception of a few minor changes and corrections, the State Board of Equalization announced today that it would approve the valuations placed upon all classes of property in the State by the Tax Commission, a list of which was published several weeks ago.

The total valuation of all property in the State, as fixed by the Tax Commission, was $2,694,190,174, divided as follows: Land, $734,200,304; city lots, $1,138,895,179; personalty, $598,416,187; public service corporations, $222,572,504.

THOMAS RUNS AS 'NATIONALIST'

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 9.—United States Senator Charles S. Thomas today filed with the Secretary of State his acceptance of the nomination for the United States Senate on the so-called Nationalist ticket.

In a statement explaining why he refused to seek the Democratic nomination and then consented to run as "Nationalist" candidate, he declared the major parties have given the people "no clear-cut issue to attract or repel them."

Oyster Bay Population Declines.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Oyster Bay town, including Farmingdale and Seacliffe villages, is the only community in Nassau County that lost population during the last ten years, according to census figures made public today by the Census Bureau. In 1910 Oyster Bay had 21,802. Its present population is 20,296, a decrease of 1506.

LOST HATS LEAD TO ARRESTS IN TWO ROBBERIES

Ex-Convict, Held as Result of Loss of Hat in Attack on Chauffeur, Accused Also in Store Holdup.

OTHER CASE IS PAYROLL ROBBERY

Headgear Found After Holdup on Cass Avenue Found to Fit Man Recently Released From Workhouse.

Lost hats, one dropped by a man who overpowered and tied the driver of a service car, and the other left behind by one of three men who took $1200 in a payroll robbery, caused arrests on suspicion in both cases yesterday.

Harry I. Moore, 26 years old, a former convict, arrested as a result of the loss of the hat in the service car attack, is now charged with robbery in the first degree in two cases, a warrant having been issued in one case. The man arrested as the suspected owner of the hat found at the scene of the payroll robbery, which took place at 11:30 a. m. yesterday in a hallway at 1310 Cass avenue, is Christy Dunn, 28, who was released from the Workhouse recently.

Thursday evening, William B. Franklin of 2539 North Grand avenue, a service car driver, was called to a saloon at 2941 Olive street by a "Mr. Brown," who ordered him to drive out Easton avenue. At Warne avenue the passenger stopped the machine at the point of a revolver, then tied Franklin's arms behind his back and threw him on the floor of the tonneau.

"Brown," then drove west in zigzag fashion until he collided with a telephone pole in front of 4841 Easton avenue. The windshield was smashed and the machine badly damaged. Near the scene of the accident, after "Brown" had disappeared and neighbors had released Franklin, a black felt hat with the initials "H. I. M." in the inner band was found.

Arrested at Father's Home.

Detective-Sergeant Roach and Special Officers Sullivan, Adams, Delaney and McCune, working on the case, recognized the initials as those of Moore, whom they knew as an ex-convict and police character. At 2 a. m. yesterday the officers trailed Moore, who claims to be a plumber, to the home of his father, who is a plumber, at 5875 Garfield avenue.

The elder Moore said his son was not at home, but Harry Moore was found, partly clothed, trying to hide at one end of the bathtub. Several freshly dressed cuts were on his face.

Franklin yesterday identified Moore as the "Mr. Brown" who tied him and wrecked his machine. A warrant charging robbery in the first degree was issued in this case.

Identified in Store Holdup.

One of the crimes of last Tuesday, Veiled Prophet's night, was the robbery of Charles Benz and two customers in his confectionery store, 527 De Baliviere avenue. A man entered at 10:40 p. m., said "Stick 'em up," as he flourished a revolver, and took $20 from the cash register, $40 from Benz's pockets, $55 from John Barrett of 5568 Waterman avenue and $15 from Robert Lane of St. Louis County, the latter two being customers.

Mrs. Benz, who was present; Benz and Barrett yesterday identified Moore as the man who had robbed them. He is charged by the police with robbery in this case, which will be presented to the Circuit Attorney tomorrow.

Moore denied both charges. He explained the cuts on his face as resulting from a fall down the steps of his home Thursday evening, the night Franklin says "Brown" smashed the windshield of his automobile. The hat which was found near Franklin's auto has a cut in it, apparently from glass. Moore denied the hat belonged to him.

Moore was released from the State penitentiary April 2 at the expiration of a four year term for burglary. He had served 11 months of a previous four-year term, beginning in 1915, when Gov. Major is said to have pardoned him.

Two others appeared, one of whom had a revolver. While one pointed a weapon at him the others took $1200 in bills from an inside coat pocket and some silver from an outside pocket.

$1200 of Payroll Taken.

In the payroll robbery, shortly before noon yesterday, the man robbed was Charles F. Beehler of 1833 Hogan street, treasurer of the Beehler Steel Products Co., 1439 North Thirteenth street.

Beehler had drawn $1200 from the Cass Avenue Bank for the payroll, and was walking toward the factory. A young man was lounging

Taft Says Harding's Election Insures League With Reservations

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 9.

ELECTION of Senator Warren G. Harding to the presidency of the United States will mean the ultimate ratification of the League of Nations, with reservations, and "the elimination of all further dispute," William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, declared upon his arrival here today at the head of the Arbitration Board of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

ST. LOUIS CONVICT ESCAPES FROM PRISON IN BARREL

Conceals Self by Means of False Bottom and Is Shipped Out as Leather Stays.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 9.—Edward Bray, a St. Louis convict serving a 12-year term in the penitentiary for burglary, concealed himself in a barrel with a false bottom today and was shipped out as leather stays from the stay factory in the prison. He was hauled on a truck to the railroad depot at North Jefferson and weighed up with other freight. The barrel, Bray and all, weighed 190 pounds.

Later when the agent started to load the barrel on the train, he noticed that all but about 25 pounds of the weight had vanished. Examination revealed that the head of the barrel had been sawed out from the inside, and that it contained only a few stays and a false bottom.

The prison was notified and the authorities began checking up the convicts. Bray was missing. Prison officials and bloodhounds are searching for him. Bray was sent to the prison in May, 1919.

FERRY BOAT TRAFFIC TO BE SUSPENDED DURING LOW WATER

Wiggins Boats Have Difficulty Approaching Bank, and Likely Will Stop Running Tomorrow.

The running of the Wiggins Ferry Co. boats, Julius S. Walsh and W. S. McChesney Jr., between the Spruce street wharf and East St. Louis, probably will be discontinued tomorrow because of low water, it was announced at Terminal Association headquarters yesterday. The stage of the river, as shown yesterday on the Market street gauge, was 2.8 feet above low water mark.

There is enough water in midchannel to run the boats, ferry employes say, but the approach to the bank on this side has become a delicate matter. As the Weather Bureau predicts a further fall in the river, the suspension of ferry traffic may continue for a considerable time.

DIAMOND WEIGHS 183.15 CARATS

Gem, Formerly Property of Sultan of Morocco, Brought to U. S.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Fred Whittram of the Mercantile Bank of America, who arrived on the liner Aquitania today, carried with him a straw-colored diamond weighing 183.15 carats.

Whittram, who has been the Madrid manager of the Mercantile bank for five years, said the stone belonged to Abo-El-Hafid, former Sultan of Morocco, who abdicated in favor of his brother, the present Sultan. Abo-El-Hafid lives in Madrid and gave the diamond to Whittram to dispose of for him. Customs officers took it to the appraisers' stores.

SAYS SHOOTING WAS ACCIDENT

Man Blinded by Girl Sues for $20,000 Insurance.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Julius Jonas, former sales manager of a local concern, who was shot through the head and rendered totally blind several months ago by Pauline Moglitsche, filed two suits for $10,000 each today against the Minnesota Commercial Men's Association and the Travelers' Protective Association of America to collect accident insurance. The petitions claim the shooting was an accident because the girl was not in her right mind.

Miss Moglitsche killed herself after shooting Jonas, who is married and the father of two children.

SINN FEINERS USE WIRELESS

Collapsible Aerials Being Manufactured by Hundreds.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Wireless is playing a prominent part in the Sinn Feiners' campaign in Ireland, and they are manufacturing portable sets in hundreds, says the Daily Sketch.

This accounts for the rapid concentration of men in unexpected places, and the Sinn Feiners' knowledge of the movement of troops. The collapsible aerial which Sinn Fein is employing can be quickly set up and as quickly taken down.

$3,000,000 for Leviathan Refused.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The contingent bid of $3,000,000 offered by the France and Canada Steamship Co. for the former German liner Leviathan has been rejected by the shipping board. Announcement that the Leviathan is still on the market was made by Admiral Benson.

3 PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEES TO BE HERE THIS WEEK

Speeches by Cox at Coliseum Tomorrow Night, Harding at Coliseum and Christensen at Armory Saturday.

COX AND HARDING TO STOP HERE TODAY

Democratic Candidate to Arrive at 6:55 A. M. and Depart at 7:15—Senator to Arrive at 7:40 P. M.

Three Presidential nominees will speak in St. Louis this week, Gov. Cox of Ohio, Democrat, at the Coliseum tomorrow night; Senator Harding of Ohio, Republican, at the Coliseum Saturday night, and Parley P. Christensen of Utah, Farmer-Laborite, at the First Regiment Armory Saturday night. Cox and Harding will be in St. Louis today, each for a short time, Cox this morning and Harding tonight.

Cox will arrive at 6:55 a. m. over the Pennsylvania from Terre Haute, Ind., and will depart twenty minutes later over the Illinois Central for Springfield, Ill.

Harding will arrive over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas from Oklahoma City at 7:40 p. m. and will depart over the Big Four at 9:45 p. m. for Marion.

Because of the early hour it is expected that there will be little demonstration for Cox at Union Station this morning, though Sunday morning a week ago he received an ovation when he paused for a few minutes on his way back to Dayton from his long western trip.

Chairman Strodtman of the Republican City Committee and Chairman Hughes of the Republican State Committee planned yesterday to have a number of their party workers at the station tonight to extend greetings to Harding, who has just finished a tour which took him through Nebraska, Iowa, Western Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Cox Here Tomorrow Night.

Cox will spend today and tonight in Springfield, resting, and will speak there at noon tomorrow, after which he will depart for East St. Louis, where he is scheduled to arrive at Relay Station at 5:30 p. m. He will be met by a committee appointed by the Democratic City Committee and Women's City Committee of East St. Louis and taken to the City Hall for a meeting.

A committee from St. Louis, comprising Chairman Yancey of the Democratic State Committee and Chairman Mestres of the City Committee; Mrs. R. E. Oldfather, chairman of the Women's City Committee; Mrs. J. W. McKnight, chairman of the Women's State Committee; Gov. Gardner, National Committeeman Goltra, Judge Daniel G. Taylor and others will attend the East St. Louis meeting and afterward will bring Cox across Eads Bridge to St. Louis.

If Cox has not dined on his special train before the East St. Louis meeting, he will be taken to Goltra's home for dinner, and in any event likely will go there to rest for a time before going to the Coliseum meeting.

The Democratic City Committee, in charge of the meeting, has provided a band, and has reserved 1600 seats, 600 of them for disabled soldiers and 1000 for newspaper men of Missouri and Illinois and their families. The disabled soldiers from the United States Public Health Service Hospital will be conveyed to the meeting in special street cars, while 35 soldiers and nurses from Jefferson Barracks will be taken there in automobiles to be arranged for by Circuit Attorney McDaniel.

Meeting Open to Public.

No cards will be required of the general public.

National Committeeman Goltra will open the meeting, over which Gov. Gardner will preside. John M. Atkinson, nominee for the governorship, and Breckinridge Long, nominee for the United States Senate, will make short addresses.

In the special reception committee appointed by the State and City Committees all factions of the party are represented. In addition to this committee about 1100 vice presidents representing all of the wards have been named by the various

COX PUTS YOUNG T. R. IN ANANIAS CLUB, CHARGING MISSTATEMENT ON LEAGUE

Reiterates Lodge Is "Base Conspirator;" Says Harding Invites Reproach of United States by Misleading Public.

By the Associated Press.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 9.—The issue of "League or no League" today was the battle cry of Gov. Cox in a rushing day of campaigning through Southern Indiana.

Gov. Cox, in 14 speeches, through Indiana from the Ohio River to Terre Haute, closing with a tent mass meeting here tonight, centered his fire on the Des Moines speech of Senator Harding.

In his League preachments, Gov. Cox charged young Theodore Roosevelt with misstating the League could declare war and send troops abroad. Reasserting that Congress only has such authority, Gov. Cox said, "some real friends of the great Roosevelt, if there be any who are on speaking terms with the reactionary crowd now in control of the Republican party, should set this boy right concerning the fundamentals of the League. It is a pitiable spectacle to see this son of a great sire shamelessly paraded before the public.

"Out of respect for the memory of his illustrious father, someone should take this juvenile statesman aside and in primer fashion, make plain what really ought to be obvious. Such eminent statesmen as Judge Taft and former Attorney-General Wickersham, who, for the sake of party victory, have sacrificed principles to their partisanship, in associating with the reactionery candidate, should instruct Mr. Roosevelt Junior in the A B C's of the League by reading to him their own lucid interpretations of the covenant, published before the subject had become a football of politics."

Urges Defeat of Senators.

Blasts at the "Senatorial oligarchy" were continuous in the Governor's Indiana tour. He reiterated charges that Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, was "the basest conspirator in all history," and urged defeat of Senators who signed the round robin against the League.

"Any man who signed the round robin against the most humane instrument in the world does not deserve a place in the Senate," said the Governor, referring to its signature by Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana. The Governor said Senator Watson was a member of the oligarchy" and asked virtually all of his Hoosier audiences to vote for Tom Taggart, Democratic senatorial candidate. Taggart, with State Chairman Bosse and other Indiana Democratic leaders, accompanied Gov. Cox through today's tour.

Old-Fashioned Campaign.

Gov. Cox declared today's tour was "old-fashioned American campaigning." Traveling by special train from Louisville, the Governor spoke at New Albany, Salem, Orleans, Borden, Mitchell, Bedford, Bloomfield, Linton, Dugger, Sullivan, Shelburn and Farmersburg.

Instead of spending Sunday here as had been planned, Gov. Cox arranged to leave tonight and spend Sunday in Springfield, Ill., where he resumes his campaign Monday with a night speech scheduled at St. Louis.

Wet and Irish Questions.

Among numerous questions asked the Governor by audiences was whether he favored repealing the prohibition law.

"I am opposed to the enactment of any law which in any way is in conflict with the Eighteenth Amendment as interpreted by the Supreme Court," was the candidate's answer.

"The question has been raised as to whether you owe your nomination to the wet influences?" was another question, and the Governor replied that he refused to go to San Francisco because he intended to be "under obligations to nobody."

"And in consequence of that," the Governor added, "I am absolutely a free man."

Gov. Cox criticised Senator Harding's position on the Irish question, stating:

"The candidate of the senatorial crowd says that the Irish question does not concern America at all, that it isn't of our business. I deny it. We are all a part of the sons of God, we are all a part of humanity of the earth and we want justice to prevail everywhere on God's footstool."

Gov. Cox On Mexico.

At his meeting here tonight on the Court House plaza, Gov. Cox was asked about the Mexican question.

"A lot of people in this country have bought oil and pasture tracts in Mexico for nothing practically," the Governor replied, "because it is dangerous to live down there. If you remove the danger the property will be very valuable, but you can't remove the danger unless we go in and shed a lot of American blood.

"I'm not going to turn the blood of American soldier boys into coin of the realm for a group of American oil investors," the Governor added, while the crowd cheered.

Another question was whether the League would supplant nationalism with internationalism.

"No," the Governor replied. "The day has come when we must establish a new order in the world."

Cox Denounces Harding Statement on Wilson Position.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 9.—Attack upon the Des Moines speech of Senator Harding, Republican presidential candidate, was continued today by Gov. Cox.

Gov. Cox denied the Senator's statement that President Wilson had insisted upon ratification "without the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i" and declared that Senator Harding should "apologize for misleading the public."

Following up his fire upon his opponent's Des Moines speech Gov. Cox cited President Wilson's letter to Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, approving the Hitchcock reservations, to contradict the Senator's statement regarding President Wilson.

"Invites Reproach of a Nation."

"In making such a statement," said Gov. Cox, "Mr. Harding is inviting the reproach of the nation. Our people are so aroused at the revelation of the plot to defraud the dead of the lasting peace for which they fought that they are in no temper to have the truth trifled with.

"In charity of judgment, I want to give the Senator the benefit of the doubt by assuming that in this matter he simply does not know what he is talking about."

Gov. Cox added that there was "more than one frank exchange" between President Wilson and Senators regarding league amendments, and that although Senator Harding "dodged 1163 roll calls" he was present to vote against the Hitchcock reservations.

PUMPKIN PIE FEAST HELD AT BELLEVILLE PUBLIC MARKET

Woman, Vegetable Stand Owner for 25 Years, Is Host to Friends Before Going Away.

Yesterday was pie day at the public market in Belleville. It was the farewell of Mrs. George L. Sandherr of the Lebanon road, who for 25 years conducted a vegetable stand and was one of the best known business women on the market. Mrs. Sandherr provided a big pumpkin pie spread for the other stand owners and for her regular customers. She brought 50 pumpkin pies to the market and served cuts of pie and a cup of coffee to everyone.

Mrs. Sandherr, her husband and daughter, will depart shortly for Oakland, Calif., to make their home.

DEALERS MUST SHARE PROFITS ON 1918 WOOL WITH GROWERS

Those Who Refuse Will Be Prosecuted—More Than $1,000,000 in Excess Profits Made.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Dealers who handled the 1918 wool crop and made excessive profits are being required to distribute their earnings among the growers. Those who refuse will be prosecuted. This announcement was made today by Secretary of Agriculture Meredith.

President Wilson by an order of December 31, 1918, turned over to the bureau of markets in the Department of Agriculture the unfinished work of the wool section of the War Industries Board. This involved a checking up of profits by dealers.

More than $1,000,000 in excess profits were made by the wool dealers, the bureau finds. Of this approximately $460,000 has been turned over to the bureau for distribution to dealers.

SENATOR ASSERTS IT IS TIME TO TURN TO LIFE'S PRACTICALITIES

Republican Candidate for President Asserts That British Are Out to Control Oil Supply and Thus Dominate Industry in the Future.

CAN'T DICTATE ON IRISH PROBLEM

Inspiring as Plan of World Peace Might Be, He Says, Nation's Slogan Must Be, "America First;" Discusses Racial Question.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Oct. 9.—Again thrusting at the foreign policy of the Wilson administration, Senator Harding told the voters of Democratic Oklahoma tonight that, while the American Government was beguiling them with idealistic notions of a new social era, the other nations had reached out to dominate the commerce and industry of the world through control of the petroleum supply.

British interests, in particular, declared the Republican presidential nominee, had put their hands on petroleum resources in many quarters of the globe, foreseeing a day when oil would become the mainspring of transportation and material progress. He said it was high time that United States also gave attention to material well-being and stood behind American promoters in their effort to give the nation a self-reliant place in industry.

Questioning whether other powers have "taken very seriously" the "self-abnegating aims which the Washington Government has been proclaiming," the Senator also assailed again the League of Nations and said he wanted no voter to be in doubt about his determination to stay out of the covenant. Inspiring as a plan of world peace might be, he declared, the nation's slogan in all its policies must be "America first."

Senator Harding's night speech, last of his mid-western trip, was delivered at the State Fair Grounds near Oklahoma City. Earlier in the day he had made several rear-platform speeches on his way across Kansas and Oklahoma, and had detailed his agricultural and League of Nations policies to a gathering of several thousand in the Wichita Forum.

Crowds Greet Candidate.

Cheering crowds greeted the nominee at all of his stops, and in Oklahoma City his train was met by a throng which packed the streets for more than a block. Through the downtown section he was cheered by a crowd which extended far out beyond the curb. At Arkansas City, Kan., the crowd covered the plaza about the railway station, and at Ponca City, Ok., the gathering was so large that his voice did not carry to its outskirts. Other cities in which he spoke from his train were South Winfield, Kan., and Perry, Guthrie and Edmond, Ok.

At Ponca City, when a farmed handed a printed circular quoting him as advocating doller wheat, the candidate characterized the statement as a "miserable, silly old lie," and, crumpling up the paper, tossed it back into the crowd. He said the story started from his having remarked in the Senate once that he could remember when, in normal times dollar wheat was very desirable.

"Why, if you wanted to refer back to Bryan's day," he continued, while the crowd yelled again, "you would have shouted your heads off to get a dollar a bushel. But that does not apply now."

Turning eastward from Oklahoma City late tonight, the candidate's train will reach St. Louis tomorrow evening, and Marion at noon Monday.

RESPONSIBILITY OF PARTY IS MAJOR ISSUE, HOOVER SAYS

Former Food Administrator Criticises Democrats for Making League of Nations Political Matter.

CALLS IT FAILURE IN STATESMANSHIP

Declares Republicans Have Pledged Themselves to Put Into Being the Principle of the League.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 9.—Herbert Hoover, entering the presidential campaign in behalf of the Harding-Coolidge ticket with an address today before the Columbia Club of Indianapolis, declared that the major issue was party responsibility and expressed at length his views on the League of Nations.

"Inasmuch as 40 nations, comprising three-quarters of the people of the globe, have embraced the 'League of Nations' as a term expressing certain ideas, I prefer that term, but I care little for terminology," said Hoover. "The essential thing is that the Republican party has pledged itself by platform, by the actions of its majority in the Senate, by the repeated statements of Senator Harding, that they undertake the fundamental mission to put into living being the principle of an organized association of nations for the preservation of peace. The carrying out of that promise is the test of the entire sincerity, integrity and statesmanship of the Republican party.

Against Unmodified Covenant.

"The Republican party has indeed pledged itself against the unmodified covenant and those who support the party are indeed voting against some of the methods of the covenant in putting this great principle into action. But this position of the party is as far as daylight from dark from the attitude of those who wish no league or no association for those purposes.

"If there be persons supporting the Republican party today on the belief or hope that this party is the avenue to destruction of this great principle, that the party will not with sincerity and statesmanship carry out their pledges to bring it into effect, then they are counting on the insincerity and the infidelity of the Republican party and its nominee for the presidency.

Confident It Will Not Fail.

"I do not believe it would fail, or I would not be here at this moment. If, by any chance, it should fail, it will have made a deeper wound in the American people than the temporary delay in our adherence to a league of nations. It will have destroyed the confidence of our people in party government; it will have projected us into the dangerous path of party realignment. Out of these paths grow radicalism, reaction and the domination of extremists in government.

"My personal view with regard to the practical development of a league is that some articles in the present treaty must be abandoned, and some modified. But a great many parts of the present treaty are good, and intertwined with the stability of the world. They offer opportunity to secure co-operation of the great majority of nations who have joined it. Therefore, I believe that in keeping faith with the promise to use all that is good in the covenant for the development of the great principle to which it has pledged itself practical Republican statesmanship must build upon the foundations of the existing treaty, and include in it the great step forward in international justice now settled by Senator Root.

"Belongs to No Party."

"The issue of this principle of proper organized action of nations to prevent war will not down. It belongs to no party, and no creed. It will be the critical issue of forward-looking men in all nations until it succeeds in finally overthrowing militarism as a basis of world relations."

The major issue "today and for the future of our country," Hoover said, "is party responsibility."

"As ours is a Government that must be based on parties," he said, "it is fundamental that when a party fails in statesmanship, or fails to carry out its promises, it must accept the penalties of that failure: it should be retired that its leadership may be reformed.

"This is the real issue, and is immensely more deeply seated than superficial partisanship.

Says Administration Has Failed.

"I believe that since the armistice the present administration has made a failure by all the tests that we can apply. No man would be so narrow as to condemn the patriotism of one-half of his countrymen.

"But if we are to maintain and sustain party government, if we are to hold through this our only means of expression of the will of the majority, any party that fails as a party should and must be retired from office."

Hoover reviewed the support given by the Republican party to winning the war.

"But with victory accomplished, the leaders of the Democratic party, disregarding this co-operation, decided to ignore one-half of the people of the United States and to make peace alone. Here, I believe, lies the beginning of its failure in statesmanship.

"We have simply drifted in the last two years. In political leadership, this party has at least for the present ceased to function."

REPUBLICAN FUND UP TO THURSDAY WAS $3,831,772

Treasurer Upham, Giving Out Figure, Says Committee Plans to Collect $1,047,269.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Contributions to the Republican campaign fund up to Thursday totaled $2,031,772.24, which does not include $1,800,000 which was contributed before the Chicago convention. Thus the total amount received is $3,831,772.24, and the National Committee intends to collect $1,047,269 more before the election.

These figures were made public by Fred Upham, treasurer of the National Committee, in response to an editorial which was printed in the Post-Dispatch Sept. 3 under the caption, "Open the Books." The Democratic National Committee already had responded by making public the amount it had received.

Upham's statement shows that the Republicans have collected, for national and State purposes, since the convention, more than eight times as much as the Democrats have. In the latest statement made at Democratic headquarters last Monday, it was said that the Democratic fund was still less than $250,000. In other words, the Republican collections in New York alone are almost twice as much as the entire Democratic fund, and Republican contributions in Illinois and in Ohio are greater than the total Democratic fund.

$31,122 in Missouri.

Upham said the commitee is spending the money as fast as it is received.

The total budget which the Republicans propose to raise is $3,079,037, in addition to the $1,800,000 which was contributed before the convention, and of which there was more than $100,000 left over after the convention, Upham said. Democratic leaders have testified, at the Senate Investigating Committee hearings, that $2,000,000 would be enough for their needs.

Up to Thursday the Republicans had collected $31,122.17 in Missouri since the convention, but Upham told the correspondent that he expected $50,000 more would be collected in St. Louis alone by A. L. Shapleigh, in charge of contributions, between now and election.

"If we hadn't placed a limit of $1000 on contributions, I could have gone out in a week and got the entire three million from one street in New York and half a street in Chicago," Upham declared. He was asked which streets he had in mind.

Republicans Spending $150,000 for Films Boosting Candidates

THE Republican campaign managers are spending $150,000 boosting their candidates through the "movies," Treasurer Upham told the Post-Dispatch correspondent. This goes for plates with the candidates' pictures, and similar matter, which the theater owners are paid to display on their screens. It comes under the head of publicity, Upham said.

"The business men of the country are against this administration," said Upham, who is president of The Consumers Co., one of the largest coal companies in the country. "Recently we had a dinner in Detroit for business men. Ordinarily there would have been 60 or 80 there. There were 250, and we raised $100,000 for the campaign fund in less than an hour."

He gets a statement each day setting forth the contributions to date. The statement showed that those received Wednesday totaled $16,317.06.

"Cox did us a great service when he called attention to the campaign fund," Upham said. "Until this year 80 per cent of our contributions always had come from the East, the principal source, of course, being New York. After Cox made his charges we began receiving money from all over the country. New England has only furnished a third of the total. When the attention of Republicans over the country was called to the fact that we needed money they sent it."

Records of the Missouri contributions, which Upham permitted the correspondent to examine, showed that the majority had come from St. Louis.

LOST HATS LEAD TO ARRESTS IN TWO ROBBERIES

in an open hallway, and as Beehler came near, he displayed a revolver and bade Beehler get into the hallway, then to hold his hands up and his head down.

Beehler Locked in Cellar.

He was then marched to the rear end of the hallway, where double doors led to the cellar. These were opened and he was marched down the steps and the doors closed with a chain. A 6-year-old girl living there, released him a few minutes later and he went to his office and notified the police.

A dark green hat was found in the hallway. Dunn, was arrested a half hour later at Seventeenth street and Cass avenue. He was wearing a new cap, and Special Officer Gerlach, who arrested him, says he saw Dunn bareheaded, near the scene of the robbery a short time before. Gerlach had not learned of the robbery at that time. Two other young men were with Dunn at the time when the policeman says he first saw him.

The green hat fits Dunn, the police say. He appeared to be intoxicated. Dunn was released from the Workhouse two weeks ago, after serving a term for burglary and larceny. Beehler, who held his head down by the robbers' orders, did not see the men well enough to say whether Dunn was one of them.

HUNDREDS MADE HOMELESS BY WISCONSIN FOREST FIRES

Two Persons Seriously Burned and Property Loss Is Estimated at $1,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Oct. 9.—Two persons have been seriously burned, hundreds are homeless and property valued at more than a million dollars has been destroyed in the forest fires which are sweeping Douglas County. Scores of farms have been wiped out and crops valued at more than $300,000 are a total loss. Only rain can remove the hazard. The towns of Dedham and Patheu were threatened with extermination tonight when a high wind arose. Many of the homeless have come to Superior and Duluth.

Navigation on Lake Superior has been hampered by the dense cloud of smoke. Wire communications are down and several towns in the southern part of the county are without lights.

Volunteers fought the flames all of Saturday, but have made little headway. The fires are rapidly spreading toward Lake Amnicon, where hundreds of summer cottages have been built.

Illustrated Lectures at W. U.

The annual illustrated lecture course at Washington University School of Fine Arts, by Prof. E. H. Wuerpel, director of the school, will begin Oct. 26. They are mainly for students and annual members, but open to others. The general subject is one that will extend over four years, the lectures being given weekly.

DEMOCRATIC FUND BEING SWELLED BY NUMEROUS GIFTS

"Match the President" Move Bringing in Many $500 Checks, While $100 Contributions Are Popular.

MANY DONATIONS COME FROM WOMEN

Mrs. C. H. McCormick Gives $1000, Charles R. Crane $7500 and Francis Burton Harrison $5000.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Things are looking up around the financial end of the Democratic national headquarters.

"The President's contribution seemed to be the one thing needed to awaken the Democrats of the country to their obvious duty, and our 'match the President' fund has proven a winner," said Treasurer Wilbur March. "We are getting the $500 checks at a gratifying rate, and there are, of course, many who can't reach quite that high, but are doing the best they can with checks from $100 upward. Of course our total will not compare with the volume of money under the control of our friends, the enemy. That is natural, because we are fighting the battle of the people against the power of concentrated wealth, and concentrated wealth knows that the surest way to get anything is to spend money, and they have the money to spend.

"But events of the past week, especially the wavering of Senator Harding on every vital issue, have done much to awaken the people to how necessary it is to the public welfare to elect Gov. Cox and they are all adding a little. Those that can't put a brawny shoulder to the wheel, are giving a hand, and if the ratio of increase continues as we have a right to expect it to continue, we will get through. But those with the welfare of the country at heart should be made to realize that every one's help is necessary. We are in a hard fight, and it is our patriotic duty to do our best.

"The most gratifying thing about our contributions is the great number that come from women. You will notice the names of many women among the principal contributors—you can spell it 'principle' contributors if you want, and you won't be wrong—but among the lesser donors, the givers of $25, $50 and $100, the percentage of women is greater still. This proves our contention that the women feel deeply on the League of Nations question, and are determined that if they can bring it about, they will defeat the candidate who now seems to feel that this country should hold aloof from any international agreement to prevent war."

$10 Total From St. Louis.

St. Louis did not keep up its stride of the previous week in the seven days ending last night. The total from the metropolis of the Mississippi Valley was $10, from one contributor. There was also $5 from one contributor in East St. Louis, and as Easterners generally think East St. Louis is part of St. Louis, the big city will get credit in the public mind hereabouts for this $5, and will be credited with a total of $685 to the fund up to date, when it should be only $680. H. M. Stone was the St. Louisan who gave the $10, and Justice Cleveland the East St. Louis man who gave the $5.

In Potosi, Mo., they had one of those small town collections which have been taken up in numerous places in the Democratic sections. As a rule, in these collections the contributions are $1, $2 and $3, but in Potosi there were more contributions of $1.25 than there were of $1 and quite a few of $2.50.

Contributions of $200 and Over.

Contributions of $200 and over to the Democratic campaign fund for the week ending Oct. 9:

DISPUTED SPEECH TO BE MADE PUBLIC BY PRESIDENT

White House Unexpectedly Obtains a Copy Which Proves Spencer's Statements Wrong.

COMPLETE ANSWER BEING PREPARED

Document Shows Quotations Made by Senator and Others Were Badly Garbled Versions of Original.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Post-Dispatch correspondent is able to announce that the White House is preparing a statement that will be a complete answer to Senator Spencer in his controversy with the President and an expose based on official records, of gross inaccuracies in the purported speech of the President published in the Congressional Record of Dec. 4.

It was on this published version of the President's remarks, first contained in an article by Frank H. Simonds, that Senator Spencer rested his defense. Simonds had since vouched for the authenticity of his version "subject only to the limitations incident to a translation first into French and then back into English."

The White House, as the correspondent in a position to know, was sincere in the recent statement that it is not believed there was on this side of the ocean an official report of the proceedings of the eighth plenary session.

Document Shows Up.

However, the nation-wide publicity given the Wilson-Spencer controversy has resulted in bringing to light from an unexpected source a document that will not only prove the President was accurate in his denial of the campaign statement by Spencer called to the President's attention by the Post-Dispatch, but will show that the remarks subsequently attributed to the President by Spencer and others are a badly garbled version of what the President really said.

The President did not tell a delegation of Rumanians and Serbs that if any nation ever invaded their territory he would send the American army across the seas to defend their boundary lines.

Moreover, he did not say what Spencer later asserted he said namely "You must not forget that it is force which is the final guaranty of the public peace. If the world is again to be troubled the United States will send to this side of the ocean their army and their fleet."

Misquoted by Simonds.

Finally he did not say what Simonds attributed to him, nor what Herbert Adams Gibbons attributed to him. There are enough resemblances between what the President really said that what his critics have quoted him as saying to make it obvious that the two reports—the authentic and the garbled versions—were made from the same speech.

Some of the President's language is the same in both, but the inaccurate report omits essential parts of his speech and places a false construction on other parts.

The one is a photograph; the other is like a rough pencil sketch of the same subject.

The President has consented to the forthcoming statement with reluctance. He took the view that his original flat denial should be sufficient. But since the controversy between him and Spencer has grown into a vital issue in the campaign he has yielded his personal preference in response to the urgings of advisors to demolish the campaign of misrepresentation about the league

America Must Get Back to Life's Practicalities, Says Harding

"But the star of petroleum's empire travels always from the exhausted fields to newly opened territory," he continued. "New fields must be opened, and before many years we will be compelled to draw upon other countries, even other continents, to provide for our own needs.

"We must turn again, now, after an excursion of some eight years into the realm of lofty, and, no doubt, most ennobling idealism, to a national consideration of some very plain practicalities of life. It has been a fine thing that so many should have been inspired during the war by the wish to effect arrangements that would prevent repetition of such a conflict. But, while our own administration has been seeking to produce such an ideal situation, what have been the real activities, the dominating concerns of other nations?

"Have we found them animated by the same lofty purposes and noble aspirations that have been proclaimed by our own 'single track' national leadership? I question whether other nations have taken very seriously the noble and self-abnegating aims which the Washington Government has been proclaiming. The plain fact is that, while our Government has been attempting to organize a model state of society, other great states have been looking about for the means to dominate the petroleum production of the world because of their conviction that in the control of petroleum they might find the power to control the commerce, the trade, the industry of the twentieth century world.

British Competition.

"Our forehanded British competitors have been at the front in seeking to control the future production of mineral oil. We have just been learning something about the extent to which they have succeeded in taking over the world's resources of oil. An eminent British authority recently declared that the British empire now controls more than 90 per cent of the world's known supplies. He ventured to boast that the petroleum future of the world, in this new motor age, was now securely in the hands of the British peoples.

"Surely it must give pause to those of us who would like to take a reasonably practical view of the actual facts to note that, while our administration has been trying to impose its own copyrighted style of altruism upon all the world, the other great governments have been engaged in something very much like a scramble for the control of petroleum resources everywhere.

"We have seen Mesopotamia and Baku, Trinidad and Royal Dutch, the East Indies, Persia, Colombia and Mexico, all falling into the hands or under the influence of British oil interests. It has been freely charged and never seriously denied that some European governments have secured preferential agreements with certain countries, giving to European oil operators great and in some cases, substantially exclusive privileges in oil development. So far has this gone that there is real danger that Americans, who gave this industry to the world, may presently find themselves shut out from equal opportunities in the future.

Practicalities of Life.

"The truth is, and we have need to face it and recognize it, that under the present administration there has been such an intense engrossment with certain idealistic notions about international relations, that the plain, work-a-day phases of our dealings with the rest of the world have been sadly neglected. We need to get back to the practicalities of life, to make sure that Americans shall be guaranteed equal privileges and opportunities with the citizens of every other country, in the business and industrial activities of the world.

"All this may seem sordid when viewed through the eyes of idealism that has apparently forgotten such humdrum affairs as trade, international commerce and elemental American rights even exist. But it will none the less be highly appealing, I suspect, to those Americans who have been working for our national advancement under the handicap of governmental neglect and administrative hostility.

"We do not take issue with other nations which rightfully seek to further their own interest and widen their commercial influence, but I hold that we ought to be no less alert, and give like government encouragement and government assurance to those who think of America first. We do not mean to sanction greed, or do not mean to countenance unrighteous business, but we ought in all fairness stand back of the men who are giving genius and courage to the making of an eminent and self-reliant America amid the becoming ambitions of nations whose commerce is vital to their national life."

The Torch Light Parade.

Before his speech at the Fair Grounds, Senator Harding rode through the streets of the city at the head of an old-fashioned torchlight parade in which hundreds of local Harding boosters were joined by delegations from other Oklahoma and Texas cities. He spoke at the fair livestock pavilion, said to seat 5,000, and every place was taken, while hundreds stood in the aisles. Many were turned away and an overflow meeting was arranged at the racetrack grandstand.

When the nominee and Mrs. Harding entered the pavilion the crowd stood and cheered for more than five minutes and many times his speech was interrupted by cheering. Before he was presented, a Civil War fife and drum corps whooped it up for five minutes in the center of the platform under the lead of a grizzled drum major who, the chairman said, had "beat a drum at the election of Abraham Lincoln in the city of Jimmie Cox."

Mrs. Abbey Hilleman, a Republican nominee for presidential elector for this state, presented the nominee as a man whom the women of the country were proud to support for the presidency. The candidate got another minute of applause when he opened his speech with a declaration that his greatest ambition was to eliminate "the last vestige of sectionalism in the United States of America.

North and South.

"The only difference between the North and South in the last two decades have been to lack intimacy of understanding," he continued. "Had William McKinley lived I am sure he would have removed then the last vestige of sectional feeling. In our sacrifice of the great war I believe we Americans have so touched elbows that there really isn't tonight any North or South, but just one common country.

"I have not come to you to tell you how to solve your peculiar problems. Some one has asked my position on social equality. I can't come and answer that for you. That's too serious a problem for one to answer who doesn't know it as you do in your daily life. But I want you to know that I believe in equality between the law. You can't give rights to the white man and deny them to the black man. But while I stand for that great principle, I do not mean that the white man and the black man must be forced to associate together in the acceptance of their rights.

"Somebody asked me if I intended to revive the Force bill. The Force bill has been dead for a quarter of a century. And I'm only a normal American citizen and a normal man couldn't resurrect the dead if he wanted to. I don't believe in government through influence on the one hand or government of intimidation on the other.

On the Irish Question.

Saying he had been asked what he would do as president about the Irish question, Senator Harding voiced his sympathy for Irish aspirations, but said he did not consider it a subject for official action by this nation.

"The first thing I'm going to do," he said, "I'm going to join the friends of Irish freedom and make sure that no league of nations blocks their way to righteous aspirations. I don't mean that the United States officially should tell Great Britain what she should do about her own affairs, for I wouldn't let Great Britain tell us what to do about our affairs. I'm for a self-directed, self-contained United States of America."

Harding Doesn't Want Mortgaged Republic, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 9.—A nation "self reliant," agriculturally, industrially and politically," was espoused by Senator Warren G. Harding today in a morning address in the Wichita forum. Many farmers and students of the State Agricultural College were in the audience, and the Republican nominee outlined at length his policies for the protection of the American farmer.

Taking his cue from the argument for a self-reliant agricultural America, he restated his position on the League of Nations and repeated that he opposed going into the Versailles covenant or any other international agreement involving obligations like those of Article Ten.

"I haven't very much patience," said Senator Harding, "with a man who is more concerned with the lands across the sea than he is with our own. I don't want a mortgaged republic. I don't want a mortgaged manhood and womanhood in America, much less a mortgaged youth.

"The Democratic nominee for President has said he favors America going into the covenant as negotiated by the President at Paris. I'm not. I trust that makes my position reasonably clear.

Says President Forgot America.

"I found no fault with the President going abroad after the war. I thought it was a fine thing. But the President didn't stop to think of America when he was shaping this covenant for a super-government of the world."

The nominee continued that despite the President's opinion to the contrary, if the league called for war under Article 10, the nation would be "honor bound" to respond. He added that he wanted the nation to play its part in the world, but was not ready to lay down any specific plan.

"If I stood this morning and attempted to lay down the plans for future conduct of the world," he continued, "you'd think I was mad, as I would be. No one man is big enough to work out human destiny. I do not propose that one man shall make the plan; that's the trouble with the Paris plan now."

Under his administration, Mr. Harding said, a plan of world association for disarmament and peace would be worked out by common counsel. He declared he would seek advice in the task "without regard to partisan connections, and without regard to sex," adding that he was "willing to trust the judgment of the mothers of America."

Nation Should Put House in Order.

Turning to domestic questions, the nominee said he felt that the nation should "put its own house in order," rather than concern itself too much with international affairs. At home, he declared, there must be a policy to co-ordinate agriculture and industry to insure maximum production. As planks in his agricultural platform, the Senator argued for co-operative marketing; efficient transportation facilities; greater representation for farmers on governmental agencies; a scientific Government study of markets; and an end to price-fixing; reduction of tenancy and "a good, wholesome American policy of protection."

"I'm a protectionist," he said, "from the soles of my feet to the top of my head. I believe in American markets for American products first. It's only eight years since all the expenses of this country were paid by indirect taxation. It's different now. Of course, the war cost enormously, but I do believe an efficient Republican administration with a Republican policy and protection can materially cut down the cost of Government, and the cost of living."

Denies Thompson-Lowden Fight Keeps Harding Out of Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Senator Harry New, chairman of the Republican Speakers' Bureau, today explained the failure of Senator Harding to speak here Wednesday night, when he spent several hours in the city, and denied reports that the Republican nominee is being kept out of Illinois because of the factional fight between the Thompson and Lowden forces.

Efforts were made to obtain a hall here for Wednesday night, Senator New said, but the Coliseum, Stockyards Pavilion and Auditorium Theater, the only three large enough to accommodate the crowd expected, were unavailable.

The Senator may deliver several back platform speeches in Southern Illinois on his return to Marion after his St. Louis speech, Oct. 16, Senator New added.

After the present trip only two journeys away from Marion are contemplated, he said, and neither has been definitely decided on.

ASSASSINS CAN'T HELP IRISH, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Premier Can Sympathize With Self-Government Idea, He Declares, but Can't Be Bullied.

NO IRISH ARMY TO "AID OUR ENEMIES"

Home Rule Bill Would Give Domestic Management, He Says in Speech; Reprisals Provoked.

By the Associated Press.

CARNARVON, Wales, Oct. 9.—Various phases of the present Irish situation, chief among them the Sinn Fein attacks and consequent reprisals by the military and police, and the necessity for proceeding with a measure for self-government of the country occupied the greater part of a speech by Premier Lloyd George here today. He advocated the restoration of order, even if it entailed stern methods, because "we cannot permit the country to fall into complete anarchy." The "murderous gang" which was terrorizing Ireland, he said, must be broken up.

In speaking of the reprisals, Lloyd George argued that the police would not bomb houses and shoot men if there was no provocation. Policemen to the number of 238 had been shot, he declared, and of these 109 had been killed. This had tried the patience of the police to the breaking point.

Could Have Conscription.

As for self-government for Ireland, the Premier explained that if complete dominion home rule were accorded, Ireland could have conscription. In that case, he pointed out, England's army of 100,000 men might be confronted with an Irish army of 500,000. Conscription for England, Lloyd George said, must necessarily follow dominion home rule in Ireland.

The Premier declared "a real murder gang" is dominating Ireland, making it impossible for reasonable men to come together to consider the best way to govern the country.

"It is essential," he went on, "in the interest of Ireland, that the gang should be broken up and, unless I am mistaken, we shall do it. But, side by side with that, we must proceed with a measure for self-government in Ireland."

Lloyd George declared that if, as was contended, there was war in Ireland, then the war must be waged on both sides.

Killing of Policemen.

Referring to the killing of policemen, he said:

"While these murders were going on I never read a word of protest from the Sinn Fein in Ireland. Mr. Arthur Griffith (founder of the Sinn Fein), a very able and distinguished Irishman, communicated to the press of the United States—and I believe, to the English press—an interview the other day, in which he showed great concern at the prospect of what he thought was going to be an attack upon his own life. I do not believe there is any attack being concerted against his life, but I never saw a word from Arthur Griffith displaying any indignation at the killing of 109 policemen."

The Premier said that if there was a state of war in Ireland it would give the soldiers and policemen a fair chance, and they would give a good account of themselves.

Self-Government Ideal.

Lloyd George said he could understand and sympathize with the idea that self-government should be given because it would bring good will, but not because "a gang of assassins had bullied the Government into it." It was all very well, he continued, to talk about a dominion form of Government, but Ireland demanded an absolutely independent republic, and even that would not satisfy the Irish. He declared Ulster would not have an Irish republic and "we do not want to negotiate peace with civil war at our very door."

The Premier charged that Ireland had assisted the German submarine campaign and declared that, although little had been said about it, Ireland was Great Britain's worry during the war. Had anyone ever proposed "such lunacy," he demanded, as to allow Ireland to obtain her independence, with her own army and navy and her capacity for assisting Great Britain's enemies?

No one wanted to manage Ireland's domestic affairs, he said, but dangerous weapons like armies and navies were better under the control of the Imperial Parliament, and the Government would resist any attempt to give Ireland a separate navy and army. The present home rule bill, he declared, would have given Ireland every possible facility to manage her own home domestic affairs.

In connection with the charge that Ireland assisted Germany during the war, Mr. Lloyd George asserted that in 1917 and 1918 the Irish were conspiring in connection with German submarine operations, and that there were documents discovered in the pockets of men arrested in 1919 showing that they were prepared within two months of the German offensive—of which they knew—to raise a huge force in Ireland "to stab Great Britain in the back when she was engaged in a life and death struggle for the freedom of the world."

Norman Hapgood Contrasts the Nominees, Tells Why Liberals Should Support Cox

Former Minister to Denmark Declares Republican Candidate Doesn't 'Hear Voices in Air,' but Gets Orders to Persecute President.

How the Choice in This Election Is Viewed by a Notable Independent

MR. TAFT tried the policy of going backward, and when he ran for re-election he carried two small States. If Mr. Harding wins in November, his party will be snowed under in 1924, and nothing will have been accomplished except deeper class cleavage at home, a worsening of the world situation beyond our borders, and taxation for a great navy that we shall not need if he makes the League of Nations a success. It will be a heavy price to pay for vengeance on one sorely burdened man.

So there is the choice before the American public. It can take Harding, meaning Penrose and Lodge, Johnson and Borah, Fall and Smooth; or it can take Cox, on a bold but moderate platform of forwardness and cooperation, meaning liberalism continued; emaning, not the avoidance of solutions, but the search for them; emaning in all seach for them; meaning in all fields the study not of war but of constructive bases for peace; meaning that safety lies not in a hopeless longing gaze behind but in a careful and confident study of the path that rises winding and beckoning up the steeps ahead.

During my time of active life the independent voters have not lost a presidential election. They could not accept Bryan in 1896, 1900 and 1908. They supported Roosevelt against Parker in 1904. They were divided in 1912, and they saved Wilson in 1916. In spite of public inertia, materialism and weariness, they may well give the victory to Cox in 1920. They will do so if the country is awake to what the election means.—From Norman Hapgood's article in the Yale Review.

NORMAN HAPGOOD, recently United States Minister to Denmark and formerly editor of Collier's Weelky, in an article entitled "Liberal or Reactionary," in the current number of the Yale Review (New York), discusses the issues of the presidential campaign and the candidates who represent them. The Post-Dispatch has been granted permission to reproduce herewith a part of that article.

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

To a Republican friend of peculiar candor I put the question: "When you vote for Harding, what will you be voting for?" "For the class into which I was born," he replied, "and for government by the stronger elements in society. Also I shall be voting against a sentimental and socialistic attitude towards labor."

Most men lie to me when I ask Socratic questions, but this man told the truth. The Republican party, as it was led at Chicago and as it is represented by Harding, is a protest against inevitable industrial evolution. It is a rallying of the forces that believe in political and economic and social control by a plutocracy. They believe in the kind of leadership that emerges under the present system. Their faith is genuine and passionate, and it is neatly coincident with their personal and class possessions. I hate to think what would happen to the spirits of one of these men if he should go off on a hill with the Gospel according to Luke and actually believe the words he read. Gov. Cox on this subject speaks wisely as well as boldly and does well to challenge, in his formal speech of acceptance and in many speeches since, the senatorial oligarchy of Penrose, Lodge and Smoot.

It is a fair issue. This is not a world of certainties. We cannot even interpret the past with security, and how then can we be absolute about the future? Nevertheless, we must decide. There is no escape from a decision. A competent citizen of today may have tacks in his course, reefs in his sails, his eye on changing winds, but he must know in what direction he is trying to go. Various details will affect his action on men and measures, but he is always hoping to strengthen the world rule of a moneyed class or to shake it. Not to recognize that choice is to have no direction. It is either Harding with his "back to normal" or Cox with his "forward to normal."

Uncertainty As to Party Stand.

Since the issue took its present forms, after the Civil War, there has been uncertainty about which party would finally represent the firm stand of plutocracy and which would undertake to shake the existing privileges. The Democratic party would be at one moment conditioned by the intellectual shortcomings of Bryanism, at another by the banal materialism of the elements behind Parker. The Republican party, although on the whole true to the system of rule by money, has been worried by the political genius of Roosevelt and by the western rumblings of the insurgents. Eight years ago Woodrow Wilson, backed by Bryanism and by the clear purpose of intelligent liberals, beat down Democratic money at Baltimore and then forced his party to a series of historic measures, the most significant passed in our day. The Republicans, meantime, who had in 1908-12 gone over from the trend of Roosevelt and Dolliver to the trend of Aldrich and Penrose, of Smoot and Lodge, found their tendency still further confirmed in the following years by the fact of being in opposition to Mr. Wilson. As he stood for a guiding advance into the coming civilization, they must stand still more rigidly for a sullen backing towards the regretted haven of Mark Hanna.

When the Federal Reserve bill, a constructive and ominous blow at rule by a handful of bankers, was voted on in the United States Senate, it received the vote of exactly one Republican, and he is no longer a member. In 1919, when control of the Senate passed over to the Republicans, it did so by one vote. The very tides of destiny seemed to make it easy in 1920 for Mr. Penrose to exercise a decisive influence from one sick-bed and Mr. Wilson from another. The strength of these men would not have been enough. They were conclusively helped by the fact that the parties were almost controlled by their recent records. The nomination of Johnson or of Palmer might have frustrated this tendency towards a clear demarcation, but the nomination of neither was ever probable. The Republicans put up a man whose heart beat strong in sympathy with armor plate, and the choice of the Democrats was a governor whose toleration of labor discussion and general free speech had long been a scandal to boards of directors in adjoining states.

No Permanent Party Meaning.

While this is an issue that is permanent, political in its nature, and capable in the end of turning our two groping parties into a real conservative and a real liberal party, there is now another issue that has no permanent party meaning but is a mere struggle between responsibility and opposition. If Senator Lodge or Mr. Taft or Mr. Hughes or Mr. Root had been President, there is no reason why he might not have signed just such a treaty as was finally agreed upon by Mr. Wilson and the representatives of 34 other nations, and entered a League of Nations that has 29 members, including all our associates in the war except Russia, and including all the principal nations in the western hemisphere except Mexico, which is in an unsettled condition and will probably be glad to go in if we do, as the Central Powers also will be glad to go in if they are permitted to do so. If an absurd situation had not been brought about by the election of 1918, a situation that ought to be impossible in a parliamentary government, we should not today be the one important and settled power that is obstructing the success of the league and the quieting of the world. If Mr. Wilson had been supported in that election, the league would have been accepted in the form agreed upon by our representative and those of the other nations which carry the present responsibility for the resumption of peace and production. If his defeat had brought about the consequence of putting the other party actually in power, the Republicans, with a few slight changes to take away credit from their opponents, would have led the United States into cooperation with the rest of the world.

Delay Tactical Obstruction.

The delay is essentially a factional and tactical obstruction, even though the Republicans find themselves assisted by widespread parochial fear and also by a small group of liberals who believe the treaty and the League likely to impede radical movements. All of the opposition that has been serious in volume and effect has been partisanship playing on the easily aroused fears of masses who know nothing about the subject, but have a general idea that Europe, Asia, Africa and South America are bad places, and that the United States is God's own country. The damage done to civilization by the war does not seriously impress them, nor does the prospect that another such war might prostrate the world for a century.

If I did not take seriously the potential differences between the two big parties, I should have been more interested in the attempt of a few men this year to create a third party based on intellectual radicalism. The attempt lacked interest because the preparatory solid work had not been done in this country in the way it has been done for over twenty years in England, and because there is an excellent fighting chance of making one of the large parties sufficiently liberal to meet the present intellectual development of this country. The nomination of Cox makes this outcome more probable than it was before we knew who was to succeed Wilson. My choice was McAdoo, but next to him it was Cox, taking into consideration both strength as a candidate and fitness for the Presidency.

Tammany and Cox.

Naturally, if one believed Tammany and its allies really desired the Ohio governor, the circumstance would arouse suspicion, but obviously these predatory interests flocked to him merely because he was the one opportunity presented for them to score a victory over the men most hated by them, Wilson and McAdoo. The record of Cox is sufficient indication that the Tammany type will find him unsatisfactory. Bryan said of him in 1913:

"Look at Gov. Cox of Ohio. There is a reformer who asked thirty-six reforms and got thirty-six."

That is not the kind of executive Tammany would choose if it had a free choice. Cox's statements that he will try to be a real leader, conceiving the duties of the Presidency as they were conceived by Washington, Lincoln, Cleveland, Roosevelt and Wilson, are clear and unflinching. No pussyfooting for him.

Harding, on the other hand, is the type the machines adore. He it was who spoke of the former Republican machine leader of his State, now dead, Boss Cox, as the man for whom he felt "deference and devotion." He it was who followed Foraker unswervingly when that gallant friend of big graft led the fight against Theodore Roosevelt in Roosevelt's attempt to clean and liberalize his party. He is the same Harding who took orders from Penrose, Smoot and Lodge, and gloried in them. He is the same Harding who, when the forces of liberalism and reaction were bitterly lined up for months on the Brandeis case, voted to refuse to allow Mr. Brandeis to take his seat on the Supreme Court. I do not think this was because Brandeis is a Jew. More likely it was because Harding had received his orders. It is the same man who every day is boasting of his lack of higher aspiration, and who seems to find merit in his dream of going backwards. What we know about Cox indicates that in the nation, as he has done in Ohio, he will carry along, with courage and judgment, the tradition of freedom and the march step by step towards a juster world.

Even while, most of the country was stampeded into Prussianism, embodied in such men at Palmer and Sweet, Cox kept his principles and his head. * * *

The United States has been shockingly alarmed and stultified by fear these last years, and the blame belongs exclusively to neither party. In our hope of passing intelligently from one period of history to the next, instead of doing it by fits of rough action and reaction, it is of the first importance to have the leadership of brave men who study the future, like Gov. Cox, instead of timid reactionaries who conceive safety to lie in the attempt to find some haven in the rear. There is no haven in the rear. That the Governor of Ohio, in a time of panic, stood out against reaction is one of the surest proofs of his fitness to live and govern in a period of fundamental change.

"My vision," as he puts it himself, "does not turn back to the 'normal' desired by the Senatorial oligarchy, but to a future in which all shall have a normal opportunity to cultivate a higher stature amidst better environment than that of the past."

About the League of Nations Cox has shown the same perspective, the same courage and ability to think for himself. He has realized its importance and also the true nature and causes of the Lodge and Johnson opposition. It is ridiculous to allege, as Harding does, that Cox's attitude was dictated by Mr. Wilson. As far back as last March Cox declared that when our boys went across the sea they did not go with reservations. It was many weeks before his nomination that he gave out, in 139 short words, exactly the two suggested interpretative "reservations," if they are to be called so, which he repeated in his formal acceptance on the seventh of August. The first of these interpretations is almost taken out of the preamble to the League of Nations covenant itself. The second asserts what Cox says every American high school boy knows, but what worries certain Senators, that the United States will continue to be governed by its Constitution. As, however, Harding, Lodge and the more partisan newspapers continue to rely on this, trick, it may be well to ask whether even Mr. Wilson insisted on dotting "i's" and crossing "t's." Ex-President Taft, on Aug. 2, published an article in which he recalled the fact that the President sought his suggestions and had changes made in the Covenant in consequence of these suggestions. On Aug. 6, Mr. Taft said:

"I believe that it will be found that when President Harding approaches the 29 members who have already formed a league they will be reluctant to adopt some new form, especially if by that time the League shall have demonstrated its usefulness and practicability."

What Wilson Had to Meet.

Mr. Taft hopes Mr. Harding may return to the Lodge reservations, for which he once voted and which he afterward rejected at Senator Johnson's orders. But Senator Lodge has now rejected his own reservations! That is the sort of spirit Mr. Wilson was compelled to deal with. Let us look at what he actually did. In February, 1919, he returned from his first trip to Paris. He committed himself to nothing in regard to the details of the treaty, but called the committees on Foreign Relations and Foreign Affairs of the House and Senate into conference, showed them the tentative draft of the covenant of the League of Nations, took their suggestions back to Paris and procured the adoption of them all. Returning to this country again in July, Mr. Wilson again refrained from discussing the treaty until he had presented it to the Senate. In August he met the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations and said that there could be "no reasonable objection to interpretations accompanying the act of ratification provided they did not form a part of the formal ratification."

In February, 1920, the leaders on both sides reached an agreement on reservations, which was reported to the President by Senator Hitchcock, whereupon Mr. Wilson said, "I am glad to say that I can accept them as they stand," even though he looked upon the wording of the reservation about Article X as unfortunate. When Mr. Lodge heard of this acceptance by the President, he changed his reservation about Article X into such a form that the President could not accept it, and thus threw off the mask and took the position which he later took more frankly at Chicago when he said he would oppose a pro-League plank even if it were based on his own reservations.

How Lodge Has Shifted.

It is not easy to characterize temperately this kind of statesmanship. Senator Lodge thinks he is wronged because the charge of playing politics in the world's agony has for one of its specifications his statement in 1918 that a separate peace would be a national disgrace. That quotation, although it has been used by Mr. Hoover as well as by Mr. Cox and the Democratic platform, is not needed to show amply the change from eloquent adherence to the need of a League generously supported by the United States, before Mr. Wilson began his active support of the idea, to opposition and jeers afterward. In 1915 Mr. Lodge said:

"The great nations must be so united as to be able to say to any single country, 'You must not go to war,' and they can only say that effectively when the country desiring war knows that the force which the united nations put behind peace is irresistible."

Think that over, phrase by phrase, and see what you can make of Lodge's positions since. He began to jeer at the League long before he knew what it was going to be; long before Mr. Wilson came back from Paris. He began a series of weakening amendments before the time of his "reservations." At Chicago he triumphantly and bitterly exclaimed:

"We have stopped Mr. Wilson's treaty and the question goes to the people."

It is always because it is Mr. Wilson's.

"We make the issue," Lodge goes on, "we ask approbation for what we have done. The people will now tell us what they think of Mr. Wilson's League and its sacrifice of America."

It is not the League of 29 nations. It is always Mr. Wilson, the man who happens to be hated by his personal and political opponent, and for this hatred the nations must suffer. Conditions different then.

Conditions Different Then.

When conditions were reversed, after the Spanish war, and the President was a Republican, this is what was said by Senator Lodge:

"Suppose we reject the treaty; what follows? Let us look at it practically. We continue the state of war, and every sensible man in the country, every business interest, desires the re-establishment of peace in law as well as in fact. At the same time we repudiate the President and his action before the whole world, and the repudiation of the President in such a matter as this is to my mind the humiliation of the United States in the eyes of civilized mankind, and brands us as a people incapable of great affairs or of taking rank where we belong, as one of the greatest of the great world-powers."

How infinitely more critical is the situation now. * * *

Senator Harding boasts that he does not "hear voices in the air." Was there ever a lower boast? He hears the voices of Penrose and Lodge telling him to persecute the President of his country in the pursuit of nothing higher than party tactics.

In his talk about Wilson's league, and a one-man league, nothing is said about Cecil, Lloyd George or Smuts; nothing about ratification by the British Parliament, the French Parliament, the Italian Parliament; nothing about the membership accepted by 29 nations, some of them placed in as hazardous positions as Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and Denmark, all of them free parliamentary countries, and yet not one standing off and whining about responsibilities as our huge country does, protected by 3000 miles of sea. No, there is nothing of all this. What is exploited is merely the hatred of one man whose fate it has been to lead through more than seven years of infinite complexity; and that hate is perhaps not more bitter than was shown against Lincoln in the summer of 1864.

Two Other Republican Planks.

Two other planks in the Republican platform ought to be considered, especially when the platform is to be interpreted by a candidate who does not "hear voices in the air" and who never tires of inferior rhetoric about "America first." One of these planks is "America first" with a vengeance. It deals with Panama tolls, and nothing more blatantly dishonorable was ever written into an American platform. The Evening Post of New York says that it "is a combination of subsidy to shipowners, a repudiation of a treaty, and an injury to our recent associates in the world war."

Even Elihu Root declares that such a policy would make the nation

"Like unto a man known to be false to his agreement, false to his

FIRE DEPARTMENT PARADES THROUGH BUSINESS SECTION

March, Drill and Life-Saving Exhibit Make Up Firemen's Observance of Fire Prevention Day.

220 UNIFORMED MEN WALK IN PROCESSION

Signs on Vehicles Warn Against Dangers From Fire and Urge Precautions to Prevent Blazes.

She St. Louis Fire Department yesterday observed Fire Prevention day, which was designated in a proclamation by President Wilson. The observance here took the form of a parade of firemen through the downtown streets and a drill and exhibition of life-saving methods at Twelfth and Olive streets.

In line were the Firemen's Zouave Company of 36 men, a salvage corps crew, 220 uniformed firemen, not on regular duty, an automobile combination pumper and hose wagon, a hook and ladder aerial truck, a tractor-drawn engine and an automobile gasoline wagon.

Route of Parade.

The parade formed at Twelfth and Chestnut streets and moved north on Twelfth street to Olive street, east to Broadway, north to Washington avenue, west to Twelfth street and south to Pine street.

Some of the vehicles in line carried signs warning against danger of fire, and urging precautions against fire.

The zouave company of firemen drilled for nearly half an hour in Twelfth street between Pine and Olive streets, after which there was a thrilling exhibition of life-saving as practiced in the St. Louis department.

Firemen carried each other down a truck ladder from the roof of the four-story Merchants' Hotel Building at the southwest corner of Twelfth and Olive streets. It was shown how the rescued persons can be used in giving the rescuing fireman a sure grip and free use of his hands while going down a ladder.

Scaling Exhibition.

On a false section of wall with windows, which had been built for the purpose, several firemen gave an exhibition of scaling with pompier ladders, lifting the ladder from one window to the next while ascending.

The most thrilling part of the exhibition came last. A number of firemen slid down a rope from the roof of the hotel building. Then other firemen while sliding down with the rope looped through safety hooks at their belts grasped children who sat on window sills and safely slid with them to the sidewalk. One fireman slid down the rope with a little girl clinging to each wrist.

SUSPENDED POLICE ARE REPRIMANDED AND REINSTATED

other officers raided the club. I had reported how the evidence had been hidden, and testified about it in Police Court later. A man by the name of Jim Carroll seemed to be in charge of the place, but I did not see him participate in the game."

Mayor Kiel asked if it was not difficult to get evidence of the game without "sitting in." Burns said that it was, because it was a physical impossibility to ascend the stairs to the second floor in time to catch the gamblers hiding the evidence.

"You had no trouble getting the evidence," asked President Mansur.

"I consider it luck on my part that I was able to get in," replied Burns.

Lieut. Wade Mathews, commander of the police gambling squad, and his predecessor in that position, Capt. William Stinger, testified that they had given the club a great deal of attention in the last two and a half years, and had raided it frequently, but were never able to get a conviction because the Police Court Judges demanded "too much evidence."

"They want an officer to testify who was rolling the dice, what point he was trying to make how much money he had at stake and a lot of other things that it is impossible to tell," said Mathews. "We have a hard enough time getting into games, much less trying to get all those details."

Keys Offered to Others.

In response to Mansur's questions, both Stinger and Mathews said they had been offered keys to the club. They later informed a Post-Dispatch reporter that James Carroll had made the offer. They testified that they did not take the keys, but informed Carroll that whenever they wanted to get into the club they would do so if they had to break open the doors.

"Would you not consider yourselves easy marks had you accepted the keys?" Mansur asked. "It strikes me that when a gambler offers a key to his gambling joint to a policeman he must think he is dealing with an easy mark."

Mathews said that he carried a sledge hammer and a "jimmy" with him when he made gambling raids. He said that on one occasion he wrecked two dice tables that had been moved from the Seventeenth Ward Democratic Club to a room over a saloon at 2900 Olive street. Stinger said that for a period of three months about a year and a half ago the club's gambling was conducted at Maxwelton, St. Louis County. It was resumed at the Olive street address, he said, after he had left the gambling squad.

Statements by Defendants.

After their attention had been called to the fact that Chief O'Brien on May 25 last had issued an order that henceforth the uniformed men of the districts would be held responsible for gambling in their districts, the defendants were permitted to make a statement. Each stated that he had done everything in his power to prevent gambling at the club. They produced records showing that they had raided the place many times, and Capt. Tierney verified the fact that he had instructed his men to pay particular attention to the club. He said that he had received numerous complaints that gambling was going on there, and that he never doubted the truth of the complaints.

"Did you officers ever put your heads together and try to devise some plan of getting the necessary evidence?" Mansur asked them. "Did you ever inspect the lights in the place to see if they could be operated as signals? Did it ever occur to you that those gamblers were putting something over on you? You may say you spent months trying to get evidence without any results and yet a probationary from the School of Instruction went there and got the evidence without any trouble."

Reprimand From Mansur.

The Commissioners spent 30 minutes in executive session reaching a verdict, the technical phraseology of which was "Charges dismissed with a reprimand." President Mansur consumed 15 minutes in administering the reprimand.

"There is no doubt in the minds of the Commissioners that you men were not as alert under the circumstances as you should have been. While there has been no intimation that there was any collusion between you and the gamblers, we believe that you did not consider measures that the seriousness of the situation demanded.

"It is hardly to be expected that uniformed officers would be able to discover incriminating evidence in a case of this kind. The officials of the club undoubtedly paid a great deal of attention to circumventing the efforts of the officers. You held no conferences to devise ways and means of breaking up the gambling.

"The Chief's order is going to stand. Let this case be a lesson to you. Remember, those men in that club are always thinking of how they can get the best of us. Let us do a little thinking and show them that we can get the best of them."

After they had shaken hands with the Commissioners and thanked them for their verdict, the suspended men were directed to report for duty today.

The Commissioners would not comment on the verdict, but Mayor Kiel remarked that they "were sending the boys home happy."

FRENCH ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY INVITES U. S. AID

Countries Adhering to League Asked to Send Delegates to Paris for International Organization.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The International Antituberculosis Commission, under the presidency of Leon Bourgeois, today sent invitations to similar committees in the United States and the countries adhering to the League of Nations to send delegates to Paris for the purpose of creating an international organiaztion to fight tuberculosis.

MAN RUNS, FOILING ATTEMPTED HOLDUP

Robber Fires, Puncturing Hat of Kroger Manager—Watchman Robbed and Beaten.

One of the species of robbers who have frequently held up Kroger stores, their managers or collectors here, was foiled last night by Lester Perkins of 1500 Monroe street, manager of a Kroger store at Fourteenth and Howard streets. Perkins was taking home the day's receipts, the sum of which he did not report, when a man stepped from an alley entering Fifteenth street between Monroe and Clinton streets, and ordered Perkins to "throw 'em up."

Perkins instead ran for home. The robber fired a shot after him, puncturing his hat. The money was saved.

Alfred Schuler, 67 years old, of 3401 Market street, a private watchman at the Eureka Feed Co., 500 South Theresa avenue, was going to work at 7 o'clock last night, when at 400 South Theresa, two negroes, armed with revolvers, stopped him.

"This is pay day, old man, ain't it?" one of them asked.

"Yes, what of it?" he replied. He then was hit on the head with the revolvers and choked and beaten.

The negroes took a knife and 85 cents, all he had, and ran east in an alley. A policeman pursued them and fired two shots at them, but they escaped. Schuler is in a serious condition at the City Hospital, with a lacerated scalp and bruised face.

Thomas Shelton of 4005 Westminster place was "strong-armed" in front of his home about 8 p. m. by a negro who had been hiding behind a tree, and who extracted $75 from Shelton's pockets with one hand while he held him with the other. suffer.

A robber with a "rusty revolver" held up Fred Mugele in his butcher shop at 4100 Oregon avenue for the day's receipts, $40, at 9:30 p. m.

12 ELECTION JUDGES, 6 CLERKS, TO APPEAR BEFORE THE BOARD

Officials Accused of Closing Polls Too Early Revision Day to Be Heard Tomorrow.

The Board of Election Commissioners has set 9 a. m. tomorrow as the time for opening the "trial" of 12 election judges and six clerks in the Eighteenth Ward, Fourth Precinct; Fifteenth Ward, First Precinct, and Twentieth Ward, First Precinct. It was complained that on revision day, Friday, these election officials closed the polls at 8 p. m. instead of keeping them open until 10 p. m. The penalty, if they are found guilty, will be dismissal.

The Board tomorrow also will hear complaints that the names of 22 negroes were wrongfully taken from the polling books in the Sixteenth Ward, Thirteenth Precinct.

$192,853,696 ERROR CHARGED

Kansas Court on Federal Commission's Rate Figures.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 9.—An assertion that the Interstate Commerce Commission made an apparent error of $192,853,696 in the calculation upon which it fixed the freight rate increase on Western roads to give the roads a 6 per cent return is made in an opinion granting a modified 30-per-cent increase in Kansas Intrastate rates by the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations handed down here tonight.

DELAY IN RUSSIAN, LITHUANIAN AND POLISH ARMISTICE

Heated Discussions at Riga, With Indications Poles and Bolsheviks May Prolong Discussion.

COMPLAINT MADE BY LITHUANIANS

Poles Preventing Early Agreement, They Say, and Refusing to Obey Orders of League Commission.

By the Associated Press.

RIGA, Oct. 9.—The commissions of the Russo-Polish conference resumed their sessions at 8 o'clock this morning. The entire personnel of both delegations assembled at Blackhead House, where outstanding questions were discussed heatedly and without any indication as to when the armistice would be signed.

(It had been stated previously that the armistice would be signed yesterday.)

Both delegations, it is known, hoped the armistice arrangements might be completed today, but it seemed possible that the negotiations might be prolonged into next week. The two sides are still far apart on some points, especially on the amount Russia shall pay Poland, the length of the armistice, and the time when notice for breaking of the armistice must be given.

The Poles have insisted that there must be an interval of six days after signature before the armistice becomes effective. They have declared it would be impossible to reach scattered cavalry organizations along the Bolsheviki front in less time. The Bolsheviki have desired but four days of delay.

The complaint is made by Lithuanian authorities that the Poles have prevented the signing of an immediate armistice covering all territory in dispute between the two countries, and that Poland is delaying an agreement as to the demarcation line until Polish troops occupy all the territory they desire.

The control commission of the League of Nations, which is endeavoring to settle the differences between Lithuania and Poland, went from Suwalki to Oran yesterday to investigate. Prior to leaving Suwalki it fixed a provisional boundary line, and issued orders couched in emphatic terms that both Poles and Lithuanians must retire at least three and one-halfmiles from their frontier. The Lithuanians insist that the Poles have refused to obey.

Col. Chardigny of the French army is chairman of the commission, and his presence is rather distasteful to the Lithuanians, who regard the French as friendly to the Poles.

Washington Hears of [illegible] Gen. Wrangel.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The League of Nations Commission now in session at Suwalki settling the Polish-Lithuanian boundary dispute, will continue its hearings at Vilna next week, Lithuanian representatives were advised today.

Government dispatches reported that the Poles had presented new demands for control of the strategic railway running from Suwalki to Olita and for the establishment of a new line of demarcation extending west from the River Niemen, far into Lithuanian territory.

Advices today to the State Department said Gen. Wrangel's anti-Bolsheviki forces had dispersed the Red army North and East up to a line running from Ikaterinoslav directly north of the sea of Azov, on the Dnieper River, to Mariopol on the northeast shore of the Gulf of Taganrog. Captures made by Gen. Wrangel included 27,800 prisoners, 61 guns, several hundred machine guns, 12 armored trains, 40 locomotives, many railway cars and other military supplies.

Prospects of resistance to further advance in northern Ukraine and north of Ekaterinoslav were reported to be slight. The advices stated the naval forces under Gen. Wrangel were in full control of the sea of Azov except the port of Taganrod, at the head of the gulf, to which all the Bolsheviki naval vessels have withdrawn.

M'ALLISTER HERE TO CONFER WITH RAIL OFFICIALS ON COAL

Attorney-General McAllister arrived in St. Louis last night, having come here for the purpose of conferring with railroad officials and representatives of utility companies regarding the coal supply prospect.

McAllister said, at the Planters Hotel, that he expected to attend a meeting called for Tuesday, but that, as the meeting was held at the request of the Public Service Commission, he was not authorized to make any announcement regarding it.

A dispatch from Jefferson City said that the consideration of the coal supply at this time is due to the fear of a later shortage. The question of obtaining this State's due share of the Illinois mine product, much of which now goes to the northwest, will probably be considered.

ASSOCIATION URGES WHEAT GROWERS TO HOLD OUT FOR $3

70,000 Farmers Asked Not to Sell Grain After Oct. 25 Until Market Price Is Advanced.

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 9.—The Wheat Growers' Association of the United States, with a membership of 70,000 in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska and South Dakota, has issued from its office here a proclamation to all its members urging them to refrain from selling any wheat after 8 p. m., October 25, until wheat is raised to $3 a bushel at growers' terminal market.

The proclamation adds:

"We urgently and fraternally invite national and State officers of all farm organizations of the United States and Canada to adopt and indorse this proclamation and action and to take such necessary steps to inform the wheat growers in their membership of this movement and induce them to act in unison and harmony with all wheat producers throughout North America to the end that the price of wheat may be advanced and stabilized at $3 a bushel for good wheat at the growers' terminal market, this being the cost of production on a ten-year average yield per acre.

"Wheat growers' expenses for labor and equipment in rasing this year's wheat crop was the highest average in the last 10 years. Now that the price is cut in two he stands to lose half his investment in labor and overhead expense in its production.

"As the average consumer pays only one and a half cent a day to the wheat grower for every dollar per bushel of its price or one half a cent per meal, $3 wheat would cost the country only 4½ cents a day or 1½ cents a meal as the wheat growers' share. That could not be a hardship on anyone for his primary food.

"This proclamation and action by the wheat growers is to stop this scheme of the gamblers in wheat to hold up the public for hundreds of millions of dollars in tribute to profiteering wheat dealers and to give a fair wage and overhead expense to the growers of wheat who began investing both in this wheat over 15 months ago. In the present price of wheat, we have lost all our year's wages and part of our necessary overhead expense and this move is an effort to restore our wages and lost investment in wheat production and we openly submit our cause to the considerotion of a fair-minded and justice-loving people."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Unfair influences are responsible, according to charges made today by George P. Hampton of the Farmers' National Council, for a slump in prices paid to farmers for wheat, corn, apples, potatoes, cotton and live stock since July 1, resulting in a lost of nearly $2,000,000,000. He thinks that consumers have not enjoyed the benefit of the reductions.

Mr. Hampton says credits have been advanced without security for exporters and that they have shipped manufactured products to the exclusion of farm products.

"The report of the Comptroller of the Currency for 1919," Hampton asserts, "shows that on June 30 last year the total amount of loans by national banks secured by warehouse receipts for cotton was only $84,274,591; for grain $29,085,108; and for commodities other than cotton and grain $81,719,801, a total of $195,079,500, while the loans eligible for rediscount with Federal Reserve banks approximate $3,551,186,000.

"The corresponding figures for this year are not available, but it is evident that this year, as last, the middlemen hoarders have access to credit which is denied the primary producers of agricultural staples—a situation which does not benefit the consumers, injures the producers and militates against the entire farming industry."

Nebraska Farmers Vote to Hold Wheat for $2.25 a Bushel.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 9.—At a meeting at Eagle, Cass County, yesterday, members of the Farmers' Union, it was voted not to sell any wheat for a lower price than $2.25 a bushel.

MARINE, AFTER 22 OPERATIONS, IS IN ST. LOUIS FOR 3 MORE

Sergt. Rankin Had Lower Jaw and Tongue Shot Away in St. Mihiel Offensive.

Sergt. Russell S. Rankin of the Sixth Marines, whose lower jaw and tongue were shot away by machine gun bullets during the St. Mihiel offensive, and who has undergone 22 operations for the reconstruction of those parts, has returned from a "vacation" spent with his mother and sister at Cynthiana, Ky., for the completion of the work.

Three more operations will be required to build up his gums so they will hold a dental plate with teeth to replace those missing, and to improve his new mouth and tongue.

The operations will be performed at St. John's Hospital.

Pieces of bone from Rankin's legs, also skin and flesh from his chest, were used in reconstructing his face. He can talk and eat now, though not with the facility he expects to attain after the prospective operations. He has been in hospitals for more than two years, but expects to be through with them by Christmas. He is still in service.

K. OF C. OFFER $5,000,000 TO LEGION FOR BUILDING

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Knights of Columbus today formally offered the American Legion $5,000,000 for a building to be erected in Washington as a memorial to American service men killed during the war. James A. Flaherty, supreme knight, made the offer to Col. Fred W. Galbraith, national commander of the American Legion, who said a meeting of the Legion's executive committee to act on the tender will be called immediately.

Another lecture campaign against "radical agitation" will be launched in 1000 cities and towns throughout the country by the Knights of Columbus day, Oct. 12. Flaherty, in announcing campaign plans today, said the order did not intend to attack anybody's politics, but "to make converts to common sense."

KUBELIK HERE FOR CONCERT

Jan Kubelik, the noted Bohemian violinist, who is to give a concert at the Odeon Tuesday evening, arrived in St. Louis from New York last evening. This is to be the first of a series of concerts he will give on a tour that will end May 21, 1921, when he will return to his home in Czecho-Slovakia.

Kubelik is hailed as fresh from new triumphs on the Continent of Europe, his last being at a festival at Prague celebrating the independence of his country. He did not actively serve in the war, but offered his services and was rejected.

Hapgood Contrasts the Presidential Nominees

If that represents the American standard of honor, it is easy to understand the way the Republicans look upon the League of Nations.

The other plank to which I refer deals with Mexico. Cox boldly and simply praises Wilson's policy. Of the two Ohio bosses to whom Harding has a long record of deference and obedience, the abler was Foraker, who was driven out of public life on account of his pecuniary relations with the Standard Oil Co. The Republican platform expresses unbounded contempt for Wilson for his patience and reasonableness with Mexico, and points clearly enough to war unless Mexico is willing to be exploited by the oil interests as they see fit. This plank ought to be studied by every woman voter in the country. It should be studied along with Senator Harding's—paper's still more open threat of war. It should be studied along with the amplification of the Republican policy made by the party's Mexican expert, Senator Fall, of which the League of Free Nations Association says:

"No American oil company could have expected even its paid attorney to ask for more."

Lodge on Mexico.

And Senator Lodge says:

"The time has come to put an end to this Mexican situation."

He would repudiate our obligation to help prevent another war in Europe, but he would make up for it by immediately beginning a nice little oil war at home, thus making us hated and distrusted not only by Mexico but by every country in South America.

If I feel so earnestly the importance of electing Cox, it is not from partisan bias. When in 1916 I had in this Review an article urging the reelection of the President, I wrote not as a party man but as the acting head of the Woodrow Wilson Independent League. When in 1912 I went with Wilson instead of with Roosevelt, it was because on the then outstanding issues, the trusts and the tariff, the leader of the liberal movement seemed to me not Roosevelt but Wilson. In this year of grace 1920, it would have been impossible for me to say on June 1 what my course in the campaign would be. Had Mr. Hoover been nominated by the Republicans, the present course of our party history might have been changed. Had the Democrats of San Francisco, instead of nominating a progressive Governor on a Wilson platform, put forward a candidate and a platform as reactionary as those selected at Chicago, I for one should have refused to pretend that the liberal leadership was in either party. Chicago and San Francisco combined made entirely clear the issue between liberalism and reaction as far ahead as we can see. The post-Roosevelt Republican party becomes definitely a plutocratic party, where it is not a mere opposition party, and the Democratic party solidifies into the party of liberalism, or, as some prefer to call it the party of Wilsonism.

What Wilsonism Is.

For what is Wilsonism? It is the historical successor to the earlier Rooseveltism. The Roosevelt of the governship and Presidential periods led the country in the application of morality to practical politics and did much to raise the national politcal level. Wilson came to the front just as Roosevelt's message was finished and undertook more advanced steps in the working out of modern freedom. First he stepped ahead in domestic politics. He put on the statute books not only the long list of reforms promised by the Democrats, headed by hamstringing the money trust with the Federal reserve act and defying the other trusts by taking the tariff out of their private offices, but also the amelioration measures of the Bull Moose which we used to call their Armageddon program. So soundly was this done that the Republicans in their reactionary platform of 1920 do not dare to challenge some of the most important parts of the record straightforwardly. They do not dare to ask to "go back to normal" control of American finance by a small group of New York bankers. They are bolder on the tariff, and Harding openly threatens us with dragging that into the political arena again. If so, they will go back to "normal" protection of huge artificial monopolies by Government subsidies. Indeed, they have begun this work definitely in two more specific planks. It is clear that they stand for shipping lines privately owned and operated with deficits made up by the Government; also that they seek one form of shipping subsidy in the dishonorable breach of international contract which I have already mentioned, in connection with the Panama tolls.

"Forward to Normal."

In the relations between capital and labor, on which depends the whole future form of civilization, Wilsonism has meant the opposite of "back to normal." It has meant "forward to normal." The man whom Senator Harding endeavored to keep off the Supreme Court was put there by Mr. Wilson not only for his great legal knowledge but also for his concrete and constructive vision of a new time. Therefore, as Mr. Harding does not "hear voices in the air" but only certain familiar voices, his vote was perfectly in order. Harding's vote on the original form of the Esch-Cummins bill, before it contained reasonable protection to labor, was also perfectly in harmony with his general philosophy of keeping his face turned backward over his shoulder on the difficult march to a new era. He would help the railroads back to the regime that brought the Boston & Maine, Frisco, Rock Island, Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, to their fate; to the interlocking directorates that ruined the roads to make money for the bankers; to the policy which Federal Judge Anderson, formerly of the Interstate Commerce Commission, thus describes:

"Raise rates 25 to 50 per cent and put us back into our comfortable seats of power, with salaries ranging from $40,000 to $100,000, and all will be well."

Up to Serious Voters.

Mr. Taft tried the policy of going backward, and when he ran for reelection he carried two small States. If Mr. Harding wins in November, his party will be snowed under in 1924, and nothing will have been accomplished except deeper class cleavage at home, a worsening of the world situation beyond our borders, and taxation for a great navy that we shall not need if he make the League of Nations a success. It will be a heavy price to pay for vengeance on one sorely burdened man.

At the Paris conference Ray Stannard Baker, a wise judge of politics, was an insider, in closest touch with all that happened. Speaking in Boston, in June, of the surpassing question, Mr. Baker said:

"The treaty * * * has in it the finest hopes and aspirations of the world; the beginnings of a new world league, the principles of a new colonial policy, the halting initiation of a new plan of adjustment between labor and capital. It is all there—just like life—for the new world to use as it will."

He refers to the tragic situation in America, speaks of how easy and fallacious it is to put all the blame on one scapegoat, and adds:

"I should myself like to confer that doubtful honor upon Mr. Lodge."

Speaking a month later, Marshal Foch said:

"It is most likely that the United States is partly responsible for the present uneasiness of the world. It should have ratified the peace treaty with us. By keeping apart from us America has helped to promote disorders in Central Europe and prevented the establishment of the economic equilibrium."

So there is the choice before the American public. It can take Harding, meaning Penrose and Lodge, Johnson and Borah, Fall and Smoot; or it can take Cox, on a bold but moderate platform of forwardness and co-operation, meaning liberalism continued; meaning, not the avoidance of solutions, but the search for them; meaning in all fields the study not of war but of constructive bases for peace; meaning that safety lies not in a hopeless longing gaze behind but in a careful and confident study of the path that rises winding and beckoning up the steeps ahead.

During my time of active life the independent voters have not lost a presidential election. They could not accept Bryan in 1896, 1900 and 1908. They supported Roosevelt against Parker in 1904. They were divided in 1912, and they saved Wilson in 1916. In spite of public inertia, materialism and weariness, they may well give the victory to Cox in 1920. They will do so if the country is awake to what the election means.

ITALIAN WORKMEN PRESENT INDUSTRIAL CONTROL PROGRAM

Government Gets Plans for Share in Technical, Financial and Disciplinary Management.

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, Oct. 9.—The Socialist Bateaglie Sindacal yesterday made public the program decided upon by the Commission of Workmen appointed to present to the Government concrete proposals concerning participation of the workmen in the technical, financial and disciplinary management of the industrial establishments.

The fundamental points of the program are that the workmen's council must control the purchase of raw materials, supervise the sale of finished products, fix the price of finished products, superintend the grading of wages, control all goods unloaded, decide what task each workman is better adapted to accomplish, obey the conditions of employment of the industrial establishments, control the general expenses of the establishments and especially limit the expenses of the present proprietors and directors, who will participate in the profits, decide when new machinery is necessary, supervise hygiene and sanitary conditions in industrial establishments, and insist that the proprietors furnish necessary utensils.

Other points are that the employers must not resort to artificial industrial crises and must prevent "dumping."

FEVER DUE TO BITE OF MONKEY GIVES GREEK KING BAD NIGHT

Monarch Attacked When He Goes to Aid of Dog Being Worsted by Monkey.

ATHENS, Oct. 9.—King Alexander, who has been suffering for several days from a monkey bite suffered when he went to the rescue of his pet dog, who was being worsted in a battle with the monkey, passed a bad night last night.

He had two attacks of fever, it is stated, and intestinal complications and jaundice are declared to have set in.

FUNERAL OF FATHER SCHAEFER

The funeral of the Rev. Father Charles H. Schaefer, 54 years old, who died Friday night at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Mary Van Pfluger, 6001A Suburban avenue, from kidney trouble from which he had suffered nearly two years, will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at St. Barbara's Church, 1363 Hamilton avenue.

He was ordained 31 years ago at Louvain, Belgium, coming to the United States a few years later, and was pastor of a church at Moberly, Mo. About six years ago Father Schaefer was transferred to Ewing, Mo., where he remained until his health failed.

Considerable joy was created in the Democratic camp last night by the news that Peter T. Barrett, an attorney who is very active in the cause of the Irish Republic and who was appointed as one of the State vice presidents for all of the Cox meetings in Missouri, had decided to attend the meeting here tomorrow night and had written a letter to Yancey to that effect.

After announcing his acceptance, Barrett wrote: "As your invitation is extended to me as an individual, I accept it as such and my presence must not be construed as representing any organization, nor as the indorsement of the League of Nations as now constituted."

Barrett said that upon what Cox says here on the Irish question will depend the votes of many Irishmen who hope for reservations to the League clarifying the status of Ireland's nationalist aspirations under it.

HAMILTON HOLT, EDITOR, SAYS HE WILL VOTE FOR COX

George Foster Peabody, Roger W. Babson and Ray Stannard Baker Also Join Pro-League Independents.

BREACH IN G. O. P. RANKS BROADENS

Democrats Elated as Evidences of the Effect of Harding's Des Moines Speech Are Reported.

By Leased Wire Fro mthe New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Into the breach in the Republican ranks caused by Senator Harding's open opposition to the League of Nations in his Des Moines speech of Thursday was drawn today Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent, and an enrolled Republican. In a letter to Herbert Parsons, former Republican national committeeman from this State, whose announcement on Friday that he could no longer support Harding fell with stunning effect on the Republican leaders, Holt today said he would stand with Parsons in voting for Cox and Roosevelt on the League of Nations issue.

He expressed the hope that William Howard Taft, president of the League to Enforce Peace; President Lowell of Harvard, chairman of the league's executive committee; Herbert Hoover, Oscar Straus and George W. Wickersham would join in the schism.

More Independent Recruits.

Three more recruits on the list of the pro-league independents were announced today. This organization appeals to political independents who will vote the Democratic ticket this year because convinced of the importance of the League of Nations. The three new members were George Foster Peabody, Roger W. Babson, well known as a financial statistician, and Ray Stannard Baker, the author.

There was noticeable elation at Democratic headquarters as evidences of the effect of the Harding statement were reported. It was reflected in a statement by National Chairman White, who, for the first time since the campaign opened, gave out a considered statement, that the tide has turned toward Cox and Roosevelt, and that there are "unmistakable signs of a turn to the Democratic candidates which will end in certain victory."

Hamilton Holt's Letter.

Holt's letter of congratulations to Parsons follows:

"Permit me to congratulate you on your courageous determination to quit the Republican party and vote for Cox and Roosevelt on the League of Nations issue. Although I enrolled my name this week as a member of the Republican party, I, too, shall vote the Democratic ticket on Nov. 2.

"I wish that Mr. Taft, Mr. Hoover, Mr. Straus, Mr. Lowell, Mr. Wickersham and our other fellow Republican and Progressive members of the Executive Committee of the League to Enforce Peace could see their way to act as you have done.

"Johnson and Borah threatened to bolt if Harding would not 'scrap' the league, but our associates on the League to Enforce Peace did not show equal courage, for they proposed to support Harding on the remarkable theory that he could be depended upon to break faith with Borah and Johnson and go into some sort of a league. Senator Harding, in his Des Moines speech, has taken that argument from under them.

Great Moral Issue.

"The question that now confronts the American people is the greatest moral issue since slavery. Shall we play our part in substituting international co-operation for competition on earth, or shall we scuttle while the world is on fire?

"I have just returned from Europe, where I got in close touch with the League of Nations situation. The situation that I find being made by Senator Harding and others that the League of Nations is dead is exactly contrary to the truth. The League has already achieved more than any one might have believed possible a year ago, with its commissions on disarmament, world court, finance, labor, etc. The council, which has already met nine times, has settled two international disputes which might have led to war, that between Finland and Sweden, and that between Lithuania and Poland.

"The proposition of Senator Harding to declare peace with Germany —when he must know that peace can only be negotiated—and to ask forty-three member nations to "scrap" the existing League, enter another peace conference, and agree on some undefined experiment, cannot be taken seriously. Holding, as every sane man must, that war is the greatest evil on earth, and that the last war was the worst war that has ever happened, I cannot believe that the American people, if the issue is fairly presented to them, will support Senator Harding's policy of 'America last' in bearing her responsibilities for establishing the peace of the world."

Letter by Peabody.

In his letter accepting membership in the Pro-League Independents, George Foster Peabody wrote to Prof. Irving Fisher, organizer of the movement:

"The more the campaign develops, the more appalling seems the evil that would follow the election of a man of Senator Harding's extraordinary caliber. The fact that he has a polite and well meaning personality only makes it the worse. The prospect is of a modern revival of the Deges of Venice and the Council of Ten. The senatorial cabal is every way morally on a par, I fear, with the Council of Ten, excepting that the environments of the morality of today in its expression, is, of course, very different from those days."

Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, president of Cornell University, an advocate of the League of Nations, who since Senator Harding's rejection of the league, he sought to reconcile the various positions taken by the Republican nominee, declared today that Parsons' letter of resignation from the Republican County Committee revealed an "obfuscated intellect." Dr. Schurman's statement was given out without comment at Republican headquarters. It follows:

"Mr. Parsons feels intensely about the entrance of the United States into a League of Nations. He says truly that 'democracies only make striking changes under the stress of great emotions,' and this psychological law also holds good of individuals. Mr. Parsons has acted under the stress of great emotion, and in such a mental condition men often act irrationally rather than rationally. In the enthusiasm of his devotion to a League of Nations, Mr. Parsons is the victom of his hopes and fears. He fears that the Republican party will not give him a league and then he swings to the hope that the Democrats will, but if fears are dupes hopes may be liars, and in the end Mr. Parsons bases his action on the skepticism of both parties.

Says Parsons Is Skeptical.

"He is skeptical of Harding and the Republicans. He fears they will leave undone the thing they ought to do—the thing to which they are solemnly pledged by the party platform and the utterances of the candidate—namely, the putting of the United States into a league or association of nations to preserve peace and prevent war without the obligation of article 10 and the other objectionable features of the Wilson covenant.

"Mr. Parsons is equally skeptical of Wilson, Cox and the Democrats. He hopes they will do the thing they ought not to do—namely, betray the solemn faith of the party platform and the declarations of the President and the candidate, throw out article 10, which they have pronounced the heart of the covenant, and accept the Lodge reservations, which they have twice rejected—a result, says Mr. Parsons, with audacious prophecy, that 'is substantially what will work out by the election of Cox.'

"Mr. Parsons is skeptical of fact and probabilities, but credulous of the improbable. His letter reveals a sensitive conscience but an obfuscated intellect."

Harding's League Attitude 'Costs Him 30,000 Votes of California Women'

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.

By the Associated Press.

DEMOCRATIC national headquarters today made public a telegram sent Senator Harding by Mrs. Fay Lyman Wilber, of the executive committee of the California Women's League for the Peace Treaty, informing the Republican presidential nominee that his rejection of the League of Nations in his speech last Thursday at Des Moines alienated the support of 30,000 women of California.

The telegram was sent after a meeting of the executive committee in San Francisco yesterday. It said:

"Press quotes you as saying the League has now passed beyond the possibility of restora tion. Under date of Oct. 7 the Associated Press quoted you as saying in a speech at Des Moines the following:

"'I do not want to clarify these obligations. I want to turn my back on them. It is not interpretation, but rejection that I am seeking.'

"If these statements are true, it makes support of you by 30,000 women in California who stand for immediate ratification of the League and treaty impossible."

Goltra Reports Swing to Gov. Cox in the West.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Edward F. Goltra, Democratic National Committeeman for Missouri, who came to Washington today from a trip through the West, amplified reports brought by Senator Hitchcock recently to the effect that men and women of the churches in the west, irrespective of party, are swinging to the side of the League of Nations and Gov. Cox.

STATE DEMOCRATS OPEN THEIR BOOKS ON CONTRIBUTIONS

Chairman Yancey Readily Grants Access to Financial Records While Republican Chairman Refuses It.

TOTAL OF $18,646 HAS BEEN COLLECTED

Goltra Has Given $2500, Gov. Gardner $1000 and Mrs. Breckinridge Long $1000 to the Fund.

The Post-Dispatch has obtained figures showing the amount of money which has been collected for the Democratic State campaign fund and the names of the contributors. When this information was asked for Chairman Yancey of the Democratic State Committee readily issued instructions to Secretary Fisher and former Judge Daniel G. Taylor, chairman of the Finance Committee, to lay the Democratic books before a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Chairman Hughes of the Republican State Committee refused to grant access to the Republican books.

Examination of the Democratic books and of Fisher's accounts disclosed that Taylor has received $11,751.08 and that Fisher has received $6895.05, a total of $18,646.13. Of this sum roughly one-third is to go to the National Committee, one-third to the committee of origin and the remaining third to the State Committee, which would give the latter $6215.37 to date.

Goltra Gave $2500.

Of the contributions, 28 are for $100 or more and three are for $1000 or more. Edward F. Goltra, National Committeeman, gave $2500, Gov. Gardner gave $1000, Mrs. Gardner, $250; William K. Gardner, the Governor's son, $100, and Mrs. Christine I. Long, wife of Breckinridge Long, nominee for United States Senator, gave $1000.

State Committeeman Sam Lazarus of the Tenth (St. Louis) District, $250; Daniel G. Taylor, $400; Glendy B. Arnold, chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners, $100; Hickman P. Rodgers, nominee for Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, $100; John M. Atkinson, nominee for Governor, $200; George D. Markham, $100; Breckinridge Jones, $100; Sam W. Fordyce, $250; Con P. Curran, $500; Joseph R. Barroll, $100; Charles P. Williams, $100; Charles W. Bates, former City Counselor, $100; former Judge William Jones, $100.

From outside St. Louis contributions of more than $100 have been made as follows:

Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff, nominee for Attorney-General, $150; B. P. Haggard of Columbia, $100; Democratic County Committee of Henry County, $131; J. H. Dickbrader, State Hotel Inspector, Jefferson City, $100; Democratic County Committee of Newton County, $318; Supreme Judge Goode, Jefferson City, $100; Putnam County Democratic Committee, $200; Christian County Democratic Committee, $275; Supreme Judge R. F. Walker, Jefferson City, $100; employes State Grain Department, $1035.50.

Democratic Nominees Assessed.

Money paid by the nominees on the State ticket is part of assessments of 5 per cent of their prospective salary made against them by the Executive Committee of the State Committee. In addition, Democratic State employes were assessed 2 per cent of their salaries for a period of 14 months.

The money which has been collected or paid in only represents the efforts of Taylor and his committee in this vicinity and those contributions which have come voluntarily. In addition, committees are at work in Kansas City, St. Joseph, Joplin, Springfield, Sedalia and other places, Taylor said, and the Democratic City Committee here is raising certain funds under his direction, but has not reported.

Activities of the campaign directors at State headquarters in the Pontiac Building are going forward unrestricted, the attitude of those in authority being voiced by Secretary Fisher, who said:

"We feel that the Democrats owe it to the State and nation to make a real fight for every vote for the league and for their candidates, and we are making that fight, confident that the loyal Democrats of Missouri will finance us.

"Have Nothing to Hide."

"We have a large force at work here, but the doors are open to the world; we have nothing to hide, and Democrats are welcome to come and see how we are handling our job.

"We will need far more money than yet has been contributed but we are making the fight and believe the members of the party will back us."

Fisher said that Ben M. Neale, former chairman of the State Committee, in May and June had obtained pledges for $28,000, but that not more than a third of that had been paid. Only one county, Christian, heavily Republican, had paid its full pledge, he said. Christian County paid $275.

The Post-Dispatch has been informed on reliable authority that the Republican State Committee has received $19,000 from the National Committee, the Republicans having decided to allow the Ways and Means Committee of the National Committee to raise all of the funds and then allot to each State Committee a share. Chairman Hughes was asked if his committee had received $19,000, but did not answer the question, and a telegram to Treasurer Upham of the Republican National Committee failed to obtain the desired information.

It is known that several efforts to obtain money from the National Committee for the Missouri headquarters have not met the desired success, and Hughes is known to have told friends that Republican State headquarters is short of funds, a statement which was reiterated by Dr. E. B. Clements of Macon, a member of the State Committee.

Hard to Raise Funds.

It is known that campaign fund collectors of both parties are having far more difficulty than usual in raising the needed sums, due partly no doubt to the reaction upon the public mind to exposures of large preconvention expenditures of supporters of Gov. Lowden and Gen. Wood, who sought the Republican presidential nomination, and to evidence obtained by the Senate Investigating Committee of plans of the Republican National Committee to raise a fund of considerable proportions.

COMING WEEK TO BE FILLED WITH POLITICAL MEETINGS

Lillian Russell, the Actress, Will Be a Speaker—Gatherings of Women Voters.

Scores of ward and other group political meetings will be held in St. Louis this week, with the local campaigns of both parties getting under full speed.

Miss Lilian Russell ,the actress, is one of the best-known speakers scheduled. She will speak at the Town Club at 1 p. m. tomorrow and at 3 p. m. at the Odeon under the auspices of the Republican Women's City Committee and the Republican Women's Club. Mrs. C. T. Bleese, chairman of the Women's City Committee, will open the Odeon meeting, over which Miss Grace Semple, president of the Republican Women's Club, will preside.

The Council of Jewish Women also will hold a political meeting at 3 p. m. tomorrow at Temple Israel, to which they have invited Breckinridge Long, Democrat, and Senator Spencer, Republican, nominees for United States Senator.

Mrs. Edwin Barth is chairman, and Mrs. Charles A. Stix, vice chairman, of the committee in charge of the affair.

Members of the Republican Women's City Committee and the Republican Women's Club will be hostesses with the local members of the Republican National Ways and Means Committee and its Executive Campaign Committee to St. Louis women at a tea at the Republican Wopmen's Club on the mazzanine floor of the Arcade Building at 3 p. m. Tuesday. Mrs. C. A. Braley of Kansas City, vice chairman for Missouri of the Ways and Means Committee, and Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen, Minnesota member of the National Executive Committee, will speak.

The Polish Democratic Club will hold a meeting at Polish-American Hall, 1040 Cass avenue, Tuesday night, to be addressed by Health Commissioner Fronzak of Buffalso on the League of Nations.

Galloway Recital Next Sunday.

The first of eight monthly free organ recitals by Charles Galloway in Graham Memorial chapel, Washington University campus, will be given next Sunday afternoon, from 3 to 4 o'clock. The public is welcome. Others will be given on the third Sunday of each of the ensuing seven months.

TIDE TURNING FROM HARDING, WHITE SAYS

Democratic Chairman Declares Country Realizes Republican Campaign Is Song of Hate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—George White, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, issued this afternoon the following statement:

"Three weeks before the close of the most important political campaign in our history, I feel that I can give my personal assurance to the country that the tide has swung to Cox and Roosevelt. During the last week the reverse movement has been forming. Senator Harding's Des Moines speech, turning his back on our national pledges and ideals and rejecting the League of Nations and all modifications of its covenant, proved the turning point. Since then this headquarters has been receiving every unmistakable sign known to politics of a turn to the Democratic candidates which will end in certain victory.

"I have never said this before, because it did not appear to be true. I say it now because it does appear to be true. If we can collect the money necessary for the intensive publicity required to present the truth, the appearance will become a certainty. I say this because the Republicans, from their candidate down —as judged by his Kansas City speech—intend to cast to the winds even the few considerations for truth which have bound their discussions of the covenant. We must nail each lie several times over.

"This country has realized at last that the entire Republican campaign is a song of hate. We want to be through with hate of each other in this country. We want to be fair with one another, and we do not want any future president to be subjected, as Mr. Wilson has been, to a campaign of personal hate. That was what animated Germany. It is not the American way. It will die on Nov. 2 as German strafing was killed on the battlefield. And at the same time will die Senator Harding's attempt to make a separate peace with those who tried to put the hymn of hate above the free chorus of mankind."

Democratic Chairman Urges League Friends to Help Finance Fight.

The Post-Dispatch last night received from Chairman White of the Democratic National Committee, the following appeal for funds, with a request that it be printed:

"The foes of the League of Nations have at last come out into the open. Senator Harding's Des Moines speech pledges him to reject not only the League, but any modification of it. The hour is at hand when the friends of world peace must unite to preserve the only agency ever constructed to effect it. The Democratic candidates are pledged to see that the United States goes into the league with all reservations necessary to preserve the ascendancy of our Congress and Constitution, and their national committee is in need of funds to complete the great battle for peace now being waged. We are at the threshold of success after many discouraging days, and reports from all over the country reveal that the nation is afire for the League, and needs only insistent presentation of the truth to elect Cox and Roosevelt. The time to help is now. It matters not how much or how little any man or woman can send, I urge that it come at once to W. W. Marsh, treasurer Democratic National Committee, Grand Central Palace, New York City."

EXPOSITION PLANNED BY ST. LOUIS RAILROAD MEN

Show Will Be Held at Railroad Y. M. C. A. During Week Starting Oct. 25.

Preparations are being made for the St. Louis Railway Exposition, which opens Oct. 25 at the Railroad Y. M. C. A., Twentieth and Eugenia streets, for a week. This will be the first year of the event, and if the expectations of the St. Louis Railway Club and the other transportation bodies fostering the project are realized, the exposition will be made permanent. Railway officials representing all branches of the service, including the brotherhoods, are at work on the committees.

Aside from the displays of the railway supply dealers, there are to be other features that are expected to attract the thousands of railroad people of all branches of service in St. Louis and the railroad towns adjacent to the city. There will be vaudeville numbers furnished by railroad employes, dancing in the "Y" hut, moving pictures and short talks on subjects of special interest to railroad workers both in the offices and out on the lines.

The exposition will be the first of its kind in St. Louis and the committees handling the details are already convinced that it will be a permanent institution of sufficient importance to find its way next year to the more commodious Coliseum. There will be no admission charge.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS TAXABLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Contributions to political campaign funds are taxable, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Williams declared today in a formal statement "advising members of all parties" that they will not be allowed to deduct amounts given to campaign funds from their income tax returns.

The income tax regulations, Mr. Williams said, are "brief but explicit," that taxes must be paid on such contributions and provide that under no conditions would deductions be allowed.

'JOIN LEAGUE OR ARM,' SAYS F. D. ROOSEVELT

No Other Alternative, Declares Democratic Candidate in Kansas City Speech.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Oct. 9.—America must join the existing League of Nations or be prepared to "arm to the teeth," Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, declared in two addresses here tonight. Any other alternative is impossible, he added, because the 41 nations already in the League will not consent to abandon it and experiment with some untried plan.

Roosevelt spoke at noon at Sedalia. Later, he climbed into an airplane piloted by "Tex" La Grone, a former army aviator, and flew to Kansas City, Kan., where he addressed a large crowd. The trip of 87 miles was made in about an hour. In his addresses here he classified ten kinds of voters who, he said, "I hope will this year vote for Mr. Harding." They are:

"Those who believe that it is more important to elect Republican officeholders than to secure the peace of the world.

"Those who vote the Republican ticket because their grandfathers did.

"Those who want to 'get even' with President Wilson, who is not running for the presidency this year.

"Those who believe we ought never to have entered the war to preserve civilization.

"Those who put the interests of some foreign nation before the interests of the United States.

"Those who expect to make large financial gain through the recognition of their special interests by a reactionary President.

"Those who want any old kind of a change, without stopping to observe whether they are jumping into the frying pan or into the fire.

"Those who believe we should at once start a war against Mexico in order to 'civilize' it in the interests of American oil and mining companies.

"Those who read Republican papers only and accept as gospel truth partisan editorial and news columns.

"Those who believe that the Flag is the personal property of Republicans and that no Democrat ever was a good American."

Roosevelt will speak in Hannibal at 8:30 Monday morning.

Crowd of 2000, Mostly Women, Hears F. D. Roosevelt at Sedalia.

SEDALIA, MO., Oct. 9.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, spoke at a theater this afternoon before 2000 persons. John M. Atkinson, nominee for the governorship, the chairman, also spoke. Roosevelt was cheered for several minutes by the throng, which was made up largely of women. The speaker predicted the majority of the Western states would support Gov. Cox.

CHANGES PROPOSED IN COMPENSATION LAW, IF IT PASSES

18 Amendments Agreed Upon by State Labor and Industries, to Be Put Before Next Legislature.

VOTERS TO PASS ON LAW NOV. 2

Increase in Maximum Compensation and Lengthening of Benefit Periods Are Planned.

Representatives of the State Federation of Labor and the Associated Industries of Missouri yesterday made public a list of 18 amendments to the workmen's compensation law upon which they have agreed. They propose to present and urge the passage of these amendments at the next session of the Legislature in case the present law is approved by the voters at the referendum vote which will be taken in the general election, Nov. 2. The proposition will be No. 14 on the ballot.

The projected amendments would make important changes in the bill, virtually all of which would be in favor of the employes. The famous Senate "joker" which the Post-Dispatch discovered in the bill soon after its passage, in which employes were deprived of compensation because of wilful failure to observe safety appliances, statutes or company rules, or through the wilful misconduct of other employes, would be cut out of the bill, the only disqualification being for intentional self-inflicted injury.

Increase in Compensation.

An amendment would increase the present maximum compensation from $15 to $20 a week. It also would provide that board, lodging and overtime would be included in the calculation of a man's earnings, and would fix the number of working days in seasonable occupations at a minimum of 250 days a year, for purposes of computing compensation. Under the present law a man is not paid for the first week of his disability unless it continues for six weeks. This would be reduced to four weeks. The period during which a workman receives medical aid would be increased from eight weeks to 60 days and the value of such aid from $200 to $250.

Compesation for the loss of a leg between the knee and ankle would be increased from 125 weeks to 145 weeks. The maximum sum for disfigurement would be increased from $750 to $1000. The requirement that workmen undergo operations or forfeit compesation, would be eliminated.

For total permanent disability, compesation would be two-thirds of the wages for 240 weeks, and 50 per cent a week thereafter for life, instead of 40 per cent for life, as the law now reads.

Protection for Maimed Persons.

In case an employe is crippled before being employed, and suffers a subsequent injury that, added to the orginal, causes permanet partial disability, the compesation would be the same as compensation for such disability, minus the amount that would have been paid for such an injury as the employe had undergone before he began work. In case such second injury results in permanent total disability, the compensation would be two-thirds the regular compensation for such injury. In other words, if a one-eyed man should suffer blindness in his remaining eye, he would receive two-thirds of the regular compensation for permanent total disability for life. This is to prevent employers from discriminating against maimed persons who apply for work, as they would be likely to do if the law required them to pay full benefits in such cases.

The burial benefit would be raised from $100 to $150, which is in addition to the death benefit. Commutation of weekly payments to a lump sum would be placed at the discretion of the commission. At present, it is forbidden when it is proposed to use the money to pay debts.

Another amendment would extend the law to policemen, firemen, Sheriffs and all other public servants getting less than $3600 a year. It also is proposed to make all employers severally responsible. For example, where a man is injured while workin on a job where there are several employers, they not only would be jointly responsible, but each of them would be responsible for the entire amount.

Mines Must Carry Insurance.

Mine owners would be required to carry insurance equivalent to compensation for the loss of ten lives in one accident. This does not mean that mine operators are not liable for more than ten deaths—they are liable for all that occur. But they must be insured against ten.

In cases where large concerns, such as the Bell Telephone Co., have company benefit funds—such as it has—these benefits may take the place of benefits under the compensation law, if they are equal to the benefits provided by the law, but employes could appeal from rulings of the company benefit committees to the Workmen's Compensation Commission, under a proposed amendment.

Under the law at present, employes forfeit compensation if they refuse to submit to medical examination. An amendment would change this to: "unless in the opinion of the Commission such refusal was justified by the circumstances."

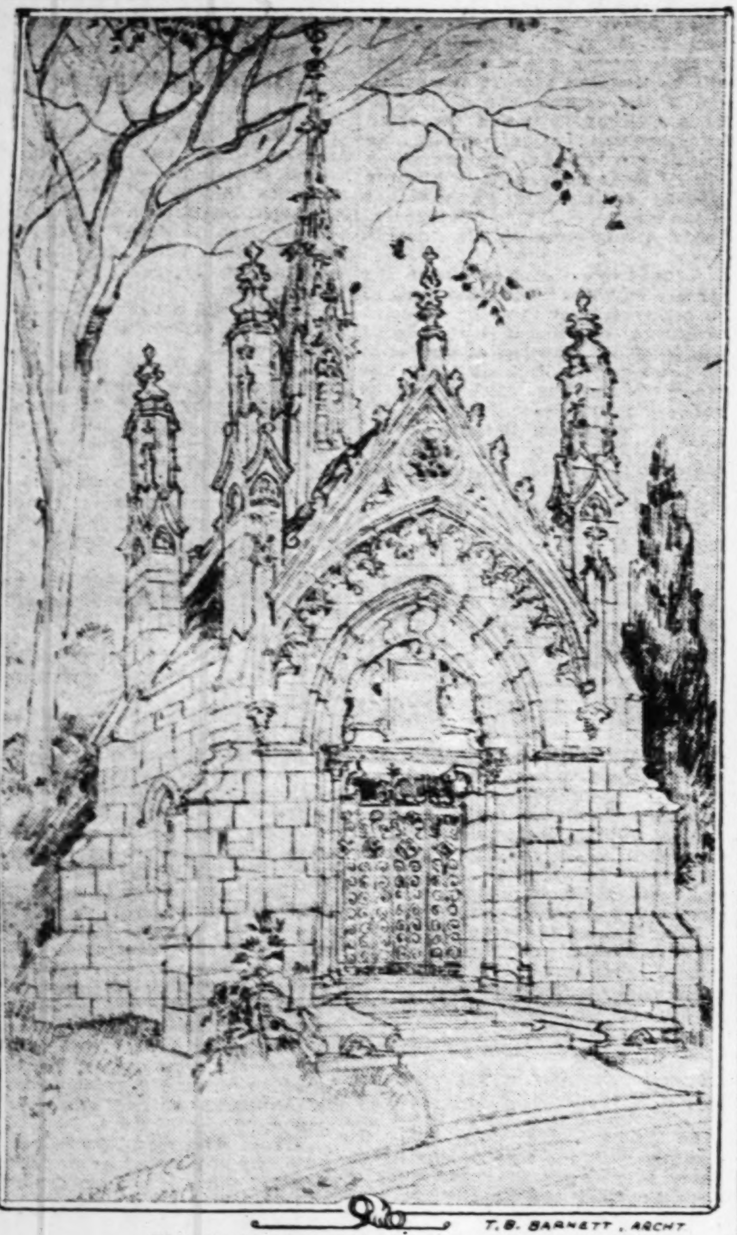
Voters to Pass on Law.

The tax upon liability insurance premiums, by which money to administer the law is raised, would be increased from two to two and one-half per cent. The odd clause in the present law providing that only discharged soldiers, sailors and marines are eligible to membership on the Commission, would be stricken out. It has been charged that this clause was inserted to keep certain men off the Commission.

The 18 proposed amendments were agreed upon at conferences between John Hall, legislative agent for the Associated Industries, and President R. T. Wood and former State Senator Allroy S. Phillips, of the State Federation. It was they who gave out the list of the proposed amendments.

The agreement was ratified by the board of directors of the Associated Industries and the executive board of the Federation, they said. It bears their respective seals, and provides that no other amendments will be undertaken except by mutual consent. Of course, it all depends upon whether the voters ratify the law at the referendum. If they do not, there will be no compensation law.

Adolphus Busch Memorial Being Built in Bellefontaine Cemetery



T. B. BARNETT, ARCHT

The BUSCH MEMORIAL CHAPEL TO BE ERECTED IN BELLEFONTAINE CEMETERY...

$250,000 MEMORIAL CHAPEL FOR BUSCH

Structure in Bellefontaine Cemetery Expected to Be Finished by Spring.

The Adolphus Busch Memorial Chapel in Bellefontaine Cemetery, which is now under construction, is expected to be finished by next spring. It is to be a Gothic structure of Missouri red granite, and will replace the present temporary Busch mausoleum. Tom P. Barnett is architect of the chapel, which will be one of the most elaborate and beautiful edifices of its kind in the United States.

The contractors have been employed on the granite work of the building for the last year.

Stained glass windows, replicas of some of the choicest antique glass work of Europe, will be a feature of the chapel. The windows are deep-set, with mullions and graceful tracery.

The doorway has molded, carved and decorated trimmings, and a space is to be left above the doorway for a sculptured panel.

The roof is vaulted, the ribs terminating in curved corbels. Gothic buttresses, on the four corners of the building, are surmounted by carved and decorated pinnacles.

Bronze is the material of the gate, which is wrought in an intricate design, and of the fleche, or spire, surmounting the roof. The slate, in variegated shades, was quarried especially for this edifice Both the exterior and interior are in Missouri red granite finish. The chapel will cost $250,000.

WABASH TO LAY OFF SHOPMEN

Retrenchment Over Entire System to be Started Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 9.—A lay-off of approximately one-third of the men in the Wabash railroad shops here, effective Oct. 12, was announced tonight.

The retrenchment program will be general over the entire system, according to A. Reid, assistant superintendent of motive power of the road.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB TO HELP PAY FOR RESURFACING OF ROAD

The Automobile Club of St. Louis will share, with the municipalities of Webster Groves and Maplewood, the cost of resurfacing the Laclede Station road, between Cartan avenue, in Maplewood, and Newport avenue, Webster Groves. This was decided at a conference held yesterday.

Traffic is now being detoured over the Laclede Station road, while the Big Bend road is closed for resurfacing with concrete. A portion of the detour, surfaced with cinders, has developed holes a foot deep. Opening of the Big Bend road, between Newport avenue and the Missouri Pacific tracks is now promised by Nov. 15.

FIVE MORE REPLIES TO IRISH FREEDOM FRIENDS

Senator Spencer and Four Candidates for Congress Give Views on Recognizing Republic.

The St. Louis Council, Friends of Irish Freedom, which recently asked candidates for the United States Senate and for Congress from Missouri for statements of their positions on recognition of the Irish Republic and on the League of Nations, received five more replies yesterday, among them that of Senator Spencer.

Spencer's statement under date of Oct. 4, said: "Whether I would vote without any qualification to recognize the Irish Republic I cannot answer. It would depend very much upon the way in which the matter came before the Senate as well as upon the condition at the time of the international relations of this country which are of course inevitably interwoven in any action upon the matter."

"League Un-American."

Of the League he said: "I will not vote for the League of Nations as written or with mere interpretative reservations. The League of Nations as it is written, is un-American and impossible and, so far as Ireland is concerned, seems to have been designedly drawn to stifle every hope of independence among that great people.

"I will vote against any League of Nations in any form that makes the United States a partner in perpetuating the wrongs which great nations have imposed upon smaller and weaker peoples. I should be very glad to have a hand in arranging some plan among the nations of the world which would not destroy the independence of our own country, but which would tend to preserve the peace of the world and better the conditions of mankind."

T. W. Hukriede, Republican nominee for Congress in the Ninth District, wrote that he will vote to recognize Ireland and opposes the covenant, as written.

B. F. Beazell, Republican nominee for Congress in the Second District, takes the same position, as does Congressman L. C. Dyer, Republican, candidate for re-election in the Twelfth, (St. Louis) District.

Hughes for Reservations.

A. Evan Hughes, Democratic nominee in the Tenth (St. Louis) District, wrote that he will vote to recognize the Irish Republic and believes that "reservations upholding the high deals and great traditions of America are necessary before the League can be made acceptable to all Americans."

John S. Leahy, president of the American First League, has called a mass meeting for next Wednesday night, at the Odeon of opponents of the League of Nations, to hear Joseph Scott, a former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Cómmerce; Patrick Henry O'Donnell of Chicago and Charles F. Krone and Thomas T. Fauntleroy of St. Louis.

Dr. Robert Emmett Kane of the Friends of Irish Freedom will preside and it is expected he will discuss the attitude of local candidates toward the League of Nations.

AUTO STRIKES MAN GETTING OUT OF WAY OF TRUCK

Cook, 64 Years Old, Suffers Fractured Leg at Seventeenth and Market Streets.

Frank Linspire, 64 years old, a cook, living at the Aberdeen Hotel, Sixteenth and Market streets, was seriously injured yesterday by an automobile driven by John Byrnes of 2612 Park avenue, which struck him at Seventeenth and Market streets, as he stepped out of the way of an automobile truck. He was taken to the city hospital, where it was said he had a fractured leg and internal injuries.

BATTLESHIP ORDERED TO SEA WHEN VISITORS ARE ABOARD

Officers Hurry Guests Off Mississippi and Leave Washington Port Within Two Hours.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 9.—The superdreadnaught Mississippi, at anchor at Port Angeles, Wash., departed hurriedly late today for an unnamed destination.

Upon receipt of order, visitors aboard were hastily put ashore and the vessel was under way within two hours. There were rumors that the vessel had been ordered to Valparaiso, Chile, but naval officers at the Bremerton Navy Yard expressed the opinion that the Mississippi was en route to San Diego to join the Pacific fleet in battle maneuvers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The battleship Mississippi's hurried departure from Port Angeles today was due probably to orders from Admiral Rodman, commanding the Pacific fleet, to which she is attached, Admiral Coontz, Chief of Naval Operations, said tonight.

Two naval vessels, probably the gunboat Dolphin, flagship of the newly-created squadron for special service in Latin-American water, and the cruiser Des Moines, will be sent to Chile to participate in the Magellan celebration there next month.

38 DEAD IN WRECK IN FRANCE

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Thirty-eight persons were killed and fifty injured today when the Paris-Nantes express ran into a freight train. The accident occurred about four miles from Maisons-Lafitte. Most of the victims were workmen.

PLATE GLASS WINDOWS OF RESTAURANT BROKEN

Iron Missiles Found on Floor Inside Place Being Picketed by Waitresses.

The propreitor of the Gem Restaurant, 710 Pine street, one of the places affected by the strike of the cooks' and waiters unions, informed the police yesterday that two plate glass windows in the front of his establisment were smashed Friday night. He estimated the damage at $150. Iron missiles were found on the floor inside.

The Gem Restaurant formerly employed union waitresses, and since the strike, which began Oct. 1, has been picketed by former employes. It is across the street from the headquarters of the waiters' and waitresses' unions.

The Central Trades and Labor Union, at its meeting this afternoon, will take up the srike on the theory, as expressed by officials of the striking unions, that the controversy over the adoption of the open shop policy by the Associated Hotel and Restaurant Owners involves organized labor as a whole.

The strikers had an entertainment and dance yesterday afternoon at their meeting place in Druid's Hall, Ninth and Market streets.

CLEVELAND POUNDS FOUR PITCHERS TO BEAT ROBINS, 5--1

Coveleskie's Great Hurling Proves Important Factor in Helping Speaker's Men Even Series.

By John E. Wray.
Sporting Editor Post Dispatch

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9,—Cleveland sluggers found their long lost batting eyes, this afternoon, in the fourth game of this, the nineteenth series under National Commission auspices for the world's baseball championship, beating Brooklyn 5 to 1 and tying the score in games won, with two victories for each club.

From the first terrific swipe which Jamieson drove into the mid-section of pitcher Cadore, which resulted in an amazing catch and put out, by the way, to the final out the four Brooklyn hurlers suffered a savage bombardment.

Four pitchers were sent to the shambles and Cadore, who started and Mamaux, who immediately succeeded him in the second inning, were badly punished. Marquard lasted three innings without suffering any unexpected casualties, and Pfeffer, who succeeded him in the sixth inning, went through without being badly scarred, although the fifth run made by the Indians was scored during his tenure of the pitching office.

The victory of Cleveland, coupled with the humiliation of four Brooklyn hurlers, puts the series in a much more favorable light for the tribe of Tris Speaker. For the fifth contest, tomorrow, the Brooklyn club has only Grimes available, while Bagby, the leading winner for Cleveland this year, will toe the scratch for the Indians. Mails, who hurled such a fine game as a relief pitcher Thursday at Brooklyn, will be in reserve for use Monday.

Coveleskie Prime Factor.

Although the sterling hitting of the Indians was responsible for the run counting, the work of Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie in winning his second victory really must be considered the prime factor in today's success. As proving his absolute consistency, it may be mentioned that his pitching in the game today was practically identical with his effort in the opening contest of the title series, which he won 3 to 1.

Today, favored by better hitting behind him, his score was larger, but in actual performance it would have been almost impossible for the Cleveland right-hander to have pitched a game more nearly on a par with that of his opening essay.

To begin with he allowed five hits and one run on each occasion. His hits were, as in the first essay, scattered through four periods, and in each case the only occasion when two were made in succession came in the fourth period. In both games a run resulted.

He allowed seven men to reach first base in the first game and nine yesterday, but he was absolute master of the destiny of both contests.

The Cleveland players think so much of his ability, as shown yesterday and in the first contest, that they are almost ready to concede him victory in three contests of the series. With a little break in weather conditions it is possible that this formidable hurler may appear in four contests for the championship. It would of course be asking too much of him and he probably would not make good if called upon four times. But Cleveland's pitching extremity is great, even in view of the fact that the Dodgers wasted four hurlers today.

Indians Start Early and Chase Leon Cadore in Second Inning

It was a wonderful day and a wonderful crowd that turned out for the first world's series contest in which a Cleveland club has participated in the last 41 years, the length of time that has elapsed since the city was first represented in organized baseball. The series, perhaps the best managed in the history of the game insofar as the Cleveland end was concerned, saw very little ticket scalping. Such tickets as were hawked were at $80 for the set of four.

At the ball park the crowds were handled so easily that it appeared as though no unusual event were in progress. The gates at all entrances were free from congestion.

When the game opened there was no seat unfilled in any part of any of the stands. Notwithstanding the manifest interest in Cleveland's destiny in this series at no time during the game did the enthusiasm rise above the limits ordinarily encountered during the average championship event during midseason. Perhaps this was due to the fact that Cleveland stepped out right at the start and slammed out hits, putting the game on ice in the first three periods, that discouraged the loud-voiced rooters. In any case the applause, after the third inning, was somewhat perfunctory, as if the spectators felt that with Coveleskie hurling a four-run lead was absolutely safe.

Indians Attack Early.

Cleveland did not delay in asserting itself. After Coveleskie had set down Olson, Jimmy Johnston and Griffith in order, the Indians moved up with all the heavy artillery of which they boasted during the season. Prior to today's battle Cleveland owned a season's hitting average of about .302. In the first three world's series games they had hit .165.

But yesterday all was different. The first man up was Jamieson. With two balls and a called strike against him he met a "cripple" fairly on the snout and drove it back at Cadore harder than it was hurled. It was a lucky stab for Cadore that it arrived waist high almost before he had time to change the position of his hands. Squarely into his mitt it landed, with such force that it straightened him up. He held to it like a gamester, and it went as an out.

That smash was merely a foretaste of what was to come, so far as Cadore and his immediate successor, Mamaux, were concerned.

It evidently disconcerted Cadore, too, for he walked the next man up, Wambsganss. And Tris Speaker, the demon captain-manager of the club, as well as its hitting ace, then rapped out a single over second that was too fast for either of the keystone men to get. Smith hit to the same district immediately following, and Wamby scored with the first run of the game. Speaker sped on to third and drew a throw from the outfield, which enabled Smith to take second base. Speaker came home with the second run of the inning—enough to have won the game, as events turned out—when Gardner lifted a long fly to Myers. Johnston whiffed and ended the round.

Some Real Pitching Here.

Coveleskie gave an example of some real pitching when Brooklyn faced him, in its half of the second, two easy flies and an infield out ending the Dodgers, puny efforts. One of the retirements was that of Edward Koney, the former Cardinal player, who in four games has been unable to make a safe hit. Koney was up a time or two when a hit might have helped, but the big fellow was unable to locate the whereabouts of the important pill.

The Brooklyn admirers must have weakened in the second inning, although the Indians failed to count, in this period. Cadore seemed to have no power of mystfying the Cleveland batsmen. Sewell, who has been thrown into the limelight in this series because of the death of Ray Chapman, and who even now is considered an uncertain and somewhat an undependable factor in the list of Indian assets, was first up. If he can do nothing else, this bird can hit. The swat he bounced off the right field wall was so hard that it actually counted against him, rebounding from the wall, the force with which it struck sent it back into the fielder's hands so quickly that Sewell was held to a single. The rap was so smartly driven that if hit to center they might be chasing it yet, with Sewell camped on home plate with a four-base clout to his credit.

Immediately following Sewell, O'Neill, Cleveland's demon slugger in this series, and a player even more feared by the enemy than Tris Spaker, smashed a safe hit through Johnston. The ball traveled so fast that it was in the hands of the fielder in time to prevent Sewell advancing an extra base.

At this point Wilbert "Avoirdupois" Robinson awoke to the fact that insead of a pitcher he had an easy mark on the hill. The long arm reached out from the bench and mercifully yanked Leon out of his misery. Mamaux, who once before pinch pitched in the series was sent to the hill.

But it was not Mamaux' day. It was the day of the Cleveland club and they proceeded to show Al that their clouting hate was strictly impartial. Although the former Pirate hurler was effective in stopping the rally by forcing Coveleskie to elevate and Jamieson to hit into a double play, he met his nemesis in the third inning, after his own club had impotently whaled away at Coveleskie's spitball slants.

Marquard Rushed to Hill.

Wamby and Speaker—the first two men to face Mamaux, slammed out real singles of the "no doubt about them" kind, this put a man on first and third with none out. The fat master mind on the Brooklyn bench then awoke to the alarming situation. Mamaux was waved to retirement and Rube Marquard was sent to the hill, which of course called for some left hand changes in the Speaker batting order. First off the reel, Tris sent in Burns to bat for Smith, and to play first base later in place of Mr. Wheeler Johnston Esq.

Marquard went to the hill under trying conditions. Not only did he inherit two men on base and none out from the Mamaux administration, but he was laboring under what surely must have meant some mental distress, due to the fact that he had been taken into custody for scalping tickets.

It is necessary to digress here to explain that Rube early in the day had been arrested by Detective Sokupp while trying to dispose of a set of box seat tickets for $300. On his representation to Chief Smith that he might be needed in today's game, he was released on his own recognizance to answer to charges Monday.

It was with this disgrace hanging over him and in his native city, that he was sent to the relief of the distressed Dodgers in the third.

Burns Pounds Out Double.

Burns, replacing W. Johnston at first, and Elmer Smith in the batting order, smashed a solid single off the "Rube" and third and fourth Cleveland markers crossed the plate. Zack Wheat, who is by way of being an ace for the Dodgers, but who has been in the erring column before, let Burns take an extra base when he allowed the hit to carom away from him. Consistent with his right hand swinging against left-hand pitching, Speaker sent in Joe Wood, of previous world's series fame, in his pitching days. Joe slammed out a mighty fly that the good fielding of Myers reduced to an out. But Sewell beat out an infield hit and the stage was all set for the murder of Marquard. Despite the ticklish situation and the mental burden of his recent arrest, Rube stood out notably here. He purposely walked the dangerous hitter O'Neill and then cut down Pitcher Stanley Coveleskie at his leisure. Covie's best was an infield tap that resulted in a force out.

From that time on the Reuben was in good fettle and when he was removed from the game two innings later it was due to no weakening on his part, but because of a pinch hit substitution by Manager Robinson. Not another hit did the Cleveland batters make off Rube's delivery.

However, Mr. Robinson evidently concluded that he had a fat chance to win with his club four runs behind. So that in the sixth period, he sent in Lamar to smash for Marquard, hoping for a break that would net him some runs. But although the Cleveland infield rendered some yeoman service toward helping out the Dodgers, the Brooklynites were unable to score.

Sewell Still Uncertain.

The inning brought out the fact that there is still a serious uneasiness on the Cleveland club regarding the filling of the gap left by Chapman. Sewell on defense, while game and persevering, has made several blunders of hand and head. He was an uncertainty all through today's game and the fans almost audibly heaved sighs of relief whenever he made a clean play.

In the sixth, with Lamar down by virtue of Sewell's stop and throw to first, Olson singled and J. Johnston forced him. Sewell made the assist to Wamby O K, but Burns dropped Wambsganss, good throw. One double play missed. Griffith grounded to Wamby next and Sewell took the toss with a double play in his lap. But he dropped the ball and J. Johnston sped on toward third base. It was no credit to Sewell that his quick recovery enabled him to head off Johnston at third. He was entitled to an error just the same. Sewell's play, thus far has failed to convince fans that he is another Chapman, although he meets the ball solidly when at bat.

Cleveland's half of the sixth, with Pfeffer hurling for Brooklyn, saw the end of the day's scoring. Two men were down when the break came that netted the Indians their final count. It was Coveleskie himself who started the rally with an unexpected single to right field. He went to third when Joe Evans, who came into the arena with Jamieson's departure due to the pitching change, slammed a single and scored on a scratch hit by Wamby.

Pitchers Hold Sway.

For the rest of the game the pitchers held sway, but Tris Speaker showed a strain of obstinacy in the following inning that must have puzzled those not familiar with the tactics of the game. Pitcher Coveleskie, who was somewhat winded by his scoring efforts in the previous inning, needed a breathing spell, so it was up to Manager Speaker to furnish it.

O'Neill claimed that Konetchy had struck at a pitched ball, which the umpire had not declared a strike. Speaker rushed all the way in from center field to register a protest. The Leonine Bill Dinneen, master umpire of the game, paced impatiently up and down, while Speaker snarled and snapped at him. Eventually he had enough and waved Speaker to the outfield as if to say: "I get your reason all right, now get back out there and let's go."

Although Coveleskie seemingly could have gotten by without the aid, he at least came through as per schedule, forcing the "Big Train" to pop a high fly. Apparently the "Big Train" has been unable to get up steam during the present series.

Robinson made a desperate stab in the ninth. But four runs to the bad and Coveleskie going at top speed was too great a handicap. His pinch hitters failed, although Johnston gave a feeble flicker to the Brooklyn hopes with a single. It was to no purpose, however.

Grimes and Bagby to Hurl.

Tomorrow old Grimes will come to life agai nand pitch for Brooklyn, unless the prognosticators have it all wrong. For Cleveland it is probable Bagby or Uhle will work. Bagby, although beaten in his first start of the series, hurled a good game, and it is the prevailing opinion that he will be dangerous for the Brooklyn batsmen.

PENN TEAM PROVES TOO STRONG FOR SWARTHMORE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—Enduring aggressiveness aided by breaks of luck enabled the University of Pennsylvania team to defeat the Swarthmore College football team, 21 to 0, on Franklin Field today in a more hotly contested game than the count would indicate.

Swarthmore twice threatened the Pennsylvania goal line, once carrying the ball by the overhead route to the five-yard line, only to find the Pennsylvania line a stonewall and losing the ball on a fumble.

Them Robins' Aces Looked Like They Lived at the Other End of the Deck

But It Was a Sad Xmas, Writes Lardner, for When Everybody Looked Under Their Pillows There Was Nothing but Their Watch and a Soiled Handkerchief.

By Ring W. Lardner.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 9.—This was a sad Xmas in Cleveland. The ball players and umpires and reporters woke up with the break of dawn and some of them with a headache and their 1st thoughts was of the wife and kiddies and the heavilly mortgaged home. But when they looked under their pillow they wasnt nothing there only their watch and a soiled handkerchief and they wasnt nothing in their stockings only a toe hole. Abe Claus has forgot the boys this yr and it don't seem like the merry Yule Tide it was a yr ago.

Even with the big school of fish that swum into Jim Dunn's ball pk today it looks like the winners share of the players pool in this serious wont be as much as the loosers got in 1919, not even ½ as much as some of the loosers got. A Master Mind is needed to pep this serious up and the days is getting shorter.

Incoming trains from the east brought a few Brooklyn nuts that was confident that the Robins had the serious sewed up, but they had left their money sewed up in their other overalls. These here trains also drug in a couple of my old pals that had to stay over in NY city a day to get their noses put back in place after Wednesday night's Olympic games where the main event was the China discus throw.

A Hotbed of Umpires.

When we come down in the lobby of the sumptuous hotel this forenoon the joint was a hotbed of umpires. It looks like this was one reason why the Indians was allowed to win the pennant this yr because if the regular umps got sick or found something under their pillow or somehting why here is Cy Rigler and Bill Evans and Ollie Chill, all legal and tender residents of this peculiar city, ready and more than willing to take their places. The city of Cleveland seems to be ran by a Mayor and a board of aldermen and a umpire at each corner to see that the gals is safe when they're out.

Well, we thought that they would have plenty taxi cabs in a city with such a perfect govt you might say, but the ones that I seen was full as well as their fares and the best I could do was clime in to a private owned vehickle that the bird that owned it said he would fetch me out to the ball pk for $2.00. It was one of those here machines that they say that they's no place they cant go and my chauffeur started out to prove it. Euclid Ave was dirty with traffic and we tried to turn off into a side st. The traffic cop says "Why and the he-ll don't you stick your hand out when you want to turn?"

A Witty Exchange, This.

"I did stick my hand out," says my Jehu. "What do you mean why didn't I stick my hand out?"

"Well" says the flatfoot, "you must have a small hand."

"It aint no smaller than your head," says my Yahoo, and away we went much refreshed by the exchange of Cleveland repararte.

The st we went into says St Closed, but my man couldn't read verry good so we went along it pretty near to the ball pk and when we got there most of what is left of my hirsute adornments was sticking to the one man top. But it was $2.00 just the same, and nothing off for the hair.

Well, I got in too late to tell you who warmed up for the 2 rivals teams, but Robbie seemed to have plenty of his aces ready but when they got in there the most of them looked like them other little cards that lives at the other end of the deck. It would of been all right if Robbie's deuces had of been wild, but they wasnt even that.

Amist those present in the stands to-day was Warren and Clifton Johnston, brothers of Jimmy and Doc Johnston. Warren and Clifton is here looking at the serious and don't dast say witch way they are pulling. The 4 Johnstons is going to put on a quartette number at a Cleveland church to-morrow am and the regular congregation is urged to come early before their pews is jammed with visiting newspaper men.

Corinne Gould No Longer Member of Upper Tennis Ten

St. Louis Girl Who Ranked Seventh, Last Year, Not in First Flight This Season.

Miss Corinne Gould the frail St. Louis girl who climbed to the top of the Western lawn tennis ladder last year, when she won all Mid-West honors as well as the National women's clay-court championship as well, and who gained a place in the first 10 for 1919, will not be placed in the upper 10 this year.

Miss Gould's campaign this year was ambitious, but did not come up to her expectations or to that of her friends, who still believe, however that she gained valuable experience during her visit to the Eastern tournaments and in her defense of the clay-court title, even though she failed to win.

Miss Gould lost in the clay-court final to Marion Zinderstein of Boston, runner-up for the United States turf court title this year. She was badly beaten. In the East she also fared poorly, because in almost every case she opposed a first-flight player, and on turf courts with which she was unfamiliar.

Informal rankings of first 10 players do not name Miss Gould this season, and the explanatory considerations do not even mention her. Her game is too lacking in pace to interest the Eastern experts, who are fed up on the "severe" stuff and can't see a mere chop stroke, such as Miss Gould handles to perfection.

Defeated Miss Ballin.

It is significant of their oversight, however, that most of them place Florence Ballin in the first 10, some of them as high as No. 7, whereas Miss Gould eliminated Miss Ballin in the clay-court tournament.

A composite unofficial ranking might be made up as follows:

1. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory.
2. Miss Marion Zinderstein.
3. Miss Eleanor Goss.
4. Miss Eleanor Tennant.
5. Miss Helen Baker.
6. Mrs. Edward Raymond.
7. Miss Helene Poliak.
8. Miss Florence Ballin.
9. Miss Marie Wagner.
10. Miss Edith Sigourney.

Miss Gould will undoubtedly make a better showing next year when she has speeded up her game and mastered the follow-to-the-net attack, which she is practicing. She is one of the best court generals in the West and uses her limited strength to perfect advantage in all her campaigns. place in the first 10 for 1919, will game, Miss Margaret Davis of St. Paul, who has been consistently beaten by Miss Gould, received favorable mention in Eastern publications, where Miss Gould was not mentioned.

New World Mark Is Expected When Race Kings Meet

Man O' War and Sir Barton Have Been Faithfully Trained for Match at Windsop.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 9.—Unless there is a radical departure from the methods hitherto pursued by Trainers Feustel and Bedwell the match race at Kenilworth next Tuesday between Man o' War and Sir Barton will be remarkable for the speed in its early stages. Both of the great horses have been in the habit of smothering their opponents during the early part of a contest, and unless something has happened since the pair of flyers were sent to Canada, to alter the plans of their trainers, this is the course which will be followed.

It is generally agreed that a horse can only carry his highest flight of speed for a comparatively short distance—something over a quarter of a mile, where everything is demanded of an animal—but it is thought that while the battle will rage furiously from the moment the barrier is released, the pace will be so regulated that neither gladiator will be exhausted short of a mile and a sixteenth, and it is in that last crucial three-sixteenths that nerve and muscular forces will be strained to the breaking point. It will then be a question of which has the greater lung power and the stouter heart.

Those who have watched Man o' War in all of his races this year have seldom seen him show signs of distress. He was a somewhat tired horse after he made John P. Grier capitulate at Aqueduct, but there was a good reason for his blowing on that occasion, as he had been indulged somewhat before the race, and the exertion it required to overhaul the speedy Whitney representative when the ground broke out from beneath his feet at the start called for a supreme effort. After he got to Grier he hadn't a chance to get a breathing spell, and it was only his indomitable spirit that saved him from defeat.

Sir Barton Will Be Fit.

That was the last time that any liberties were taken with the champion in his training. At Saratoga, prior to the running of the Miller Stakes, the big colt was sent a mile and a quarter in 2.03 with four big bandages on, and when he went back to the barn after jogging through the stretch he couldn't blow a candle out. That he will not be short on Tuesday is assured by the character of the work he has had within the past 10 days, particularly that remarkable mile and a quarter in 2.02 at Belmont Park last Tuesday.

The searching preparation which Guy Bedwell has given Sir Barton has been not a whit less exhaustive, and the Ross flyer will go into Tuesday's test as fit as hands can make him. Unlike his great rival, Sir Barton is not a generous horse. He will not give his best efforts except with the aid of pacemakers, and dressed with blinkers as though the fate of nations were at stake. He is a glutton for punishment and has required "killing" in order to get him to a point where he could be depended upon to show that flash of speed, and display of courage which has stamped him as one of the greatest horses for his inches that the American turf has ever known. He may be depended upon to carry the fight to Man o' War from the start, and a new record for the distance should be made if the track is fast.

There is an unique quality governing next Tuesday's $75,000 match. Both contestants are front runners, and have won fame by taking the track. The question of how far a good horse can carry his speed should be answered when these game-cocks, a good big one and a good little one are pitted against each other. No matter which one loses it is certain that neither will be disgraced, as they have shown on many occasions those qualities which make the sport of horse racing popular the world over.

It will not be the greatest contest in the history of racing from a monetary standpoint, but it should go down to posterity as a spectacle second to none, for all the world will be there to see. It will be an illuminating test of the qualities for which the thoroughbred is famous and should make new friends for racing and horse breeding throughout the United States and Canada.

Both Horses Go Distance.

Man o' War and Sir Barton took their first serious workouts today over the mile and a quarter Kenilworth Club track.

Carrying the weight, he will carry next Tuesday, 120 pounds, Man o' War went the distance in 2:08 1-5. He was running strongly at the finish and had not been pushed. Sir Barton, carrying 126 pounds, made the circuit in 2:08.

Neither H. G. Bedwell, trainer of Sir Barton, nor Louis Feustel, who looks after the Riddle entry, are inclined to push the horses over the route before the race. They assert that their charges are in the pink of condition.

Rigid training schedules have been adopted in both camps in preparation for the contest.

With the expected arrival of Jockeys Earl Sande, who will ride Sir Barton, and Clarence Kummer, who will pilot Man o' War, Sunday, the horses will go through a series of easy rehearsals over the course.

JOHNSTON GIVEN SEDAN.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 9.—"Doc" Johnston, Cleveland first baseman, was presented with a seven-passenger sedan just before the game. The presentation was made at the plate with members of both clubs gathered around. Tris Speaker, the Indians' manager, received a huge floral horseshoe from the Cleveland fans.

Vicious Cleveland Attack Nullifies Robins' Advantage On Hill, Says Billy Evans

American League Umpire Believes Brooklyn Will Have to Send Grimes to the Slab Today—Praises Pitching Performance of Stanley Coveleskie.

By Billy Evans,
American League's Premier Umpire.

CLEVELAND, O., October 9.—Stanley Coveleskie seems destined to be the big hero of the 1920 world's series. He gave another remarkable exhibition of pitching this afternoon, scoring his second decisive triumph over Brooklyn. He worked easly throughout, was master of the situation at all times and won as he pleased. Brooklyn made only five hits and scored its lone tally of the game when Johnston singled and Wheat doubled in the fourth.

In the opening game, Oct. 5, Covie allowed Brooklyn the same number of hits and runs. His spitball delivery, which combines three or four styles, seems to have the Brooklyn club at sea. He figures to win another game against Brooklyn on his showing. If Speaker is hard pressed for pitchers it would not be at all surprising if he made four starts in the series.

Cleveland richly deserved to win this afternoon's contest. The pitching of Coveleskie was perfect. In addition, the Indians displayed a rushing attack that completely smothered four members of the much vaunted Brooklyn pitching staff. From the very start Cleveland was after Cadore. Evans crashed a line drive right at the Brooklyn pitcher that he held. His smile made it evident that he was as much surprised as any one in the park. Wamby, after hitting a couple of hard fouls that seemed to disturb Cadore, drew a pass and Speaker and Smith proceeded to hit safely, netting two runs, enough to win the ball game, as later proven. From the first to the last the Indians continued their attack, and with the exception of the two innings in which Marquard escaped unscathed, all four twirlers were roughly treated.

Tribe Displays Its Punch.

I figured there had to be a break in the Brooklyn staff, knowng that the Cleveland attack was far stronger than anything it had shown. It came this afternoon. Cadore, Mamaux, Marquard and Pfeffer were used by Robinson in an attempt to stop the rush of the Indians. The work of Cadore and Mamaux in the first game, in which each worked a short time, was most impressive. Their showing in that game was one big reason the Brooklyn staff looked so good. Now that Cleveland has proven those pitchers can be hit, the Brooklyn staff is a trifle bent.

Prior to the start of today's game Robinson appeared to have a decisive edge as to pitchers. He had three men all primed to start—Cadore, Mamaux and Pfeffer. This afternoon he was forced to call on all three, and his southpaw, Marquard, in addition. There isn't a chance that Bobbie will take a chance or Cadore or Mamaux tomorrow, despite the fact that each worked only about an inning. The Indians would face either one with supreme confidence, because of the manner in which they treated them today.

It looks as if the Brooklyn leader would use his spitball star, Grimes. He will have had only three days' rest, is a big, husky fellow and should should not be bothered on that account. For Robbie to use any other man than Grimes would be tempting fate. A victory for Cleveland in Sunday's game would give them a decided advantage. It would give them a one-game edge in the series, with two games to go on the home grounds. If Cleveland wins on Sunday, Brooklyn will have a hard time stopping them, with the danger of Coveleskie getting primed for another start.

Bagby Is Probable Choice.

Whom Speaker will start is more difficult to figure. If one considered performance during the past season, the logical choice would be Bagby. His 31 victories in the American League is a most impressive record. In all probability Speaker will start him, but there is a strong chance that he may hit upon either Uhle or Morton. Uhle has showed a lot of stuff in the two games that he has finished and is dead anxious to get a chance to open against Brooklyn. Uhle, when he came to the majors, was an overhanded pitcher and looked like the most promising recruit that had broken into the big leagues in years. Then, for some reason, he shifted to sidearm pitching and his work greatly suffered. Near the close of the season he went back to the overhand style and immediately he regained his effectiveness. He has fine speed, a puzzling curve and a good cross-fire. In addition, he has plenty of courage.

Morton has every attribute of a great world's series pitcher, but lacks poise. He has more speed and just as good a curve as any member of the Cleveland staff. But he is one of those chaps who can look like a million dollars one day and not quite so much the next. However, he has the stuff on the ball and for that reason must be given consideration.

Sewell and Wamby Shine.

Aside from the great pitching of Coveleskie and the strong attack shown by the Cleveland club, the work of Bill Wambsganss and Joe Sewell stood out in bold relief. These two players, regarded by some of the critics as the weak spot in the Cleveland defense, showed to decided advantage. No fielder can be more brilliant than Wamby when he is at the top of his game and he never was better than today. He made three or four remarkable stops and engineered a couple of beautiful double plays. Sewell was equally brilliant. The youngster proved his courage and his ability in this afternoon's game when he steped on the field and he was the first Indian to prance out. The crowd gave the youngster a big hand to show they were with him, and he rewarded their good wishes.

I don't look for Grimes to be as effective as he was in the second game. The Cleveland team has had a chance to study his spitter. He has only one style. His fast ball I don't believe will puzzle the Indians. If Bagby starts he is bound to turn in a better game, because he has had four games in which to study the Brooklyn batsmen.

BALTIMORE WINS THIRD SUCCESSIVE TILT FROM ST. PAUL TEAM, 9 TO 2

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9.—The third game of the inter-league series between Baltimore and St. Paul this afternon was a veritable rout and the Orioles chalked up their third successive cictory. The count was 9 to 2. After the first round there was little to it and the new International League champions kept on increasing their lead.

Jack Bentley, who won the opener from the American Association champions, was sent back at them this afternoon and made good after a poor start. The Saints collected four of their seven safe blows off him in the first round, which netted them their only runs. After the opening session the Orioles' star left-hander let only two men go past first.

Charley Hall, the Westerners' best bet in the pitching line, who twirled a fair game in the opener, although defeated, failed to show as much stuff this afternoon. He retired after the fourth round, the Birds having chalked up seven runs during that time. Williams pitched fair ball during the two innings he worked, but Griner was touched up for a quartet of safeties in the eighth, reckless base running by the home team helping him out.

Close to 15,000 attended the contest. The same teams will play again tomorrow, after which they leave for St. Paul to wind up the series, the first game in the Minnesota-city being booked for Wednesday.

SEWELL 22 YEARS OLD

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—Joe Sewell, the recruit shortstop with Cleveland, was 22 years old today and he did considerable celebrating. He played a spectacular game in the short field where Ray Chapman used to hold forth, fielding brilliantly and with excellent judgment. He figured in a double play and narrowly missed a second. He also got two of the Indians' 12 hits.

FIRST EIGHTEEN LUCKY

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—Prices ranging up to $20 were offered the first 18 in line for the general admission tickets. Not one of them sold out. Miss Julia Kelly of Bridgeport, Conn., was the third in line.

MISSOURI ROMPS OVER BILLIKENS FOR 44-0 VICTORY

St. Louis U. Eleven So Completely Outclassed That It Is on the Defensive Virtually All the Way.

FOR 16 years the University of Missouri has smarted under the indignities heaped upon it by St. Louis University gridiron elevens of other years; but yesterday it avenged all of these wrongs and it did so with a punch. It outrageously trampled on the Billikens, 44 to 0, and that score doesn't even begin to tell the damage that those snapping, snarling Tigers from Boone County did to the local collegians.

It was the first atheltic contest between the two institutions since 1911. Previous to the suspension of athletic relations the Blue and White held an upper hand, and when Allan Lincoln tumbled over the line in the first period of yesterday's holocaust, it marked the first time that the State school ever scored on St. Louis University.

The teams were not even a match. The visitors outweighed Coach Rademacher's men at least 12 pounds to the man, and they used this extra brawn to full advantage. The Missouri athletes were hard as nails and when they hit, it was with the force of a catapult. The "Bills" were soft.

Billikens Always the Under Dog.

Such conditions as these could not do other than make the expected contest an uninteresting, lifeless mixup. Time out was taken with aggravating frequency, and at no time were the Billikens on the offensive. The fact that the melee was strung out to two hours and 20 minutes, almost a record for gridiron sloth, did nothing to cheer the 7000 fagged spectators who came out to see the first football thrills of the 1920 season.

The unevenness of the disaster can well be told in a few figures. The only time that the Billikens got in the vicinity of midfield was in the second period, when a Tiger fumble was covered on the locals' 27-yard line. Two line bucks by Webb and Henry netted 12 yards and a first down, the only first down that the battered Billikens made during the contest. An offside penalty for the Tigers and two line bucks for three yards carried the local offensive to its own 48-yard mark, where it was forced to kick. Outside of this occasion, St. Louis U. was never able to get on the the other side of its 34-yard mark.

Figures Tell Sad Story.

Now consider the case of Johnny Miller's fighting felines. Lincoln, Lewis, Fullbright, Packwood and Williams rumbled in, through, over and around the Billikens for a total of 425 yards by rushing more than 10 times as much as the 41 yards which St. Louis rushed the pigskin. In fact, had it not been for the 115 yards of penalties inflicted on the Tigers and the three fumbles of which they were guilty, there is no telling what the final accounting might have been. The first down ratio was 16 to 1.

Capt. Charles "Chuck" Lewis was the outstanding star of the Tigertown wrecking crew. Lewis was a star last year, but this year he is a whole constellation. He punted beautiful long spirals, scored a couple of touchdowns, booted six goals after touchdown, ran off tackle and around end until the local defense was weary. Of course he was generally aided by that unified defense of the Columbians; but there were also times when he outsped his vanguard and just walked over the opposition. Lewis' work was beautiful to watch.

Lineup and Summary of Tigers' Victory

Billiken Line Like Paper in Face Of Vicious Attack of the Tigers

The locals on their few attacking opportunities employed that double shift in which the ends and tackles drop back of the line of scrimmage and then all four to either the right or left of the central trio. Perhaps they did not get set rapidly enough, or perhaps they were simply outrushed; but the fact remains that as soon as the ball was passed the line was no more than so much paper. St. Louis' defense was mediocre; but its attack was nothing.

The Gengals started their disastrous tours down the field in about the middle of the opening period. Neither team had been able to gain consistently during the first six minutes and Packwood returned a punt 10 yards from his 40-yard line. The visitors were then penalized 15 yards for tripping, but this and first down was made in the next three line bucks. Incidentally it was tripping that caused Missouri to be penalized a majority of the times that it suffered.

Lewis then shot off tackle for 23 yards and the oval was 20 yards from home. Fullbright added seven and then Lewis slipped around end for eight and first down. The "Bills" held twice, but big Allen Lincoln pushed his 200 pounds against the line and went over on the next buck.

Lewis Tears Through Line.

The second quarter opened with the Tigers attacking on the Blue and White's 27-yard mark. Lewis skinned tackle to the third white chalk mark and three line pummelings put first down on the four-yard line. Lewis then carried the ball over. The captain was also the outstanding figure in the scoring of the next touchdown. The attack was initiated on the Missouri 33-yard line and a pass, Lewis to Lincoln, put scrimmage on the home boys' 35-yard line. Only four downs were needed to cover the remaining distance, "Chuck" carrying the ball twice, including the last time.

The Billikens got into trouble early in the second half when Drace punted out of bounds on his 30-yard line. Rushes brought the play to the very shadow of the posts, but here Lewis proved that he was human by fumbling when 10 yards away. A fellow Tiger hopped on the ball and two passes put the fourth touchdown over. The scoring forward was Lewis to Goepel, the latter being a former Soldan High School player.

Missouri scored again in this period when Drace was guilty of a very foolish play. Lewis made a beautiful punt from the Billiken 45-yard line and the ball bounced in far St. Louis territory. Drace watched the pigskin bounce twice and then grabbed it running toward his own posts in an effort to dodge the onrushing Tiger ends. They naisel him and scored a safety for two points.

Substitute Scores Twice.

After such bruising under an Indian summer sun, the local youths were dog tired when the final period rolled around, and consequently the Miller charges were able to do as they pleased. Two touchdowns were added to the cause, both of them by Clarence "Fuzzy" Williams, a substitute, who covered himself all over with glory. "Fuzzy" surprised the whole assemblage by shooting off of tackle and running 50 yards for a touchdown, and before the applause had died down he duplicated the feat with a 45-yard ramble.

KILLINGER'S 46-YARD RUN HELPS PENN STATE BEAT DARTMOUTH ELEVEN, 14-7

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 9.—Penn State scored a spectacular triumph over Dartmopth here today, 14 to 7. With the score a tie in the fourth period, Glenn Killinger, State's halfback, intercepted a forward pass and rushed 46 yards down the field to Dartmouth's 2-yard line. On the next play, Lightner, the other State halfback, went over for the winning score.

Dartmouth's lone touchdown also was the result of an intercepted pass early in the game. Neidlinger intercepted Killinger's forward throw and on the succeeding lineup Holbrook went through left tackle for the touchdown.

KANSAS AGGIES SWAMP CAMP FUNSTON, 55 TO 0

MANTATAN, Kan., Oct. 9.—In a game that turned out to be little more than a scrimmage, the Kansas Aggies beat their soldier neighbors from Camp Funston by a score of 55 to 0. The Aggies outplayed the soldiers in every department of the game using successfully line plunging and runs and forward passes. Coach Bachman used every man out in the game. Open field running of W. Cowell and Axline featured the game.

The lineup:

Aggies.	Position.	Funston.
Lynn	Left end	Jensen
Gatz	Left tackle	Watts
Marshall	Left guard	Neederman
Hahn	Center	Compton
Huston	Right guard	Wood
Stauffer	Right tackle	Bartelman

Axline	Quarterback	Schots
Bids	Left halfback	Noartny
Sears	Fullback	Hahn
W. Cowell	Right halfback	Whitehead

Substitutions: Aggies' coach used every man he had: Funston, Thomson for Neederman, Coughlin for Wood, McKown for Whitehead, Day for McCarty, Walker for Coughlin.

Lincoln Scoring Tigers' First Touchdown Against Billikens

Minnesota Title Hopes Shattered By Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ind., Oct. 9.—Minnesota's big ten championship hopes were dashed today when Northwestern's eleven, entering the contest with odds against her dazed the Gophers' defense with a varied aerial attack and shattered their offense at every critical stage, winning, 17 to 0.

It was a startling upset for expert observers of big ten conference football, for Minnesota, with her vaunted backfield and a line deemed equal to any foe, was picked as one of the strongest contenders for premier gridiron honors of the conference.

Except for the first period and occasional spurts in the second session, the Minnesotans were completely outclassed in every phase of the game, with the possible exception of individual brilliancy as shown in the performance of Halfback Oss.

Chicago Beats Purdue in Big Ten Opener, 20 to 0.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Chicago inaugurated its gridiron season with a 20 to 0 victory over Purdue here today. Inability of the boilermakers' backs to handle punts paved the way to both maroon touchdowns. Three fumbles by Purdue, followed by a forward pass, Cole to Crisler, netted the Maroons their first touchdown in the second period. The boilermakers' defense went to pieces in the final period and the Maroons added two more touchdowns.

Lineup:

CHICAGO.	Position.	PURDUE.
Crisler	Right end	Bendixne
McGuire	Right tackle	Birk
Newhall	Right guard	Cooley
Baird	Center	Stanwood
Jackson	Left tackle	Claypool
Hinkle	Left end	Carmen
Colo	Quarterback	Don Field
Hutchinson	Right half	Macklin
Rouse	Left half	Rate
Heimes	Fullback	Meeker

Summary: Touchdown—Crisler, Hanisch, McMaster. Goal after touchdown—Jackson 2. Referee—J. C. Masker, Northwestern. Umpire—L. G. St. John, Notre Dame. Field Judge—J. N. Elliott, Illinois Wesleyan. Head Linesman—Kintz.

Badgers Use Forward Passes and Win, 27-0.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 9.—Wisconsin defeated the Michigan Aggies today, 27 to 0, the visitors putting up a spectacular defense.

Although the Wisconsin goal was never in danger, it was not until the second half that the Badgers were able to break through the Aggies' line, the first touchdown being made on a long pass in the first quarter.

With the opening of the fourth quarter, the Aggie line gave way, clever line dodging and forward passes giving Wisconsin a touchdown in three minutes of play.

Steketee's 75-Yard Run Helps Wolverines Win.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 9.—Relying almost exclusively on straight football, Michigan defeated Case, 35 to 0, in the opening game on Ferry Field today.

The Ohioans presented unexpected strength in the first period and held the maize and blue scoreless. The feature play of the game was a 75-yard dash down the field by Frank Steketee, the Michigan fullback, in the final period. He shot around right end, and throwing off a squad of tacklers, raced down a clear field for a touchdown.

High School League Machines Win Two of Three Practice Tilts

Central Defeats Western, 16 to 10, Cleveland Trims East St. Louis, 20 to 0, While McKinley Is Humbled by St. Louis University Prep Team, 7 to 0, in Hard-Fought Contest.

The Central High School eleven defeated the Western Military Academy of Alton, 16 to 10, in the feature game at High School Field yesterday. Cleveland drew a 20 to 0 victory over the East St. Louis High School in the preliminary, and McKinley lost a hard fought battle with the St. Louis University Freshmen, 7 to 0, in the morning, at the Billiken campus.

Central played against the strongest backfield men it has faced in any of its practice games this year in Fullback Gregory, an almost infallible line plunger and an exceptional kicker, and Right Halfback Fite, a speedy end skirter. The brand of football exhibited was superior to that shown in any previous game this season.

Mansfield, Central left half, opened well with two end runs that netted 40 yards, but Western held for downs. Western punted and Quarterback Fisher caught the ball on his 60-yard line and made a beautiful open-field run for a touchdown. Western's first score also came in the initial period. Gregory received the ball on the fourth down on Central's 45-yard line and although two of Central's men were almost upon him, dropped the ball exactly between the goal posts.

Anzalone Plays Brilliantly.

The second period was evenly contested. The failure of Western to score was greatly due to the efforts of Left End Anzalone, who was in on every play, throwing the backs for losses. Central placed the ball on Western's one-yard line late in the third period, where Western held for downs. The kickout was blocked and a Western man fell on the ball behind his goal for a safety. In the fourth period, Anzalone caught a pretty forward from Fullback Fdoun, and soon after caught another for Central's second touchdown.

With only five minutes more to play, Western rushed the ball to midfield, where Sommer threw a 20-yard pass to Fite, who was downed five yards from Central's goal. A western penalty, and then Fite caught another pass from Sommers, for Western's only touchdown.

Cleveland Wins Easily.

In the preliminary game, Cleveland, playing its second game of the year, easily defeated the East St. Louis team. Its goal was seldom in danger and the touchdowns were readily gained.

In the morning game, McKinley failed to hold the Freshmen in the first period. St. Louis U. rushed the ball to the five-yard line early in the second quarter and Halfback Eggler went through the line for a touchdown.

The play was about even in the third quarter and with only a few minutes to play, Halfback Schaefering caught a pass and ran to the St. Louis U. five-yard line, where the whistle blew before the ball could be pushed over.

The lineups:

HAMILTON, HARVARD SUB, RUNS 67 YARDS TO SCORE IN VALPARAISO CONTEST

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 9.—After holding Harvard well away from the goal line for two periods, Valpariaso weakened today and the Crimson scored three touchdowns by good line plunging.

A minute before time was called, Left Halfback Hamilton, subbing for Owens, broke through the Valparaiso line and dodging three backs, ran 67 yards for the third score.

GEORGES CARPENTIER WILL WHIP LEVINSKY, SAYS JOE JEANETTE

"Georges Carpentier is a hundred per cent better fighter now," says Joe Jeanette, "than he was when he dropped me for a count of nine in our bout in Paris in 1914. He has gained as much in speed, cleverness, ring generalship and hitting power as he has in weight. He isn't right just yet, but he is right enough to show me what a truly wonderful fighter he really is. He will make Levinsky look like a novice. If there is any man in the world that can stop Jack Dempsey, Georges Carpentier is the man."

Joe Jeanette never has been given to idle talk and what he has to say regarding Carpentier is food for thought. There isn't a better judge of fighters in the world than the dusky veteran.

Ames Wins From Grinnell Eleven in M. V. Contest

Iowa State Is Victor by 28-0 Score — Forward Passes Worked Successfully.

GRINNELL, Ia., Oct. 9.—Iowa State walloped Grinnell 28 to 0 at Ward Field this afternoon before a crowd of 1800 football followers. Ames scored in the first, third and last quarters.

The Cyclones outplayed the Pioneers throughout, with Grinnell showing flashes of real football at times. Grinnell completed several long passes and by means of these was able to endanger Iowa's goal, but lacked the final punch to score.

Ames showed up especially well in line bucks. Vanderloo, the Ames fullback, going through the Grinnell line for long gains time after time. "Polly" Wallace was the mainstay of the Ames line.

The line-up:

AMES.	Position.	GRINNELL.
Webb	Left end	Dimit
Birch	Left tackle	Winters
Church	Left guard	Hicks
Wallace	Center	Norelius
Young	Right guard	Jannsen
Riggs	Right tackle	Knies

Kansas Has Hard Time Beating Washburn, 6-0.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 9.—Kansas won from Washburn here in the second football game of the season today by a 6-to-0 score. The game was ragged, although hard fought. Kansas did not succeed in pushing the ball over for a touchdown until the middle of the final quarter, when Harley Little, a substitute for Bunn at left halfback, went through right tackle for eight yards and the only score of the game. Lonborg, quarterback, failed to kick goal when the ball was blocked by Stimpson, Washburn left guard.

The Kansas touchdown came after Kansas got possession of the ball when Capt. Stevens kicked out of bounds on the Washburn 41-yard line. The ball was carried to the 8-yard line in a series of line smashes, principally by Mandeville, right halfback, as Little made only five yards and Welch, fullback, only two yards of the distance.

Kansas had the edge during most of the game, but could not push the ball over only once despite the fact that three times during the game the ball had been pushed within the Washburn 3-yard line. All three times Kansas lost the ball on downs when the Washburn line held like a stonewall.

The lineup:

Washburn.	Position.	Kansas.
Boys	Left end	Reid
Simpson	Left guard	Jones
Irvin	Center	Hart
Anderson	Right guard	Smith
Cossman	Right tackle	Sandefur
Rogers	Right end	Ivy
Stevens, Capt.	Quarter	Lonborg
McKinley	Left half	Welch
Kennedy	Right half	Mandeville
Wyckoff	Fullback	Simon

Substitutions: Washburn—Wingat for Anderson, Anderson for Wingat, Jameson for Boys, Kendall for Rogers, Sharp for McKinley, Schrader for Anderson and Palmetier for Sharp. Kansas—Bunn for Lonborg, Lonborg for Welch, Saunders for Hart, Higgins for Smith, Wilson for Simon, McDonald for Reid, Reid for McDonald, Smith for Higgins, Welch for Wilson, Lonberg for Bunn, Bunn for Lonberg, Little for Bunn, Hale for Sandefur, Farrell for Little and Spurgeon for Welch.

The summary: Yards from scrimmage—Kansas, 242 yards; Washburn, 22 yards. Forward passes—Kansas, 9; incomplete, 4; completed 62 yards, none intercepted. Washburn—2 completed for 36 yards, 1 incomplete, 1 intercepted. First downs—Kansas, 14; Washburn, 3. Punts—Kansas, 11 for 430 yards; Washburn, 15 for 423 yards. Penalties—Kansas, 40 yards; Washburn, 25 yards. Place kicks—Washburn, one from 35-yard line, one from 45-yard, both unsuccessful. Drop kicks—Kansas, one from 25-yard line; unsuccessful. Officials—Leslie Edmonds, Ottawa, referee; Walton Holmes, Missouri; umpire; A. A. Schabinger, Emporia, head lineaman.

ILLINOIS TEAM SWAMPS DRAKE BULLDOGS, 41 TO 0

URBANA, Ill., Oct. 9.—Zuppke's Illini opened their 1920 football season today by defeating Drake of Des Moines by a score of 41 to 0. Drake was woefully weak on defense. Illinois made first down continually without difficulty. Zuppke did not uncover any of his pet plays. Straight football, interspersed with simple forward pass formations featured the Illinois offense. Zuppke's forward pass formation of last year, Walquist to Carney, promises to be more effective than ever.

Peden' Zuppke's new halfback, played a hard game. Peden came from Lombard College. Hillstrom, who substituted for Bob Fletcher at quarterback in the fourth period, was the individual star for Illinois. He showed good judgment in picking the weak spots in Drake's defense. He is a good open field runner.

The lineup:

ILLINOIS.	Position.	DRAKE.
Carney	Left end	Pendy
Olander	Left tackle	Denton
Mohr	Left guard	Tilmont
Depler (Capt.)	Center	Amme
Smith	Right guard	Luts
Ems	Right tackle	Hornaday
Larimer	Right end	Wade
Bob Fletcher	Quarterback	Brindley
Peden	Left halfback	Allen
Walquist	Right halfback	Shawver
Crangle	Fullback	Shearer

Substitutions: Drake—Heath for Shawver, Collins for Hornaday, Woodhead for Pendy, Marsh for Tillmont, Niggemeyer for Allen, Given for Brindley, Thomas for Luts, Carlstrom for Collins.

Illinois—Linden for Larimer, Hill for Ems, Anderson for Olander, Ralph Fletcher for Bob Fletcher, Reitsch for Doepler, McCann for Crangle, Covahize for Linden, Howard for Sabo.

Touchdowns—Bob Fletcher, Peden, Ralph Fletcher ,2; McCann, Hillstrom. Goals from touchdown—Depler, Ralph Fletcher, 4.

SYRACUSE ROMPS OVER JOHNS HOPKINS, 45-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 9.—After being held virtually even on the first half, the end of which saw Syracuse leading by a score of 7 to 0, the Syracuse University football team uncovered its full strength in the second half today and scored almost at will on Johns Hopkins, rolling 45 to 0 at the end of the game. Gullick, a tackle, and Fallon, right end, were the stars of the Syracuse play, both on the offensive and defense.

PLAYERS HANDICAPPED BY HEAT AND DUST

Only Two Washington Men Go Through Entire Contest—Thumser and Yorger Perform at Quarterback.

Coach Rider's Washington University eleven tucked away its second victory of the season yesterday afternoon at Francis Field, defeating the Drury Panthers of Springfield, Mo., 36 to 0. The score was not as large as the victory registered over the Panthers last year, 51 to 0. Coach Rider was fully satisfied with the work of the team and substitutes he sent in during the latter stages of the game.

The Pikers scored in every quarter of the contest, registering one touchdown in each of the first, third and fourth frames, and two in the second period. In the third quarter, George Thompson added to the score with a perfect place kick from the 30-yard line.

The Red and Green completely outplayed the visitors, hitting the line with good success, while the Panthers depended upon short snappy passes and two good end runs for an occasional first down against the Pikers.

Opening the game, Washington kicked off and soon after went into the lead when George Thompson recovered a fumble and ran for a touchdown. Thompson also kicked goal. The Pikers scored again in the second quarter when Quarterback Thumser returned a Drury punt to the visitors' 15-yard line. Successive off-tackle plunges brought the ball to the two-yard mark, from whence Thumser bucked center for the score. Thompson missed the kick, bringing the score to 13-0.

After kicking off and regaining the ball after a Drury punt, the Red and Green worked the leather to the 20-yard line. A perfect pass, Thompson to Shanley, brought another score, while Thompson's extra point on a neat goal kick closed the half with the Red and Green leading, 20 to 0.

Recovered Fumble Helps.

Opening the third period Washington regained the ball on a fumble on the Drury 25-yard mark, and after failing to make first down on three attempts, Thompson sent over a place kick from the 30-yard mark. The Pikers went over again when they gained the ball on an intercepted pass, bucked the line again, and topped it off with a pass, Thompson to Shipper, bringing the oval to the 10-yard mark. A delayed plunge sent Griesedieck over for a tally. Thompson kicked goal.

A few of the cripples went in during the last quarter, Kleiber at center, Deeds at guard, Kraehe at tackle and Yorger at quarter. Yorger carried the ball over for the final touchdown. Goal was missed.

The heat and dust made playing coditions poor. Coach Rider made many substitutions. Cohen at tackle and Potthoff at halfback being the only two to play the entire game. For Drury, Capt. Williams, rated one of the best passers in the State, passed and ran with the ball, and starred in general for the visitors.

The lineup follows:

Washington U. 36.	Position.	Drury, 0.
Koch	Left tackle	Miller
Singleton	Left guard	Bowler
Hafner	Center	Greene
Kurrus	Right guard	Manley

Score by periods:

	1Q.	2Q.	3Q.	4Q.	T.
Washington U.	7	13	10	6	[illegible]
Drury	0	0	0	0	0

Touchdowns: Washington — Thompson, Thumser, Shanley, Yorger, Griesedieck. Goals after touchdown—Thompson (3). Field goals—Thompson (1). Substitutes—Shipper for Kremer, Leffler for Shanley, Burke for Leffler, Drake for Shipper, Mathews for Griesedieck, Klaiber for Hafner, Deeds for Kurrus, Kraehe or Koch, Yorker for Thumser. Time of quarters—12½ minutes each. Officials—Williams (Kansas U.) referee; Cook (Illinois) umpire; Kelley (Darthmouth) linesman.

PRINCIPIA HUMBLES EDWARDSVILLE, 34-0

Principia scored a 20-4 victory over the Edwardsville High School eleven yesterday afternoon at the Principia campus. The visitors never were within 40 yards of the Principia goal and Principia felt so sure of its superiority that not once did it resort to punting.

Crough's line plunging and Bauer's work at tackle were the features of the contest. Principia will meet Yeatman next Saturday.

Yesterday's lineup:

Edwardsville.	Position.	Principia.
Campbell	Left guard	McDowell
Lueker	Center	George
Burns	Right guard	Walker
May	Right tackle	V. Schultz

Substitutions: Principia—Dutton for McDowell; Christofferson for Werentin; Carlson for Reihman; Carson for Claiborn. Touchdowns—Crouch, Brownell 2, Carson, Fitzgerald. Goals after touchdown—Crouch 3, Brownell 1.

Racing Records Indicate It Took a Man o' War to Put the Ship in Championship

George Sisler, Brownie Star, Succeeds Cobb as Greatest Baseball Gem of All Time

Burke's First Baseman Breaks Ty's Record of 248 Hits, Bats .409, Gets 19 Home Runs and Plays in Every Inning of 154 Games.

GEORGE HAROLD SISLER, Michigan University 1915, was the outstanding star of the 1920 baseball campaign. Sisler is the successor of Ty Cobb, many seasons regarded as the greatest of baseball players. Sisler, playing with a club that finished fourth, under the .500 percentage, batted for an unofficial average of .409 in 154 games, competing in every inning in which the Burkmen played during the campaign.

Rapped out 258 hits, beating the previous high mark of 248, established by Ty Cobb in 1911.

Hit for a total of 400 bases, an average of 1.6 a game. His total base record was better than that of "Babe" Ruth, who, despite his 54 homers, swatted for only 377 sacks.

In addition to this, the Browns' ace scored 136 runs and drove in 127 more, 112 on hits and 15 on outs. In other words, he was responsible for 263 of the markers scored by the Burkemen during the season.

Second to Ruth in Homers.

The former Michigan University star also ranked well up with the leaders in slugging, as his record of 49 doubles, 18 triples and 19 home runs will attest. In homers he was second only to Babe Ruth, the champion of all leagues.

Delving further into the "dope" for the campaign, it is found that Sis went hitless in only 23 of the 154 contests he played during the year. This in itself is a wonderful record, but it is further found that only twice in the campaign did he go two successive clashes without at least one safety. This occurred in July and August.

On July 12, Sisler was stopped by Harper and Fortune of the Red Sox and the following day failed to get a hit against Collins, Thormahlen and Shore of the Yankees. On Aug. 24 he was stopped by Scott Perry, Connie Mack's right-hander, and the next day by Elmer Myers, Red Sox.

Hit Safely in 25 Games.

Before being stopped by Perry on Aug. 24, the locals' initial station guardian had swatted safely in 25 successive battles, starting July 25. During this stretch of contests Sisler rapped out a total of 46 hits in 103 trips to the plate, for an average of .447.

That it made little difference to Sisler whether a right or left handed twirler was firing for the opposition is shown by the records. During the campaign only five southpaws who went the full route against the Browns were able to halt him without a wallop. Left handers also pitched parts of four other battles in which he was stopped without a safety.

More of the bright lights in the record of Cobb's successor are found in the daily averages. He attained his highest swat figure on June 28, when his average was .438. From June 13 to July 23, a stretch of 41 clashes, Sisler's swatting mark was over the .400 mark.

Hit .448 in the Stretch.

The month of September and the few days played in October proved the best for Sisler, as he hit .448. During August he swatted .442. His worst was July, during which he could rap out only 40 hits in 123 attempts, for an average of .325. However, during no month of the entire campaign did he fall below the .300 figure.

His month by month record for the year:

Month.	AB.	R.	H.	SH.	SB	Ave.
April	36	6	12	1	0	.333
May	114	13	41	3	9	.360
June	119	33	58	2	8	.407
July	123	22	40	2	7	.325
August	95	28	43	0	2	.442
September and October	144	34	64	5	13	.448
Totals	631	136	258	13	39	.409

To wind up the campaign in hurrah style, Sisler rapped out three hits in five attempts, scored two runs and stole three bases, one of them a pilfer of home. He also pitched the final inning of the year against the White Sox. Four men faced him. Two were retired on strikes, one got to first through an error, while the other was out on a grounder, Sisler taking the throw from Jacobson, who went to first, thereby making the final putout of the campaign at St. Louis.

The Browns' ace also proved a star on the defense. He was one of the leading fielders among the first sacker, while his great speed enabled him to start more double plays than any initial station guardian in the circuit. In all, Sisler started 13 two-ply killings during the year.

These came as follows: June 15, vs. Boston; June 30, vs. Cleveland; July 5, vs. Detroit; July 10, vs. Boston; July 29, vs. New York; July 31, vs. New York; Aug. 8, vs. Washington; Aug. 24, vs. Philadelphia; Sept. 4, vs. Chicago; Sept. 11, vs. Washington; Sept. 17, vs. Philadelphia, and Sept. 25, vs. Detroit, twice.

CLAYTON WINS FROM MAPLEWOOD, 13 TO 0

The Clayton High School football team defeated Maplewood on the latter's field, 13—0, in the first County League game for the schools. Both teams showed strong defense, though that of Clayton was the better of the two. The winners also had the advantage in the open style making many gains by forward passes.

The first half ended 0—0, neither team getting the ball within striking distance of the goal. In the second Clayton opened with end runs and forward passes which soon resulted in a touchdown by Oswig, who took a pass from Weitzel. In the fourth quarter, Meyers took the ball across the line after a series of line plunges, kicking the goal. In the final period Maplewood carried the ball to the [illegible]-yard line, but was unable to score.

Blue Jays to Play Triple A.

The Southampton Blue Jays, who have arranged to close the season next week against the Triple A team, champions of the Municipal League, would like to book a game for this afternoon, Maplewood having called off a scheduled contest. Phone R. L. [illegible]acht, Lindell 1245J.

MADDEN AND BELMONT WILL SEE BIG RACE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—When Man o' War and Sir Barton meet in their special race at Windsor, Ont., next Tuesday, August Belmont, chairman of the Jockey Club, and John E. Madden, the biggest breeder of thoroughbreds in this country, will be among the most interested onlookers.

There is a reason, too. Mr. Belmont bred Man o' War and sold him as a yearling for $5000, while John E. Madden bred Sir Barton and sold him to J. K. L. Ross just before he ran second to Duboyne in the Futurity of 1918.

Mr. Ross met Mr. Madden at the Ritz just before leaving for Windsor and urged him to be on hand, so that breeders of both horses should be at the track for what will be a race of history-making kind.

Ban Placed on Boxing.

HALIFAX, Oct. 9.—The police announced today a ban on boxing bouts in this city. A street altercation between two pugilists and a boxing promoter is supposed to have inspired the order.

SPORT SALAD BY
T. E. Davis

THE SUM OF LIFE.

TELL me not in mournful jingle
That the game is on the "queer,"
Just because some players mingle
With the crooked gamboller.

They may flourish for a season,
Playing only for the books,
But that isn't any reason
All the rest of them are crooks.

Lives of gambollers remind us,
We, a game of ball can throw,
And departing leave behind us
Quite a flock of tainted dough.

There are crooks in all professions
And in business life as well;
But they're making no confessions
As to how they buy and sell.

Be not worried or dejected
By the crooks and gamboliers;
There are merchants much respected
Who are merely profiteers.

Let us then be up and at 'em,
On the gamblers put a ban;
Single out the crooks and bat 'em
From Beersheba clear to Dan.

CRUEL.

The man on the sand box says that by way of a punishment suiting the crime the guy who invented paper towels should be made to use them.

AT petty ills I never whine,
And wreathe my brow with scowls;
But I'm compelled to draw the line
At using paper towels.

It's a bum rhyme, but no bummer than the subject.

A paper towel comes in about as handy as a paper bathing suit.

Soccer Teams to Open Season With Twin Bill Today

Champion Ben Millers Oppose Scullins in Opening Game at Cardinal Field.

New playing talent will be tried out by the managers of the four teams of the St. Louis Soccer League in the inaugural double-header of the season at Cardinal Field, this afternoon. The managers have agreed to permit four substitutions to be made in each game during the first three rounds of the playing season. As all the clubs have signed new players, the team leaders are eager to see the newcomers in action.

The schedule for today calls for the Champion Ben Millers to play the Scullins in the opening contest, starting at 2:15 o'clock, while the Innisfails and St. Louis Screw teams will provide the second game.

The official referees named to handle the games this season are Phil Kavanaugh, who officiated in all the games last season, and Paul McSweeney, the veteran player and arbiter, who has agreed to return to the game as an official. Kavanaugh will serve in the first game, while McSweeney will handle the closing contest.

The four teams of the St. Louis Soccer League will again compete in the cup competition of the United States Football Association. The victory of the Ben Millers in the U. S. F. A. competition last year is expected to greatly aid soccer in St. Louis.

Soldan and Yeatman Lead.

The standing of schools in the Interscholastic tennis tournament is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Soldan	11	0	1.000
Yeatman	11	2	.846
Cleveland	7	7	.500
McKinley	4	10	.286
Central	0	14	.000

Several incompleted matches will be played Monday and Tuesday. Each school must play 16 matches. Either Soldan or Yeatman will win first and Cleveland has a chance to tie for second place.

Peterson Plays Well.

Charles C. Peterson, St. Louis billiard player, who is at present giving exhibitions at Buffalo, won two matches his first day in the New York City, defeating Wilhelm, 150 to 8, and Jule, champion of Buffalo, 150—3. Peterson had a high run of 96. He ran out one game in five innings and the other in five.

(Copyright, 1920.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Georges Carpentier, going through his training routine for his fight with Battling Levinsky, is a beautiful animal to watch. In fact, I hardly like to use the word animal. For it is not this impression one gets of him. The play of his mobile features, the beautiful modeling of his head as well as his pose all bespeak intelligence of high order. As the French war hero, a man cited and decorated for his gallantry in his airplane you get him easily enough; but as a pugilist—well, the least you can say is that he is not of the accepted type, not the sort of man you associate with the fight game.

Yet, observing him with the fact in mind that he really is a pugilist, whose success has put him in line for battle for the world's championship heavyweight honors, you read many physical reasons for his success. The muscles at the back of his shoulders, which spell hitting power, are superbly developed, while his deep chest and broad shoulders, the thick-columned neck and finely muscled legs and arms tell their story of physical power. In movement he is like a flash of lightning, and showing in everything he does is that high-lightning spirit of the Latin. It is merely that these things are subordinated by other elements of high makeup.

Levinsky Picked to Lose.

That Carpentier will make a show of the veteran Levinsky in Jersey City, on Oct. 12, is foregone, unless, and this is an important qualification, unless Deschamps, his astute manager, holds him in leash. This might be done with the idea of concealing from fight followers generally and Dempsey scouts in particular, the Frenchman's real ability. I even thought while Georges Carpentier was boxing with Joe Jeannette in his training quarters out in Jersey City, the other day, for the benefit of a lot of visiting sport writers, that the Frenchman was holding back a lot. This seemed especially clear in the wide open defense he employed. It doesn't seem reasonable to suppose he will do this with Jack Dempsey in front of him. If he does, well, if he does; good night.

Dempsey—That's Different Again.

It's hard to picture Dempsey and Carpentier facing each other, anyway. The one, a typical pugilist, with the accepted pugilist face, heavy-browed, narrow-eyed, hairy, scowling—in all a gladiator type, a man in whom nature has made a fighting machine, and little more; the other an athlete with clear, sensitive eyes, delicately sculptured body, the long nose of the thinker and glowing satin skin under which muscles ripple and glide. Knowing Dempsey, and viewing his prospective rival at close range, one fears for this challenger for the title, one fears that, in addition to being licked thoroughly, he will be damaged for life. That would be a sad thing to happen to a creature so superb as Georges Carpentier.

OKLAHOMA SOONERS BEAT CENTRAL NORMAL

NORMAN, Ok., Oct. 9.—Ben G. Owens' Oklahoma Sooners only permitted Chief Meyers' Central Normal School eleven to carry the ball into Oklahoma territory once during the entire season opener for the Soontrs this afternoon, the State University eleven scoring 16 points to their opponents' 7.

Gordon Bristow, giant Central full, intercepted a Sooner pass on his own 35-yard line near the end of the fourth quarter and ran through four Oklahoma players, zigzagging across the field 65 yards for a touchdown.

Oklahoma's two touchdowns were made by Swatek, fullback, while Davis, Sooner quarter, booted one place kick for three points and kicked one free goal for one point.

The lineup:

OKLAHOMA.	Positions.	CENTRAL.
Luster	Left end	Leflore
Smooth	Left tackle	Chitwood
Mickinley	Left guard	Vananwert
Hamm	Center	Frary
Cullen	Right guard	Wildman
Johnston	Right tackle	Forsythe
Haskell	Right end	Bramber
Hill	Left halfback	Williamson
Tyler	Right halfback	Miller
Davis	Quarterback	Hofer
Swatek	Fullback	Bristow

Substitutions: For Oklahoma, Marsh for Haskell. For Central, Bourne for Leflore, Kimball for Bramber.

Touchdowns: Swatek 2; Bristow 1.

Goals from touchdowns: Davis 1; Hofer 1.

Field goal: Davis 1.

Officials: Waller, Epworth, referee; Cottrell, Springfield Y. M. C. A., umpire; Aszman, Elmwood, head linesman.

Giants Play Cardinals Today.

The St. Louis Giants will meet the Cardinal barnstormers this afternoon at the negro team's park on North Broadway in the third game of their series. Each team has one victory to its credit.

Women's District Golf Tournament Starts Tomorrow

Entry Record Broken, More Than 100 Registering for Annual Competition.

The annual women's golf championship tournament of the St. Louis District Golf Association will be started over the Algonquin Golf Club course tomorrow morning with the qualifying round. One round match play is scheduled for each day thereafter, with the finals coming on Saturday.

The tourney has attracted twice as many entrants as any previous local competition for women, 106 players entering the meet. There are representatives from every club in the city, and practically every reputed player is included. The women have engaged in weekly tourneys all summer and consequently a better quality of play than that of previous tournaments is expected.

The committee has requested that all entrants bring their own caddies, as there exists at present a shortage of kit-carriers at the clubs.

9—Mrs. S. E. Edmunds, Mrs. de Witt Peterkin; 9:05—Mrs. S. T. G. Smith, Mrs. Carroll Hill; 9:10—Mrs. J. A. Corbett, Mrs. C. S. Chesbro; 9:15—Mrs. Maurice Obear, Mrs. E. C. Sullivan; 9:20—Mrs. J. R. Caulk, Mrs. J. H. Douglass; 9:25—Mrs. C. W. Scudder, Mrs. C. C. Pangman; 9:30—Mrs. E. Lansing Ray, Mrs. Lester Meyer; 9:35—Mrs. Lynn Wasson, Mrs. E. H. Steedman; 9:40—Mrs. George E. Mix, Mrs. J. E. Hannegan; 9:45—Mrs. F. C. Beiser, Mrs. M. J. Isler; 9:50—Mrs. F. E. Newberry, Mrs. D. R. Calhoun; 9:55—Mrs. Claude Kennerly, Mrs. A. T. Terry.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM TO PLAY EXHIBITIONS ON WAY TO WESTERN PORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Members of the American Davis Cup tennis team will play exhibition matches in 13 cities of the central and western states before sailing next month for the international contests in Auckland. The United States Lawn Tennis Association announced tonight that it arranged the tour to "give tennis supporters in cities where champions rarely have played, an opportunity to see good tennis."

William T. Tilden II, the singles champion; Samuel Hardy, captain of the team, and Watson M. Washburn, selected to fill the place resigned yesterday by Richard N. Williams II, will make the tour. At San Francisco they will be joined by William M. Johnston, finalist this year in the singles championship. The Eastern trio will leave New York next Tuesday.

Opening their exhibition tour in Pittsburg Wednesday and Thursday the players will be in Chicago Oct. 16 and 17; Minneapolis, 18; Sioux City, Ia., 19; Omaha, 20 and 21;; Kansas City, Mo., 22; Denver, 23; Los Angeles, 27 and 28; San Francisco, 29; Berkeley, Cal., 30, 31; Portland, Nov. 2, 3, 4; Tacoma, Nov. 5; Seattle, 6, and Vancouver, 8 and 9, the eve of their departure.

Australia Picking Team.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 9.—Tennis enthusiasts are eagerly discussing the composition of the Australasian team which will defend the Davis Cup against the Americans in December. Both Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson are regarded as certain members of the team, but there is much doubt concerning the other players. J. C. Anderson, who had been considered a probable member, is said to have lost form recently, and G. Ollivier of New Zealand, is only spoken of as a remote possibility.

The chances of Hawkes, a young Victorian player, who recently beat Brookes in brilliant style, are being most favorably considered.

Ohio State Beats Oberlin.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9.—After fighting through a scoreless first period, in which they made only one first down, Ohio State's football team started a rally in the latter part of the second period which culminated in Oberlin's defeat by a score of 37 to 0.

Shurtleff 17, Blackburn 0.

Shurtleff College defeated Blackburn at Alton yesterday, 17 to 0. Crum at fullback and Wells and Walton at halfback, starred for the victors. Each halfback scored a touchdown, while Crum registered a place kick.

Golfer Can Gain Longer Drives by Shift From Upright to Flat Swing

George Duncan, British Open Champion, Tells How James Braid Increased Distance When He Took Liking to Club Which Forced Him to Change His Style Radically.

By George Duncan,
British Open Champion.

HOW did Braid get his extra length which came to him "all in a night?" When Braid did not hit a long ball with the driver (long as compared with the remainder of his game), he used a club with an upright lie. That was supposed in those days to be the correct thing. When Braid stood close up to the ball, took an upright swing with square shoulders, he was getting very straight, but not very far. One day Braid handled a club which he liked, and it happened to be one with a flat lie.

In order to use this club correctly he had to stand further away from the ball, sit down and depress the right shoulder a little instead of keeping his shoulders square. That day was the day when Braid came along with an addition of 20 or 30 yards upon his drive, and I am confident that I am telling you the real reason for the acquirement of that extra length.

From an upright swing Braid changed his stroke to a flat swing. There is one other thing which you must take note of and that is that Braid had to put more weight on his right leg in order to make room for that flatter swing.

Get Your Weight Behind Shot.

Thus, in short, you come to this conclusion in the matter of attaining length. Your weight should be on the right leg mainly when you are addressing the ball, then as your club meets the ball your weight should be following the clubhead and thus going after the ball. By this means you get your bodily weight behind the shot and add that power to the swing of the club, which might mean in your case the addition of a few yards of distance as it did in Braid's, whose case I quote in order to convince you that that which benefits so great a player as Braid may improve the play of yourself.

Willie Park once said: "The man who can putt is a match for any one." Of course I have very considerable doubts; but there is no doubt about the fact that the natural putter has a distinct advantage over a less confident opponent on the green.

Park's statement was proved to be nearly correct when Walter J. Travis won the amateur championship at Sandwich. Still I think that was much due to the straightness of the shots between the tee and the green. His truly marvelous putting was merely the consummation of that straightness of long shots.

Three Born Putters.

There were three born putters, Mr. Travis, Willie Park and Jack White, but those three not only allowed themselves to be born putters, but they specialized in that phase of the game. These three men are recognized as the best trio of putters whom we have known in first-class golf.

All three of them, however, have different methods; but the similarity between the three is worth taking notice of. Park used a long, bent-necked cleek standing up to the ball. The blade of the putter was open, and he pulled the ball to the hole with a turn of the right wrist.

In the case of Jack White, he uses an ordinary putting cleek, but he looks at the ball so well that he might putt just as well with any old thing. He uses both hands, whereas Mr. Travis used to place his hands on the club in a manner that is fully explained by the phrase, "a reverse overlap." That is to say that Mr. Travis' left forefinger overlaps the little finger of the right hand.

White was good enough a little while ago, this year, to let me into his secret. He told me to get my nose a little nearer to the ball by arching my spine.

This is a very good tip, and you should take notice of it. It means that you get a better view of the ball, and I only regret that I did not have time in which to practice it more.

I mean this article to be instructive as far as it can be by telling you of the methods of various men. James Braid is the best example of a self-taught putter. He never had the touch, but by sheer hard work and tons of concentration he became deadly for a number of years with a medium-lie Braid-Mills putter. It seemed to me that he did his best putting when he kept his left hand stationary on the back swing with a slight bend of the wrist, a very slight pause at the top of the swing, and a distinct, emphatic follow-through.

In the case of Mr. Travis it should be remembered that he "gave" the club to his right hand, and that method seemed to suit him best.

For you, or for me, there is no hard and fast rule to follow in order to get the ball into the hole, for all players have their own way of doing that. Still, there may be something useful in knowing how the best putters achieve their object.

I see that Mr. Hilton, who has putted in more various ways than most players, with the possible exception of Harry Vardon, has hit upon James Sherlock's method of keeping the hands apart. This means that the putt is a right-handed effort, and, no doubt, Mr. Hilton accepts the two-handed method as better than the one-handed which he adopted for some time.

Right Arm Does Putting.

Giving the club to the right hand is an excellent method, providing you can deaden the left wrist, and I am not sure that one would not get better results if the left-hand was left off the club altogether. As a matter of fact, there is a member of Hanger Hill Club who is the best holer of putts from two yards I have ever seen, and he uses the right hand only.

Up to 15 years ago I was just about the most diabolical putter you could imagine, and Mr. Hilton was the first to be good enough to point out to me my worst fault, and that was a sway forward of the body on the back swing. That is something to be avoided. In order to impress me with what he said, he mentioned that James Braid had the same fault before he began to putt reasonably well.

From that day I made up my mind I would learn how to putt, and for two years I spent an hour nearly every day with half a dozen balls and an old putter which Tom Simpson, my predecessor at Timperley, left behind. I use that putter still. By dint of perseverence I became a normally good putter.

Unfortunately, the average golfer has not got an hour to spare in each day for years in which to practice putting; he simply has to depend upon those days when he feels all right and putting seems easy to him.

I think if I had to learn putting again I should adopt Jack White's method of arching the back in order to get over the ball. I should accept Mr. Hilton's method of the motionless body with the weight back on the heels, and Mr. Travis' taut left wrist.

Still, style of stroke will not get the ball into the hole unless you concentrate upon what you are after. You must see the line of the putt; and the extent of "borrow" must be clearly in your head and mind before you hit the ball.

CENTRE TEAM SWAMPS HOWARD COLLEGE, 120-0

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 9.—Centre College, sensation of last season, this afternoon won its second victory of 1920 by smashing the Howard College eleven from Alabama to the tune of 120 to 0. Centre finally quit scoring although tonight experts said 30 more points could have been made without trouble.

To tabulate a summary would be like footing up an election voting table, and the story is this: Centre played its regular heavy-weight lineup for a very short time. Nineteen substitutes were used by the champions, while Howard used four. Centre carried out 14 forward passes out of 18 trials. McMillen made an 85-yard run from a kickoff and kicked goal four times out of four trials. Howard gained first down only once out of 15 trials. A forward pass gained Howard only three yards.

Touchdowns were: McMillen, 4; Chinn, 4; Taner, 1; Snoddy, 2; Murphy, 2; Armstrong, 1; Roberts, 1; Ligget, 1. Goals kicked: Weaver, 19 out of 10 trials; Roberts dropkicked a goal from the 25-yard line; Roberts from the 30-yard line, and a place kick from the 40-yard line.

The lineup started this way, but was frequently changed by Centre:

The lineup:

CENTER.	Position.	HOWARD.
Robb	Left end	McCullough
Montgomery	Left tackle	Alford
Weaver	Center	Brindley
Roberts	Right guard	Lambert
James	Right tackle	Carter
King	Right end	McClaine
McMillan	Quarterback	Robinson
Bartlett	Left halfback	Blackwell
Chinn	Fullback	Acton
Moran	Right halfback	Gayland

KENTUCKY WESLEYAN WINS

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Kentucky Wesleyan defeated the Marshall College Gridders here today, 13 to 0.

NEBRASKA WINNER OVER COLORADO AGIES, 7—0

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 9.—Coach Schulte's Cornhusker warriors were victors by a narrow margin in a hard fought game with the Colorado Aggies heer this afternoon, 7 to 0. The Aggies and Nebraska had almost an even break until the second half, when the Cornhuskers gained the advantage.

The Cornhuskers by a series of line plunges in which Full Back Hubka figured prominently, put the ball across Colorado's goal at the beginning of the fourth period. Nebraska threatened to score again, but were prevented from doing so when the game was called. The Aggies found several weak places in Nebraska line during the first period.

The lineup:

Nebraska.	Position.	Colorado.
Swanson	Left end	Ratekin
W. Munn	Left guard	McMichael
Day (Capt.)	Center	Meyers
M. Munn	Right guard	Bain
Weller	Right tackle	Nichols
Dana	Right end	Bresnahan
Newman	Quarterback	Donaldson
Hartley	Left half	F. Hartshorn
Moore	Right half	D. Hartshorn
Wright	Fullback	Scott

Substitutes—Wright for Moore; Hubka for Wright.

WEST VIRGINIA PROVES EASY FOR PITT, 34-13

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 9.—The annual gridiron clash between the Universities of Pittsburg and West Virginia resulted in a 34 to 13 victory for Pitt here today. The Mountaineers were outclassed in all departments of the game, and their numerous fumbles proved costly.

Milwaukee Team Wins.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Oct. 9.—The Milwaukee American Association baseball club defeated the Samson Tractors today, 5 to 4.

Miss Stirling Is Again Winner of U. S. Golf Title

Atlanta Girl Defeats Mrs. Hurd in Final of National Tournament, 4 Up and 3.

CHAMPION PLAYS WELL

Three-Time Victor of Honors Outdrives Her Opponent on All but One Hole.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 9.—Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., today, for the third successive time, captured the women's national golf championship by defeating Mrs. J. V. Hurd of Pittsburg in the 19-hole final over the course of the Mayfield Club, 4 up and 3 to play.

The champion played a wonderful long-driving game, having the edge on her rival from the tee on every hole except the twelfth, where Mrs. Hurd's shot was five feet the better. In approaching and putting they were fairly even, but Miss Stirling's gains on the long shots gave her the edge from the start.

Miss Stirling was five up at the turn, having won the first, second and third in quick order. Mrs. Hurd picked up her ball on two after she had used four shots, when Miss Stirling lay within a few feet of the pin on her second. The fourth went to Mrs. Hurd, her drive falling on the green, high back of the cup, while Miss Stirling teed into a trap and used three coming to the green.

Champion Goes Out in 40.

The champion then won the sixth, seventh and ninth, after halving the fifth and eighth. Miss Stirling went out in 40, using approximately 15 putts.

On the incoming nine Mrs. Hurd succeeded in halving the tenth and winning the eleventh on a 6, while some bad lies and a penalty for picking out of a water hazard held Miss Stirling to a 7. The next three holes were halved, Mrs. Hurd being saved on the fourteenth when her second shot hit a spectator seated in the woods to the left and bounded back on the course.

On the fifteenth Miss Stirling drove 200 yards and then taking her mid-iron, played the ball on the edge of the green while Mrs. Hurd took 3. Miss Stirling's first putt hung on the edge of the cup while Mrs. Hurd's was several feet away and they halved the hole, ending the match.

Miss Stirling played one of the greatest games of her career and was never in danger, Mrs. Hurd being totally outclassed.

The cards:

Miss Stirling—
Out.... 4 4 5 5 5 5 4 4 4—40
In..... 5 7 4 4 5 5
Mrs. Hurd—
Out.... 5 7 6 3 5 6 5 4 6—47

ST. LOUIS COUNTRY DAY DEFEATS FERGUSON, 21-12

The St. Louis Country Day School football team gained a 21 to 12 victory over the Ferguson School, on the former team's campus, yesterday afternoon. The winners did most of their gaining on end runs and forward passes.

La Beaume scored two touchdowns and Childress one for the victors. Furry carried the ball over the line twice for Ferguson. The score by periods follows:

School	1 Q.	2 Q.	3 Q.	4 Q.	T.
Country Day	7	14	0	0	21
Ferguson	6	6	0	0	12

NAVY BEATS LAFAYETTE IN CLOSE GAME, 12-7

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 9.—Lafayette College and the Annapolis Midshipmen were the contestants in a bitterly fought football game here today, the middies finally winning by 12 to 7. The teams were evenly matched and fought to a stand-off in the first half. Both scored touchdowns by hard plugging in the third quarter, navy registered another in the fourth period by similar tactics.

TROLLEY LEAGUE TITLE SERIES TO OPEN TODAY

Belleville and the Wiles-Chipmans, tied for the pennant in the Missouri-Illinois League, will play the first game of the post-season title series at Belleville this afternoon. Three games will be played, unless one team wins on two consecutive Sundays. Henderson or Hoff will pitch for Belleville, while "Fuzzy" Fauth will send Ebmeyer or Green to the hill. Carney and Hart will dodge the pop-bottles, if any.

LOURIE STARS AS TIGERS DEFEAT MARYLAND, 35-0

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 9.—Princeton's football team swamped the University of Maryland today, 35 to 0. Don Lourie, Princeton's quarterback, was the individual star, making two touchdowns on runs from the Princeton 36-yard mark.

The heat affected both teams and the play was listless in spots. Moore, Maryland's punter, did some excellent work.

YALE HAS AN EASY TIME BEATING NORTH CAROLINA

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 9.—Yale won its game with University of North Carolina today by 21 to 0. The Southerners played an open game throughout, relying on forward passes, by means of which they made several firstt downs. Yale played in about the same steady form as a week ago. The visitors once carried the ball down the field to Yale's 10-yard line where it was lost on a fumble.

Sharkey and Burman Draw.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—Jack Sharkey of New York and Joe Burman of Chicago battled 10 rounds to a draw in the opinion of newspaper men at the ringside at East Chicago today. The men are bantamweights.

EGYPTIANS FAVOR INDEPENDENCE PLAN

They Will Demand, However, That Reference to Protectorate Come Out of Treaties.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Leaders of the Egyptian Nationalist party meeting in Paris have decided to accept, with one important reservation, the British plan for Egyptian independence, announced in England last July.

This was learned yesterday by the Associated Press from a member of the Egyptian Committee of Four, which carried the British plan to the Egyptian people and has arrived in Paris on its way to London.

As a result of their two-day conference, the leaders have framed a number of suggestions and counter proposals which will probably be submitted to a high official of the British Government.

The chief reservation made by the Egyptians consists of a demand that all references to the British protectorate over Egypt be completely eliminated from the treaty of Versailles and all other existing treaties, including those growing out of the world war.

The Egyptians have agreed to permit a certain number of British troops to remain in Egypt, said the committee member, and have also agreed to pay indemnities to all British and other foreign subjects in Egypt who may suffer through reorganization and the advent of independence.

Maher Bey, one of the Committee of Four, declared that he and his colleagues brought back the unanimous approval of 14,000,000 Egyptian people, "who are united to gain complete independence."

"If the situation continues to be as bright as it is at present, Egypt will have her complete independence within a reasonably short time," he added. "The only thing that stands in the way of complete settlement is the refusal of Great Britain to make clear to the world she no longer intends to maintain the protectorate, or any suggestion of it, over Egypt."

ILLNESS DIAGNOSED AND PATIENT TREATED BY WIRELESS

Doctor Consulted and Issues Instructions by Radio When Ships Are 50 Miles Apart.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 9.—While the steamship St. Paul, which has arrived here, was in Midatlantic she received a wireless appeal for medical aid from the tramp steamer Schroon, a member of the crew being seriously ill.

Dr. Stump of the St. Paul obtained a description of the symptoms of the man's ailment by wireless while the vessels were 50 miles apart. He diagnosed the case as appendicitis, then he treated the man by wireless instructions for four days, when it was reported he was on the way to recovery.

Communication between the two vessels was then broken off.

Clergyman Urges Year With 13 Months of 28 Days Each

Reformation of Calendar Suggested to the Rev. Hames by Clashes of Church Festivals and Vagaries of Easter Day.

The Rev. Herbert Percy Hames, known to his brother clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal Church as the "calendar man," is attending the thirty-fifth annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, at Hotel Statler, and is improving the opportunity by doing missionary work for his proposed new calendar, under which there would be 13 months of 28 days each, with every month starting on Sunday and ending on Saturday. The Rev. Mr. Hames is at present rector of the church of the Redeemer, at Cairo, Ill.

He relates that the idea of a reformed calendar came to him while he was attending special courses of lectures at Oxford University in 1914, and observed the frequent clashes of church festivals which occur under the present reckoning. For instance, he points out, a feast and a fast, Annunciation and Good Friday, will both fall on March 25, 1921; Ascension Day and May day both occurred on May 1, 1919, while St. Andrew's day occurred twice in 1918—on Nov. 30 and Dec. 2.

He also took note of the confusion attending the date of Easter, which, set for the first Sunday after the new moon, following March 21, the spring equinox, may fall anywhere between March 23 and April 25.

Suggested by Moon's Orbit.

It was in the moon itself, responsible as it may be for the vagaries of Easter, that the young scholar found a solution. For this luminary, describes an orbit about the earth every 28 days, lacking a few hours, and seems likely to continue to do so for some years to come. Why not base a new calendar on the habits of Luna, despite her inveterate addiction to night life, rather than upon an artificial system carpentered together by Julius and tinkered by Augustus Caesar?

Having once adopted the lunar month as the basis for a substitute calendar, the Rev. Mr. Hames discovered numerous advantages that were inherent in the scheme. One was that the day of the week would always fall upon the same day of the month, now and forevermore. Sunday would without fail prove to be the first of the month, and likewise the eighth, fifteenth and twenty-second. Monday would be the second, ninth, sixteenth and twenty-third, and so on for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Finis would be put to the fiend who inquires what will be the day of the week of July 23, 2397. The reply would be that every July 23 falls on Monday.

Reply to "13" Objection.

If anyone should object, on superstitious grounds, to 13 months in the year, the reply is that the American flag, which has never known defeat, has 13 stripes. Under the proposed calendar, Friday falls on the thirteenth day of the month 13 times a year. The reply of the clergyman is that he was born on Friday the thirteenth, and therefore knows that this is the luckiest day of all.

For economic reasons, those who pay rent and telephone bills by the month might object to having an extra month tagged on every year to the present number, already burdensome. The retort is that one should take his present rent for the year and divide it by 13 instead of 12. Supposing the landlord were unable to see it that way? Well, pass a law to convert him by force.

The employe paid by the month might for a moment rejoice at the prospect of getting a thirteenth month's salary. But no; his wages are also to be reckoned by the year, and divided by 13 insted of 12. Employers and employes paying and paid by the week need neither fear nor rejoice. For under the equal month calendar there would be just as many weeks in the year as there are now, namely, 52.

But 52 weeks of seven days each total only 364 days, while the earth has a stubborn habit of circulating about the sun once in every 365 days, plus some 6 hours. The solution is easy. Merely insert a day between Dec. 28 and Jan. 1 and call it New Year's day. It is true that this holiday would be a sort of outcast, boasting neither a day of the week nor a day of the month. But the day itself wouldn't care, so why should anyone else?

Plans One Nameless Day.

Also, the six hours by which the earth every year is overdue on its trip about the sun amount in four years to a whole day. Under the present clumsy system the problem is solved by Leap Year. The Rev. Mr. Hames would discard this solecism. Instead, every four years he would insert an extra day into the middle of the year, without month, date or week-day name.

Rather than tack on his thirteenth month at the end of the year, the clergyman would inject it into the center of the cycle, and would call it Holiday. The months would then be January, February, March, April May, June, Holiday, July, etc. If Holiday did not suit some tastes, he would suggest christening the extra month "Solaris," in honor of the sun. One's birthday might then be Solaris 12, 1923.

Of course, all holidays, birthdays and anniversaries falling on the twenty-ninth, thirtieth or thirty-first day of the month would have to be changed. Decoration day, now May 30, would become June 2. But in compensation, Christmas would always fall on Wednesday, and Easter on April 15. Moreover, by making June 2 the date of Decoration day, the workingman would have not only one day's holiday, but two and a half. For June 2 would always be Monday.

As for Thanksgiving, which now meanders about very confusingly as to the day of the month, the Rev. Mr. Hames would fix it upon Wednesday, Nov. 11, and make it the anniversary of the day when the armistice was signed.

Organized Work Started.

The Cairo rector is practical as well as theoretical. As a result of his teachings, the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, he says, has organized the Equal Month Calendar Association, which would like to establish branches in all the States, and which will send anyone all the literature he wants on the subject for $1 a year. It has introduced a bill in Congress for establishing the 13-month year. In addition, Lord Desborough, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, has introduced a bill in the House of Lords fixing the third Sunday in April as Easter.

Jan. 1, 1922, would be a very nice time for introducing the new calendar, says the Rev. Mr. Hames. By a provisional coincidence, it happens that Jan. 1 will be a Sunday and will coincide with a new moon. Thus all conditions will be met, civil, astronomical and ecclesiastical.

The incorrigible viciousness of the current scheme of reckoning time, says the clergyman, is shown by the fact that even the number of the year is a lie. Every Bible states clearly that Christ was born in 4 B. C. Therefore, if we were accurate, the present year would not be 1920, but 1916.

Deaf Mutes Enroll in "Y" Classes.

Several deaf mutes are among the 400 men who have enrolled in the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. schools. The mutes attend a lip reading school in the morning and at night attend classes at the "Y." Some men over 40 years of age are in the elementary classes.

NEW AIR SPEED RECORD SET

French Aviator Flies at Rate of 181.95 Miles an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

BUC, France, Oct. 9.—Capt. de Romanet, the noted French aviator, established a new world's airplane speed record at the aviation meet here today. He flew a kilometre in 12.3 seconds, which is at the rate of 292.82 kilometres, or about 181.95 miles an hour.

Sadi Lecointe, winner of the recent James Gordon Bennett cup race, was second to De Romanet in the competition, flying a kilometre in 12.5 seconds.

Chopin lived before the day of the Duo-Art Pianola

We have his compositions— but not his interpretations

TODAY you can go to an art museum and see preserved there in paint and canvas the genius of painters who lived centuries ago. But where can you go to hear the playing of Chopin or Liszt?

The Duo-Art, undreamed of in the time of Chopin and Liszt, now enables the pianist to perpetuate his musical interpretations.

If the Duo-Art had been available to Chopin and Liszt, you could hear their actual playing today, just as, by means of the Duo-Art, you can hear the actual playing of present day masters of the piano, even though they themselves should be hundreds of miles away.

The Duo-Art records the playing of pianists and then reproduces their playing—exactly.

The human ear cannot detect the slightest difference between the artist's performance and the reproduction of that performance by the Duo-Art. tempo, phrasing, tone-color, expression—are all identical. The playing of the Duo-Art from the record made by the artist is an actual performance by the artist.

The Duo-Art is made only in these Pianos—Steinway, Weber, Steck, Wheelock and Stroud. Grand or upright models. Prices from $895. Your old piano or player taken in exchange. Duo-Art portfolio on request.

Let's Get Down to Prices!

Hickey-Freeman Clothes cost more than some clothes on the surface but they cost less in service!

One of the greatest tests for economy in men's clothes is where you can discuss the finest examples and the prices they sell for, in the same advertisement. Prices must be discussed in cheap clothes to defend inferiority. And quality must be emphasized in high-priced clothes to condone the prices. But the feature of Hickey-Freeman Clothes is, that the quality is high, while the prices are not.

They may be higher than some prices, on the surface, but in the service they give, they are the lowest-priced clothes you can buy. They wear longer and hold their shape longer, because of the grade of woolens and of the workmanship that is in them, and they are still acquitting themselves of good service long after most clothes have quit the service for good.

IN BEHALF OF HICKEY-FREEMAN—

Better a few dollars more and save all
Than a few dollars less and lose all!

ZONING ORDINANCE MAY BAR DETROIT CONCERN'S PROJECT

Truck and Tractor Company Buys Site for Plant Subject to Issue of Permit for Its Erection.

DISTRICT ALLOTTED TO RESIDENCES

City Plans Commission to Be Asked to Open Tract on Switzer Avenue to Industrial Enterprise.

By Berry Moore.

The Power Truck and Tractor Co. of Detroit, recently organized, has entered into a contract with the John Grether Real Estate Co., with offices in the International Life Building, to buy 12¾ acres at the northwest corner of Goodfellow avenue or Mead street, and the Wabash Railway tracks in North St. Louis, with the proviso that a permit be obtained to erect a factory on the site.

The consideration for the ground is to be $2500 an acre and $500 has been deposited as earnest money with the Grether company, as agent for the owner. The ground is at Switzer avenue. The Detroit company is represented in St. Louis by B. B. Craven, a stock broker with offices in the Chemical Building.

Barred by Zoning Ordinance.

Factories, however, are not permissible at the point named, owing to the fact that the site is in what is known in the zoning ordinance as a second residential district. Approval of the proposed factory by the City Plans Commission must be forthcoming before a permit to build it can be obtained. Signatures of owners of property in the district to a petition in behalf of the enterprise are being obtained to be presented to the City Plans Commission, some members of which, the John Grether of the Grether Real Estate Co., declares averse to making exception in this instance, notwithstanding the importance of the enterprise to the city.

Plans have been made by the Power Truck & Tractor company for a plant on a very extensive scale for the manufacture of trucks and farm tractors. It is understood that should the petition be rejected by the City Plans Commission, the factory will be built in East St. Louis, in Kansas City, or in some other city.

The tract embraces one of the few remaining sites in northwest St. Louis available for a large industrial plant, for which it is regarded as highly adapted, owing to its railway facilities, which, in addition to the Wabash, include those of the Terminal Railway Association. It is considerably north of the big industrial district, which would be broadened with the establishment of the proposed plant at Goodfellow avenue or Mead street, and Switzer avenue and the Wabash Railway tract, and north of Florrisant avenue.

Former Similar Case.

This development recalls the plans of the Famous Players Corporation for a 25-story building at the northwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets. The moving picture purveyor executed a contract with the First National Bank to purchase this corner, embracing a quarter of a block, for $1,200,000. F. L. Cornwell, the corporation's local counsel, deposited $10,000 as earnest money in this connection, the fulfillment of the contract being conditioned upon a permit being obtained for the erection of the structure. The City Plans Commission, however, disapproved the lofty project, which was in violation of the zoning ordinance covering that point, and which, as a result, collapsed.

Demand for Industrial Sites.

The Johnston & Johnston Realty Co., which controls much vacant property in Northwest St. Louis, reports a broad demand for sites for industrial purposes. It now has under consideration several offers from industrial interests which are looking to that part of the city for sites for large plants.

STEEL TOY CONCERN PAYS $40,000 FOR A DORRIS PLANT

Metallic Industries, Inc., to Hurry Plans for Large Production, and Increase Capital.

Metallic Industries, Inc., a concern specializing in the manufacture of all-steel toys, and which obtained a charter less than a year ago, has purchased plant No. 3 of the Dorris Motor Co., 4125 Forest Park boulevard. Acquisition of the property was announced yesterday by G. Carlton Hosch, president of the corporation, who also announced an increase in the concern's capital stock from $200,000 to $300,000.

The Mercantile Trust Co. represented the Dorris Motor Car Co. and the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. represented the Metallic Industries Corporation.

Possession of the plant will take place without delay that can be avoided, and equipment up to the limit for sometime ahead will be installed as quickly as practicable. In both these directions pressure of demand for its products is impelling the company to haste in getting the new plant in full operation.

The building is 78x168 feet, two stories, strongly constructed for industrial purposes, and planned for economy in operation as well as shipping. It occupies a site 125x178 feet. The purchase price was $40,000.

Metallic Industries, Inc., is chiefly owned by interests in the Measuregraph company, an enterprise that has flourished conspicuously since its start in St. Louis eight years ago. G. Carlton Hosch is president of both corporations, and Edwin T. Nugent vice president of both. N. R. Fill is second vice president and general manager of the Metallic Industries, and H. Colling Hay secretary and attorney.

Epstein Home in Parkview Is Purchased by W. P. Tobin

THE handsome home of J. I. Epstein, at 6335 Westminster place, in Parkview, has been purchased by W. P. Tobin. A firm of specialists has been engaged to furnish and redecorate the house, to which its new owner will remove Nov. 1.

The house has 12 rooms and three baths.

AUCTION COMPANY TO VACATE THEATER SITE

Lewis Mercantile Co. to Remove From Quarters Occupied for 20 Years.

The O. J. Lewis Mercantile Company, a wholesale auction and commission concern, has leased the seven-story building at 1009-13 Washington avenue, which has been occupied by the Star Clothing Co. The lease was negotiated by the Martin-Breitt Real Estate Co.

The Lewis concern has been at the southeast corner of Eighth street and Lucas avenue for more than 20 years. It is moving to make way for the proposed Loew theater, which is to be erected at the northwest corner of Washington avenue and Eighth street, and which will embrace the ground occupied by the Eighth street and Lucas avenue building.

The Star Clothing Company has purchased through the Martin-Breitt Co. the building at Broadway and Hickory street and will move into it about Dec. 1.

SUBDIVISION IN SOUTHWEST ST. LOUIS TO BE OPENED TODAY

Sunset Way, a new subdivision, will be opened today. It is one block west of King's highway and one block north of Gravois avenue.

According to Fred J. Fansin, who is placing this property on the market, there will be some pronounced activity through that section in the near future. Already the neighborhood is almost completely built up and this fact, coupled with the purchase of sites for industrial plants around Gravois avenue and the Oak Hill railroad, will stimulate sales of lots for both investment and homesites in Sunset Way, he declares.

Plans are being made for a number of attractive houses, which are to be started in the early future. The tract is well situated for moderate-priced homes of the better class.

TIRE CONCERN BUYS OLIVE STREET CORNER

Flynn-Guenther Company Acquires Property Which It Has Occupied for Some Time.

The Guenther-Flynn-Urban Real Estate Co. has purchased the three-story building and site at the northwest corner of Olive street and Channing avenue, as quarters for the Flynn-Guenther Rubber Co., a leading tire concern.

The transaction was effected by the C. M. McDonald Real Estate Co.

The building has a frontage of 56 feet by a depth of 101 feet. The corner is regarded as highly advantageous for the tire business, being situated at the head of the Lindell-Locust cutoff.

The Flynn-Guenther company has occupied the larger part of the first-floor premises on Olive street for some time. The sale was for the account of the G. Foppiano estate, which was also represented by the McDonald company.

The McDonald office reports having sold within the past few weeks 16 pieces of property, aggregating approximately $80,000.

STATE B. AND L. ASSOCIATIONS MEET FRIDAY AT KANSAS CITY

The eleventh annual convention of the Missouri League of Building and Loan Associations will be held at Kansas City Oct. 15 and 16. A large delegation will leave St. Louis Thursday night over the Missouri Pacific Railroad, headed by Robert J. Richardson, secretary and treasurer of the league.

There are 175 associations in the State, with assets in excess of $38,000,000.

The Calder-Nolan bill, pending in Congress, will be discussed at the convention. The passage of the bill would release millions of dollars for home building now tied up in building and loan deeds of trust which the associations are unable to use on account of the deeds being nonnegotiable.

TWO WEST END RESIDENCES AND ONE COUNTRY HOME SOLD

John T. Carpenter of the Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co. has purchased the 12-room residence at 6321 Pershing avenue, in Parkview, from S. P. Barron. The Hewson Realty Co. represented Carpenter and the Frank J. Frick Realty Co. represented Barron.

The Hewson company also reports the sale of 6179 Westminster place to Frank J. Hill of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, and the country home of Walter Hamsley at Ashby road and Canter Way to Prof. E. E. Chiles of the Junior High School.

NEW REALTY FIRM TO SPECIALIZE IN SECOND DEEDS OF TRUST

A. A. Weiss and George Meyerricks have formed the Weiss-Meyerricks Realty Co. and opened offices at 217 Wainwright Building.

The new firm will make a specialty of second deeds of trust. Both the members are well known to real estate interests.

Three-Family Apartment Sold.

W. J. Bartling has sold to Isaac Grossman, on behalf of Ollie May Hutchison, a three-family apartment at 955 Maple place. Each suite contains seven rooms and sun parlor. The annual rental of the building is $2760.

RELIEF IN HOUSING PLANNED BY EXCHANGE

Real Estate Body Campaigning for 2000 New Members to Get Unity of Action.

One of the purposes of the campaign for members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange is to produce a unity of action among business men generally in an effort to ameliorate conditions and prevent a duplication here of a recent incident in which 17,000 families in Brooklyn, N. Y., were unable to obtain housing room.

Joseph W. Hannauer, president of the Exchange, declares that a change in the tax laws is essential to relief of the housing situation. An effort to change these laws will be one of the first undertakings of the Exchange in the program for 1920-21.

This program will include an effort to change both the state and federal income tax law, to exempt real estate mortgages up to $50,000 from taxation, and to place a tax of one-quarter of 1 per cent on all mortgages on real estate when they are put on record. A bill providing for such a tax was introduced in the last legislature but was defeated. The same bill, with a few minor changes, will be presented in the next legislature.

At the last meeting of the membership campaign committee, it was decided to include business men generally as well as property owners in the associate membership class and to enlarge the limit to 2,000. The downtown section is to be divided among the 20 teams who are competing for honors in the drive. Captains of these teams are E. A. Bokern, James L. Barngrove, John C. Kraus, Harry Prettyman, James P. Blake, Eugene Christy, Joseph W. Ebeling, William Federer, Charles Kunz, Marion Fuqua, John W. Gibson, R. C. Spackler, J. H. Farish, Ralph Coale, George Kempland, C. M. McDonald, Gerald B. O'Reilly, Frank Rogers, A. R. Schollmeyer, Sam Weiner.

A number of firms have sent in active memberships, among them the American Trust company, Scruggs, Vandervoort and Barney, and the Night and Day Bank.

A campaign luncheon when reports in full for the first two weeks of the drive will be given, will take place Wednesday noon at the American Annex.

BOILER COMPANY ACQUIRES LAND TO COMPLETE EXPANSION PLANS

The Heine Safety Boiler Co. has purchased the property of Mrs. Emile Winkelman, at 4712 Winkelman place, thus completing a tract of 15 acres on the west side of Marcus av., adjoining on the north the plant of the boiler company, which is situated along the tracks of the Wabash Railway Company. Albert T. Query & Co. negotiated the sale.

The tract was purchased by the company for the purpose of enlarging the different departments for its growing business. Several pieces have been purchased, including some from Harry Meyering and 12 acres adjoining this from the Winkelman estate, represented by Cornet & Zeibig; the deals involving between $50,000 and $60,000.

SUBDIVISION SPECIALIST AMONG BUSIEST ST. LOUIS REALTORS

Harry E. Prettyman is one of the busiest men in St. Louis real estate circles. In addition to running two or three subdivisions, he is conducting a bureau of information, out at 721 Chestnut street and another at 604 Olive street for home-seekers. He is also supervising the construction of a number of homes being built in University Park, in the northwestern part of University City.

With the recession in the prices of building material, the demand for vacant grounds, available for small homes, is increasing.

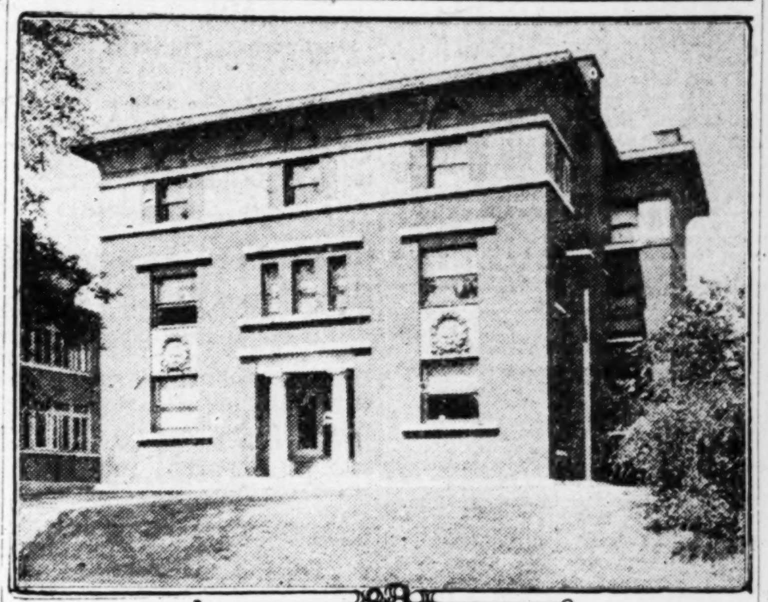
AMERICAN HOME B. & L. GAINS $250,000 IN YEAR

The American Home Building and Loan Association reports that during the year ending Aug. 31, its assets increased more than $250,000. Offices of the association are at 2925 South Broadway and at Gravois avenue and Morganford road.

Recently the capital of the association was increased from $1,500,000 to $2,500,000. A. C. F. Meyer is president and Louis F. Yeckel is secretary.

Mrs. Frances Wines, who spent the last year in California, has returned to St. Louis, sold her home at 6179 Westminster place and bought, through the Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Realty Co., the two-family apartment at 1324-26 Union boulevard.

West End Residence Bought by Head of Furnishing Company



DAVID M. BOYD, president of the Boyd-Richardson Furnishig Co., has purchased the home of Mrs. Willi Brown, at 5351 Waterman avenue.

The house has 15 rooms, three baths and is finished throughout in hardwood. It occupies a lot 80x225 feet, and is one of the handsomest in that block. The premises include a garage for several cars.

The purchaser was represented by McNair Bakewell, of the Edward L. Bakewell office, and the seller by Albert T. Terry & Co.

MARCUS HEIGHTS LOTS TO VALUE OF $28,000 SOLD LAST WEEK

Marcus Heights, on Marcus and Lee avenues, is being rapidly absorbed by clients of Johnston & Johnston, $28,000 worth being sold last week.

"The most surprising thing is the way South St. Louis people are investing their money in Marcus Heights," said Johnston. "It has been very hard in the past to sell South St. Louis people property in North St. Louis. This shows that the location of this subdivision is the reason for the ready sales."

The agents say the owners placed this tract on the market at a very low price in order to move it quickly, and they are expecting the owners to raise the price from $5 to $10 per foot in a short time.

Arcade Building Stores Leased.

The Olin Hat Co. Inc. has leased a storeroom in the Arcade Building, 209 North Eighth street, while 207 North Eighth street has been leased to the Corona Typewriter Co., now located at 408 North Seventh street. Both stores will be ready for occupancy by Nov. 1.

Scott Home From Business Trip.

AGENTS OF JENNINGS HEIGHTS EXPECT EARLY BUILDING ACTIVITY

A feature of Jennings Heights, on Goodfellow avenue, seven blocks north of Natural Bridge road, is that there are 7000 large shade trees. Johnston & Johnston, who are handling this subdivision, say that heavy sales of lots there is due to the location and beautiful surroundings of the tract. There is some building of nice homes in progress, and the agents expect to see 20 houses started there in the next few months.

FOR IMMEDIATE SALE

The show place of St. Louis County, with an unusually attractive, modern home and commanding view of miles of beautiful scenery. Location is ideal. Only a short distance from Forest Park on the most prominent county drive, now being paved, and in the rapidly growing and exclusive home section of the county. A more attractive possession can not be found and an opportunity of this kind is rarely offered. If you want to own the only home of its kind and one the other fellow hasn't got and which today would cost more than $100,000, but can be bought for considerable less, it will be to your interest to answer this add immediately. Box O-349, Post-Dispatch.

420 SOUTH BERRY ROAD

There is not a more attractive and conveniently located estate in St. Louis County; adjoins Algonquin Club; large sleeping porches; California style court; large outdoor swimming pool; beautiful grounds and greenhouses. See McNair Bakewell.

MY magazine, "Investing for Profit," is worth $10 a copy to any man who intends to invest any money in farm lands, or who desires to acquire irrigated land for a farm home, but hasn't learned the science of investing for profit in land. It demonstrates the real earning power of money in irrigated land—knowledge unknown to the masses. It tells where to find the most profitable lands. It reveals the enormous profits made through increase in land values. It explains how fortunes are made in land and why they are made—how $100 grows to $56,000. To introduce my magazine write me now, mention this paper and I'll send it six months free. T. L. McDONALD, Mgr., R. 1747, 22 W. Jackson bl., Chicago.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Patrick Burns, who died two years ago, Oct. 19, 1918. Sadly missed by wife,
ANNA BURNS, AND CHILDREN.

In memory of our dear little friend, Edmund Francis Rueckert, who died in October, 1919. Lovingly remembered by his little playmate, ELEANOR.

In sad but loving remembrance of our beloved husband and father, Jacob Knebel, who departed this life two years ago, Oct. 11, 1918. Gone but not forgotten.
WIFE AND SON.

In memory of Private Arthur J. Schiek, who was killed Oct. 7, 1918:
Gone, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by mother, brothers and sisters.
MRS. LENA SCHIEK.

In memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ward, who departed this life 12 years ago, Oct. 6, 1908. Gone, but not forgotten. Sadly missed by husband and daughter,
MR. HENRY WARD AND MRS. WM. WHITE.

In memory of our beloved son and brother, Private Stewart M. Davidson, 138th Infantry, who died Oct. 14, 1918, of wounds received in the Argonne.
FATHER, MOTHER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

In memory of Mildred Beahan (nee Buesing). Two years have passed since your birthday, Oct. 14, remembered by mother, dear, each year. Pastor Hackman shall pray for loving daughter, kind dear and true, as long as I am left here. Sadly missed by mother,
LULA AUGUSTIN.

In loving memory of Oliver Quaife, who died Sept. 30, 1918, at Fort McKinley, Portland, Me.
His loving heart is now at rest;
God took him home when He thought best.
When my work on earth is done,
Then I will meet my "beloved son."
MOTHER.

In memory of Private Virgil F. Heady of Camp McArthur, Tex., who died Oct. 7, 1918, at Brest, France:
Two years ago you were called away
To dwell on the other shore,
And as time rolls on it will bring the day
When we will meet to part no more.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS. (c)

In saddest but sweetest memory of Harry L. Budde, who was suddenly called away four years ago, Oct. 5, 1916.
Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of our pleasures we are blue;
A smile on our face, still a heartache,
Aching and longing for you.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, WIFE, SON AND SISTER.

In memory of our dear mother, Fredericka D. W. Pilger, who departed this life three years ago, Oct. 11, 1917:
Darling mother,
We will meet you some bright morning,
Over in the heavenly land,
Where there will be no more sad parting
When we clasp your loving hand.
Sadly missed by her DAUGHTER.

In loving memory of our darling, Edna Mae Allen, who departed this life Oct. 10, 1917:
Today recalls sad memories
Of our loved one, gone to rest.
And those who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.
Gone, but not forgotten.
MOTHER AND GRANDPARENTS.

In memory of William T. Harness, who died two years ago in France:
At rest in peace,
An American soldier true,
Buried beneath the red, white and blue.
Although far away his remains are laid
From his parents, sisters, brothers and friends.
His memory shall never fade.

In loving remembrance of my dear wife, Antonia Schiller, who died Oct. 15, 1918:
Two years it will be since I laid you to rest
And placed your cold hands upon your dear breast
In silence you suffered, with patience you bore,
Till God called you home, to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by husband,
A. SCHILLER.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

CURIOUS.—Address the Prince of Wales at London, England.

J. K. L.—We know of no mixture which will hold cloth in shape indefinitely.

CHAS.—The Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, Cal., opened Feb. 20, 1915, and closed Dec. 4, 1915.

D. P. W.—Apply to the David Ranken Jr. School of Mechanical Trades, 4420 Cook avenue, for a course in cabinet making.

DOT.—Purified benzine, which does not alter even the most delicate colors, may remove the grease spot from your taffeta dress.

A READER.—Apply to some drug store regarding the canned heat. It would be a dangerous mixture for an amateur to attempt to prepare.

DAILY READER.—Write to the Commissioner of Pensions, Interior Department, Washington, D. C., regarding the change of address of a pensioner.

T. EN.—Water-color stains do not penetrate deep enough into wood to make the effect strong enough; therefore, solutions of other material than color are being employed for the purpose. Aqua ammonia alone, applied with a rag or brush repeatedly, will darken the color of oak to a weathered effect, but it is not very desirable because of its tendency to raise the grain. Bichromate of potash, dissolved in cold water, applied in the same manner, until the desired depth is obtained, will serve the purpose. These washes, or solutions, do not give the dark, almost black effect that is at the present time expected for weathered oak, and in order to produce this, four ounces of logwood chips and three ounces of green copperas should be boiled together in two quarts of water, for 40 minutes, and the solution applied hot. When this has dried it should be gone over with a wash made from four ounces steel filings and one pint of strong vinegar. The steel filings are previously put into the vinegar and allowed to stand for several days. This will penetrate into the wood deeply, and the stain will be permanent.

PLUMES.—Plumes may be bleached by the use of hydrogen peroxide, without injuring their texture. In specially constructed glass troughs, made the length of an average ostrich feather, 15 or 20 of these feathers can be treated at a time. The bleaching fluid is made from a 30-per-cent solution of hydrogen peroxide, with enough ammonia added to make it neutral; in other words, when neutral, blue litmus paper will not turn red, and red will take a pale violet tinge. The previously cleansed plumes should be entirely immersed in this bleaching bath, which may be diluted if desired. The trough should be covered with a glass plate and put in a dark place. Stir the feathers from time to time, adding more hydrogen peroxide. This process requires 10 to 12 hours and should be repeated if necessary. After bleaching, rinse in distilled water or rain water, dry in the air, and keep in motion while drying. To insure success in coloring feathers in delicate tints, they must be free from all impurities, and evenly white. It has been found of advantage to rub the quill of heavy ostrich plumes while still moist with carbonate of ammonia, before the dyeing is begun. By appropriate mixtures of dyes of any one class, plumes can be dyed every possible color. After dyeing they are rinsed, and dried in a rotating apparatus. The final process is that of curling, which is done by turning them round and round over a gentle heat. For white feathers a little sulphur may be burned in the fire; for black or colored ones a little sugar.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(Prepared by a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

MISS O. T.—You can put the tenants out after one month's notice, if there is no lease.

NAOMI.—A childless widow is entitled to one-half of her husband's estate, subject to debts.

CERISE MARCEL.—Your present marriage is illegal, and your "husband" can have it annulled if he desires to do so.

A TROUBLED WIFE.—Your husband is legally liable for the support of his minor children no matter where he goes.

REGULAR P.-D. READER.—A garnishment expires at the time the garnishee is required to answer. After that a new garnishment must be issued, provided the garnishee answers as required.

IGNORANT.—Inquire at the Election Commissioners' office concerning the duties of election judges, the statutes are too lengthy for us to print in this column.

READER.—Your second husband cannot take the property you received from your first husband. Write to the Recorder of the County where the land is located, or to a lawyer there, regarding the transfer of the real estate. We cannot answer your other questions in this column. You had better consult a lawyer.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

B. M.—The Central Institute for the Deaf, 818 South King's Highway, has a school for persons afflicted with stammering.

BEES.—Honey, of itself, does not cause indigestion or pimples unless the person has a peculiar susceptibility, as some people may have.

WORRIED.—We question if any good would come by a confession now, and it might disrupt the home. We presume the disease referred to is syphilis. If so, a comparatively short course of treatment should bring it under control, after which it can be cured by internal treatment, with occasional consultations.

E. L. C.—The treatment seems all right, excepting that you should need a salversan every two weeks. Four of these, at about 10-day intervals, in the beginning, followed by the mercury, should be sufficient. The fees are reasonable. If the spots on your face are due to the disease they will disappear as you progress, without other than the anti-syphilitic treatment.

B. B.—To rid your basement of the fleas, by all means first remove all lumber and other rubbish. Then with a sprinkling can, or better, with a large spray, go over the floor and walls with some good insecticide, covering the wall a distance of 3 feet from the floor. A mixture of one part carbolic acid and three parts coal oil would do, or some of the proprietary insecticides on the market.

SAM Y.—We would not consider your condition necessarily serious, especially as there is some slight improvement. The gain in weight will likely follow. The sequelae of influenza sometimes yield slowly. Stomach washing is done by siphonage through a stomach tube. Washing and pumping is the same, no suction force should be attempted. We would advise that the intestinal tract be kept clean by taking five grains of salol two to four times a day. This should control gas function. Distension of the colon by gas would cause backache. You do not mention any examination of the urine. This should be done.

IN MEMORIAM.

Anniversary mass at St. Pius' Church, on Monday, at 8 o'clock, for Private Louis Bartholome, who died Oct. 10, 1918, in the service of his country.
An American soldier true,
Who died for the land of the red, white and blue.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS AND SISTER-IN-LAW. (c)

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Private Louis Bartholome, who passed away at Fort Sill, Ok., Oct. 10, 1918.
The flowers are laid upon his grave;
They wither and decay;
But our love for him, who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS, SISTER-IN-LAW AND NEPHEWS.

In loving memory of our devoted mother, Katherine Underberg, who entered eternal rest one year ago, Oct. 11, 1919:
Our loving mother, true and kind,
No friend on earth like her we'll find.
God called her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she lingers still.
For all of us she did her best.
May God grant her eternal rest.
Sadly missed by,
HER HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

In sad remembrance of our darling son, little John Laughlin, who left us just a year ago.
Dear little hands, we miss them so,
All through the day, wherever we go;
All through the night
How lonely it seems
For no little hands wake us
Out of our dreams.
We miss them through all the weary hours,
We miss them as others miss sunshine and flowers.
Day time or night time,
Wherever we go,
Dear little hands, we miss them so.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear wife and our darling mother, Marcia Quirk, who departed this life Oct. 5, 1916:
No more her kind and loving face
Shall light the gloom of home.
Yet, sweet these thoughts that we shall meet
When we shall cease to roam.
Sadly missed by,
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Edwin C. Holste, who passed away two years ago, Oct. 13, 1918, at Camp Funston:
The flowers are laid upon his grave;
They wither and decay;
But our love for him who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER, BROTHER-IN-LAW AND SWEETHEART AND RELATIVES.

In memory of our darling and devoted mother, Lida Mandelstamm, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 11, 1919.
Our loving mother, true and kind,
No friend on earth like her we'll find.
God called her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she lingers still.
For all of us she did her best;
May God grant her eternal rest.
Sadly missed by her children,
FREDA, HENRY AND RALPH.

In memory of my dearly beloved husband, Wm. J. Luenebrink, who departed this life Oct. 9, 1918:
Oh, the days and the nights in the years just passed,
Seemed just as long, oft' times longer,
Than those in the two years gone before.
But we try not to grieve,
For we know and believe,
He is waiting for us on yonder shore.
Sadly missed by his WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SISTERS-IN-LAW.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving memory of our dear boys, William and Alfred Albrecht, who departed this life, William Oct. 8, 1919, and Alfred Aug. 10, 1917.
Silently the shades of evening gather round our lonely door,
Silently they bring before us the faces we see no more.
But though they lay in peaceful sleep, their memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS, SISTER, AUNT.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Private Oscar G. Breyfogle, Company F, Thirtieth Infantry, Third Division, killed in the Battle of the Argonne, Oct. 15, 1918:
Two years have passed, our hearts still sore.
As time goes on we miss you more.
If we had seen you at the last and held your dying hand,
We would not fel so bad. Far away from home on foreign soil,
Our darling heor sleeps.
Gone, but not forgotten. Sadly missed by
MOTHER, BROTHERS AND SISTERS. (c)

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Henrietta Blittschau, who departed this life two years ago, Oct. 9, 1918:

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
In her silent, lonely grave.

Peaceful be your sleep, dear mother—
It is sweet to breathe your name.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.

Just two years ago you left us—
How we miss you, mother dear,
And remember all your kindness
As we drop a silent tear.

You shall never be forgotten;
Never from our memory fade,
Loving hearts will always linger
Round the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by,
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

BIDS WANTED

GRADING—To let, about 5000 yards of grading at Big Bend rd. and Rock Hill rd. Carl Feiner, 6420 Wise. Benton 1312W.

NOTICE OF LETTING CONTRACT—Bids will be received until 2 p. m. Monday, Oct. 25, 1920, for the excavation of a drainage ditch approximately 6550 feet in length, with a bank slope of 1 to 1, an average depth of 5.86 feet and a bottom width of 80 feet, containing 51,639 cubic yards of excavation; a levee, approximately 18,250 feet in length, side slope of 1 to 1 and 1½ to 1, an average height or fill of 5.23 feet, with a top width of 30 feet, crowned and in shape for a roadway, and containing, without the approaches, 142,760 cubic yards of fill; also a reinforced concrete foundation or bulkhead for outlet through the eves, either of the tube or box culvert type; the former contains 604 cubic yards of concrete and the latter approximately 350 cubic yards. The gates for protection of overflow from back water from Rock River are to be on the river side, and of a type similar to the ones manufactured by the Ludlow Valve Co. The beginning of the work is about ¾ of a mile and less from the station of the C. B. & Q. Railroad in the village of Hillsdale, Ill. Bids are to be accompanied with a certified check to the amount of $200 and addressed to James Quade, Erie, Ill., and are to be sealed. For any further information, write or see James Quade, Erie, Ill., or Fred A. Snyder, engineer, Albany, Ill. Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids and to increase or diminish the amount of work. It is understood that honest and fair treatment will be given the successful bidder, and the Whiteside and Rock Island Special Drainage District in the counties of Whiteside and Rock Island, and State of Illinois, expect the same kind of treatment from the bidders.
JOHN McNEILL, FRANK SEGER, JAMES QUADE, Commissioners. (c89)

SPECIAL NOTICES

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to call from her earthly labors to eternal rest, our beloved sister, Mrs. Earl Alsbrook, who died Sept. 23, 1920, therefore, be it;

Resolved, That in the death of Sister Alsbrook, her family has lost a devoted daughter, sister and mother, and the Lodge a faithful and useful member and the community an upright and honored citizen;

Resolved, That we will ever bear in grateful rememberance the zeal and fidelity with which Sister Alsbrook discharged her duties in this Order and will try to imitate her devotion to the sacred principles of our Auxiliary;

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband, daughter, parents and sisters, and recommend them to the care of that God whom Sister Alsbrook served and in whom she trusted;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes and a copy bearing our hand and seal be sent to the family of our deceased sister.

Few Nearby Territories Open
Rare Opportunity

The men we want must be workers. Sales experience not essential; some of our biggest producers never sold goods before coming with us. Proposition sells to retail merchants in small towns and large. Little money puts merchant in possession of the biggest profit maker that retailers can buy. Straight commission deal gives you every penny you earn; $7000 yearly is not unusual—many of our men beat the $10,000 mark. Your efforts in field backed by hard work on our part, produce real results. Nearly half our business sold on advertising leads. If you are a hard worker this is a rare opportunity for you. Write H. E. STEINER, Sales Manager, Van Buren and Draper, Indianapolis, Ind.

SALESMEN WANTED

STOCK SALESMEN

A consolidation of the interests of a number of the largest and wealthiest independent oil operators of the Southwest has recently taken place. They are offering $1,000,000 of their dividend-paying stock, with the approval of the Missouri Blue Sky Commission.

An unparalleled advertising campaign about to be launched will result in many leads for real salesmen. The officers, management and affairs of the company will stand the "acid test" of any investigation. This stock has every element necessary for a salesman to do business.

Cadillac
STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Why Are These Wonderful Values?

1st Because Cadillac quality is Standard of the World.

2d Ninety per cent of their good life still remains. No profit, freight or tax to pay, previous owner having paid all depreciations.

3d Because they were built to give many times the service they have seen.

4th A Rebuilt Cadillac is a far better value than a new Car of equal price.

"RIGHT OFF THE TICKER"—Clothing never was high here at any time. "Our 10th Anniversary Sale" is now on. They say the "Life" of any business of today is "10 years." We have "reached our 10." "We claim" we are headed for our "next 10." By your "liberal" patronage you have made "it possible." "We thank you." We are showing our "respects to you" by offering "high-class clothing" at a big saving to you. We have "reaped" and "sown" and you have "harvested" by our everlasting "effort" to save you "money." When it comes to the "clothing policy," we have "been doing big things" for 10 years, assisting thousands to "help keep up that prosperous appearance," which "means everything today," by dressing them up at little or no cost. In cloth and wool suits, 20 to 40 per cent savings on our drummers' samples, suits and overcoats, $19.98, $24.98, $27.98, $29.98. "We claim $5 profit is all we need on any suit." We have saved thousands of dollars for the clothes-buying public. "We're out of the high rent district." "What the Drummers' Sample Clothes Shop means to you." These fine garments are made by the manufacturers for display or modeling purposes for traveling salesmen; they are made much better than the regular goods; after they show them off we buy them at a big discount; we give you the benefit of our immense buying capacity; this policy enables us to save you money. All we ask you is to "go shopping around" first and come here last, and we will certainly get your "dough." "Buy more, pay less." Vandeventer, Market, Sarah, Manchester, Chouteau and all other lines transfer to our door. We again announce our "Trade-in-Sale" Department. We will make you a liberal allowance on your old clothes for new ones. "Abrams," "The Place to Buy Clothes," 926 S. Vandeventer av., near Chouteau. (c)

COTTON GINS UNDER GUARDS, THREATS BY NIGHT RIDERS

Warnings in Several Places in South to Stop Ginning and in Alabama Against Picking.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 9.—Federal, State and county officials today began a campaign to put an end to the danger in counties of South Carolina and other sections of the South because of warnings to ginners to stop ginning cotton until the price reaches 35 cents a pound.

Officers say indications are that it is the vandalism of scattering individuals.

Ginners in this section who closed when threats of destruction were received resumed operation today, in some instances under guard.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 9.—Some cotton fields in Northern Alabama have been "posted" by "night riders," with threats to destroy the crops if an attempt is made to pick it. The State Fire Marshal is making an investigation into recent burnings of cotton gins.

Previous reports from several sections said "Night Riders" had notified ginners that no more cotton must be ginned until the price should reach 30 or 40 cents, but has not before sought to prevent gathering of the crop.

TENTATIVE RAIL MERGER PLANS ARE CONSIDERED

I. C. C. Begins Work on Consolidations as Required by Transportation Act.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has begun consideration of a tentative plan for the consolidation of railroads into a limited number of systems as required by the transportation act. Work on the plan is progressing rapidly, officials said tonight, and an announcement may be made soon.

Meanwhile, various railroads are working out merger proposals to submit to the commission, but no propositions for pooling the management and operation of railways under one corporation can be effected, officials said, until a complete plan of consolidation has been framed by the commission. Proposed mergers must conform to that plan, officials said. Hearings on the tentative scheme adopted by the commission will be held when it is ready.

Many problems are involved in reaching a tentative decision, officials declared. Use of the established classification territories—Eastern, Southern, Western and inter-mountain—is practically impossible for consolidation purpose, because of the necessity of keeping the systems to be formed on a competitive basis. The values of the various properties also must be considered, but the commission has not decided whether it will be necessary to complete its valuation of railroad properties before adopting a consolidation plan.

The military angle of the question is also under consideration and the War Department is working out its plan for the use of the railroads in time of war, it was said. The necessity of co-ordinating the commercial requirements of peace with the speedy transportation of troops and supplies in case of hostilities, they said, is further complicating the matter.

NEGRESS ARRAIGNED ON POISONING CHARGE

Denies She Put Rough on Rats in Soup That Caused Death of Man.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Oct. 9.—Muriel Gatewood, 15 years old, a negro, was bound over to Butler County Circuit Court in Justice Kershner's court here today after a preliminary hearing of evidence of a circumstantial nature in the case in which the girl has been accused of poisoning the Abington and Horton families on the night of Sept. 17. George Abington, 83, died, and other members of the two families were critically ill for a time.

Dr. A. R. Rowe told of being called to the Abington home, and of the death of George Abington.

Dr. C. H. Nielson, who attended Mrs. Carl Abington; Mrs. Florida Curry, her mother, and Ed Abington, after they had been placed in St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, also testified. Dr. H. G. Bristow, St. Louis University, who made a chemical analysis of a sample of soup, testified the soup had a considerable quantity of arsenic in it.

Mrs. Carl Abington, who made the soup, and at whose home the poisoning occurred, told of minor cases of alleged dishonesty of the girl while in her service. The girl Sept. 14 stole a $20 bill, Mrs. Abington stated, and denied knowledge of the theft. She discharged the girl. The girl asked to be reinstated, she said, and when refused begged her not to mention to her mother why she had been discharged.

She stated that on the evening of the poisoning the girl returned, was ordered away, and went outside, then came back into the kitchen.

Carl Abington told of discovering the next day the label of a package of rough on rats on a shelf in the basement which had been moved. He stated that in the investigation before the Prosecuting Attorney the girl had admitted stirring the soup while Mrs. Abington was upstairs.

The defendant, when asked whether she was or was not guilty, denied any guilt. Her bond was fixed at $5000. She was taken to the county jail.

Betrothal of Heir Presumptive to Barony Creates Sensation in London.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Announcement of the betrothal of the Honorable Luis Chandos Francis Temple, master of Kinloss, to Miss Katherine Jackman, a country girl of moderate means, is made in the Daily Mirror.

The former is heir presumptive to the title of Baron of Kinloss, having succeeded his brother, the Hon. Richard George Granville.

The bride-elect is the daughter of the village blacksmith, whose cottage and forge are just outside the gates of the Kinloss homestead.

The report has created quite a sensation in this city. The Master of Kinloss, who was ordained a clergyman in 1914, and is curate of St. Sepulchre's Church, Northampton, says his mother approves the match.

ONE WOMAN DEAD FROM SCALDS, ANOTHER IN HOSPITAL

Accident Occurs in Hotel Statler Kitchen When One of Them Opens a Vegetable Cooker.

Annie Miklas, 24 years old, a kitchen maid in Hotel Statler, died in the City Hospital at 2:20 p. m. yesterday, having been scalded five hours before by steam from a vegetable cooker in the hotel kitchen. At the same time Mrs. Josephine Morris, 55, a widow, was severely scalded, and she is in the hospital. Both women lived at the hotel. Miss Miklas formerly lived with an aunt at 1206 Allen avenue, and Mrs. Morris has a son living at 1815 Franklin avenue.

The hotel steward said one of the women opened the door of the steam vegetable cooker without having taken the precaution of shutting off the steam. This caused the steam to envelop them.

2 CABINET MEMBERS ST. LOUIS VISITORS

Secretary Wilson and Secretary Daniels Pass Through City on Speaking Tours.

Two members of President Wilson's Cabinet, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor, were in St. Louis for a short time yesterday.

Secretary Wilson was here in the course of a speaking tour for the Democratic national ticket which has included speeches in West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio, and which will include most of the states between Colorado and the Pacific Coast. While here he visited Democratic city and State headquarters.

"The league undoubtedly is the dominant issue of the campaign," he said, and asserted that the "wiggling, wobbling, wavering policy which the Republicans have followed upon that issue, and now their irreconcilable stand, are a big asset to our party. "I don't see how Taft, Wickersham and that group can support Harding at all now, without stultifying themselves."

Wilson said that he believed the indorsement of Cox and Roosevelt by the American Federation of Labor would aid in this campaign more than it ever has aided any ticket before.

"Stream Flowing Our Way."

"The stream is flowing our way now, and all we have to do is keep it flowing," he said.

Wilson departed during the night for Colorado.

Secretary Daniels made a campaign address in the Temple Theater, Alton, last night, and was heard by a large gathering. A parade and Democratic demonstration preceded the meeting.

Secretary Daniels came to St. Louis by automobile after his Alton speech, and departed for Washington at 11:50 p. m. He will return to Missouri next week, and will speak at Springfield, Carthage and St. Joseph Oct. 18, 19 and 20.

While waiting for his train to Washington at Union Station last night, Secretary Daniels said that the national sitaution is improving all the time. "I realize, however, that it is a good fight."

Refers to G. O. P. Claims.

"The Republicans have started out to claim everything, even my home state, North Carolina. I believe that I have as much right to claim Vermont for the Democrats. Senator Harding has been talking about putting teeth in the Hague Tribunal. I would like to know when he got a license to practice dentistry and also how you can put teeth into something that hasn't any jaw."

Referring to the situation in Illinois, where he has been campaigning the last few days, he said he believed that the election of J. Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for Governor, was assured. "I have been told that by a number of prominent Republicans as well as Democrats."

The League of Nations will last as long as the Ten Commandments and as long as the Declaration of Independence, Secretary Daniels said.

"The grandest speech I ever heard," said Daniels, was the sentence spoken by General Pershing, when he placed the wreath on the tomb of Lafayette, 'Lafayette we are here.' Now opponents of the League want to send Senator Lodge to the same tomb with the message, 'Lafayette, we have quit.'"

Thomas B. Love of Dallas, Tex., formerly of Springfield, Mo., Democratic National Committeeman from Texas, who was McAdoo floor leader at the San Francisco convention, was also in St. Louis yesterday on his way to New York after having attended the funeral at Springfield of his father, Col. Thomas C. Love, a Confederate veteran, who died a few days ago.

Love predicted that the Republicans will not carry more than a dozen of the 250 counties in Texas, and that Cox and Roosevelt will carry the State by more than 150,000.

LEAGUE TO HANDLE ALL RENT LITIGATION

Meeting Also Makes Plans for Tenants' Meeting and to Quiz Candidates.

Plans for arousing interest in a campaign to bring about reduction in rents were discussed last night at a meeting of the Renters' League of St Louis at Castle Hall, Delmar and Taylor avenues. There were about 20 persons, including women and children, present.

William H. Osmar, president of the league, who is a clerk for the Board of Aldermen, said that a general meeting will be held in the near future to which all dissatisfied renters will be invited. He said that the league will attempt to handle litigation involving rent through a judiciary committee, and that a committee will be appointed to prepare a questionaire for candidates for the Governorship and the State Legislature to ascertain where they stand on the question of rent profiteering.

R. W. Maxton, 4330 Laclede avenue, a building inspector for the city, said many buildings in St. Louis could be made habitable if the owners were required to repair them. He suggested that the Health Department be empowered to pass on questions of repairs in dwellings.

It also was suggested that employers of labor, should interest themselves in the question of cheaper rents, and that a State or City Commission be appointed to regulate rent charges in proportion to the taxable value of property.

U. S. WOODEN FLEET MAY BE SOLD ABROAD

Action Likely to Be Deferred Until New Shipping Board Is Appointed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Sale of the Government's emergency-built fleet of wooden ships to foreign buyers was under consideration tonight at the Shipping Board, but definite action on such a plan probably will be deferred, officials said, until President Wilson appoints the new board created by the merchant marine act.

Built at an estimated cost of $170 a deadweight ton, three attempts in recent months to sell the ships to American buyers have resulted in only four offers—the highest at about $12 a ton—for the fleet of 285 steamers aggregating more than 1,000,000 deadweight tons. Faced with what some officials consider the demonstrated certainty that these ships cannot be sold in this country, the only alternate left, it was asserted, was to dispose of them abroad.

Sale to foreign buyers would require, under the act, the approval of five members of the Shipping Board. At present Chairman Benson and Commissioner Donald are the only two members in office. It has been suggested, however, that the board might sell the ships to American purchasers for resale to foreign buyers, which requires only the approval of the Board as now constituted.

BODY OF SOLDIER, WHO DIED OF WOUNDS IN FRANCE, ARRIVES

Funeral of Private Edward Morris to Be Tuesday, With Burial in National Cemetery.

The body of Private Edward Morris, 35 years old, of D Comapny, Fifteenth Machine Gun Battalion, who died of wounds in France, Oct. 25, 1918, arrived in St. Louis yesterday. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning from Cullen & Kelly's chapel, 1416 North Taylor avenue, to St. Theresa's Church, thence to the National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks.

Morris was a son of Edward Morris Sr., and is survived by his father, a brother and a sister. He was employed by the Union Electric Co. before his enlistment in May, 1917, and saw service with F Company, Thirty-fifth Infantry, as well as with the machine gun company.

SISTERS TO BECOME BRIDES OF BROTHERS

A romance in which two brothers and two sisters figure as principals, will lead to a dual wedding ceremony tomorrow morning, when William L. R. Menges, 27 years old, of 3063 Marcus avenue, will marry Miss Agnes Hoene, 20, and Louis J. A. Menges, 23, will marry Miss Mary Hoene, 18, at the Sacred Heart Church at Eureka, Mo., the home of the brides' parents.

Louis became acquainted with Miss Mary Hoene at a picnic at Creve Coeur Lake three years ago, shortly after his brother had left St. Louis for service with a hospital unit in France. During the months spent in service William received numerous letters from his younger brother telling him of a girl anxiously awaiting his return from war.

When William returned from France in June, 1919, an outing was arranged, and it was then that he met Miss Agnes Hoene.

The young women are graduates of the Sacred Heart Convent. Louis is secretary of the Menges Manufacturing Co., 2308 Randolph street. Both couples will spend their honeymoon in Chicago, where William and his bride will make their home.

WIDOW OF MAN KILLED BY TRAIN SUES ROAD FOR $100,000

One of the largest claims for personal injury on record at Edwardsville was filed yesterday when Mrs. Tillie McDonald, widow of William C. McDonald, of Alhambra, Ill., brought suit for $100,000 against the St. Louis, Springfield and Peoria Railroad Company.

McDonald died on an operating table in Edwardsville two hours after his automobile was struck by a limited electric train. Relatives witnessed the accident. The claim is made that a building obstructed McDonald's view of the tracks.

ARTISTS ARRANGING THUMB-BOX EXHIBIT

Annual Display of St. Louis Art League Will Open Oct. 17.

The annual thumb-box exhibition of St. Louis Art, with which the St. Louis Art League opens the local exhibition season each year, is now being assembled at the Artists' Guild galleries, Union and Enright avenues, and will be open to the public daily, free of charge, beginning Sunday afternoon, Oct. 17. The hours are from 1 to 5 on week days and 2 to 5 on Sundays.

All artists residing within 50 miles of St. Louis are eligible as contributors to the thumb-box exhibition, and entries to the number of several hundred prospective exhibits are sent in each year. From these, the collection is chosen by the jury of selection, comprised of seven artists who are elected by ballot. The Exhibitions Committee, through Dawson Dawson-Watson, chairman, reports that the exhibition now being formed will surpass previous efforts.

About a dozen St. Louis artists spent the summer weeks on the New England coast, and will have many sketches to show as a result.

The jury of selection, which meets Tuesday afternoon, before which time all entries of exhibits must be made, consists of Oscar E. Berninghaus, Gustav F. Goetsch, Miss Henrietta Ord Jones, Tom P. Barnett, Dawson Dawson-Watson, Takuma Kajiwara and Frank B. Nuderscher.

The collection will be hung in time for the opening dinner of the Artists' Guild, on Oct. 16, and a reception to the artists and the members of the St. Louis Art League will be held on Monday, Oct. 18.

A jury of awards will be appointed, to distribute first and second prizes in each of the three divisions of the exhibition—paintings, sculpture and handicrafts.

LIEDERKRANZ GOLDEN JUBILEE NOV. 19 AND 20

Concert and Dinner to Be Given by Club, Which Will Move at End of Year.

The golden jubilee of the Liederkranz Club will be celebrated on the evenings of Nov. 19 and 20, preparations for which are now being made by committees.

On the evening of Nov. 19, Friday, a concert will be given under the direction of Prof. William Theoin all, will participate. The program choruses, containing about 200 voices in all, will participate. Teh program will consist of chorales, cantatas, mixed choruses, octets, quartets, trios and solos.

There will be a banquet the following evening, to which 500 guests will be invited, including Mayor Kiel and other officials. It is expected that virtually all the members will attend this dinner.

The club recently sold its buildings at Grand and Magnolia avenues, and will move into new and smaller quarters following a farewell celebration of Christmas Eve. It had been decided that, since the enactment of prohibition, the club's revenues did not justify the maintenance of such an extensive menage. The club's finances, however, are reported in excellent condition.

The committee which will prepare for the celebration of the club's fiftieth anniversary comprises Louis Hilfer, Otto J. Gossrau, Andrew Adank, H. A. Borkman, Hans Haeckey, Charles J. Kron, Adolph Meyer and Julius Muench.

COLLEGE GRADUATES IN EXTENSION CLASSES

Among the registrants for the extension division of Washington University are many college graduates, and not less than 60 per cent of the students are qualified to undertake a course for college degree, Director Shipley says.

Among the enrolled students is the president of a large business concern who is taking the courses on the drama and public speaking. He explained that these studies appealed to him not only as accomplishments of value in social life, with the need of which, particularly public speaking, he was being more and more impressed, but as positive specifics for business weariness.

Harvard, Princeton and Ohio State University each has a graduate among the registered evening course students. In these cases the men have found themselves in business fields for which their college studies did not equip them, and they are taking courses directly bearing upon their present interests.

Another man had taken a special course in salesmanship, but could not sell anything. He will take a technical course that bears directly upon the commodity in which he is interested, English and public speaking.

"Economics of Business" is shown by the 115 registrants to be foremost in popularity, but "Corporation Finance," "Business Law," "Accounting" and "Credit and Collections" each has a large class. Interest is also well maintained in mathematics, public speaking and English, the latter in two divisions—one for business use and the other for credit in obtaining a degree. The drama course offered, with Prof. Heller as lecturer, is one of the most popular, large enrollment including many men as well as women.

Is Lack of Iron in the Blood Dragging You Into the Torture Chamber of Ill-Health?

Physician Says Thousands Are Racked by Ill-Health Because They Have Let the Iron in Their Blood Run Low—

RECOMMENDS ORGANIC IRON—NUXATED IRON

To Build Red Blood, Mighty Strength and the Sturdy Health That Laughs at Disease—Says

"You Cannot Be Strong and Well Without Plenty of Iron in the Blood."

ILL HEALTH
LACK OF IRON

Thousands of people are held in the clutch of Anaemia—lack of iron in the blood—and in consequence they feel sickly, tired and run-down, and yield easily to every little ailment that seems to strike them out of a clear sky. Men lose time from their business, and never seem to be able to work at their full efficiency; and women find their household tasks terribly tiring and burdensome. They are condemned to the torture-chamber of Ill-Health, when in many cases their condition is due to nothing more or less than lack of iron in the blood. The strains and burdens of present-day life tend to drain the iron from the blood, and few of us lead the normal, vigorous life and eat the coarse iron-filled foods that would help to replenish the supply of iron. When the iron in the blood runs low, the blood becomes impoverished, thin, and anaemic, leaving us without the vitality to fight off sickness and infections, and it is the opinion of physicians that in such circumstances we should by all means quickly build up the supply of iron in the blood. Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of New York City, especially recommends organic iron—Nuxated Iron—as a tonic for the blood, because of its remarkable strength-giving, vigor-building properties.

"You cannot be strong and well without plenty of iron in the blood," says Dr. Van Horne. "Thousands are racked and tortured by ill-health because they have failed to build up proper defenses by keeping their blood rich in iron. Yet since impoverished blood can be so easily fed with organic iron by means of Nuxated Iron, it seems a great tragedy that so many people allow themselves to slip into a sickly, worn-out condition, as a result of letting the iron in the blood run low.

"Patients often ask me why there can be no strong, healthy men or really attractive vigorous women without plenty of iron in the blood. Merely for this reason—it is the iron in the red blood corpuscles that carries the oxygen we breathe throughout the body. If the iron in the blood thins out, the blood cannot carry enough oxygen to the millions of living cells in the human system, and they are literally strangled for lack of air, just as the body is strangled if the lungs cannot breathe in the life-giving oxygen.

"If your blood lacks iron, my own recommendation is that you do not trifle with dangerous substitutes but get the genuine Nuxated Iron, because of its power to build red blood, strength, and sturdy health. I have had excellent results with Nuxated Iron; it has often, in two weeks' time, brought about a marked improvement in pale, nervous, anaemic persons."

Dr. H. B. Vail, formerly physician in the Baltimore Hospital and a Medical Examiner says: "Throughout my experience on Hospital Staffs and as Medical Examiner, I have been astonished at the number of patients who have doctored themselves vainly for various diseases, when in reality their delicate, run-down state was simply the result of lack of iron in the blood, frequently brought on by modern methods of cookery and the strain of the present-day high-tension life. Time and again I have prescribed organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and surprised patients at the rapidity with which their weakness and general debility was replaced by a renewed feeling of strength and vitality. I took Nuxated Iron myself to build me up after a serious case of nervous exhaustion. The effects were apparent after a few days and within three weeks it had virtually revitalized my whole system and put me in a superb physical condition."

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows: [illegible] and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

The seat that stays closed

FOR so long women have endured knit union suits that bulged, pinched or wrinkled every time they moved that they have despaired of anything better.

But Kayser Knit Union suits are shaped according to the lines of the figure. Whether you are moving about, bending, or sitting still, the seat is always closed. Next time you visit an underwear counter ask to see the design of the Marvelfit seat. Notice the special construction—the flaps, both front and back, are cut wider than any union suit you have ever worn.

The styling and finish Kayser had been years developing on their "Italian" Silk Underwear has been applied throughout to their Knit Underwear. Julius Kayser & Co., New York.

Now—unpardonable hair may be removed without encouraging further growth!

With Neet you merely rinse the hair away.

There is a new way, exquisite, dainty, harmless. It is the instinctive choice of fastidious women who desire charming freedom from unpardonable hair but who shrink from the use of injurious chemicals and the unwomanly blade.

It is with Neet, a soothingly antiseptic cream-lotion as mild and easy to apply as your favorite cold cream. With Neet you merely rinse the hair away and the skin is left surprisingly cool, smooth and beautifully white.

The magical thoroughness with which Neet erases an embarrassing condition makes it a most happy addition to the vanity table. Use Neet freely whenever needed. You will find it on sale at your dealer's or send fifty cents with the coupon below.

My Hair Was Quite Gray

"It was falling out, getting brittle and stringy. My scalp was filled with dandruff and itched almost constantly.

"A few applications of Kolor-Bak produced a wonderful improvement. The itching stopped instantly. There was no more dandruff. And—marvel of marvels—it is now restored to its original color—not a gray hair shows anywhere!"

Kolor-Bak is not a dye or stain. It is colorless, stainless, harmless and restores original color to gray hair simply by putting hair and scalp in a healthy condition.

Send for our special trial offer; also Free Book on Hair which explains how Kolor-Bak restores gray hair to its original color.

Youthful Beauty For Any Woman

The secret of a youthful face will be sent to all women who see their beauty vanishing or who have facial lines, wrinkles, or other disfigurements, caused by age, illness or anything else.

Multitudes of women have found the secret of renewed beauty in which remove lines, "crow's feet" and wrinkles; fill up hollows; give roundness to scrawny necks; lift up saggy corners of the mouth and clear up muddy or sallow skins without the use of cosmetics, creams, massage, masks, plasters, straps, vibrators, "beauty" treatments, or other artificial means.

The Kathryn Murray Method will show how five minutes daily with these simple exercises will work wonders. This information is free to all who ask for it.

Results Guaranteed

Write for FREE BOOK which tells just what to do to bring back firmness to the facial muscles and tissues and beauty to the skin. Write today.

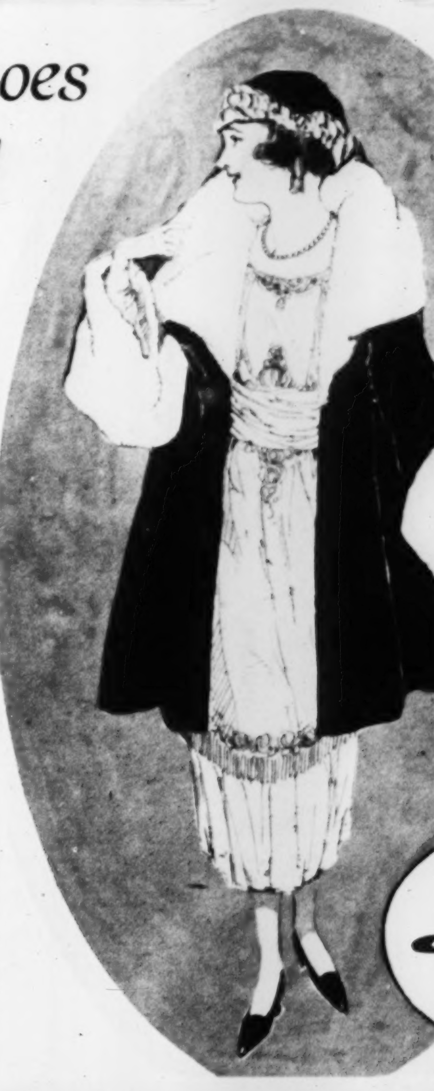
To Buy Good Shoes is an Economy

TO PAY anything less than "Queen Quality" prices is to lack foot comfort, to have shoes that soon lose their shape and become unsightly.

Indeed, you just can't get style, fit, comfort and wear combined in shoes selling below "Queen Quality" prices, and they are so reasonable, too. There's no need to pay more, but it is a distinct economy to pay just that much.



Queen Quality SHOES

The style pictured is particularly attractive, made in the stylish Coronado Blucher model. It has a suede finish black ooze top with beautiful patent pony vamp, a welt sole and a smart, yet comfortable, Louis heel.

A superb "Queen Quality" boot for fall and winter wear. It is made of the new Chippendale brown calf, with a welt sole and the fashionable Cuban heel. The Brogue design of this boot gives it a distinctly smart, tailor-made appearance.

SHOE SOAP KID

Because reputation is valued above all else, "Queen Quality" fine black kid shoes are made of SHOE-SOAP Kid. Eight years of consistent use in "Queen Quality" shoes have proven its leadership. This association of "Queen Quality" endeavor with that of the tanner and retailer enables women to obtain exceptional shoes made from SHOE-SOAP leather which they have long tested and now demand.

Don't fear gray hair

Science will correct it

THERE is now a way to restore ugly streaks of gray by a scientific method. Not by old-fashioned dyeing—you can scientifically restore it — bring back the original color in 4 to 8 days. The preparation which works this miracle is pure, clean and colorless. It leaves the hair soft and fluffy, ready to curl and dress. It is easy to use—you apply it yourself by simply combing through the hair.

Mary T. Goldman's
Hair Color Restorer

We are waiting to prove these statements with a free trial bottle and a special application comb. Fill out and send the coupon and it will come by return mail. Make your test on a single lock of hair—watch the gray vanish and the natural color return.

Then when you are satisfied that your hair can be restored to its natural, beautiful color, get a full sized bottle. Buy from your druggist or order direct from us. Don't accept imitations—there is one and one only—remember the name MARY T. GOLDMAN'S.

Facts about her skin that every girl should know

IS your skin a constant source of worry to you? Do you find its care continually perplexing? The clear, smooth, flawless complexion you long for—does it seem to you a special gift of nature that only a fortunate few can hope to possess?

You are wrong if you think that a beautiful skin comes merely as the result of good fortune. Any girl, by giving the skin the special care its special needs demand, can win the charm of a smooth, clear, soft complexion.

Remember that each day old skin dies and new takes its place. You can make the new skin what you will—by regular, persistent care. You can overcome any condition that has been troubling you.

Is your skin marred by blackheads—by ugly little blemishes? Is it too oily? Is it dull, sallow, lacking in color and life? Begin, today, to give it the right Woodbury treatment for its needs, and see how quickly, with this care, its own vital power will help to overcome its defects.

On this page you will find three of the famous Woodbury treatments for improving your skin. Each one of these treatments has been worked out carefully and scientifically to meet the needs of different types of skin. Follow the treatment your skin needs, regularly and persistently—and within a week or ten days you will begin to notice a marked improvement in your complexion—the greater softness, smoothness, clearness that you have longed for.

The very first treatment with Woodbury's will leave your skin with a slightly drawn, tight feeling. This means that your skin is responding, as it should, to a more thorough and stimulating kind of cleansing than it has been accustomed to. After a few nights this drawn sensation will disappear and your skin will emerge from its nightly treatment with such a soft, clean, healthful feeling that you will never again want to use any other method of cleansing your face.

Woodbury's Facial Soap is sold at all drug stores and toilet goods counters in the United States and Canada. The famous booklet of treatments is wrapped around every cake. Get a cake today—begin your treatment tonight. A 25 cent cake will last for a month or six weeks of any treatment, or for general cleansing use.

"Your treatment for one week"

A beautiful little set of Woodbury's skin preparations sent to you for 25 cents

Send 25 cents for this dainty miniature set of Woodbury's skin preparations, containing your complete Woodbury treatment for one week.

You will find, first, the little booklet, "A Skin You Love to Touch," telling you the special treatment your skin needs; then a trial size cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap—enough for seven nights of any treatment; a sample of the new Woodbury's Facial Cream, Woodbury's Cold Cream and Woodbury's Facial Powder, with directions telling you just how they should be used. Write today for this special new Woodbury outfit. Address The Andrew Jergens Co., 112 Spring Grove Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

If you live in Canada, address The Andrew Jergens Co., 112 Sherbrooke Street, Perth, Ontario.

The new treatment for a tender, sensitive skin

Dip a soft washcloth in warm water and hold it to your face. Then make a warm-water lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and dip the cloth up and down in it until it is "fluffy" with the soft, white lather. Rub this lathered cloth gently over the skin until the pores are thoroughly cleansed. Then rinse your face, first with warm, then with clear, cool water and dry carefully.

By making this treatment a nightly habit, you can gradually overcome your skin's extreme sensitiveness, and give it the power of resistance every normal skin should have.

How to remove skin blemishes

Perhaps your skin is constantly being marred by unsightly little blemishes. Authorities on the skin now agree that in the great majority of cases, these blemishes are caused by bacteria and parasites that are carried into the pores through dust and fine particles in the air.

By using the Woodbury method of cleansing your skin, you can free it from such blemishes.

Just before retiring, wash in your usual way with Woodbury's Facial Soap and warm water, finishing with a dash of cold water. Then dip the tips of your fingers in warm water and rub them on the cake of Woodbury's until they are covered with a heavy, cream-like lather. Cover each blemish with a thick coat of this and leave it on for ten minutes. Then rinse very carefully with clear, hot water, then with cold.

Use this treatment regularly and the blemishes will gradually disappear.

For conspicuous nose pores

Do you know what it is that causes conspicuous nose pores? The pores of the face are not as fine as on other parts of the body. On the nose especially there are more fat glands than elsewhere, and there is more activity of the pores. These pores, if not properly stimulated and kept free from dirt, clog and become enlarged. Try this special treatment for this trouble, and supplement it with the steady, general use of Woodbury's Facial Soap.

Wring a soft cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Then finish by rubbing the nose with a piece of ice. Always dry your skin carefully. Before long you will notice how this gradually reduces the enlarged pores until they are inconspicuous.

For the commoner skin troubles

You will find complete treatments in the booklet, "A Skin You Love to Touch". This booklet is wrapped around every cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Among the treatments it gives are—

BLACKHEADS
COARSENED SKIN
OILY SKIN AND SHINY NOSE
BLEMISHES
CONSPICUOUS NOSE PORES
SLUGGISH SKIN
TENDER SKIN
SALLOW SKIN, ETC.

A Peace-Time Visit to His Old Billet in France.

THE scene pictured above is taking place today in many of the French towns and villages where American troops were quartered during the war. The soldier, home and demobilized, talks of the French cottage where he was billeted. His wife longs to see where her man slept and ate when he was out of the line, and so the whole family crosses the Atlantic and goes to visit the little town where the billet was. Madame does not recognize him at first in his civilian kit, but at the sound of his voice gives him as warm a welcome as ever. The French and American children eye one another with the solemn curiosiy natural to all young things.

How I Make Money —Right at Home!

"LOOK at this check of $26.00—payable to me. I made this money easily and pleasantly—in the spare time left over from my housework and the care of Bobby and Anne, my children. In fact, they helped me make it. I make as much, and often more, every month.

"Before I found this new, easy way of making money right at home, in privacy, freedom and comfort, my husband's salary, while sufficient to meet our absolutely necessary expenses, was really not enough to give us any of the little extra pleasures that mean so much to a family. Everything we eat and wear has gone up so high, and salaries haven't kept pace.

"But now we have more than the necessaries—we have beaten the terrible old H. C. of L.—and we have our little luxuries and amusements too.

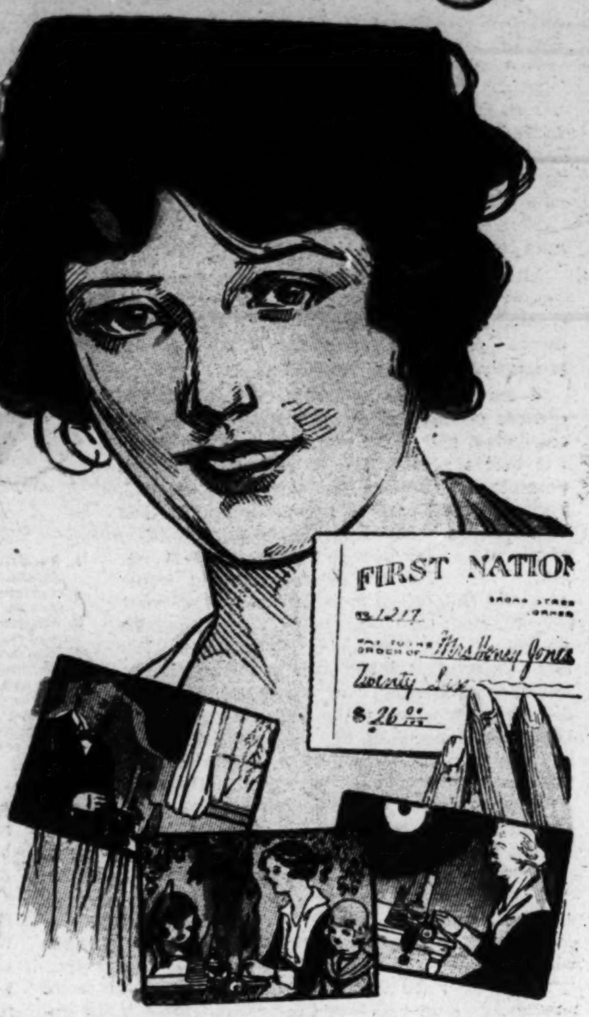
"How do I do it? Simply by knitting socks? No, not by the slow old process of hand-knitting, which took almost a day for one sock, but by using The Auto Knitter, a marvelous, but very simple, easily-operated machine. It turns out fine, seamless wool socks with almost magical speed. Now that I have gained practice with the Auto Knitter I often make a sock in 10 minutes!

"And the best part of it is that I have a guaranteed, constant market for every pair of socks I make, at a guaranteed price. The Auto Knitter Hosiery Company of Buffalo has contracted to take every sock I can make. I simply send them the finished socks, and back comes my check by return mail, together with a new supply of yarn to replace that used in the socks sent them.



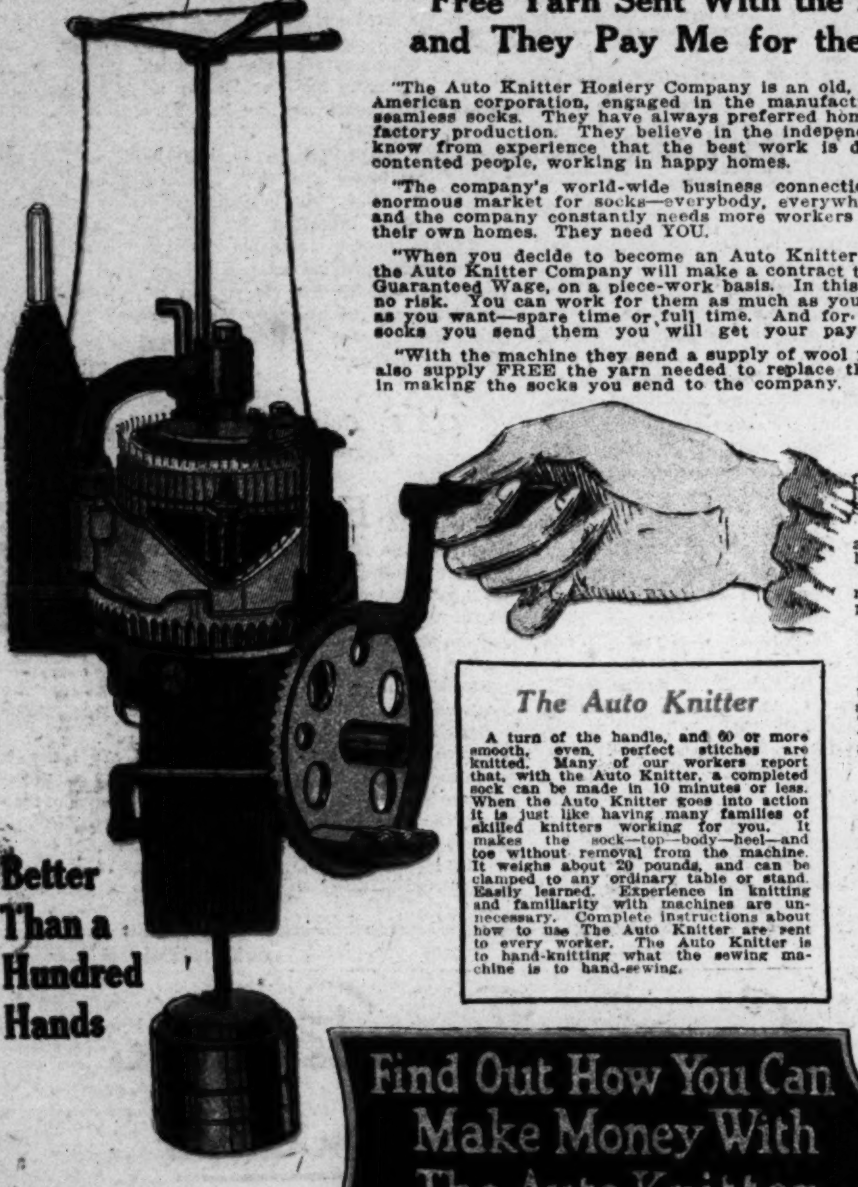
"Free Yarn Sent With the Machine and They Pay Me for the Socks"

"The Auto Knitter Hosiery Company is an old, firmly established American corporation, engaged in the manufacture of high-grade seamless socks. They have always preferred home manufacture to factory production. They believe in the independent employe, and know from experience that the best work is done by well-paid, contented people, working in happy homes.

"The company's world-wide business connections give them an enormous market for socks—everybody, everywhere needs them—and the company constantly needs more workers to make socks, in their own homes. They need YOU.

"When you decide to become an Auto Knitter worker, as I did, the Auto Knitter Company will make a contract to pay you a fixed, Guaranteed Wage, on a piece-work basis. In this contract you take no risk. You can work for them as much as you want, or as little as you want—spare time or full time. And for every shipment of socks you send them you will get your pay check—promptly.

"With the machine they send a supply of wool yarn FREE. They also supply FREE the yarn needed to replace that which you use in making the socks you send to the company.



Better Than a Hundred Hands

"The yarn supplied is the well-known Qu-No Quality Brand, made especially for the Auto Knitter. It is the softest, the warmest, the strongest, and uniformity in quality, weight and shade are always obtainable. You receive a Free Shade Card that contains samples of Qu-No Quality Yarns.

"You are, of course, at liberty to dispose of the output of your Auto Knitter as you see fit; you can also use the Auto Knitter to make, at a remarkably low cost, all the hosiery your family needs—wool or cotton.

"But remember this: There are absolutely no strings tied to the Wage Agreement; it is a straight out-and-out Employment Offer at a Fixed Wage on a piece-work basis—a good pay for your services alone."

The Auto Knitter

A turn of the handle, and 60 or more smooth, even, perfect stitches are knitted. Many of our workers report that, with the Auto Knitter, a completed sock can be made in 10 minutes or less. When the Auto Knitter goes into action it is just like having many families of skilled knitters working for you. It makes the sock—top—body—heel—and toe without removal from the machine. It weighs about 20 pounds, and can be clamped to any ordinary table or stand. Easily learned. Experience in knitting and familiarity with machines are unnecessary. Complete instructions about how to use The Auto Knitter are sent to every worker. The Auto Knitter is to hand-knitting what the sewing machine is to hand-sewing.

Read What Satisfied Workers Say

The Auto Knitter gives you the opportunity to make money during your spare time. It also gives you the chance to devote your entire time to the business, and thus, the be independent of bosses, rules, timeclocks, working hours, etc. The Wage Contract is in no sense a disguised "canvassing scheme," "agency" or "open a store" proposition. Here is the proof. Read the evidence from some of our workers:

More Than Two Dozen Pairs a Day

The Auto Knitter has proven very satisfactory. The work done on the machine cannot be surpassed. The only requirement is to learn the work and then work. The Auto Knitter is very speedy and any person of good judgment can knit from one to two dozen pairs of socks a day, and if they want to push the work they can turn out more. The treatment by the Auto Knitter Company is the best, and I have found them to be absolutely reliable.
Berlin, N. Y.

Promptness Appreciated

Am sending you today a shipment of half hose. I wish to compliment you on the promptness with which you return replacement yarn and check.

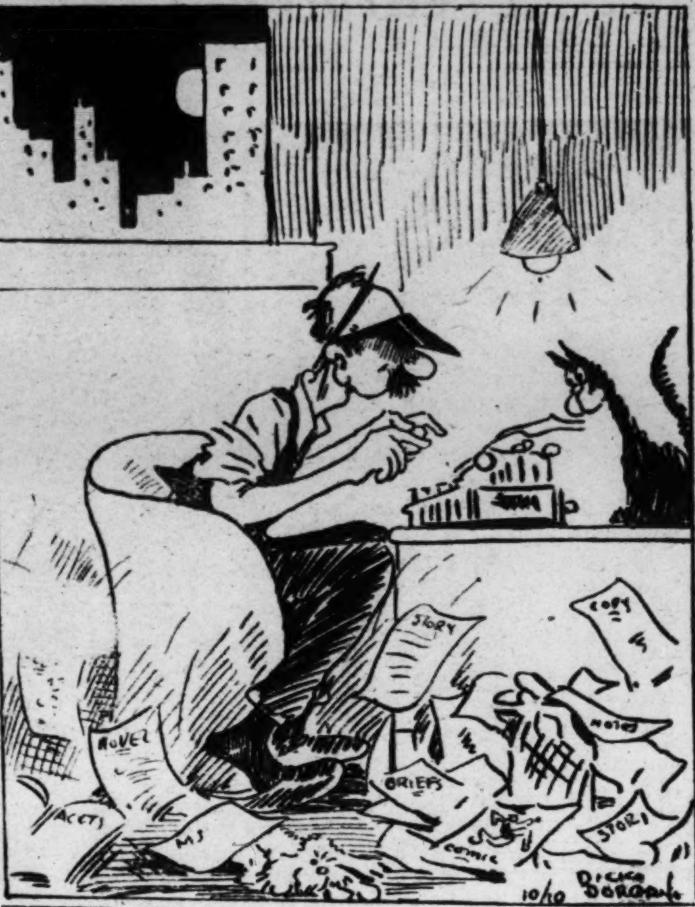
RICH BUT NOT IDLE

By RING W. LARDNER.



"But the best part of it all is that he don't half to buy night gowns for himself as he hasn't no use for them."

TO THE EDITOR:

Every time they's a strike in some big factory or a mine or a R. R. Co. or something the employes tries to justify themself by saying they just simply can't make both ends meet on the wages they been getting and that's all they is to it. If the owners don't come acrost with a raise of a meager 150 per cent why they will quit for good and not earn no wages at all and see how you like it. Well, up to a little wile ago my sympathys was all with the employes as I know what it is to try and play golf every P. M. and still earn enough sugar to sport a inumerable family and a costly retinue of vassals that seems to think she is anemic and building herself up at my expenses.

But a little wile ago I run acrost a old friend of mine who we will call Joe Cooper as he don't want his own name mentioned and besides ~~I~~ can't recall it though his face is familiar, but any way Joe has followed my Ft. steps and moved here from the middle west and the story he told me of what he has pulled off is such a good example of what a average man can do if he gos at it the right way that I will try and tell your readers the story so as they can take advantage of his experience and lift themself out of the rough. If every laboring man would follow Joe's lead they would be less talk of strikes and more of bases on balls.

Well, Joe come here to take a job as ladder holder for a man that trims trees and their owners. He went to work at 8 in the A. M. and got through at 5 with a 1-2 hour off for lunch, but he wasn't only getting $7 per wk. and had a family of 9 mouths to feed and 9 carcasses to cloth, so unless he was holding a ladder against an oak tree or a hickory and could get a hold of some acorns or hickory dumbs, why he went without lunch.

Now Joe's wife was a college gal and didn't know nothing about how to save. She managed to break even every wk. but she couldn't lay nothing aside for a rainy day and you know how many of them we had here on Long's Island this last summer. But she was ambitious and she kept after Joe to try and pull himself together and increase his earnings.

"$364 per annum is $364 per annum," she would say, "but suppose you was to half to hold the ladder against a thorn bush some day and get stuck, and not be able to hold no more ladders. Then where would we be at? We got to make more jack so as we can plant some in the old sock."

"It's all right to talk," Joe would reply, "but we ladder holders haven't got no union and can't make no threats. If I was to ask my boss far a raise he would come down a few rungs and knock me for a row of poplars."

"That's either here or there," his Mrs. would say. "I know you can't make no more at your regular job, but what about your spare time? The magazine is full of ads where a man can clean up if he uses his spare time to learn different trades and etc. and then works at them in his spare time."

So finely Joe got tired of hearing her moan and he bought himself a copy of a magazine and looked through the ads and marked all the ones that promised to learn you how to increase your earnings. One ad said they would learn you to write short stories and one of their pupils was making $5000.00 a yr. writeing them and he called it just play work.

They was another that would learn you to be a cartoonist so as you could earn $5000 a yr. in your spare time. They was a correspondent school that give you a choice of a whole lot of trades you could work at in your spare time. Joe read over the list and decided he would learn to be a R. R. Trainman witch pays about $1200.00 per annum and also a textile overseer witch would net him $4000.00. They was another school that would make a professional photographer out of you and you could snap up $70 per wk. or $3640.00 per annum. Still another one yet said they was a big demand for garages and they would learn you how to run one and you couldn't hardly help from netting $5000.00.

They was another that would cure you from stammering and make you a convincing talker so as you could grab $3000.00 per annum on the chautauqua circus in your spare time. Or you could get so as you could earn $10,000.00 as a lawyer by putting in your spare time studying law at home or you could make $5000.00 a yr. as a expert accountant. And when you had a few hrs. off you could canvas the block for subscriptions to a magazine and pocket $3500.00 a yr. on the side. And last but not least, if you was shy of money you could sell your false teeth to a moulting concern out in Cleveland in your spare time.

"Well," says Joe to himself, "if they's that much spare time in the world I am going to take advantage. I am going to learn the whole works and live right instead of trying to skrimp along on my salary as a ladder holder."

So this is what that bird done. Every night when he would come home from the trees, he would lay his ladder to 1 side and study the lessons that he had boughten and witch come by mail. Once a wk. he would get out a set of false teeth and sell them to Cleveland for $10.00. At the end of 3 mos. he had mastered all the spare time trades and now his annual earnings is something like the following:

Writeing short stories	$5000.00
Cartoonist	5000.00
R. R. Trainman	1200.00
Textile overseer	4000.00
Photographer	3640.00
Garage owner	5000.00
Public speaker	3000.00
Magazine vendor	3500.00
Selling false teeth	520.00
Expert accountant	5000.00
Lawyer	10000.00
Total	$45860.00

It should also ought to be remembered that Joe has still got his $364 per annum as a ladder holder because the other work is all done in his spare time. He calls it all play work. And if the tree trimmer was to can him some time he should worry. But the best part of it all is that he don't half to buy night gowns for himself as he hasn't no use for them.

If the men that's working for puny wages was Joe Coopers we wouldn't hear no more chatter about bolshevism and down with the idle rich.

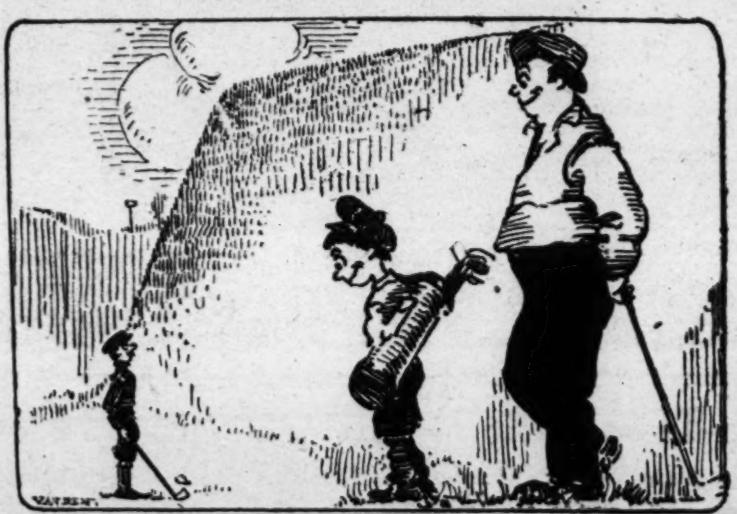
MENTAL HAZARDS

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE.



"It may be a bunker that is cunningly placed so you can't possibly drive over it."

YOU can walk a rail that is spiked firmly to the ties without flinching. You know that if you fall off you can't fall more than three inches.

Stretch the same rail between two skyscrapers, and if you try to walk it you will get nervous. The distance of several hundred feet to the ground will have an appreciable effect on your poise.

The second rail would be a mental hazard. And mental hazards are what take the joy out of golf.

Designers of golf work with two purposes. One is to supply caddies with rich mines out of which to dig golf balls when mild evening weeps over the lea and all the members of the Grounds Committee have gone home for the day.

The other is to supply preachers with something to do to save lost souls after prohibition, race-track gambling laws and all sumptuary legislation have removed the ordinary snares from the pathway of mankind.

As long as there are mental hazards on golf coursees, there will be souls to be saved. And without a lot of concentration and energy on the part of the clergy many of these souls will defy saving to the end.

The golf course engineer is as wise as a serpent, and many times more venomous. He knows all there is to know about the shortcomings of human nature.

He always places the first tee within easy viewing and distance of the clubhouse veranda, so that the player is certain to get a bad start.

For perhaps the worst mental hazard of the whole evil company is a porch full of rubbering people, who, you know, are making sardonic comments on your costume, your style, and the little foolish drive with which you always begin.

I have seen strong men weep as soon as they get out of sight of the commentators, after they had swung violently at a ball and merely spilled it off the tee. It isn't what the spectators said, although that is bad enough; it's what the player thinks they said that ruins the rest of the day and most of the rest of the month for him. I have seen patient, quiet men, who wouldn't lose their self-possession in a shipwreck, or harbor malice at a dog who had bitten them, throw their clubs on the ground and jump on them till every last club in the bag had been broken to slivers.

And all because they had driven a ball at right angles instead of straight ahead, and lost it forever and ever.

Without spectators these things would not be disturbing. But the most brazen human being is sensitive before a crowd as a child speaking its first piece. And the man that plans the golf course knows that and takes a fiendish delight in arranging things so onlookers will be provided.

After you have rolled the ball around the corner and away from the clubhouse, you begin to feel a little easier. That is a part of the designer's plan. He makes the next few fairways wide and the hazards easy. If he didn't you would quit right there and the ancient game of golf would be played only by professionals. You make the next two their shorn limbs, racked by gales, were raised as if in supplication to the somber forest behind them. Trunks of enormous trees that had fallen perhaps a century ago were found half-buried in the earth, while scattered along the northern base of the range, overlooking the downs, a few of their gigantic counterparts, alive and flourishing, raised their lofty heads far above the surrounding forest, and stood like sentinels, guarding the plain.

9. A small river wound its devious way, with serpentine crooks and curves, through the downs and across the meadow, emptying into the ocean some distance east of the gleaming beach. That its source was far up in the secretive hills was not a matter of conjecture, however; the incessant hiss and roar of a cataract was plainly heard by the investigators.

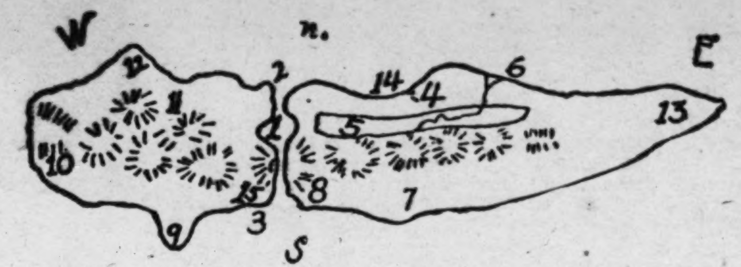
After the second reading of the foregoing report, the first being in English, Percival requested his fellow explorers to verify the statements contained therein. This they did promptly. He then went on:

"I am delegated by Capt. Trigger and the officers of this vessel, after a conference just concluded, and of which you are all aware, to put before you as briefly and as clearly as possible the decision that has been reached. I may as well confess in the beginning that this decision is based on the recommendations of the party who went to the top of the mountain. It is out of the question for the people on board this vessel to go ashore until further investigations have been made. For the present we are all safe here on board the ship. We don't know what perils exist in the absolutely unexplored country that surrounds us. Additional parties are to be sent out to explore the island, especially the eastern portion of it. There is no use in mincing matters. We are confronted by a very plain situation. It is possible, even probable, that we are the first human beings ever to set foot on this island. If that be true, we are now so far out of the path of the few ships and steamers sailing these southern seas that there is small hope or chance of a speedy rescue. As a matter of fact, it isn't likely that we will be discovered until the island itself is discovered, if you see what I mean.

"There isn't the slightest chance that the ship we're now standing on will ever float again. Even if the engines could be put in order, and that is possible, I am told, the vessel cannot be raised. If anybody has been nursing that sort of hope, he may as well get rid of it. It's no good. We are here to stay, unless help comes from the outside. There's the plain English of it. We may have to live here on this island, like poor old Robinson Crusoe, for years—for a great many years. I'm going to stop just for a few seconds to let that soak into your brains. We've got to face it. We've got to make the best of it. It is not for Capt. Trigger or me or anyone else to say that we will not be taken off this island some time—maybe sooner than we think. Whaling vessels must visit these parts. That's neither here nor there. We've got our work cut out for us, friends. We've got to think of the present and let the future take care of itself. Now, here are the facts: We cannot remain on board this wreck. We've got to go to work, every man, woman and child of us. I don't know what can be cultivated on this island, but we've got to find out, and when we find out we've got to begin raising it. If we don't, my friends we'll starve to death in a very short time. And what's more, if we do not get out there and put up houses to live in, we'll freeze to death when winter comes along.

"According to calculations, winter is still five or six months away. We won't get it, I dare say, before next April or May. All you have to do is to take a look at all these trees around here to realize that we are a long way from the tropics. It gets as cold as blazes here in the dead of winter, I can tell you that. We've got to build homes. We've got to build a camp, not a flimsy, half-way sort of camp, but a good, solid, substantial one, my friends. There is what you might call a minority report in regard to the situation. Capt. Trigger asked me to speak for him and others who look at it as I do. Mr. Landover, who is, I understand, one of the leading bankers in the United States of America, contends that we are well enough off as we are, on board the Doraine, where we've got cabins and beds and shelter from the elements. He may be right. All I have to say to him is this—I don't believe I mentioned it at this conference, Mr. Landover, simply because I'm one of those unhappy individuals who always thinks of the brilliant things I might have said when it's too late to say them—all I have to say is this: If Mr. Landover and his supporters expect to sit snugly on this ship while the rest of us build houses and plant crops, and then conclude to come out and bone the rest of us for a square meal and a nice warm place to sleep, they are going to be badly fooled. We're all equal here. A couple of million dollars, more or less, doesn't cut any ice on this little island. What counts here is muscle and common sense and a willingness to use both.

"A little while ago I asked Mr. Landover how much money he has with him. He informed me that while it wasn't any of my business, he has about $500 in American money and a couple of hundred pesos besides, but that his letter of credit is still good for $15,000. Mr. Nicklestick has about $500 in money, and so has Mr. Block and one or two others. They've all got letters of credit, express checks and so forth, and I suppose there is a wheelbarrow full of jewelry on board this ship. Now, if money is to talk down here, I wish to state that the men and women from the steerage have got more real dough than all the first and second cabins put together. They haven't any letters of credit or bank accounts in New York, but there are a dozen men in the steerage who have as much as 2000 or 3000 pesos sewed up inside their clothes. So far as I can make out, the only people who can afford to hire anybody to build a hut for them, and pay for it in real money, are the plutocrats from the steerage.



1. Position of stranded vessel in basin.
2. Entrance to channel from the north.
3. Entrance to channel from the south.
4. Narrow strip of woodland from channel almost to river's mouth.
5. Strip of meadowland clear of trees.
6. River.
7. Stretch of lowland leading down to the water.
8. Crest of hill from which observations were taken with range extending east and west.
9. Point of rocks with cypress trees.
10. Buttresslike west end of island.
11. Dense forest reaching to channel.
12. Rocky cape.
13. Level plateau, without trees.
14. Beach.
15. Penguins.

"Mr. Landover's letter of credit is good for fifteen thousand, if he ever gets back to New York, but it isn't worth 15 cents here. His life is insured for $1,000,000, I am told. I don't know who the beneficiaries are, but, whoever they are, they are going to put in a claim for the million if he doesn't show up in New York pretty shortly. He is going to be declared officially dead, and so are all the rest of us, after a reasonable time has elapsed. Now, I don't say that we are never going to be rescued. We may be found inside of a month. Some of us don't quite realize the fix we are in. Mr. Codge, the purser, was saying a little while ago that a lady from the first cabin nearly took his head off when he told her it was impossible to send a cable message to her people in Boston. A number of passengers have already demanded that their passage money be refunded.

"You have doubtless heard how I came to be on board this steamer. I am a stowaway. I have no standing among you. I haven't a penny in my pocket, aside from a luck piece that doesn't belong to me. I wanted to get back to the States so that I could carry a gun or something over in France. I wanted to fight for my country. I wasn't thinking very much about my life when I started for home and France; but I want to say that I'm thinking about it now. I don't intend to starve or freeze to death if I can help it. I am going to fight for my life, not for my country.

"This is no time to be sentimental. It is no time to sit down and pity ourselves or each other. God knows I am just as sorry for myself as you are for yourselves, but that isn't going to get me anywhere. We've got to work. That means all of us. It means the women as well as the men. It means the women with white, soft hands and the men who never did a stroke of manual labor in their lives, just as much as it means the people who have never done anything else but work. Something will be found for every one of us to do, and, ladies and gentlemen, we will have to do it without whining.

"Capt. Trigger is accountable for the cargo on board this ship. Naturally, he is opposed to our confiscating anything that has been intrusted to him for safe delivery. He takes a very sensible attitude, however. He will officially protest against the removal of anything from the hold of his vessel, but he will not employ force to resist us when we begin to land stores, foodstuffs and all that sort of thing. He understands the situation perfectly."

WHY MEN SHOULD WEAR BEARDS

BEARDS have become a rarity in America, and mustaches are the exception; not so, however, in Europe, where the clean-shaven face is less common than the bearded.

It is merely a matter of fashion, as it always has been. There are those who look upon beards as unsanitary, but Dr. Arthur MacDonald of Washington, D. C., holds the contrary view and accuses the shaven face of responsibility for many ills. Writing in the Medical World (Philadelphia) he says:

"You might as well shave the fur off the squirrel and cut the feathers from a bird as to shave the hairs from the face. Today the most civilized peoples who inhabit the temperate zone, the most favored by nature, have the richest growth of hair on the face.

"It is objected that the beard and mustache are uncleanly affairs. But it goes without saying that they should be kept scrupulously clean. People's feet are sometimes dirty, but that is no reason for cutting them off. It is claimed that hairs on the face make one feel uncomfortable. This may be the case with some, but it may be due to the fact that by continuous shaving the hairs have beome coarse and stiff; it may also result from carelessness in caring for the beard, including uncleanlines. A soft, silky beard is not only not uncomfortable, but, if properly kept, is a thing of beauty.

"Just as the hair protects the head, so does the beard the face. The mustache is nature's respirator, while the hair covering the jaws and throat gives warmth and protection to the delicate structures under it, especially the fauces and the larynx. The hair of the mustache absorbs the miasma and moisture of fogs; the beard takes heat from the warm breath of the mouth as it leaves the chest and supplies it to the cold air taken in. * * *

"If a man would have increased immunity from toothache, relaxed uvula, coughs, colds, inflammation, desquamation and all the rheums, let him grow a beard.

"Among bearded railroad men who are often exposed to the elements it has been found that pulmonary and respiratory affections are comparatively rare.

Dr. MacDonald points out the usefulness of the mustache and beard in straining out the dust from the air before this is breathed and in protecting the face from insects, especially the mosquitoes which cause malaria.

La-may Face Powder is Guaranteed
Pure and Harmless.

Pure face powder cannot injure the most delicate baby skin. The trouble is, too many powders are made in the old-fashioned way, with rice powder. Rice powder is starchy, and, like bread flour, it is quickly turned into a gluey paste by the moisture of the skin. This paste clogs the cuticle, swells in the pores, causing enlarged pores, blackheads and pimples. A specialist makes a harmless powder by using an ingredient doctors prescribe to heal the skin. Every time you apply this improved powder you give your complexion a real beauty treatment. There is a thousand-dollar guarantee of purity printed on the box, certifying it does not contain white lead, rice powder or any harmful substance. This guaranteed pure powder is called La-may (French, Poudre L'Ame). Because it is pure and harmless La-may is now used by over a million American women! It is now the most popular complexion powder sold in New York. Women who have used even the most expensive face powder say they can not buy a better powder than La-may anywhere at any price. There is also a La-may Talcum that prevents the souring of perspiration

Enforced "Vacations," Prescribed by Judge Mix, - New Legal Treatment for Marital Woes -

Informal court conducts hearings in domestic relations cases and a temporary separation is frequently ordered as the best means of bringing both parties to a more sober consideration of their dispute—Some instances of a day's routine -o- -o- -o- -o-

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

WHEN well-to-do married couples begin to get on one another's nerves, a vacation from one another is a well-known remedy. A convenient physician orders a change of scene or climate for the wife and she is sent to a winter resort or summer resort or home to mother, as the case may be.

A perspective on troubles that had become magnified from too close scrutiny is afforded, they assume their proper proportions or are minimized to the desire for one another, and often the vacation is the only remedy needed either to avert or cure marital inharmony.

Poorer husbands and wives may bicker until an extremity is reached when they disturb one another's peace, be haled into court upon one or the other's complaint, the offender made to pay a fine or serve a workhouse sentence, only to return with vengeance added to the list of wrongs, the bickering to be resumed and the same program repeated, and there is no recourse to the timely and beneficent vacation for them.

That is, there hasn't been here in St. Louis until Judge Mix instituted his informal court of appeals in his inner chambers back of City Court No. 1, for such cases as these as come before him, and began to make the probation system really effective.

I heard two of these domestic relations cases in which he is interesting himself reviewed in this inner sanctum the other morning. A vacation from one another was not only the astute recommendation in each case, but the vacation was ordered under penalty if the order was disobeyed and the vacations were executed, arranged in all their details, on the spot.

The troubles of Mr. and Mrs. W—— had reached a climax. It was not clear just what act had brought them to the attention of the court. One seemed no more wronged than the other, as both hurled imprecations and accusations at each other through a long recital involving many tears and details of living in two rooms with furniture unpacked for five months, with a husband who thought of nothing but getting money and would not consider looking for a flat, and of business being interfered with and peace disturbed by a nagging wife. All of which the Judge rather promptly silenced, summing up the evidence with the verdict:

"You are getting on each other's nerves," and pronouncing the sentence:

"Now I'll have to separate you."

"Mrs. W——, you say you can go and stay with your mother. What amount of money do you think you will require to support yourself and your child under those circumstances? Twelve dollars a week, you say? Mr. W——, what are you willing to pay? Half your earnings above your expenses, which would be $8 a week, you say? Now, you know you make more than that, or you wouldn't remain in that business. I'll split the difference and order you to pay your wife $10 a week."

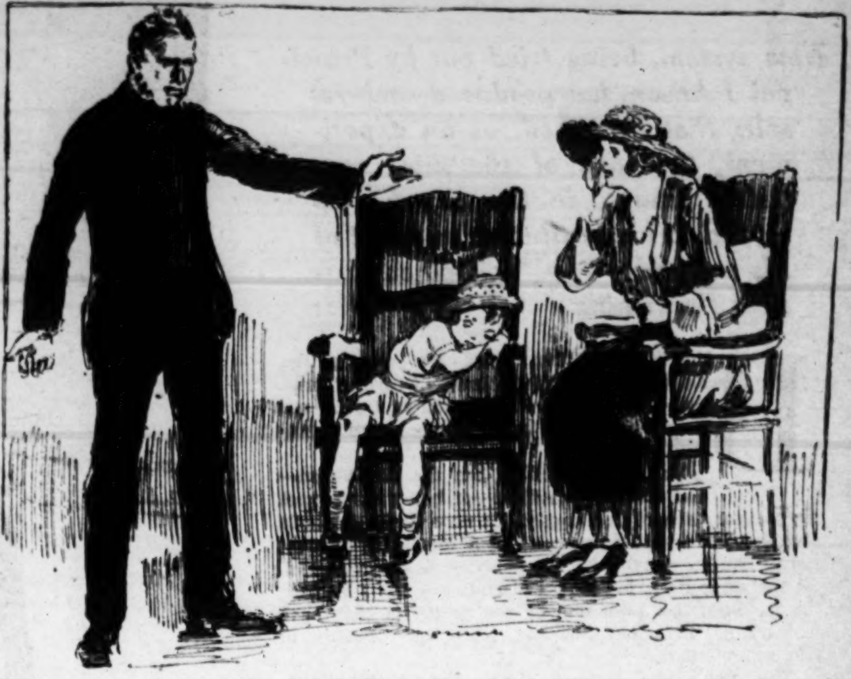
A look of hard defiance, albeit furtive, cast in his direction, did not escape the Judge. Whereupon he remarked:

"On second thought, I think I'll raise it to $11 a week."

W—— flinched, the muscles of his face twitched, his fingers intertwined under his coat tails, but the Judge went on elaborating the picture of a jail sentence that awaited contempt of his orders. Presently W—— peeled $11 off a roll of bills and vehemently, dramatically exclaimed:

"As God is my witness, this money does not belong to me. I owe it." And handed it to his wife.

There were further orders as to how the husband was to remain entirely away from the wife, a penalty attaching to his even being seen in the neighborhood of her new residence, and the wife was not to be seen in the neighborhood of their former abode. Indeed, this place was to be locked up as a storage place for the furniture, the keys to be turned over to the wife, though she must not think she owned the furniture yet, and neither was she to dispose of any of it. Each was to remove only such personal effects as clothing, and that under the supervision of a probation officer.



A long recital involving a nagging wife and a husband who thought of nothing but getting money.

Both husband and wife assumed a nothing-would-please-me better air at these commands and the more pleased they seemed the more the Judge emphasized the severity with which the separation was to be enforced. Then he gathered to his knees the little 5-year-old girl who had been mercifullly dozing through the whole scene, happily unheedful of the imprecations being hurled over her head. He petted and praised and made much of the child by way of shaming the parents.

It was all on her account, it was only the duty he felt he owed the rising generation, it was only because her protection, her welfare, her future, were so important in the scheme of things, that he took the trouble and time and went outside the requirements of his office to arrange this separation, which, he hinted, was to be sealed with a divorce eventually, rather than that she should grow up in this atmosphere of quarreling.

Well, then a strange thing happened. The father, who had been so hard, growling and clenching his fists, now turned from the window, where he had seemed to be absorbed outside, and unmistakably a tear glistened in his eye. He got no response in kind when he glanced toward his wife. Her tears were now dry and forgotten in her interest in directions the Judge's secretary was giving her in regard to going to a Barnes Hospital clinic for a thorough examination and treatment for her nerves. Presently they were dismissed, in company with the probation officer, who was to see immediate details of the separation carried out. They did not kiss and make up outside in the hall, but there was a feeling even now among the observers that the husband was going to weary of paying $11 a week without receiving in return any of the comforts of home and that the wife would be more patient and helpful if offered some concessions.

MRS. CHIVVIS.

Time would tell. A month, the limit put upon the temporary separation, would be all that would be needed to determine that it need not be final, the Judge conjectured. At the end of the month he might give the father permission to visit the child, he said.

The next case did not seem quite so hopeful.

A frail, little, sad-faced woman was brought in, trembling and shaking with sobs. She could not control her voice sufficiently to answer questions, so Mr. Nolte, the probation officer, who seemed familiar with the case, answered for her. She was 32 years old, the mother of five children under the age of 14. Troubles had reached a climax when a neighbor found her in the yard last Sunday weeping as she told how she and the children had nothing to eat, while her husband had just gone out, purchased a large meal, which he had prepared himself and was eating alone, while the children looked on, forbidden to take a bite. The wife had been supporting the household, going to work at 4 in the morning, taking the children to her mother's during the day, until she had broken down and lost her job.

The probation officer had learned that the husband was making $30 to $35 a week, which he spent entirely upon himself. The wife had been persuaded to prosecute her husband for failure to support and cruelty. She had come into court for that purpose and then stubbornly refused to prosecute or testify against him.

The Judge gave her a severe scolding for this. "Surely," he said, "you cannot care for a man who treats you like this?"

"No, Judge; I almost don't love him any more," she sobbed.

"I believe you are one of these women who thinks a husband does not care unless he beats her up now and then. Then you are just as much to blame as he."

"I don't want him locked up," she said, between sobs.

"You'll be surprised when you see this man, Judge, your honor," remarked the probation officer. "He's a fine looking fellow. Keeps himself dressed up. Shaves every day."

Presently the husband was brought in and the officer's statement borne out. His clothes had recently been pressed, he wore a white collar and he had something the air of a dandy. The Judge read the riot act to him. He was a disgrace to the community, a man who made good wages and let his family live in a hovel, his wife work out and his children go hungry. Then he laid down the law. He was to pay his family $25 a week, under penalty of a workhouse sentence if he failed to comply or if there were any more evil reports from the probation officer, to whom he was to answer. He was to remain away from the home, for which he was to provide, while the wife was to attend to her health and see if she could not regain some of the good looks of which she showed vestiges as she dried her tears and brightened up under kindness. A letter was written to a dental clinic, since neglected teeth were one cause for her poor articulation.

The callousness of the husband remained unpenetrated, his equanimity unperturbed, his only show of emotion, relief, expressed in the extreme geniality with generally possible to straighten out the matter.

"There appears, however, to be a certain type of pupil who will not listen to reason, even when they are shown to be wrong by their admission. They simply grow stubborn and insist they "don't care"—that they know they are right.

"This is the class for which Mr. Johnson designed this room. No penalty or handicap attaches to coming here nor is a visit announced as a punishment. There is no sending of the pupil to Mr. Johnson in advance. All that is required is a written account of the episode involved. In every case so far, the matter has been adjusted in that way. The children recognize how extravagant their own previous statements may have been when they see them in writing.

"By leaving the settlement to the judgment and fair-mindedness of the pupil, the system has proved an entire success."

In some cases, however, pupils have to be sent down to room 13 for persistently falling behind in their studies and not for any insubordination.

This brings out another situation that has to be handled. Investigation may show that the pupil, through no fault of his own, is backward in studies, due to insufficient preparation in earlier years. Principal Johnson said that he had found a most successful method in dealing with such cases.

"When a child finds tiresome or objectionable something that other children find normal or even enjoy, there is something wrong somewhere," he said, in illustrating his system in a talk last week, "and there has been too great a tendency to put all the blame on the child. Inasmuch as the initiative rests with his elders, I have always thought the child's side of the case should be heard as well.

"Children are keenly sensitive on certain points, although they may not betray the fact. I have had boys sent here who were overflowing with nervous restlessness that simply had not been turned into the proper channel. These boys were behind in their studies and deeply resented being put in a room of smaller children. Yet it might be the most difficult thing in the world to get the true reason from them.

"I surmised what was wrong with many of them, however, so I have created two separate grades in keeping with their age, yet with the studies suited to their present standing. For instance, we has some boys who were of bright mentality, yet whose preliminary training was such that they could only qualify for the fourth grade, when they properly belonged in the seventh. I created a "special seventh grade" for them, where the course endeavors to bring them up to the required standard, and yet where they do not have to feel the humiliation of being graded with children younger than themselves.

"The response has been wonderful. Some of these boys had been consistent truants. They had been entered in two or three different schools and persisted in continued absences. Yet their teachers did not consider them shiftless or lacking in mental power, and vainly endeavored to find out what was wrong with them.

"When some of these boys' families moved into this section, the children were entered in this school. If they were backward in their studies—as most of them necessarily were through their continued absences—we put them in one of our special grades with boys of their own age.

"The results have been immediate. Some of the boys who gave the truant officers most trouble have never missed a day. So confident did I become of the result of this thing of looking at the case from a child's standpoint that, although we are crowded here, I purposely asked for the enrollment of one boy as an experiment.

"A truant officer had mentioned to me, in casual conversation, that at another school there was a boy who had given so much trouble by truancy that his case was considered serious. I asked that he be sent to this school, although his parents do not live in this part of the city. I wanted to try out my ideas on the point. That boy is one of the best pupils today in our special seventh grade and has never missed a day at this school. He has been placed with boys of his own age, he finds help and sympathy from his teachers in those studies wherein he is deficient and he does not have to make what he evidently considered a humiliating admission in his prior experience—that he was in a grade with children some years younger than himself. If asked in his own neighborhood what grade he is in, he can tell them he is in a class in keeping with his years.

"One girl in the school is of an age that would justify her presence in the second year at the high school. She continually absented herself from her work until the same system was tried with her. She is in a class of girls conducted by Miss Drimped and is doing well."

On account of the crowded condition of the school, Principal Johnson succeeded in having the School Board take over two residences on Vista avenue, in the rear of the school. These have been converted into temporary school buildings. One of them was originally a flat building and the upper floor has been converted into the special classroom for those who passed through the "don't-care" room.

"This," said Johnson, pointing out a roomful of boys from 12 to 15 years old, "is a proof of the value of this method of treating backward pupils. These boys, instead of being made to feel that they are behind in their work, consider themselves a sort of privileged class because they have their own separate building. They take pride in their work. They are catching up rapidly in the studies in which they were deficient."

The boys in question, who did not know they were being observed from the hall, were seemingly intensely interested in a demonstration the teacher was conducting upon a blackboard and were replying briskly and apparently correctly to her questions.

Principal Johnson then pointed out the grounds around the school.

"This is what we call our pavilion," he said, indicating a building with two sides and a roof, "and it serves as a playground for the pupils in wet weather. It was originally a large mule barn back of this old residence. You see, we have a regular school city here. I succeeded in having the barn and the lot behind it included in our school grounds. The barn was cleaned out, two sides removed and the children have a place to go in recreation periods when it rains."

The large, old-fashioned residence, which is also utilized as part of the Adams School, completes a group of buildings which the pupils call the "school city." The combined playgrounds give the children an unusually large amount of recreation space.

"You will notice that we have basket ball grounds, courts and a field large enough for the younger boys to have games of baseball," said Johnson, "and this is part of our system. By furnishing the children with abundant room to play, we have them coming back here for recreation after school hours. Those yards are filled with children every afternoon. As a result, they do not view this school simply as a place of work.

"We do not have the children line up to march to their rooms. They march in in orderly fashion, but they respond to the bell without any supervision by the teachers."

A recreation period was just closing as he spoke and the bell rang a few moments later. The children promptly fell into an informal formation suitable for climbing the stairs and proceeded to their various rooms promptly.

"The whole idea at this school city is to remove that traditional dread of the school which was once apparent in children," Johnson said, "and starting with our room 13 we are making progress. We have simply put ourselves in the position of looking at a child's struggles from his or her standpoint and trying to view the question from the angle of childhood—and the results have been satisfactory."

NONE KNOW WHERE THE EELS BREED

THAT familiar article of diet, the eel, is one of the unsolved puzzles of animal life. An important scientist has set out to seek the clue to the eel's secret. Writing in Science on the many unknown things of oceanography, Prof. A. G. Boving has this to say:

"Take the case of our common fresh-water eel as an example of how little we know and at the same time of how much has been discovered. All the eels of our streams and lakes of Northwestern Europe live and feed and grow under our eyes without reproducing their kind—no spawning eel has ever been seen. After living for years in immaturity, at last near the end of their lives the large male and female yellow eels undergo a change in appearance and in nature. They acquire a silvery color and their eyes enlarge, and in this bridal attire they commence the long journey which ends in maturity, reproduction and death.

"From all the fresh waters they migrate in the autumn to the coast, from all the inshore seas to the open ocean and still eastward and south to the mid-Atlantic, and we know not how much further—for the exact locality and manner of spawning has yet to be discovered. The youngest known stages of the Lepticephadus, the larval stage of eels, have been found by the Dane, Dr. Johannes Schmidt, to the west of the Azores, where the water is over 2000 fathoms in depth. They were about one-third of an inch in length and were probably not long hatched."

"Cure Your Rupture Like I Cured Mine"

Old Sea Captain Cured His Own Rupture After Doctors Said "Operate or Death."

His Remedy and Book Sent Free.

Captain Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and truss after truss. No results! Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abhorrent operation or die. He did neither! He cured himself instead.

"Fellow Men and Women, You Don't Have To Be Cut Up, and You Don't Have To Be Tortured By Trusses."

Captain Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man.

Anyone can use the same method! It's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. Every ruptured person in the world should have the Captain Collings book, telling all about how he cured himself, and how anyone may follow the same treatment in their own home without any trouble. The book and medicine are FREE. They will be sent prepaid to any rupture sufferer who will fill out the below coupon. But send it right away—now—before you put down this paper.

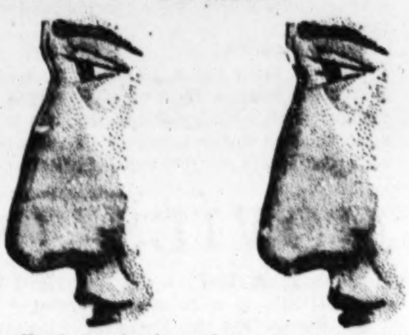
Noses and Throats Freed of Catarrh!



Hundreds of noses and throats all over this country from Maine to California have been freed from Catarrh with its annoying features. These noses and throats were pretty bad—some of them. They had bothered their owners for long periods. The noses had been stopped up—crusts formed—mucus gathered and made discharges which had to be constantly blown out on handkerchiefs.

Some of this mucus dropped into the throats belonging to the above noses and made them raw and sore, with an annoying constant tickling sensation.

Little wonder that the eyes accompanying these noses and throats became watery and weak—the breaths foul and the sense of smell gradually disappearing.

But what a change has come over these same noses and throats through the Method of treatment originated by Catarrhal Specialist Sproule, 303 Trade Building, Boston. They became once again the clear, sweet, useful portions of the body their Creator intended. The nasal discharges stopped, because there was no more inflammation and Catarrh germs to cause it. The eyes, the noses, the throats became free and clear. Those stupid, dull feelings vanished—and the happy individuals met their friends frankly, grateful they needed no longer worry over what serious thing their Catarrh might develop into.

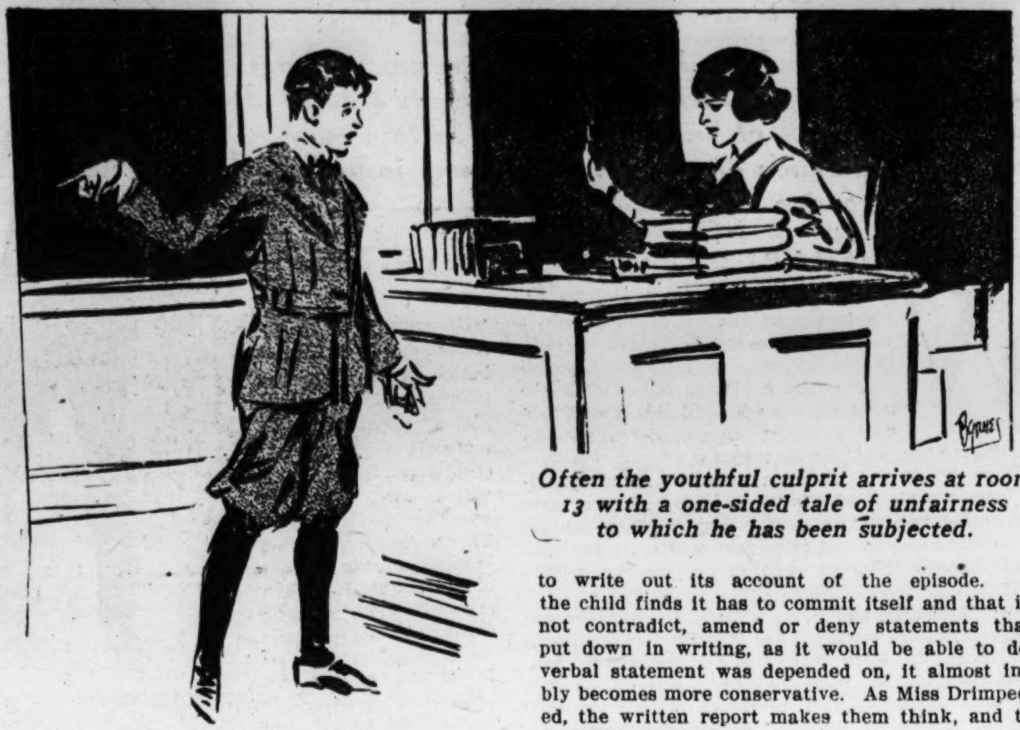
How the "Don't Care" Room at the Adams School - Is Reclaiming the Restless Pupil -

New system, being tried out by Principal Johnson, has produced such results that he asked, as an experiment, that one of the most consistent truants in the city be assigned to his institution as a test of his methods—His "school city" is now flourishing :: :: ::



Often the youthful culprit arrives at room 13 with a one-sided tale of unfairness to which he has been subjected.

BY INSTALLING a "don't-care" room at the Adams School, 1311 Tower Grove avenue, Principal George R. Johnson is trying out a new method of handling backward or unruly pupils.

The Adams School has the distinction—and also the handicap—of being the largest preparatory school in the city. It now has 1325 pupils enrolled and an attendance of 1500 is forecasted for next term. And to provide for the overflow of children, and, at the same time, handle all disciplinary cases brought before him, has been one of the problems that have confronted Principal Johnson since the opening of the school year.

The "don't-care" room is simply the unofficial title of a room at the institution, whither are sent obstreperous or sulky pupils for the trial of a system evolved by the principal. The new method—a cross between the old measures of discipline and moral suasion—has been in force since the outset of the present term and received a trial last year. Its success has been a tribute to the mightiness of the pen, or rather, of the school pencil. For the first requirement of those assigned to the room is to furnish a report, written by themselves, on the circumstances which led to their transfer.

"The written report makes them think," said Miss Marie Drimped, who is in charge of the room, "and as soon as they realize that they must commit themselves upon paper as to who is at fault, they generally become much more reasonable and conservative. So the first step is gained."

In fact, the system gives the children their first experience in seeing their deeds recorded in cold type, as it were. The name of the room was developed simply because of the tendency of certain children to fall back upon the "don't care" attitude when they have been argued with in vain. The room is No. 13, but there is no significance in that. The place was simply chosen because it was the most available.

When Principal Johnson assumed charge of the school more than three years ago, he found himself confronting a difficult situation. The Adams School was originally a small structure, built for a lightly settled neighborhood. As the population of the vicinity grew, the school was extended by the addition of wings. Even these additions proved insufficient for the swarm of children whose parents settled in the district when war industries drew the population from the country to the city.

Out of the 1325 pupils now in the school, more than one-half belong to families which have moved to St. Louis to take advantage of high wages in industrial plants. A census of the school showed that the majority are Missouri born and that by far the largest percentage comes from the Ozark regions. In fact, the problem of dealing with children of foreign-born parentage, who may understand the language imperfectly, does not exist in the Adams School as it does in many crowded institutions.

But this newly arrived element afforded another problem. Many of the children from country districts had not received the foundations necessary to put them in grades suitable to their age. Others, from the mountain regions, had apparently never been subjected to any parental control and were restless and uneasy during school hours, so foreign to their prior liberty. Moreover, children from certain country districts had attended school so irregularly in their home towns that regularity in attendance when they entered the Adams School was not anticipated either by them or by their parents. As a result, there was much incipient truancy.

Some of the newly arrived children were found to be so backward for their age that they appeared ridiculous when placed in classes of much younger children. Here, also, they often proved a detriment to class work by developing a dislike to their surroundings, which they considered beneath their dignity on account of the youth of their fellow scholars, and were indifferent or sulky in their work.

Others, who had not been brought up with a proper conception of discipline, were argumentative and insubordinate when the teachers addressed them. If sent before the principal, they frequently threw all the blame upon the teachers. Certain hot-headed youngsters made such violent and offensive denials of any guilt on their part and made such unreasonable statements about provocation on the part of the teachers, that their expulsion from a private institution would have been certain.

One of the crosses of an instructor in a public school, however, is to endeavor to make just such characters of value to the community. And out of what seemed a most difficult situation, Principal Johnson evolved the "don't-care" room. Miss Marie Drimped, his office assistant, was given charge, as an addition to her duties.

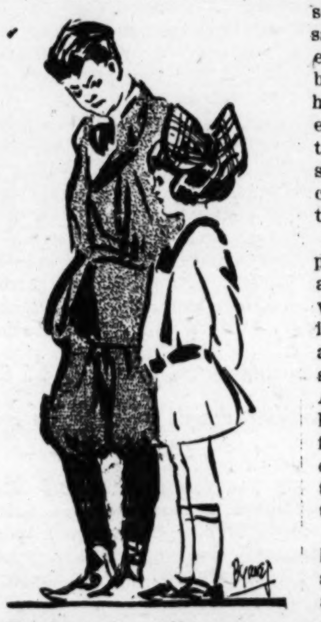
When a teacher finds that he or she cannot argue with a pupil or appeal to a sense of responsibility or fairness, no punishment is suggested. The child is simply told to go down and see Miss Drimped in room 13. Here the circumstances of the case are inquired into.

Often the youthful culprit arrives at room 13 in a high state of ill-temper and with a one-sided yarn of unfairness to which he or she had been subjected. Usually, an interview with Miss Drimped, where the child has no "gallery" of its fellows to encourage it to maintain a false pose, quiets it down. Then it is asked to write out its account of the episode. When the child finds it has to commit itself and that it cannot contradict, amend or deny statements that are put down in writing, as it would be able to do if a verbal statement was depended on, it almost invariably becomes more conservative. As Miss Drimped stated, the written report makes them think, and that is the first step gained.

There is nothing formidable in the appearance of this young lady to whom the unruly of the city's largest school are intrusted. In fact, she is one of the younger teachers of the institution and is slight in build. Dark-haired and wearing glasses, her expression usually appears one of tranquil benignity, through which a quizzical smile seems always struggling to break. At present, she has eight members in her particular "class," and all are progressing well.



Backward children appear ridiculous when placed in classes with much younger pupils.

"The idea of this room was developed by Mr. Johnson last year," she said, "and it shows the effect of requiring a boy or girl, who may have become hot-headed and have refused to obey a teacher, to set down the exact conditions that caused the trouble.

"This applies to pupils who will not study as well as to those who fail to obey while in class. Formerly, all these cases were sent to Mr. Johnson. As a result, much of his time was taken from the active work of the school to attend to cases that might be trifling.

"In this school we have boys as old as 16 and 17 years. These, as a rule, give comparatively little trouble. The fourth and fifth grades, however, contain many boys between 12 and 14 years. This seems to be the mischievous age, when they are overflowing with animal spirits. When reproved or ordered to discontinue annoyances to others of the class, they may honestly believe they have not offended and commence to argue about the matter or try to dispute the point through sheer exuberance.

"Some do this, thinking their attitude is attracting attention from other students. This type is likely to get sulky when an issue is made on the point. Others get hot-headed and insist that the teacher is unjust to them and that they have not received fair treatment in the matter.

"In the heat of excitement they often forget what they said and what the teacher said. Sometimes they make foolish statements about what led up to the difficulty and there have been cases when wholly unreasonable and false stories have been told about provocation given by teachers.

"In former days it was often necessary to suspend a pupil for the balance of the session and have him appear before Mr. Johnson the next day. By this time the pupil usually had cooled down and it was which he shook hands with the Judge at the termination of the interview. Just before leaving the room he stopped and whispered to a probation officer:

"I didn't want him locked up," she said between sobs.

"Did you say there is a place where a person can get dental treatment free of charge? I have some teeth of my own I'd like to have attended to."

Perhaps when it comes to giving up $25 a week and supporting himself on the remainder, a sense of responsibility may be borne in upon him, but as yet he did not seem to have begun to assume the role of unselfish father and provider.

The occasion for a reporter's introduction into these scenes was an invitation from Mrs. W. R. Chivvis, a former president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, well known for social service leadership in many directions and recently a graduate of the School of Social Economy. Since July Mrs. Chivvis, appointed by the Board of Religious Organizations, has been sitting in the city courts, watching and following up cases that might be helped by a trained social worker.

It was at Judge Mix's suggestion and earnest solicitation that this position was created, and Mrs. Chivvis undertook the work. From the bench he has been impressed with the futility of the workhouse sentence as a corrective for certain evils. An intensive study of the probation system during one vacation determined him upon his return to put the system upon a more effective basis here. Every day for more than a year he has held hearings such as I have described, devoting three or four hours after court adjournment to the task, having placed 300 domestic relation cases, alone, on probation.

He has made, he says, 102 addresses before organizations, asking that trained social workers be placed in charge of this work and suggesting that as soon as the venture proved itself the city might be impressed to take it over, as in the case of free kindergartens and playgrounds, which were started under private enterprise.

He has pointed out that if every member of the Protestant faith alone, in this city, were to contribute 10 cents a year, a fund of $6000 might be provided to support such a department. He has met with cordial approval and many promises of assistance, but as yet only the Board of Religious Organizations really has responded by appointing Mrs. Chivvis, whom they hope to continue in office through funds to be raised by the Women's Exposition in November.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Chivvis has taken hold of the work, as if she expected it to be permanent. Recently she went to Chicago to investigate probation work, detention homes and hospitals and allied court work there. She was especially impressed with a detention home for dependent, as differentiated from delinquent, girls there. And she arrived at some conclusions with regard to remedies which she will apply here.

The cases which engage her attention she divides into three classes—domestic relations, neighborhood quarrels, victims of the social evil.

Those cases under the second classification she has observed are frequently due to lack of understanding of the English language. With a remedy in view, she is enlisting a corps of women who are willing to give an hour a week to teaching "American" to foreign-born women in their homes. Backsliding from church affiliations is another cause for neighborhood dissensions, she believes, and she is forming another corps, consisting of one woman from each church, who will visit and try to interest and recall women to church activities. Boys who have become incorrigible through idleness are another of her special charges.

"Victims of the social evil," being as a class the oldest, are the hardest to reach, but she reports some results which Judge Mix declares to be remarkable, under the circumstances. One group of four girls taken in a police raid, all of whom now have their feet set upon the straight path, are singled out with pride.

At one crisis, $10, produced forthwith, was the small and materialistic price paid for a woman's moral reprieve.

She is a widow, with three small children and a widowed mother dependent upon her. After having taken a job procured for her, rent became due before payday rolled around. Mrs. Chivvis had told her that in a pinch she was to return to her for help. When it came to this definite demand, with the alternative of the oldest profession imminently accessible and hovering, Mrs. Chivvis, with no fund for such emergencies, knew not where to turn.

Take her to this relief organization or to that, was suggested. No, they will investigate her until they decide she is unworthy, she objected.

"Take her to the Salvation Army," suggested Judge Mix.

Mrs. Chivvis hastened to these headquarters.

"Though we are charged by other organizations with being unscientific," responded the captain, "we do usually investigate. In this case, however, we can accept your investigation. We will pay her rent and give her an order for a week's supply of groceries."

Mrs. Chivvis was at once on her way to see the promise fulfilled and that the young woman was still at her respectable job.

Another of these girls had gone astray through sheer loneliness. She is being regained through introduction into the society of a church.

"They treat me so nice and I am having such a nice time," is her report to Mrs. Chivvis.

"If only the church people do not suspect and investigate and condemn her, and blame me, too," is now Mrs. Chivvis' haunting fear.

MOVIES IN EUROPE ARE STILL EUROPEAN

By KARL K. KITCHEN

THERE is a popular impression in the United States that the European film market has been captured by American pictures. Reports of the amazing popularity of American "movies" in certain parts of Europe have led many people to believe that our film plays have practically supplanted the Continental products. And it is true that in Great Britain and France American-made pictures are very much in evidence. But in Central Europe, at the present time, very few American films are to be encountered, even in the largest cities.

I visited a dozen motion picture theaters on the Continent of Europe, but outside of the Gaumont Palace in Paris, where a Chaplin comedy was on view, and in Berne, where a Fairbanks film was being shown, I did not encounter a single American photoplay. I saw many American news reels, but the point I want to make is that, in Central Europe—in Germany, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and Hungary—American films are few and far between.

The reason for this condition is the unfavorable rate of exchange that exists in those countries. German exhibitors, for instance, are unable to pay the high rental charges for American pictures. As the mark has dropped to about 2 1-2 cents it means that a German exhibitor would have to pay 10 times as much for an American picture as for a German film. It is clearly impossible, and, aside from very old news reels that are sold or leased for ridiculously low prices, there are few American photo plays seen outside of the occupied districts.

In Austria and Hungary, where the crown has depreciated to a fraction of a cent, the same conditions exist. In fact, it is a strain for the exhibitors in Vienna and Budapest to pay for the German pictures, for a mark has three times the value of an Austrian or Hungarian crown.

There is no question that American film plays are far superior to the movies that are made in Germany and Austria.

There is not nearly as much interest in the movies in Central Europe as there is in the United States. In Berlin, for instance, there are half a dozen "lichspieles" in the heart of the city, but very few "neighborhood houses," such as are to be found in the larger American cities. The prices are relatively high and the elaborate programs, such as American film fans are accustomed to find in the larger theaters, are unknown.

In Vienna, at the Zirkus Busch, there is the nearest approach to the type of movie entertainment one encounters in the first-class playhouse in America. There is an excellent symphony orchestra, which plays twice during the evening, and in addition to a big feature picture, there is always a comedy picture and a collection of news reels.

The majority of the foreign pictures shown in Germany, Austria and Hungary are of Scandinavian variety. Danish and Swedish film plays are to be found on every side. Some of them are fairly good, but they nearly all show signs of being quickly and cheaply made. Only when an Italian super-film is announced is a visit to a German "lichspiele" worth while.

In France, however, American pictures are encountered on every side. Charlot, as Charlie Chaplin is know to the French public, is unquestionably the most popular comedian on the screen. Long ago he won the public away from Max Linder, the most celebrated of French film comedians, and his comedies are on view in a dozen different theaters in Paris at the present time.

The most amusing evening I spent in a "temple of motion picture art," as some managers are fond of calling their playhouses, was in a kino-theater in Berne, the sleepy little capital of Switzerland. The picture was called "Douglas in Harem," and it was one of the funniest Fairbanks pictures I ever saw. The titles were in both German and French and not once was Fairbanks' name used. To film fans in this part of the world Fairbanks is known simply as "Douglas," but that does not prevent him from being a prime favorite.

or three with a score that is satisfactory to yourself and the wounds to your pride inflicted at the start begin to heal.

Then you come to another mental hazard. It may be a bunker that is cunningly placed so you can't possibly drive over it and so you are pretty certain to land the ball exactly in the trench in front of it.

That is all prearranged, too. The man who laid out the course knows that you can't help trying to get over the bunker, even when you know you can't do it. This insures your getting the ball into the trench, instead of landing it halfway out, where it could be pitched over to the next shot.

You can say to yourself a hundred times that you will drive lightly, so as to be in a strategic position to get over on the next. But you won't do it. You will slam with all your might and six or seven vicious wallops will be required to get you over.

Again the hazard may be one of those exasperating stretches of rough that must be driven over if the ball is to remain findable.

You could drive twice the distance on a fair green. But you keep thinking about losing the ball in the long grass or brush, picturing yourself and the caddy hunting for it while the other players wait patiently or jeer at you. And in it goes.

And then provided you find it, instead of dropping another ball and taking the penalty, you insist on trying to get it out, and that counts eight or 10 more, for it always drops into a pocket under a hummock of grass or a clump of brush. The pockets, of course, are put there for it to roll into.

By the time you are out of this second hazard you are in no condition for the sand-trap and the water-jump that will follow along in due course.

You merely lam blindly, trying to get over them, and lose ball after ball in the attempt.

Even that would be endurable if you were not so constituted that you had to try it all over again the next day. And next day you do pretty well, and that encourages you to a third attempt.

It is then that you take the clubs one by one and break them over your knee, meanwhile making observations which imperil your future.

But you go at it again with a set of new clubs, and do it all over again, and still over. For the whole game is a mental hazard, and the men who invented it knew it.

They will have a good deal to answer for in the future. We devoutly hope that as a penalty they are forced to spend an eternity among the mental hazards they so diabolically designed for others.

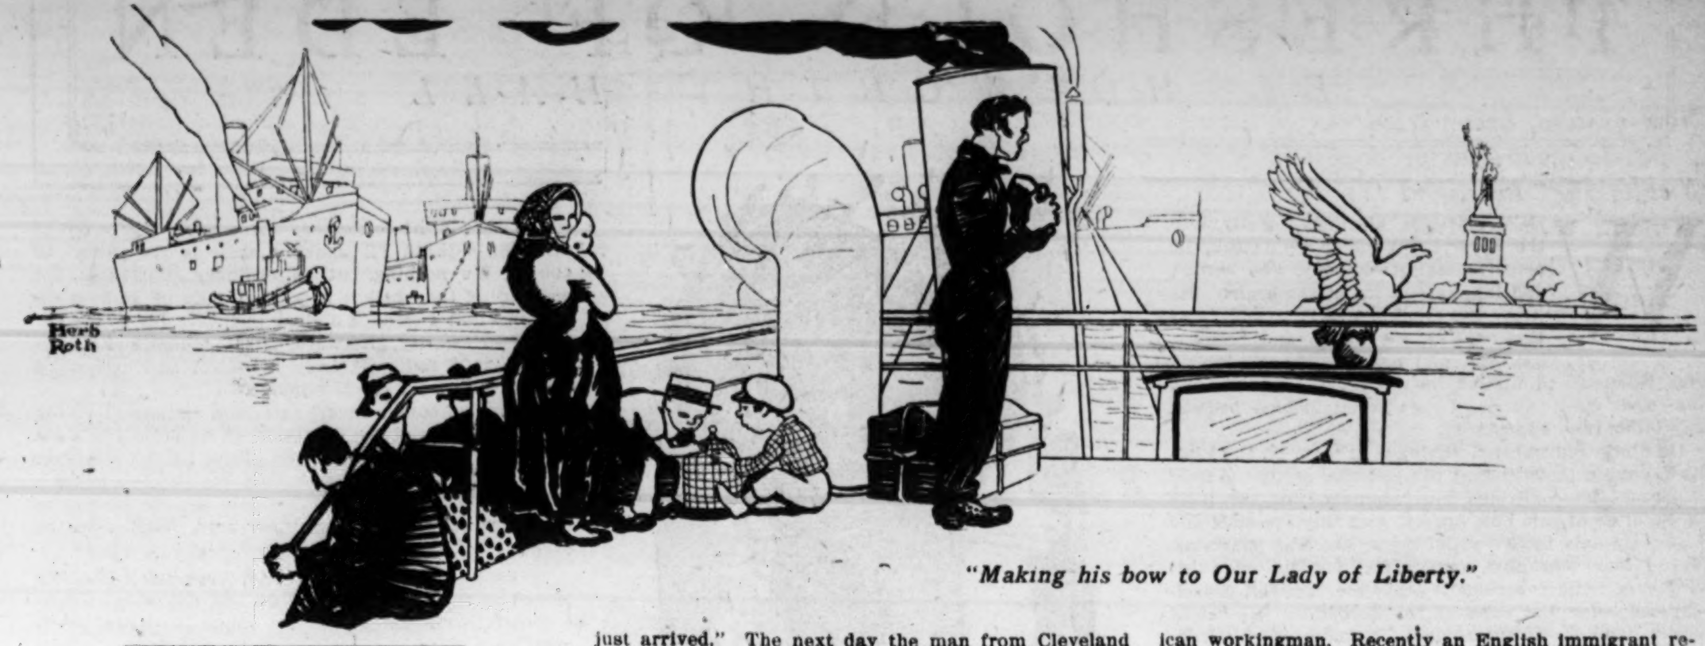
ENTER—THE NEW IMMIGRANT



"Making his bow to Our Lady of Liberty."

Once more the tide of European immigration sets toward America, and Ellis Island is thronged with foreign oddities, who nevertheless show an improved order of intelligence and education :: ::

By KONRAD BERCOVICI.

WE HAVE with us again—the immigrant. After many years of absence he is making his bow to the Lady of Liberty who watches the entrance to our country, and passing on to the landing platform.

But the good old days are over. The new immigrant does not ask "Where is the gold?" as he stands ready with shovel and bag on the gangplank of the ferry, nor does he buy the Brooklyn Bridge from his compatriot who takes him in tow before the wild-eyed signor has collected his wits. Benjamin Finkel, oldest shipnews man of the Yiddish press, and as fine a poet as ever was born, tells the following:

Five stowaways, young boys from Poland, starved, naked, literally naked, their bodies only covered with old newspapers pinned together, barefooted and long-haired, landed on Ellis Island some weeks ago. The first question they put up to me after I greeted them in their own tongue was: "Has the American Senate accepted the League of Nations?"

Finkel is a poet. The story may be only a symbolical interpretation of the soul of the new immigrant. But the fact remains that the new immigrant, four, five thousand of whom arrive here daily, is a singularly well-informed person. He knows the Declaration of Independence and our Constitution from A to Z, including the latest amendment.

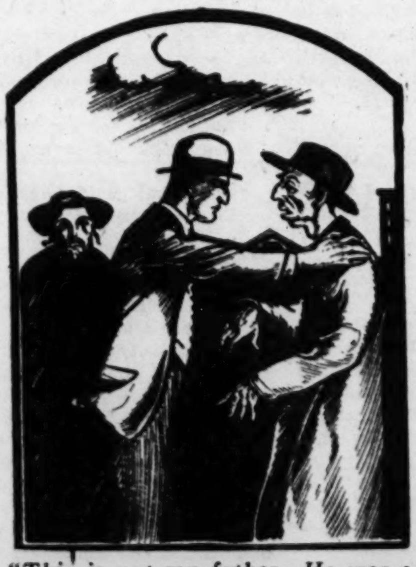
The new immigrant has learned to know that America is not only a country where gold lies in heaps awaiting the man industrious enough to shovel the metal into bags, but that it also has a Constitution and other advantages which are frequently even more precious than material wealth. The American doughboy who traversed Europe is responsible for the education of the new immigrant.

Our boys also learned that Paris is not all hats and gowns and mademoiselles, and that Italy is not all spaghetti. And who shall say that we have not profited from the war when it has been the cause of such widespread education!

One day there arrived from Poland a man in his sixties, whose son, so he said, lived in Cleveland. He had the street and number written on a dozen pieces of paper to make sure against forgetting the address. The man in charge, from the Hebrew Sheltering Society, immediately telegraphed to the immigrant's son, "Come to New York. Your father just arrived." The next day the man from Cleveland arrived in New York and went to meet his old father. But when he saw the man he denounced him as an impostor. The old man's face was beardless. It could not be his father, he reasoned, because his father was a rabbi, and as such he could not be beardless.

"My son, my son," the old man moaned, "am I to be punished because a 'Rooshe,' a Pole, has cut my beard?"

For a full hour the son questioned his father before he could be convinced of his identity.



"This is not my father. He was a rabbi, and wore a beard."

On the boat with the beardless rabbi from Poland were two young girls, sisters, one 16, the other 17 years old, Their father had left Poland about eight years ago. A year later he sent them a photo of himself, beard and sidelocks and all, and followed it up the following year with passage money for his wife and children. The war caught the family in transit, in Germany, where the mother died. The two children lived on as well as they could for nearly six years, treasuring the picture of their father. With her last breath the mother had warned them against impostors. She had told them their father was a good and pious Jew. But when the father came to the "island" to take his children they refused to recognize him. He was clean shaven.

It took a lot of time and a good deal of talk to shake their decision. And who knows whether they were fully convinced, after all!

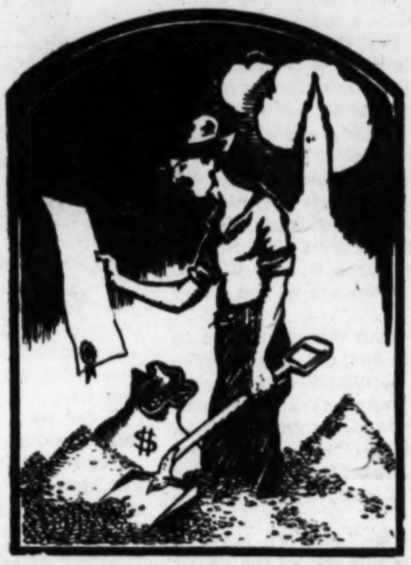
Most of the Italian immigrants no longer say, "Si, signor." "Alla rite, meester,' and "Yeh," and "Nope," are as much a part of their language as of ours. The son or the brother who has been 10 years in New York and who comes to take them out of the island does not cease wondering at the fact that his relatives "speek de American like water." Most of them—the Italian immigrants, I mean—are also politically well informed. The best proof is to be found in a little bottle with something secreted somewhere in their baggage. The enacting of the eighteenth amendment was given great publicity in Europe.

Then, there is Mlle. Titi, who comes to find her fiance, Joe Smith, whose address is Ohio or Missouri. She has great faith, Mlle. Titi has, and she does not believe that her Joe, who looked so straightforward and honest in khaki, could possibly have fooled her. And she also has great faith in America and has learned close to a hundred English words, which she thinks sufficient for all she has to say to Joe. Joe could also "parley-voo," and had told her "je t'aime" in perfect French. When she is finally convinced that Missouri or Ohio is not a postoffice address, Mlle. Titi loses faith in America and temperamentally demands to be shipped back instantly to La Belle France.

For years and years union leaders have considered a fight against unrestricted immigration, lest it be harmful to organized labor. They were afraid that the immigrants might lower the standard of the American workingman. Recently an English immigrant refused to set foot on the Government ferry traveling between Ellis Island and the Battery, before he was assured that the people manning the boat belonged to a union.

To travel on a nonunion boat was to him the greatest of all sins. To my question as to what he would have done if the boat had been a nonunion one, the Englishman answered:

"I really cawn't tell! It certainly wouldn't do for a labor man to travel on a nonunion boat. It wouldn't be correct, don'tcher know?"



"Where is the gold?"—The old type immigrant ready with his shovel.

Two little children, one 6 and the other 7 years old, who had come from Austria with their mother, became sick when they tasted fresh milk. They had forgotten the taste of it, and only heard of its existence from older brothers. They had not seen any milk in six years. Not even the pictures of children from the chronic famine district of India are as heartrending as was the sight of those Austrian children, big, oldish heads, large, dull eyes, shrunken little bodies, on grotesquely bowed, spindle legs.

A Hungarian lady, rich as riches go in that country, changed all her wealth into cash when the Rumanians became master of her province, and decided to go to America. The cash was in Rumanian currency. It was close to a million francs. Under ordinary circumstances it was worth about $200,000. She had to travel through Austria and Germany, and consequently convert some of the cash into Austrian and German currency. The franc was at its lowest water mark. By the time she was ready to embark on a transatlantic boat and her money was converted into American money, she was the possessor of about $200.

"How much does a workingman earn in this country?" she asked me on her arrival here.

"About $200 a month," I answered.

She began to cry. I thought she was crying because of the loss of her fortune, but it was not so at all. She was crying for happiness, because she figured all her future earnings in kronen, and $200 meant more than 10,000 kronen.

I left her, before the first disappointment, in the restaurant, before her bill—for a lunch at Child's was close to a hundred kronen.

Take Off a Plaster With Gasoline.

TWO letters to the Journal of the American Medical Association tell the easiest way to remove an adhesive plaster. They are from Drs. Alanson J. Abbe of Fall River, and R. E. Dickson of Holyoke, Mass. They tell us to use gasoline instead of alcohol, wiping the plaster over with it, peeling a corner of the plaster back with the nail, and dabbing under the turned-back part with a piece of gauze soaked with gasoline.

Little by little the gasoline will dissolve the sticky substance and the whole plaster will come off without pain to the patient.

THRESHOLD OF EDEN

"Not remotely. I flatter myself that I know precisely what you said, and what you meant."

"You wouldn't interpret it except as I meant it? Are you sure of that? And it includes my father, too. You can see how transparent he is"——

"I've seen it twice in 24 hours. Please disabuse your mind, Miss Latham. I was very honestly pleased that you told me even so little—or even so much—about yourself," said Appleton earnestly.

"Then," she said, much relieved; "let's go on! I hate to leave this wonderful spot; but"——

"Perhaps you'll let me bring you here again?"

"But I'm afraid they'll be waiting for us," she finished resolutely.

So they went on to the Altadena terminus of the car line, and took the trolley to town. On the hotel veranda they talked for another hour before the imported touring car, bearing a sulky chauffeur and a triumphant lessee, panted to the porte-cochere beside them.

* * * * * * * *

For a week they motored daily to San Fernando, to Long Beach, to the Mission Play at San Gabriel, to Riverside and Redlands; and after seven days, Mr. Latham appropriated the car for his own use and assigned his daughter to local diversions. He was obviously pleased at her growing intimacy with Appleton. He considered Appleton an unusually safe and sane young man, a good companion and a chivalrous escort; so that he took it as a matter of course that they shared the diversions and the expenses.

"Your ethics are all right, sir," he said, "but I don't believe in 'em. If you want to take both of us on a picnic, do it; but unless it's a trivial thing like a tea, or the fare up Mount Lowe, or a bunch of flowers, you can't sign checks for Gertrude. How much did you pay for that guest ticket at the golf club? If you don't tell me, I won't let her play!"

She took four lessons at Midwick, and liked the game but little; her father, however, told Appleton that he was glad she had learned it. She rode well, but insecurely, in the Eastern fashion; and Appleton wouldn't take her out on the trails until she had become accustomed to the narrower saddle and the surer grip. After that, they rode persistently for a fortnight. She played tennis on asphalt courts, which were a novelty to her; and because she was naturally quick and alert, and Appleton somewhat lethargic, and loyal to turf, she always took a game or two from him, and once a whole set. Three times they spent the day at one of the beaches; and Miss Latham demonstrated in short order that although she couldn't swim as fast as Appleton, she could swim further, and dive truer. It isn't every man who finds a comrade so attractive, so intensely feminine, and yet so efficient at the out-of-doors; and Appleton was clever enough to appreciate his fortune. If she hadn't been so efficient, he would never have taken her to explore the canyons.

For this species of exploration there are three essentials for the girl—steady nerves, a clear eye and the proper costume—although the first two of these may be dispensed with if the escort is adequate. The last is all-important, for the path leads upward through reaches of mesquite and cactus, through sandy arroyos and treacherous growths of chaparral, to a pyramid of ledges, where footing is insecure; and not even the timely hand of a companion is proof against an occasional quiver of the heart, and a sharp intake of the breath, at the realization of what might have happened. Surely the senses, if they are fully occupied, leave little conscience for the guardianship of finery.

And even if the girl appears in corduroy walking skirt, and boots with mannish hobnails, she isn't to be neglected on the ledges. A start of pleased curiosity at sight of a belated larkspur; a step backward for the perspective of a crepe myrtle; a step forward towards the patchwork of yellows and green and sepias and grays on the flank of a neighboring hillside—all these call for a quick arm to the rescue, and a word of paternal warning. On the trail lie fallen trees; insignificant, perhaps, but difficult of avoidance. An innocent projection of a cliff may turn to sand, and slide away into the valley, to leave the serrated edge of an abyss just where the foot had halted. Keep close together, too, even though the going be smooth, for the prophets speak of rattlesnakes.

Far up into the canyons they went, laughing, chatting, scrambling, until at length they came to a small clearing, and rested. A forest ranger, young and blond and in good voice, came crashing down the upper trail, and glanced appraisingly at them, and smiled, and wished them good-morning.

"It is a good morning," said Miss Latham, following the sudden flight of a pert California jay from thicket to thicket.

"They all are," said Appleton, offering her both his hands. He cocked his head to the summits of the coast range and wrinkled his brows in perplexity. "If it weren't so late in the season," he added, "I should say we'd better hurry down before the rain catches us."

"Oh, it won't rain! It can't!"

"I'm not much of a forecaster," her companion owned. "But there's certainly a cloud putting its head around the corner, and the sunlight's turning decidedly pale. That's one of the signs."

"Where's the cloud?"

"Almost over us," he said. "See it?"

Her foot slipped on a bit of shale. Appleton caught her; struggled a moment for his balance, and grasped a convenient pine for support.

"Be careful!" he said, as he slowly released her.

She thanked him with a smile; took an unsteady step, and gained the protection of the tree.

"You didn't hurt yourself!" he exclaimed quickly.

"No—it's a little unnerving!"

"You've got to watch out on these rocks; they're mighty unreliable."

"But you're not. I always feel safe when I'm with you."

"It gets worse from now on. I wonder if I ought to take you any further"——

"Please do. I want to be high enough to see the ocean."

"Pretending you're Balboa? Or do you simply want to be silent upon a peak in—in Pasadena?"

"Both," she said. "I'm in an exploring mood. And I want to see it all. I may never be here again—you can't tell, you see."

"That's what your father says. Only keep your eyes on the trail for a while. All right now?"

"All right!"

She took his hand and clambered carefully over a jagged bowlder which blocked the way.

"Whenever we're out like this," he said, "I'm speculating about you—I feel as though you're using a magnifying glass that I don't know how to handle. You look as though you're seeing a thousand miles farther than I am. What is it? Am I so unobserving, or are you creating phantoms?"

"Just dreaming."

"Realities?"

"Oh, no! We live those."

"But all this is a reality. I can't imagine what could make it finer!"

"I can," she said. "You're accustomed to it; you grew up with it. To me it's as marvelous as—as great wealth might be to a girl who's been terribly poor."

"But in that condition no one would stop to dream! The present would be much more interesting."

"No—there'd be comparison with the past; and so many things for tomorrow. I've never known anything half so beautiful as all this—it makes me dream. I have to persuade myself that it's true. Often I wonder if it is, if I won't wake up some morning in a shabby little place, with neutral colors, and a gray sky, with canyons of buildings and fields of cobblestones, instead of California! So I make sure of holding all the memories. I tie them all together, and put myself into them objectively—like Cinderella."

"And the fairy Prince?"

Her cheeks tinted gradually, but here eyes remained frank.

"I couldn't think of California without you. We hadn't been here a day before we knew you."

* * * * * * * *

A scouting raindrop hissed through the pines, and another. Overhead the peaks were hooded in black; a fork of lightning slashed them vividly. Down in the valley an alfalfa field stood out in brilliant green against the mist which rolled inward from the hills. The pines stirred restlessly.

"Here!" said Appleton. "Hurry!"

He drew her under the shelter of the cliffs.

"It comes mighty fast when it crosses the mountains! You'd better have my coa"——

"Please don't! I won't need it"——

"This is your first real rainstorm. It'll seem like a cloudburst!" He wrapped his coat around her, adjusting it very carefully.

Down the trail came the rain-mist, bringing with it a heavy, sodden air. The thunder, rolled sharply backward by the circling hills, rang in their ears, and then echoed ominously.

Miss Latham shivered and gasped.

"I—I didn't know it would be like this!"

"I did," said Appleton. "And there's a lot more where this came from!"

The storm was upon them; a savage whirlwind, driving before it loose particles of sand, which cut stingingly into the flesh. At the first onslaught, Miss Latham sank to the ground, shielding her face; Appleton, on one knee beside her, held her in his arms and put his back to the hurricane. For a moment the vicious scales of silicate seared them; then, swiftly and invincibly, came night and the deluge.

It is immaterial when he first kissed her. Possibly neither of them was fully aware that he did; but when the tempest was at its height, and their words were drowned in the ceaseless reverberation of the thunder, she was sobbing limply against him, and his lips were now on her forehead in pity, and now on her hair, and now on her lips. And after she had once hidden her face, and sighed convulsively, she had put both her arms about his neck, and drawn his head down to her own.

So they didn't recognize that the ordeal was over until a shaft of sunshine pierced the canyon; and, rousing themselves, they saw the blue above them. Miles toward the sea the black clouds fought against an onshore breeze; a rivulet trickled in the arroyo they had crossed dry-shod; on the nearest pine a native chickadee shook itself, and preened and tried the flavor of a glistening rain drop.

Appleton got lamely to his feet, and stooped for Miss Latham.

"I c-can't," she said. "My—my knees"——

He lifted her bodily; and they stood clinging to each other, until Appleton touched her chin, and strove to turn her face upward to the light.

"You—please—— Please don't!" she breathed.

"Don't?" Appleton repeated, uncomprehending.

"You—we mustn't!"

He held her closer; and knew that she was trembling.

"I want you!" he said. "I've wanted you—oh, ever so long!"

"Don't let me go! I can't stand up if you do! But don't kiss me again"——

The thought flashed through his mind that he couldn't have misjudged her; no matter if she took her oath on it, he wouldn't believe that she had suffered him to kiss her unheeding.

"Why not?"

"You don't know—you don't know!" she murmured.

"Good Lord!" he stammered. "Is there any reason why?"

Averting her eyes, she nodded. Appleton, still holding her, stared, incredulous.

"There is a reason? A bigger reason than mine? When I love you, and want you?" he begged.

Again she nodded.

Appleton wet his lips.

"You're not married? There isn't anyone else?"

"No! You don't need to—to make it so hard for me. It's harder now than I can b-bear"——

He felt himself breaking within; but it was surely no time for equivocation, for indefiniteness. And yet, in his pain, he wanted to console her; he wanted to have it all over within an instant, so that they might understand each other, and forget.

And so he said:

"You just don't care? You don't care for me? Is that it?"

His heart, which had gone quite dead, was suddenly alive and pulsing, for the head, so close to his, had moved, and not as he expected.

"You don't mean that you do care?" he gasped.

"I've t-tried not to!" Miss Latham clutched desperately at him, fighting to avoid his eyes.

"Dearest!" he exulted in her ear, holding her closer.

"Oh, wait! How can I breathe—when you hold me so tight? You don't realize! Don't you know what I said about my—my taking all this as though I were a poor little girl—rich for a day, or two? Well, it isn't imagination. It's true!"

"True!" he faltered.

"Yes, true! Father and I saved—and worried—for months and months and years—to come out here, so far from anyone who knew us—to pretend we belonged—to feel just once what it would be like—for 10 weeks; and that was all we could afford. And after that—I said I'd wake up in a canyon of street, and cobblestones—and I will, because that's where I live."

"And you think that makes a difference to me?"

"It m-must! Because I've been pretending to you from the first n-night—pretending to be somebody else—living a life that isn't mine; and knowing that I never could again. Just childish—wanting to be with people, and spend money, and do everything—for 10 little, little weeks! And we loved it so. But at night we were ashamed. We knew that if you saw us at home you wouldn't want us for your friends. We felt like hypocrites! And all the time I was so happy to be with you, and the days were so short."

"Listen!" Appleton said, very tenderly. "You make me care more by that"——

And she, unsteadily, half uncertain even yet: "You don't—despise us? I thought you would!"

"From the first evening—when we talked together, all three of us—I began to love you for just that thing! Because you do dream! Because you're young enough, and sweet enough, to do just what you have done—and what you do every day. And if you hadn't wanted to be Cinderella, you wouldn't have come here, and I wouldn't have met you—and loved you ever since!"

"Oh!" she said faintly. "You still—do then?"

Up the trail from the valley came the forest ranger; drenched, but of irrepressible spirits. As he rounded a turn in the path he halted, dumbstruck; for a dozen paces ahead were a young man and a young woman, oblivious to the world.

But, as the ranger sidled noiselessly into a long detour, so that he might not disturb them, there was no astonishment in his face. An hour ago he had known very well they were lovers.

"Huh," he said to himself, scowling at a twig which cracked under his feet. "I'll bet they don't even know it rained!"

THRESHOLD OF EDEN

By HOLWORTHY HALL

WHEN Appleton strolled casually into the hotel ballroom at 10 o'clock, he perceived only two people who weren't dancing; one of them was a girl. Because the evening was fine, and vacation was in his heart, and because, too, the girl and her father looked very isolated and wistful, he was sorry for them, and somewhat more concerned than he might have been at any other time and place.

He dimly remembered having seen them on the Limited; having thought that the girl was pretty. Across the room he confirmed his judgment. In her little dance dress of pale blue taffeta, with tiny rosebuds and forget-me-nots tucked about on it, she was charming. The father was also immaculate, but he wore his clothes a trifle consciously—Appleton thought, conscientiously, for the sake of the daughter. He might easily have passed for a small city magnate; a wholesaler, most probably with a good rating; director of the First and Only National Bank; past grand master; senior warden of the church.

In their own town, no doubt, they were influential, and prominent in society, but here they were so palpably removed from the communal spirit, and so ingenuously affected by their involuntary aloofness, that Appleton, after the first quick smile which he couldn't help, realized that he might do much worse than to offer a welcome, and take it upon himself to tender the freedom of the city. So after a natural hesitation—he wanted to be quite certain that they were as lonely as they appeared to be—he edged his way around the outskirts of the dance, took the chair nearest to the strange gentleman, and put courtesy on the aggressive.

Upon the grateful reception, he asked the usual questions. Had the gentleman heard that Pasadena harbors more millionaires than any other city in the world? Did he know that the climate is the most remarkable on earth? Had he yet seen Orange Grove avenue, the most beautiful street in the United States? Had he expected to find the poppy a weed? Was he advised that Pasadena is the birthplace of the jitney bus?

To these inquiries the gentleman denied interest in the millionaires, and the jitney bus; he approved the climate, and admitted that the peculiarities of the vegetation weren't altogether a source of astonishment to him. His name was Theodore H. Latham, with an engraved card to prove it; his business and habitat, commissions, in St. Paul, near Minneapolis. The music of the orchestra fell upon deaf ears; they were acquainted.

"I am very glad you spoke to me," said Mr. Latham. "I don't know a living person on this side of the Rocky Mountains, and I wanted some information. Tell me what there is to see—what there is to do. My rule, when I'm in a new place, is to suppose I'll never see it again. How long will it take for us to know this country thoroughly?"

"Perhaps a month; depends on your routes."

"A month! By motor?"

"Oh, no, indeed! You brought your car with you?"

The daughter shook her head smilingly.

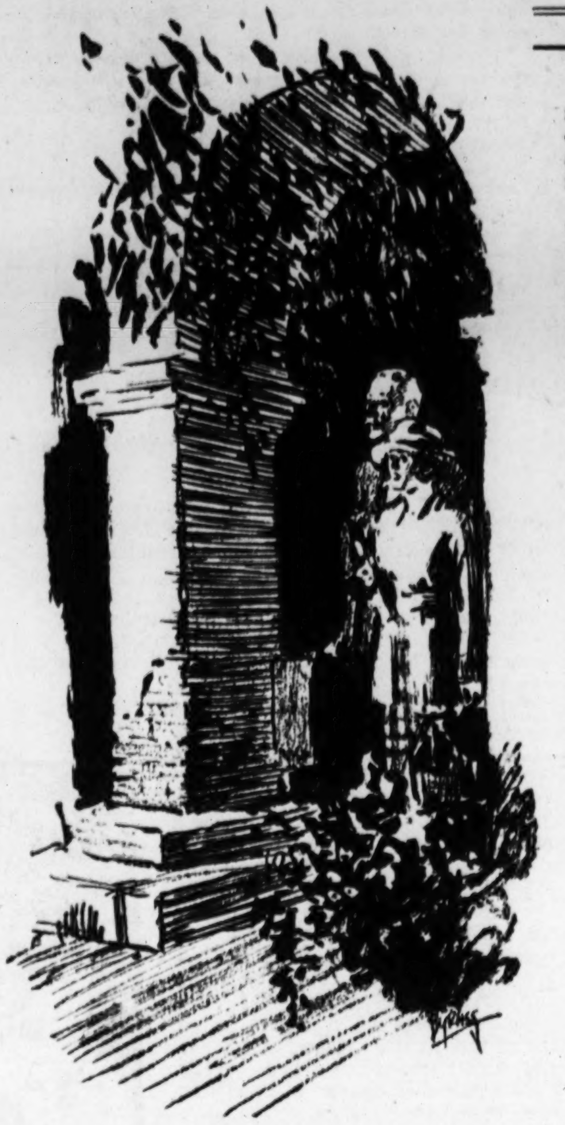
"We'll rent one," said her father. "I hear that the roads are very good. We want to see the country, and then have plenty of time to enjoy it. I'm a rather diffident sportsman myself; but I want Gertrude to have all the local diversions. What are they?"

"If she rides," said Appleton, watching her eager eyes, "she'll find the mountain trails up to the advertisements—and they're extravagant. Golf—well, if you've never played golf on a California course, you have a new sensation waiting for you. Then there are half a dozen beaches within a few miles; you'll want one or two canyon picnics, and you'll want to climb Mount Wilson. Still, if you're to have a motor, I'm inclined to think you'll use it oftener than you'll ride or walk. This is the original land of the afternoon."

"I like the names of things out here," said Miss Latham, appreciatively. "I like imagination."

"Pasadena itself," he told her, "is from the Spanish—The Threshold of Eden. That's certainly imaginative enough, isn't it?"

"We are both visionary," said Mr. Latham. "But if I were making up a schedule of assets for any person, I think I should put imagination at the top of the list. Memory is nothing—nothing but a wardrobe room. Imagination is everything, including romance and the fairy story. Why, the popularity of California isn't due half so much to the climate, or the citrus fruits, as it is to the Old World atmosphere. This is a reservation for people to dream in."



"I can see," said Appleton, "that you're going to get full value out of the scenery."

"Thirty years ago I should have been dazed and bewildered by this—I mean the lights and the flowers, and the music and activity. It would have seemed imperial. Just at this minute I can't help wondering how so many people will stay indoors and dance, when California is right outside the windows."

"Speaking of dancing," said Appleton bravely.

A moment later it hurt him to confess, even to himself, that he had asked her out of an unexpected burst of sympathy. She danced superbly, and yet with a certain exquisite reticence which differentiated her from all others he had known. In his youthful egotism, and in the pride of his education, he had expected to console himself for her dancing by her beauty; instead, until he recovered his normal poise, he felt blundering, and awkward, and apologetic. There was no condescension left in him. When his thoughts became normal again, it was to hope that he wasn't ridiculous in the sight of her father. And when the dance ended, and he had taken her back to Mr. Latham, he sat down, and looked at her with the expression of a young man who has suddenly seen visions out of the dark.

"Thank you!" he said, soberly.

"Thank you! Like my father, I don't know anyone on this side of the Rockies, either, and it was hard to sit and watch other people having such a good time."

"Where," he demanded, "did you learn all those steps?"

"In St. Paul; I've never been anywhere else."

"And you do all the other things we mentioned? You ride, and swim, and play golf"——

"Oh, yes," she said, "or if I don't, I want to learn!"

"Golf," said her father, "is something I never had time for; but I want Gertrude to pick it up while she's out here. I hope there are good teachers. It's always been a rule of mine to figure that first-class instruction is worth what it costs; and that poor instruction is expensive, no matter how little it costs."

"Until that last remark," said Appleton, "I was about to offer myself as golf instructor, gratis. But if Miss Latham is as expert in other lines as she is in dancing, I shall have to be a spectator."

The orchestra was playing again; the young people looked at each other, and at Mr. Latham.

"Go ahead," he consented. "And while you're out of mischief, I think I'll smoke a cigar in the patio. Of course, it's nothing but an ordinary courtyard; but as long as they call it a patio, I may be glad to remember that I smoked a cigar in it."

And so, shortly afterward, Miss Latham and Appleton emerged radiantly from a foxtrot and exchanged minds in a corner for 20 minutes.

"Before he comes back," said Miss Latham, nodding in the direction of the courtyard (i. e., patio), "I want you to know how kind and thoughtful I think you were to speak to us. My father is very boyish; he's perfectly happy now, although he's alone, because he knows he has at least one acquaintance here. Earlier in the evening he was quite miserable"——

"I hadn't guessed that," said Appleton. "But he looked as though it wouldn't do him any harm to see a cheerful countenance at close range; so I brought it over."

"And then," she added, "you're making a beautiful evening for me. I could take the next train for St. Paul, and feel that it's been a successful journey."

"Why, you've been here less than half a day!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, but nothing spoiled it! We took a lovely drive this afternoon; I have a whole head full of colors; I've seen a weeny bit of California; this is a perfect evening! And I'd really rather do things that way—stop short, before I'm ready. It's never any fun to go to a party and stay too late. Of course, I don't mean that I want to go home now, but if I had to—well, with what I've seen and a little imagination, I could be contented for a long time."

"What are you pretending now?" he asked abruptly.

"What—what?"

"If you and your father are as much alike as I think, you're subject to influence. He's dreaming about the sixteenth century. I wondered where you are."

"Why should you think I'm pretending at all?"

"Mere conjecture; but you don't say I'm wrong."

She smiled and avoided the reply.

"It must be helpful to own your own stage, and all the props," said Appleton. "You aren't bothered with details. Now, I'm horribly practical. A primrose by the river's brim is a simple primrose to me, too, and I can't understand what the fellow who wrote that was trying to get at. I can't imagine what anything would be like if it weren't exactly what it is now. I suppose you can."

"Yes," she agreed, "and I do."

"Invariably?"

"No—but often."

"Now?"

She smiled again, and shook her head. "You shouldn't ask me that," she said. "We—we don't know each other well enough."

"I beg your pardon"——

"Oh, I'm not offended," she said quickly. "But—you see, you've just admitted that you don't understand it—and it's nothing at all important. It's really very childish; I'd rather not talk about it. Let's be intensely practical."

The orchestra displayed at this juncture the premonitory symptoms of a onestep.

"Is that practical enough?" asked Appleton.

* * * * * * * *

At 9 o'clock the next morning, Appleton was smoking a contemplative cigar in the lobby when Mr. Latham, in silk motoring cap, silk duster and goggles, paused at his elbow.

"I'm looking for a guide," said Mr. Latham cordially. "We're going out to try the oiled roads. Won't you come along?"

"Delighted!" said Appleton, already on his feet.

"You've seen all this—you're sure you won't be bored?"

"Not a bit of it!"

"Because if you would be," Mr. Latham assured him, "I hope you'd say so. We're aiming for a place they call La Canada."

"I'll be ready as soon as I get my hat," said Appleton, "and if you don't want to wait that long, I'll go bareheaded!"

Although his first impressions of the Lathams had been largely dissipated, he was nevertheless unprepared for the magnificence of the touring car they had engaged. It was the sole representative of the make in town; and to Appleton's knowledge it was for hire, by the week, for $250. It was an English car, and it had an English chauffeur; and when the combination glided along the streets of Pasadena, the populace remarked to whoever happened to be within earshot:

I'm glad Capt. Trigger's opinion of me is based on my ability to reason with an ignorant mob and not on my power to intimidate a couple of very intelligent young women."

"I wouldn't have missed it for worlds," she said, coolly. She looked up into his eyes, a slight frown puckering her brow. "Do you know, Mme. Obosky had the impudence to say that you would have turned tail and fled if those people had shown fight."

He grinned. "She's an amazing person, isn't she? Wonderful faculty for sizing the most of us up."

"You would have run?"

"Like a rabbit," he answered, unabashed. "That's a little too tight, I think, Miss Clinton. Would you mind loosening it up a bit?"

"Oh, I'm sorry. Is that better? Now the other one, please."

"Yes, I'm an awful coward," he said after a long silence.

She looked up quickly. Something in his eyes brought a faint flush to her cheeks. For a second or two she met his gaze steadily, and then her eyes fell, but not before he had caught the shy, wondering expression that suddenly filled them. He experienced an almost unaccountable desire to lay his clumsy hand upon the soft, smooth, brown hair. Through his mind flashed a queer rush of comparison. He recalled the dark, knowing eyes of the Russian dancer, mysterious and seductive—man-reading eyes, from which nothing was concealed—and contrasted them with the clear, honest, blue-gray orbs that still could fall in sweet confusion. His heart began to pound furiously; he felt a queer tightening of the throat. He was afraid to trust his voice. How white and soft and gentle were her hands and how beautiful they were!

Suddenly, she stroked the bandaged hand, as an amiable manicurist might have done, and arose.

"There!" she said, composedly. Her cheek was cool and unflushed, her eyes serene and smiling. "Now you may go, Mr. Percival. Good luck! Bring back good news to us. I dreamed last night that we were marooned, that we would have to stay here forever."

"All of us?" he asked, a trifle thickly.

"Certainly," she replied, after the moment required for comprehension. Her eyes were suddenly cold and uncompromising.

"If I never come back," he began, somewhat dashed, "I'd like you to remember always, Miss Clinton, that I—well, that I'm the most grateful dog alive. You've been corking."

"But it isn't possible you won't come back," she cried, and he was happy to see a flicker of alarm in her eyes. "What—what could happen to you? It isn't"——

"Oh, all sorts of things," he broke in, but in the same spirit as that which dominates the boy who wishes he could die in order to punish his parents for correcting him.

"Are—are you really in earnest?"

"Would you care—very much?"

She hesitated. "Haven't I wished you good luck, Mr. Percival?"

"Would you mind answering my question?"

"Of course I should care, very much indeed," she replied calmly. "I am sure that everybody would be terribly grieved if anything were to happen to you out there."

"Well, good-by, Miss Clinton. I guess they're waiting for me."

"Good-by! Oh, how I wish I were in your place! Just to put my foot on the blessed green earth once more. Good-by. And—good luck, again."

"If you will take a pair of glasses and watch the top of that hill—there is a bare knob up there, you see—you will know long before we come back whether this island is inhabited or not. I am taking an American flag with me. If we do not see another flag floating anywhere on this island I intend to plant the Stars and Stripes on that hill, just for luck."

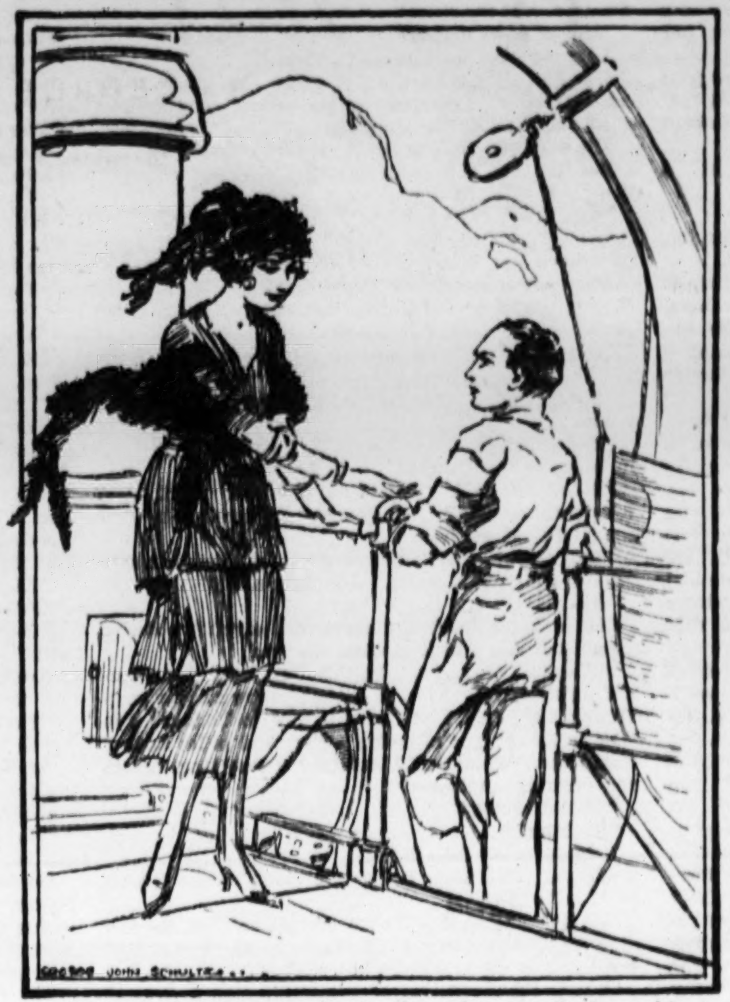
She walked a few steps at his side, their bodies aslant against the slope of the deck.

"And if you do not raise the flag we shall know at once that—that there are other people here?" she said, her voice eager with suppressed excitement. "It will mean that ships"—— Her voice failed her.

"It will mean home, some day," he returned solemnly.

The one remaining port side boat was lowered a few minutes later and, to the accompaniment of cheers from the throng that lined the rails, the men pulled away, heading for a tiny cove on the far side of the basin. The shore at that point was sloping and practically clear of undergrowth.

It was while Percival was waiting to take his place in the boat that Olga Obosky hurried up to him.



"I have brought my luck piece for you," she said.

"I have brought my luck piece for you," she said, and revealed in her open palm a small gold coin, worn smooth with age and handling. "Carry it, my friend. Nothing will happen to you while it is in your possession. It was given me by the son of a Grand Duke. It was his lucky piece. It brought me luck, for he was killed zat very same day, and so I was saved from him. Keep it in your pocket till you come safely back and then—then you shall return it to me, because I would not be without my luck, no." She slipped her hand deep into his trousers pocket. "There is no hole? That is good. I have place it here. It is safe. Au revoir. You will have good luck, my friend."

Withdrawing her warm hand from his pocket, she turned and walked swiftly away.

The throng on board the Doraine watched the party land; hats and handkerchiefs were waved as the adventurers turned for a last look behind before they disappeared into the forest.

Hours passed, long, interminable hours for those who were not engaged in the active preparations for the landing of people and stores. Capt. Trigger was making ready to transfer the passengers from the ship at the earliest possible moment. He was far from certain that the Doraine would maintain its rather precarious balance on the rocks. With safety not much more than a stone's throw away, he was determined to take no further risk.

At last a shout went up from someone on the forecastle deck. It was taken up by eager voices. Out upon the bald crest of the mountain straggled the first of the explorers to reach the goal. They were plainly visible. One after another the rest of the party appeared. The illusion was startling. It was as if they had actually emerged from the treetops. With straining eyes the observers below watched the group of figures outlined against the sky. They spoke in subdued tones. As time went on and the flag was not unfurled, they took hope; eyes brightened, the hushed tones increased to a cheerful, excited clatter, the tenseness that had held them rigid for so long gave way before the growing conviction that another flag already fluttered beyond the screening hills.

And then, when hope was highest, the Stars and Stripes went up!

Capt. Trigger assembled the ship's company on the forward deck later in the day. The landing party returned about 3 o'clock. Acting on advance instructions, they made their report in private to the captain, denying all information to the clamorous passengers. A brief conference of officers, to which a number of men from the first cabin were invited, was held immediately after Percival's return. A course of action was discussed and agreed upon, and then all on board were summoned to the open deck to hear the result of the expedition.

Percival reported the following facts and conclusions:

1. The island was approximately 15 miles long and six or sev[illegible] in the center. The basin in which the Doraine rested was about midway between the extreme points and about two miles inland from the northern shore. The southern slope of the range descended to a flat plain, or perhaps moor, some two miles across at its broadest point, and ran in varying width from one end of the island to the other. It was green and almost entirely devoid of timber. The central eminence, from which the observations were taken, was the loftiest of the range of 10 or 12 diminishing hills that formed what might actually be described as the backbone of the island. The eastern extremity tapered off to a long, level, low-lying promontory that ended in a point so sharp and wedge-like that it bore a singular resemblance to the forward deck and prow of a huge ironclad. The hills, as they approached the plateau, terminated altogether a couple of miles from the tip of the land. The western half of the island (strictly speaking, it was a separate bit of land, cut off from its neighbor by the ribbonlike channel) was of a more rugged character, the hills, in fact, extending to the sea, forming, no doubt, steep, precipitous cliffs, rising directly from the water's edge.

Since his return Percival had painted on a large piece of canvas a fairly accurate outline map of the bisected island as it had appeared to him from the top of the mountain. This crude map was hung up in full view of the spectators and served him well in an effort to make clear his deductions. His original sketch is reproduced later on in this chronicle.

2. There was no visible sign of past or present human habitation. Absolutely nothing appeared to indicate that man had ever attempted to claim or occupy the virgin land.

3. The channel through the mountain was less than 100 feet wide. The walls of this gorge at one point were fully 700 feet high, absolutely perpendicular and of solid rock. It was as if the hill had been split wide open with one blow of a tremendous broadax. Beyond the elevation the channel spread out fan-fashion, creating a funnel-like bay or inlet from the sea.

4. There was no other land in sight. As far as the eye could reach with the aid of lenses there was nothing but water, a mighty waste of water.

5. The wind, which had veered around to the south, was cold and dry.

6. A curving beach of almost snowy whiteness extended for a mile or so along the northern shore, about half way between the entrance to the channel and the eastern point of land. Inside the fringe of trees that lined this beach stretched what appeared to be a long strip of rolling meadow land, reaching far up the hillsides.

7. Monkeys, parrots and snakes abounded in the forest. An occasional gay-plumaged bird of the toucan variety, but larger than the ordinary South American species, was seen, while large numbers of plump birds of the tinamou family went drumming off through the forest at the approach of the party. Penguins strutted in complete "full dress" among the rocks of the southern shore. A dead armadillo of extraordinary dimensions was found near the foot of the slope. It was at least thrice the size of the common South American mammal. The same could be said of the single iguana encountered. This large lizard, which was alive, must have given rise to the belief that the supposedly extinct iguandon, described by the scientists as attaining a length of 30 feet, might any day be discovered in the fastnesses of this unexplored land. The mere existence of this rather amiable, unfrightened monster was of the greatest significance. If it were known to man, why had it never been reported in zoological or natural history journals?

8. The trees on the mountainside were thick and stunted, with interlocking limbs that created a sort of endless canopy which the sun was unable to penetrate. The cool, dry wind that swept the slope would account, however, for the surprising absence of moisture in soil and vegetation in the dense shade of the trees. Oak, elm, spruce, even walnut, and other trees of a sturdy character indigenous to the temperate zone were identified. What appeared to be a clump of cypress trees, fantastic, misshapen objects that seemed to shrink back in terror from the assaulting breakers, stood out in bold relief upon a rocky point to the south and west of the observation hill. Their gaunt, twisted trunks leaned backward from the sea;

THRESHOLD OF EDEN (Continued)

"That's some car!" When the passengers alighted to buy curios, the dealer added appreciably to his prices, and generally got away with them. It traveled nine miles on a gallon of gasoline, and the owner declared that for perfect safety it was better to depress the brakes slightly, even when going uphill.

Miss Latham, equipped with a fascinating bonnet, and a too-adequate veil, was in the tonneau. Appleton took to the left, Mr. Latham to the right. The chauffeur touched his cap; they sped away in the sunshine.

"I was afraid," said Appleton, "that I might not see you this morning."

"Why?" she laughed.

"Well, to leave a train after 70 hours, and then dance three or four more—come to think of it, it was only two hours, though—is a pretty strenuous undertaking for anybody."

"Did it seem so long to you?"

"I didn't mean it that way; you know I didn't!" Appleton answered quickly.

"This is our vacation; and the real fun of a vacation is to do anything you want to, when you want to."

"I've been thinking about your philosophy. Would you truly prefer one satisfactory day here, or anywhere else you like, to a month of sandwiches—some good and some bad?"

"How many minutes of complete satisfaction do you think we get in a lifetime?" puzzled Mr. Latham. "Not many. Gertrude's right. A man with a genius for knowing when to stop can insure himself. Now those are pretty trees! What are they?"

"Lemons," said Appleton. "But suppose you take that idea, and work it right down to the limit. Of course, the question is one of compensation. For your few minutes of complete satisfaction you pay something—in time, or money, or energy. Or you pay in renunciation—you give up a lot of semi-precious, so as to get the precious. For instance, we're riding in a very exclusive car. If this were your pet ideal, how much would you give for a week of this, or for an hour, for a minute! There's a fine opportunity for argument."

"If this were my ideal," said Mr. Latham, "I'd probably be willing to work a couple of years to earn this ride, and I'd go home happy."

"How about you?" said Appleton to Miss Latham.

"I don't need to be philosophical—I'm happy now!"

"The party isn't spoiled yet, then?"

"Oh, no!"

They turned out of Altadena, rising sharply to the foothill grade.

"But here is the real point," said Mr. Latham. "We have paid—in money—or I have paid, for this ride, which promised to be pleasant. So far, it is pleasant. We've cashed in—in terms of enjoyment. Now, assume that for some reason the ride were terminated—sharply—wouldn't it be better for all of us to reconcile ourselves—— What's the matter there, driver?"

"Ignition's bad," said the chauffeur over his shoulder.

"You should have seen to it before we started," reproved Mr. Latham. "I don't pay $250 a week for bad ignition! As I was saying, if we reconcile—— Look here, driver, how much longer is that sputter and bang going to last?"

"I'll look at it," said the man wearily, and he brought the car to a standstill by the roadside, and began to perform mysterious evolutions under the hood.

"What is it?" demanded Mr. Latham.

"Cable's brassed."

"Can you fix it?"

"I guess most likely."

"How long will it take?"

"Well, it'll take quite some time."

"If you don't care to wait," suggested Appleton, "we're not more than half an hour's walk from the trolley line."

"Wait!" said Mr. Latham. "I came out in this machine, and I'm going back in it! And I'm going to deduct prorata for this delay!"

"I don't think I'd sit indefinitely in this sun when you're not used to it."

"I'll get used to it! I've got a contract with the livery. I wouldn't take a trolley car if I could take one step from here and land on the front platform.

Miss Latham glanced at the road ahead, and the road behind. An occasional tree was visible; but Miss Latham was considerably taller than the majority of the trees. The May sun, which until recently had seemed warm and friendly, assumed qualities which promised to be unpleasant in the near future.

"There's no need of you two superintending this job," said her father, grimly. "I'm going to stick right here until something happens. I don't propose to have a decrepit lot of machinery palmed off on me simply because I'm from the East. If you want a walk, why don't you go back? We'll catch you; or if we don't, we'll go out this afternoon. Why don't you do that?"

"Shall we?"

"I don't like to leave him alone," protested Appleton.

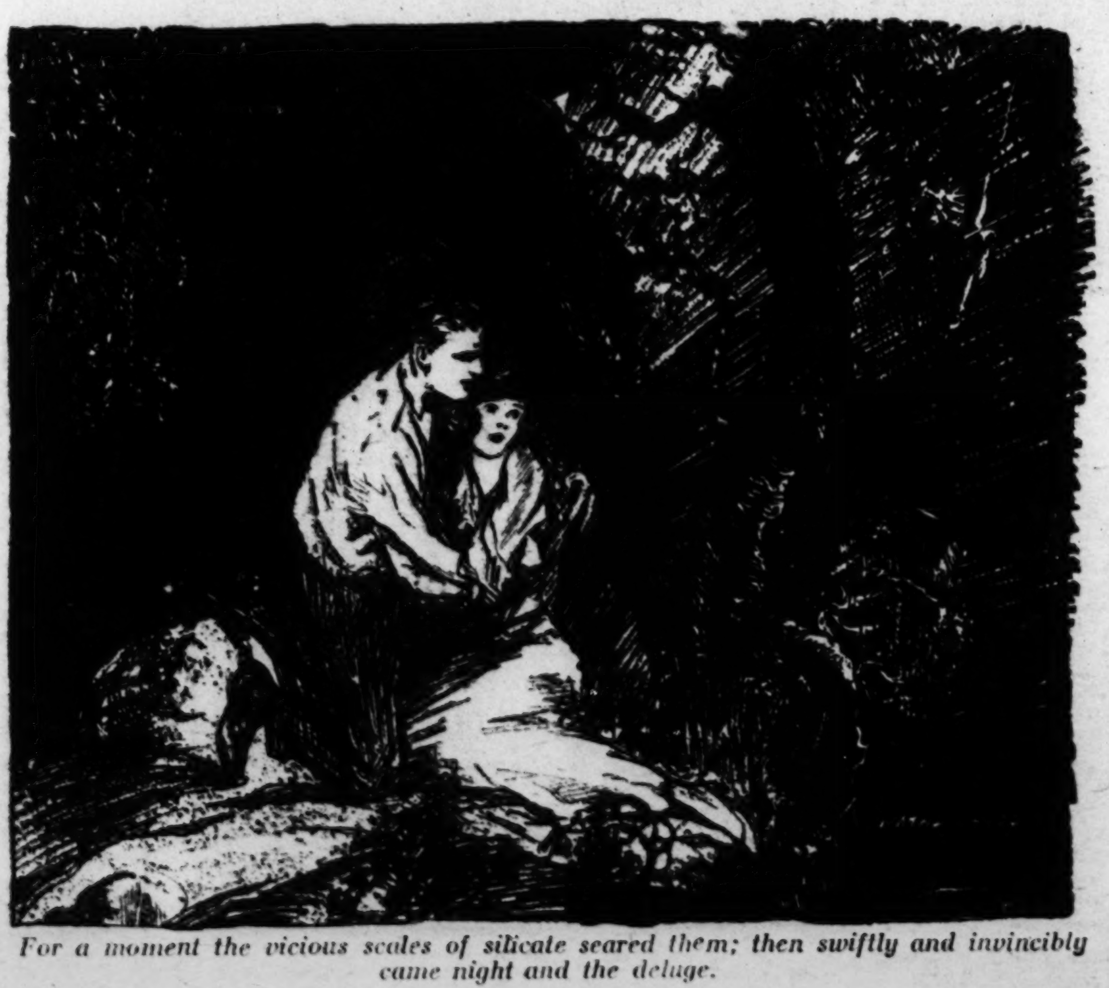
"Never mind me. It's one of my rules to have my contracts carried out, or know why they aren't! You two run along. This man won't be through for an hour." "Just about," conceded the chauffeur.

"Let's go," said Miss Latham.

* * * * * * * *

Accordingly, they set out along the dark brown road at the base of the Sierra Madres. Above them the sky was cloudless, piercingly blue; the breeze which came to them was reminiscent of the ocean. They were walking in a region of earthly colors, but down in the valleys they could see row after row, and mile after mile, of blossom-bearing trees, from which the scent rose lazily to their nostrils.

Miss Latham drew a long breath of pure delight.



For a moment the vicious scales of silicate seared them; then swiftly and invincibly came night and the deluge.

"See! See there!" she cried, touching his arm. "What's that?"

"Where?" said Appleton, not daring to move.

"There—coming out of the underbrush!"

"That's a valley partridge. Pretty bird, isn't it?"

"It's a darling!" she whispered excitedly. "Do you suppose we could catch one?"

Appleton laughed gently.

"The small boys try now and then, but it isn't done very often. They're rather scarce now. When I first came out here they were a close second to the lizards, and about even with the prairie dogs. Civilization's driven them all back to the mountains."

She released his arm, and they proceeded.

"Father liked you very much," she ventured presently. "I hope you're not angry with him."

"Why should I have any reason to be angry with him?"

"Usually an invitation to ride doesn't mean that you're expected to walk home."

"It wasn't his fault," said Appleton. "But the termination of the pleasure came a bit sooner than he expected, didn't it?"

Miss Latham giggled involuntarily.

"I don't know when I've seen him so distressed," she said. "But it was funny"——

"Well, if I were paying nearly $40 a day for an imported car, I think I'd be annoyed if it broke down. I'm sure of it."

"Oh, it wasn't the money," she corrected hastily. "It was the principle. And when he once makes up his mind to anything he never lets go. Why, there was every possible obstacle in the way of our coming to the coast just at this time. An ordinary man wouldn't have got over them at all; but he'd set his mind on it, and we came. You see, there are advantages, and disadvantages."

"The advantages seem to be chiefly mine," he complimented her.

They came at length to the rim of Pasadena, and to a lane which is famous; since for the distance of a half-mile it runs between ranks of anomalous trees which provide solid shade, and ineffable peace, to the blinded alien. Under the trees are benches; upon the first bench Miss Latham drooped, and sighed ecstatically.

"It was too long a walk," sympathized Appleton. "I shouldn't have let you take it when you weren't acclimated! But we're almost in sight of the car line"——

"It wasn't too long," she protested. "I loved it. But I'm not used to the glare, and this is the loveliest place I've seen yet! Can't we stay here a few minutes?"

"It's one of my favorite loafing places—and it's unique. I'm always happy up here."

"Why, there's grass!"

"I said it's unique. You can rate a Californian as closely by the size of his lawn as you can from a commercial agency. Grass costs a lot of money."

"I never thought," she mused, "that I'd be so pleased at a tiny tuft of grass under a hedge! How different our points of view are."

"Not so very different at that."

"Yes," she maintained, "awfully different. The things that are commanplace to you are new and very wonderful to me"——

"You must remember that I don't live here."

"No, but you talk like a native—all superlatives. I think of you as belonging here. And we hardly understand the same language."

Appleton, leaning against the trunk of a pepper tree, thought instinctively of the language which is said to be universal.

"You're exaggerating. Every locality has its idiosyncrasies; they haven't anything to do with us. Why, you say I seem like a native; and the natives would call me a young tenderfoot. Individualism is what counts. And this is a part of your country as much as it is of mine. What difference does it make if I happen to know some of the plants, and animals, by their first names?"

"I wonder," she said, cryptically, "if people ever understand each other."

"Probably not. Why?"

"It occurred to me that you couldn't have understood the silly things I said last night."

"We disagree on term; I shouldn't admit that you said anything silly."

"Unwise, then. I wish you'd forget them."

"There's nothing I care to forget," he said. "It was a memorable evening."

Her eyes dropped; she was studying one of the lower orders of Western flora.

"But sometimes," she said, "one says things that shouldn't be remembered—I don't need to repeat them. I told you then that they were childish"——

"Shall we ever be happier than when we were children?"

"You won't understand! Please! I don't want you to think that I'm insincere, and you might have gathered that"——

West Wind Drift

A thrilling mystery story with romance closely interwoven

PUBLISHED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ANY FORM

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON, author of "Graustark," "Castle Craneycrow," "Brewster's Millions," and many others

THE STORY.

His money stolen in a South American port on the eve of his embarkation for the United States, Algernon Adonis Percival, American mining engineer, goes aboard the liner Doraine as a stowaway. The adventure begins to be amusing when, as he is at work scrubbing the deck, he is recognized by Ruth Clinton, a passenger, as her dancing partner of a few nights before. Percival's amusement is short lived, however. Before making his presence known to the captain he had observed certain strange goings-on about the ship and gives a warning which leads to the finding of several bombs in the hold, evidently placed by German agents, for it is the year of the United States' entry into the great war. The search averts complete disaster, but not all the bombs are found, and those that remain explode, partially wrecking the vessel and setting it afire. The surviving passengers take to the lifeboats while the crew battles desperately with the flames and, after a long fight, succeeds in extinguishing them. On being called back to the ship, the occupants of the lifeboats find it hopelessly adrift. Class distinctions are obliterated as everyone sets to work burying the dead and caring for the wounded, and Percival, his hands badly burned, finds himself the object of Ruth Clinton's friendly solicitude, as well as that of Olga Obosky, a beautiful Russian dancer, who has taken a great fancy to him. The ship is caught in a gale, from which it emerges in a sinking condition, but on the second morning after the storm land is sighted. A strong current draws the vessel into an opening in the rocks along the shore, and it finally runs aground in the shallow waters of an inland basin. Most of the steerage passengers promptly stampede for the boats, whereupon Percival takes command of the dangerous situation and quiets the mob with a masterly harangue in Spanish—a proceeding which causes much discussion among those in the first cabin.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT.

"TRY one of these cigars, Mr. Landover," said Mr. Nicklestick persuasively. "Of course, they're nothing like the kind you smoke, but"——

"Is mine out? So it is. No, thank you. I'll take a match, however, if you have one about you."

Four boxes were hastily thrust upon the great financier.

"Haf you noticed how poor the matches are lately, Mr. Landover?" complained Mr. Block.

"As for this vagabond being superintendent of a mining concession up in Bolivia," continued Landover, absentmindedly sticking Mr. Nicklestick's precious box of matches into his own pocket, "that's all poppycock. He's an out and out adventurer. You can't fool me. I've handled too many men in my time. I sized him up right from the start. But the devil of it is he's got all the officers on this boat hypnotized. And most of the women, too. I made it a point to speak to Mrs. Spofford and her niece about him this morning, and the poor girl has been making quite a fool of herself over him, you may have observed. Mrs. Spofford owns quite a block of stock in our institution, so I considered it my duty to put a flea in her ear, if you see what I mean."

"Certainly, certainly," said Mr. Nicklestick.

"She should have been very grateful," said Mr. Block.

Mr. Landover frowned. "I'm going to speak to her again as soon as she has regained her strength and composure. Nerves all shot to pieces, you understand. Everything distorted—or—shot to pieces, as I say. I dare say I should have had more sense than to—er—ahem!—two or three days' rest, that's what she needs, poor thing."

"Absolutely," said Mr. Nicklestick.

"You can't tell a woman anything when she's upset," said Mr. Block, feelingly.

"Miss Clinton is a very charming young lady," said Mr. Nicklestick, giving his mustache a slight twist. "I should hate to see her lose her head over a fellow like him."

"She is a splendid girl," said Landover. "One of the oldest families in New York. She deserves nothing but the best."

"That's right; that's right," assented Mr. Nicklestick. "I don't know when I've met a more charming young lady, Mr. Landover."

"I didn't know you had met her," observed the banker, coldly.

"Oh, yes," replied Mr. Nicklestick. "We were in the same lifeboat, Mr. Landover, you know; all night, you know, Mr. Landover."

• • • • • • • •

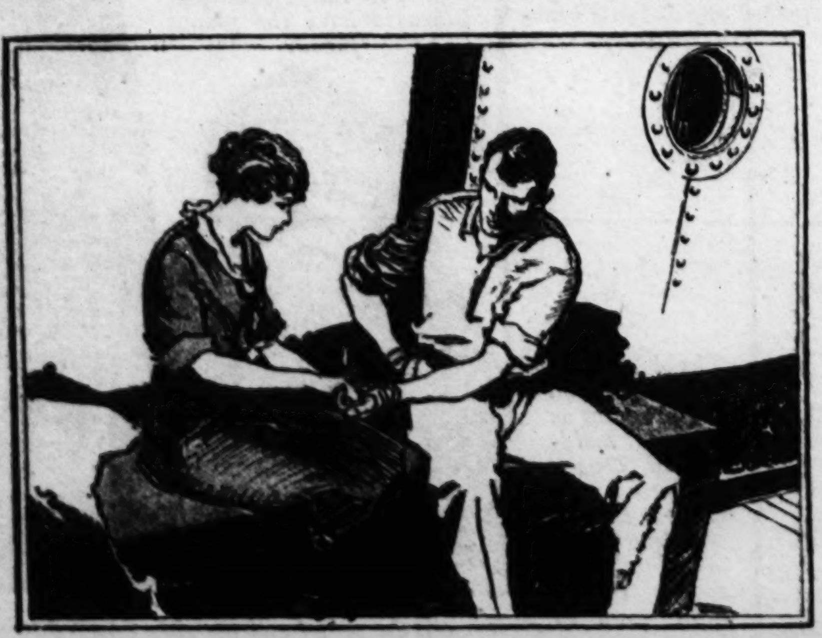
Early next morning Percival turned out long before there were any sounds from the kitchen or pantry. The sun had not yet cleared from the tree tops to the east; the decks of the Doarine were still wet with dew. A few sailors were abroad; a dull-eyed junior officer moodily picked his way through the debris on the forward deck. Birds were singing and chattering in the trees that lined the shore; down at the water's edge, like sentinels on duty, with an eye always upon the strange, gigantic intruder, strutted a number of stately, bright-plumaged birds of the flamingo variety (doubtless they were flamingoes); the blue surface of the basin was sprinkled with the myriad white, gleaming backs of winged fishermen, diving, flapping, swirling; on high, far above the hills, soared two or three huge birds with wings outspread and rigid, monarchs of all that they surveyed.

The stowaway leaned on the port rail and fixed his gaze upon the crest of the severed hill, apparently the tallest of the half-dozen or so that were visible from his position.

With powerful glasses he studied the wooded slope. This hill was probably twelve or fourteen hundred feet high. He thought of it as a hill, for he had lived long in the heart of the towering Andes. Behind him lay the belt of woodland that separated the basin from the open sea, a scant league away. The cleft through the hill lay almost directly ahead. Its walls apparently were perpendicular; a hundred feet or less from the pinnacle the opening spread out considerably, indicating landslides at some remote period, the natural sloughing off of earth and stone in the formation of this narrow, unnatural passage through the very center of the little mountain. For the last thousand feet, however, the sides of the passage rose as straight as a well. That the mountain was of solid rock could not be doubted after a single glance at those sturdy, unflinching walls, black and sheer.

"Well, what do you make of it?" inquired a voice at his elbow. He turned to find Mr. Mott standing beside him.

"Earthquake," he replied. "Thousands of years ago, of course. Split the island completely in two."



"That's a little too tight, I think, Miss Clinton." . . . "Yes, I'm an awful coward," he said, after a long silence.

"Sounds plausible," mused the first officer. "But, if that is the case, how do you account for the shallowness of the water in the passage and out here in the basin? An earthquake violent enough to split that hill would make a crack in the earth a thousand fathoms deep."

"I have an idea that if we took soundings in this basin we'd find a section 30 or 40 feet wide in the center of it where we couldn't touch bottom. The same would be true of the passage if we plumbed the middle. When we came through it the ship scraped bottom time and again. As a matter of fact—the way I figure it out—it was simply bumping against the upper edges of a crevice that reached down God knows how far. We took no soundings, you will remember, until we swung out into this pool. I'll bet my head that that cut through the hill yonder is a mile deep. Earthquake fissures seldom go deeper than that, I've heard. Generally they are mere surface cracks, a hundred feet deep at the outside. But this one—— My God, it gives me the creeps, that crack in the earth does."

"Umph!" said Mr. Mott, his elbows on the rail beside the young man, his chin in his hands. He was looking down at the water. "Capt. Trigger is planning to send a couple of boats outside to survey the coast. I dare say he'll be asking you to go out in one of them. You're a civil engineer, and so he feels"——

"Excuse me, Mr. Mott, but what's the sense of sending boats out to explore the coast before we find out how big the island is?"

"What's the sense? Why, how are we to find out how big the island is unless we make the circuit of it? And how in thunder are we to find out that there isn't a village or some sort of trading port on it—— What are you pointing up there for?"

Percival's finger was leveled at the top of the higher half of the bisected mountain.

"See that hill, Mr. Mott? Well, unless we're on a darned sight bigger island than I think we are, we can see from one end of it to the other from the top of that hill. It isn't much of a climb. A few huskies with axes to cut a path through the underbrush and we might get up there in a few hours. I've been figuring it out. That's why I got up so early. Had it on my mind all night. The sensible thing to do is to send a gang of us up there to have a look around. Strange Capt. Trigger never thought of it. I suppose it's because he's an old seadog and not a landlubber."

Mr. Mott coughed. "I fancy he would have thought of it in good time."

"Well, in case he doesn't think of it in time, you might suggest it to him, Mr. Mott."

The result of this conversation was the formation of a party of explorers to ascend the mountain. They were sent ashore soon after breakfast, well armed, equipped with axes and other implements, boat hooks, surveying instruments and the most powerful glasses on board. Percival was in command. The party was made up of a dozen men, half of them from the gun crew, with an additional complement of laborers from the steerage.

Ruth Clinton, as soon as she learned of the proposed expedition, sought out Percival and insisted upon rebandaging his hands.

"You must not go into all that tangle of brushwood with your hands unprotected," she declared, obstinately shaking her head in response to his objections. "Don't be foolish, Mr. Percival. It won't take five minutes to wrap them up. Sit down—I insist. You are still one of my patients. Hold out your hand!"

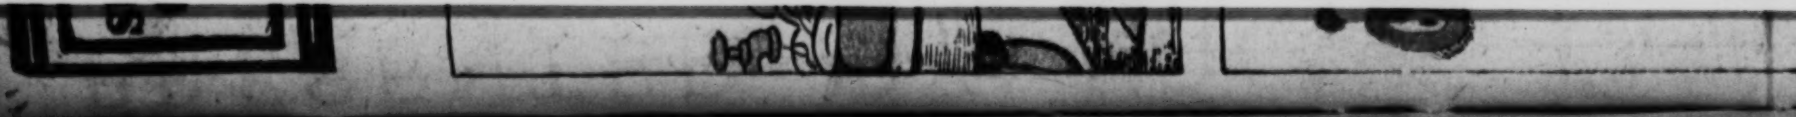
"They are ever so much better," he protested, but he obeyed her.

"Of course they are," she agreed in a matter-of-fact tone. "You did not give me a chance last night to tell you how splendid you were in tackling that crazy mob. I witnessed it all, you know. Mme. Obosky and I."

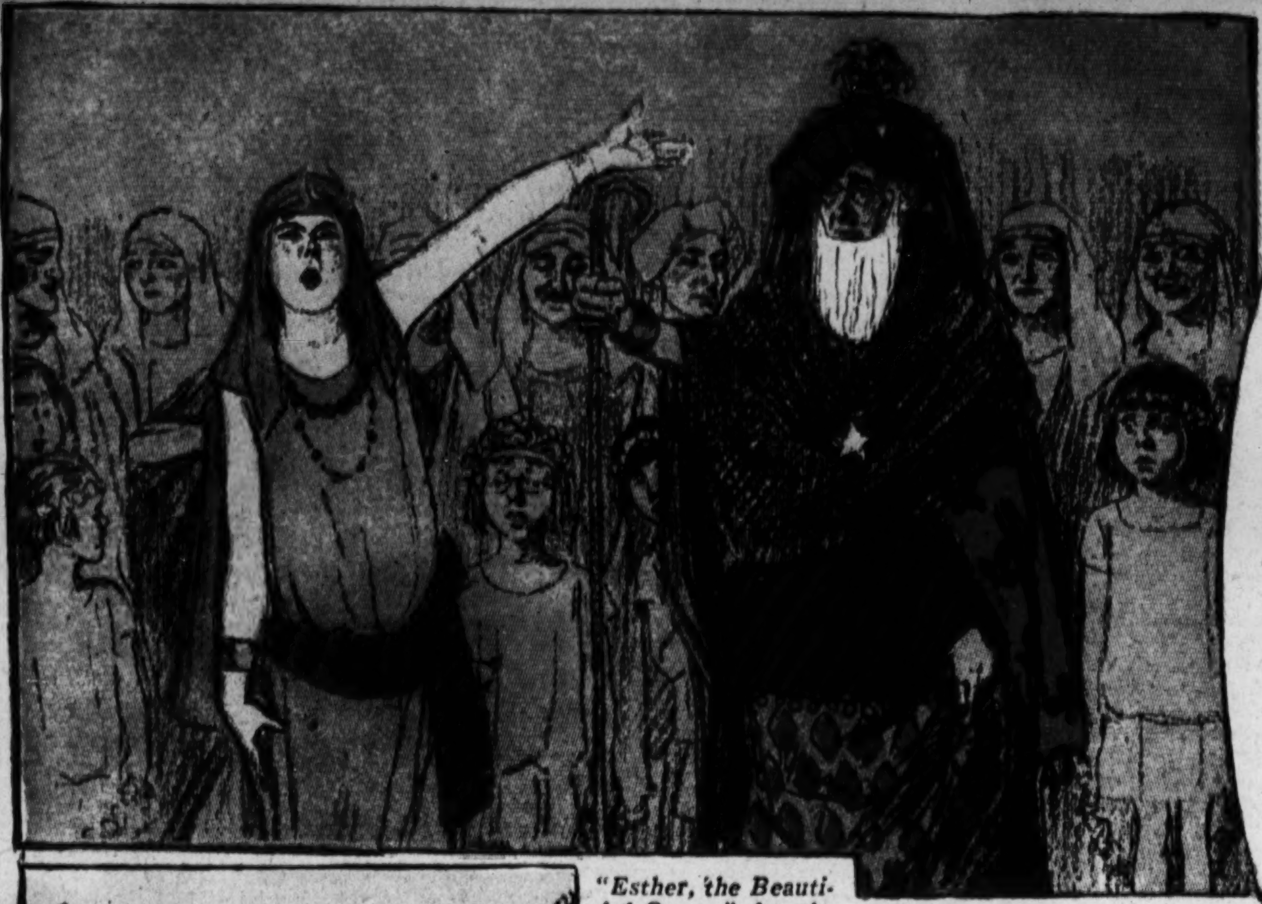
"Then you didn't beat it when I told you to, eh?"

"Certainly not. What are you going to do about it?"

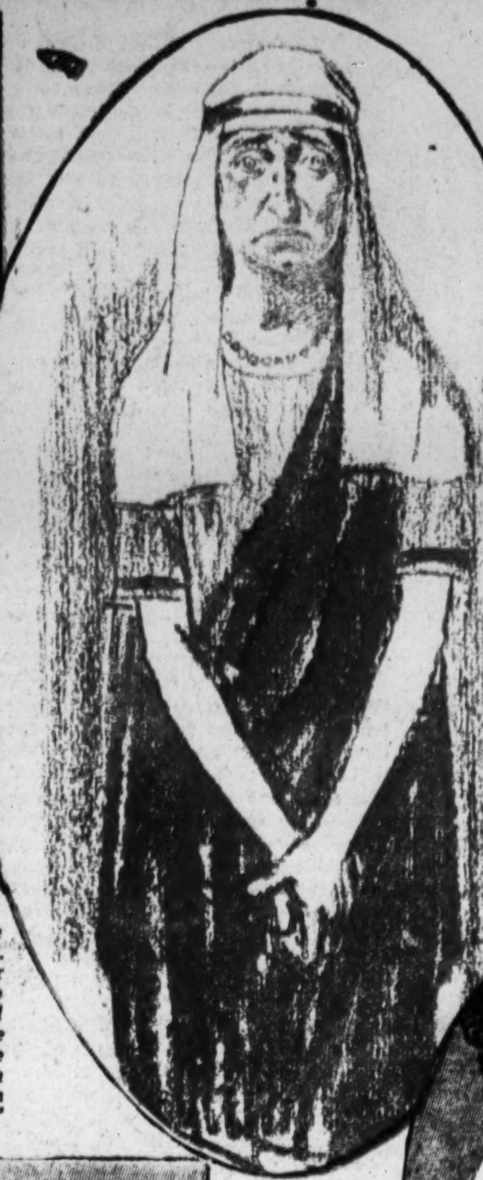
"What can I do? I can only say this:



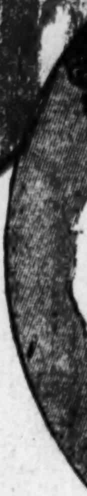
PRESENTED BY LOCAL TALE

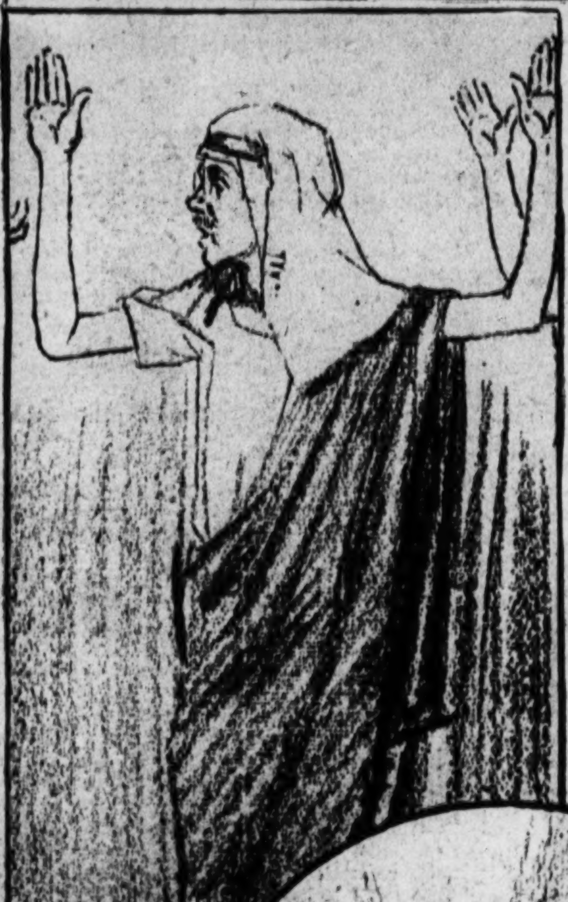


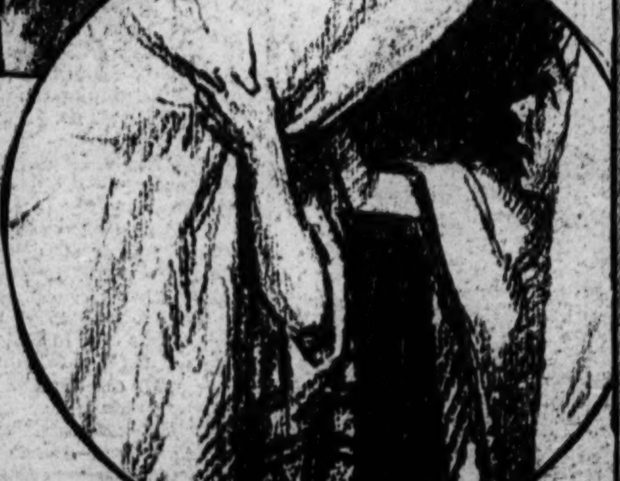
"Esther, the Beautiful Queen," by the home talent of Slaughterville, showing Esther, the biblical queen, pleading for Uncle Mordecai before King Ahasuerus. It took all of old Mrs. Watts' Turkish cosey corner and part of the Sunday school Santa Claus get-up to outfit the king, but, to quote Mrs. Brown, the organist, who coached the cast, "What's worth doing at all is worth doing well."



After all, chorus girls are the same the world over, city or country. They will go on after-the-theater sprees. Mrs. Agnes Amidon of the local talent chorus has just told some one how "last night after the dress rehearsal I went home and ate three dishes of apple sauce and a soda bsicuit, and I never will again—I had indigestion all night long!"

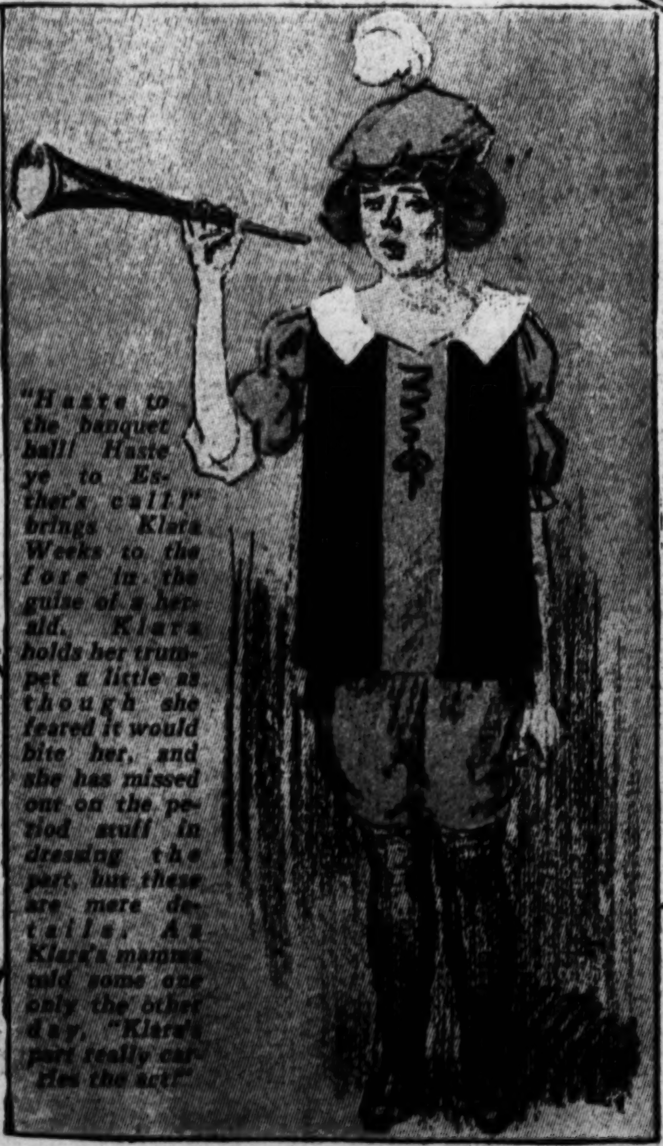






Dr. Simms, of the chorus, being hastily summoned from the wings to extract a hairpin from the foot of one of the child dancers. Dr. Simms is right in the midst of one of his big scenes, too.

The curtains that won't come down without some member of the cast leaping at them and dragging them down by force.



"Haste to the banquet hall! Haste ye to Esther's call!" brings Klara Weeks to the fore in the guise of a herald. Klara holds her trumpet a little as though she feared it would bite her, and she has missed out on the period stuff in dressing the part, but these are mere details. As Klara's mamma told some one only the other day, "Klara's part really carries the act!"

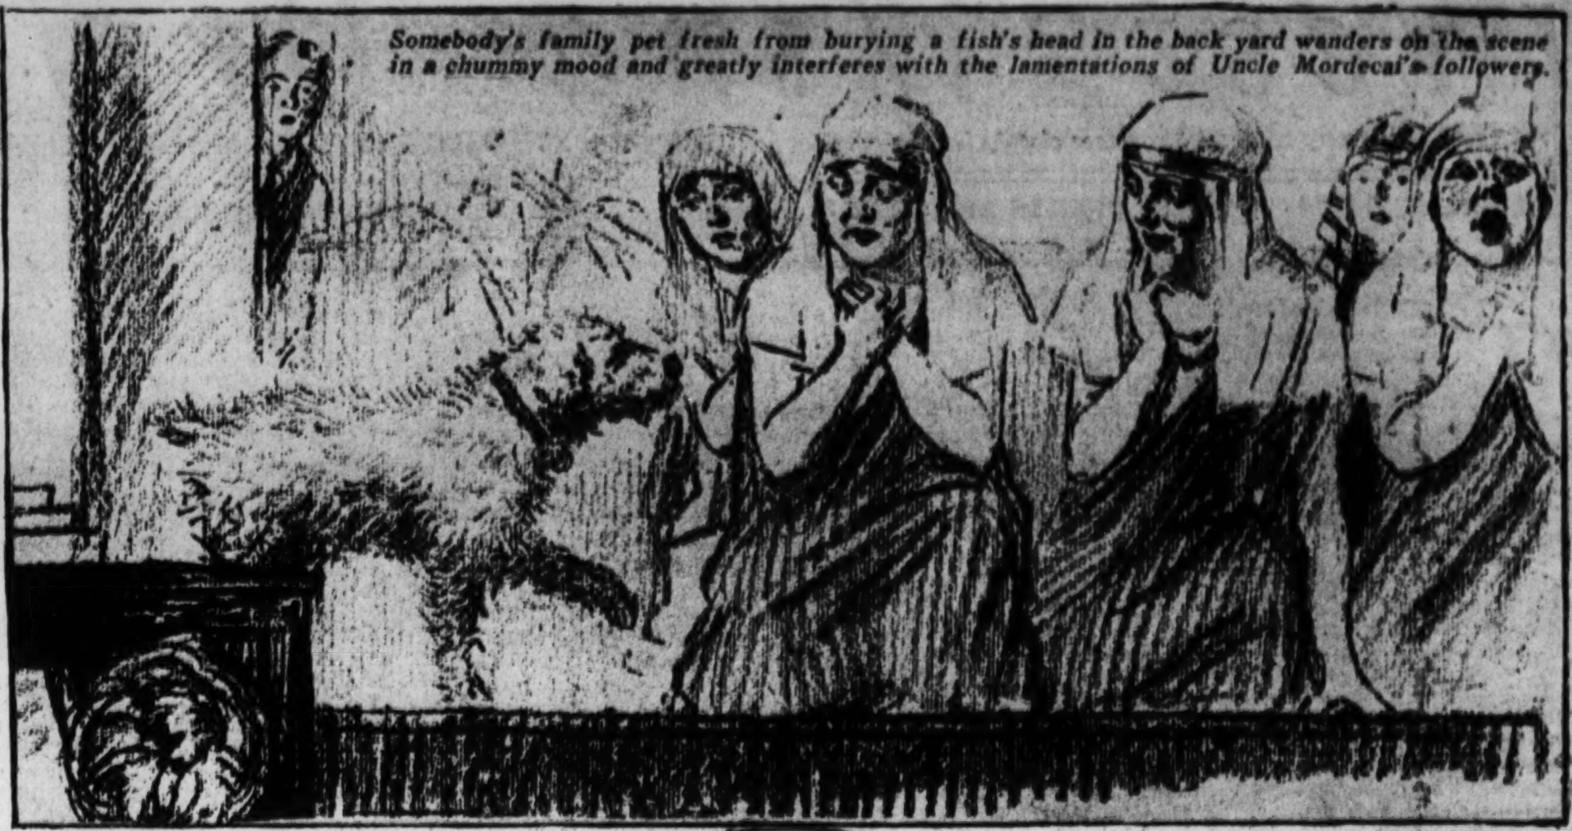
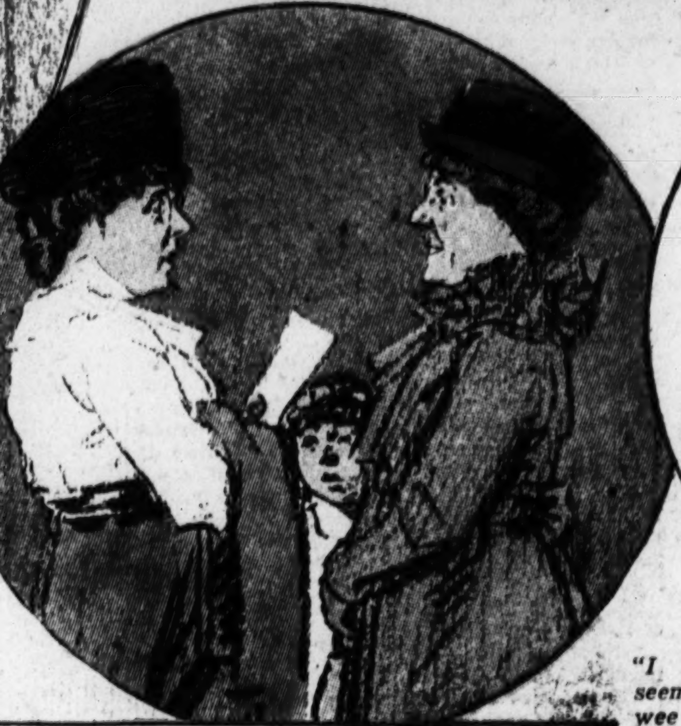
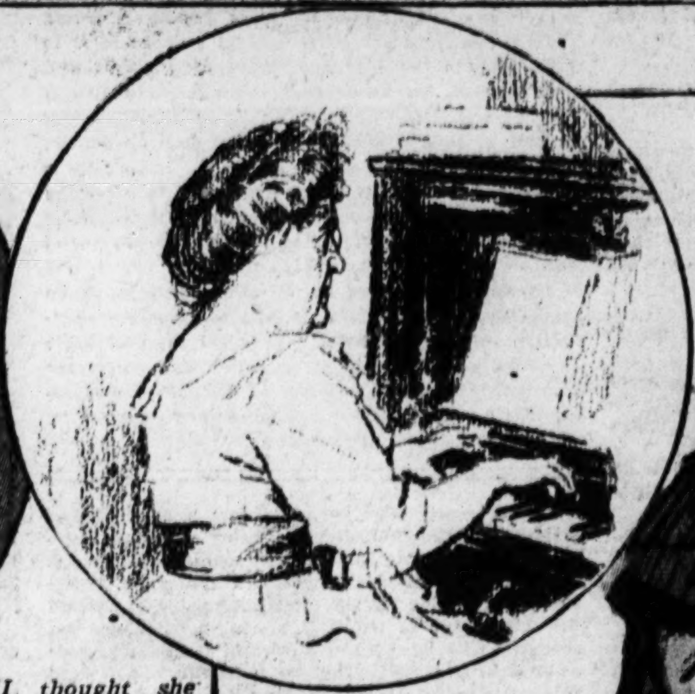
Character Sketches by W. E. HILL



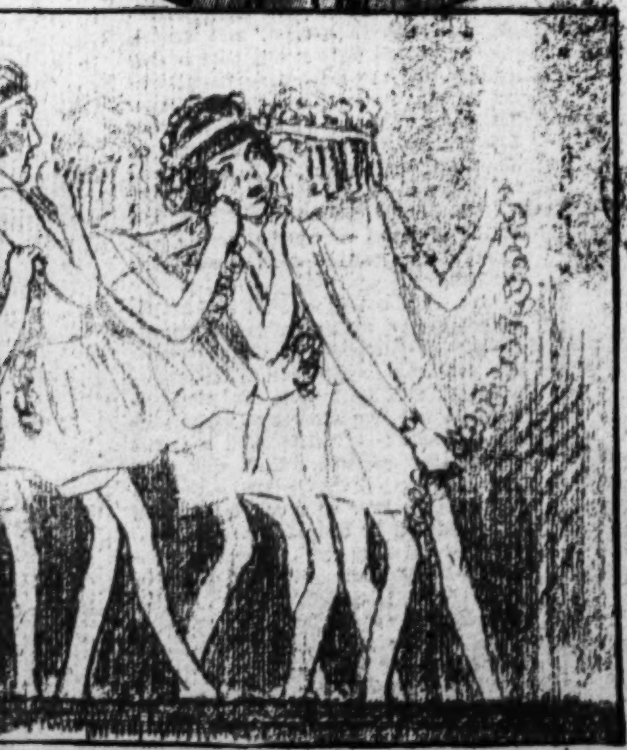
Somebody's family pet fresh from burying a fish's head in the back yard wanders on the scene in a chummy mood and greatly interferes with the lamentations of Uncle Mordecai's followers.



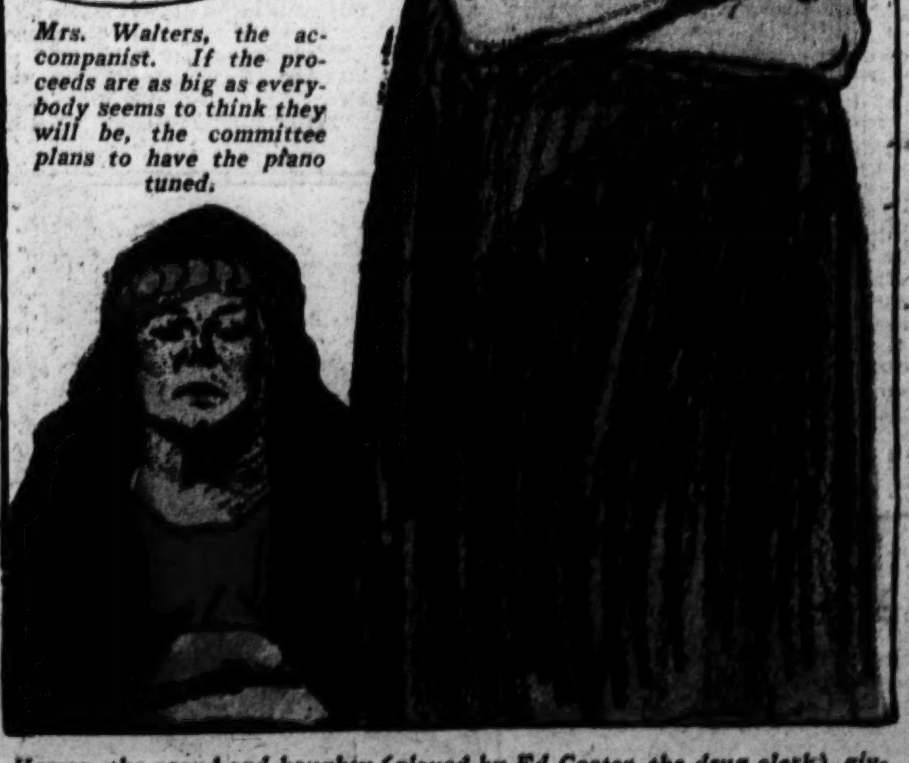
"I thought she seemed a little wee bit nervous when she first came on, but after that I thought she did just beautifully!"



Mrs. Walters, the accompanist. If the proceeds are as big as everybody seems to think they will be, the committee plans to have the piano tuned.



The child dancers, down on the program as favorite maidens of Queen Esther, have missed their cue and have come on too soon. They can't seem to get back.



Haman, the proud and haughty (played by Ed Coates, the drug clerk), giving a nasty "Ha! ha! ha!" to Mordecai, the Jew (Mr. Chub Beeman), who sits in gloom at Esther's front gate.
